Each yearbook which is produced has a philosophy which in the mind of the editor and staff justifies its publication. This year the staff has grasped a tenet expressed by Andre Malraux that "The artist is not the man who creates, but the one who feels," as its philosophy.

We have attempted to capture the University through our eyes insofar as we have edited the variety of photographic scenes which are presented. However, we seek not to impart our feelings in the choice of pictures, rather we wish to evoke from you a personal feeling, a private mental recreation of what our University has meant to you throughout the past year.

There has been no attempt to establish a theme for this book, for there is no phrase or single word which captures the year in itself. Rather we have chosen a mode of presentation which we feel presents the University in all of its aspects.

Utmost in our minds is the representation of these men and their companions in the environment of the University of San Diego. We have in the past year lived together, worked together, enjoyed ourselves together, and prayed together . . . all in order that we might better realize the role of a University Man. In short we have written a story . . . a story worth telling . . . a story worth remembering.

Founded in 1924, Alpha Delta Gamma is a National Christian Social Fraternity which is located on a number of Catholic Colleges across the nation. ADG has been an established campus organization on this campus for four years.

The purpose of Alpha Delta Gamma is "to unite congenial minded men." Emphasis is on the well-rounded individual—the athlete as well as the scholar. It is our feeling that this intermingling of these types will have a reciprocal effect for the betterment of said individuals, with their united efforts in turn having a positive influence on the character of the school. The results speak for themselves.

To date, major accomplishments of our chapter have been our annual Kickoff Dance, our annual Greek Week Championship, our annual Snow Trip to Crestline, our annual Hole-in-One Contest, plus our annual charitable function of selling shamrocks on St. Patrick's Day for the benefit of the Bayside Youth Center. These activities were implemented by a number of private parties, most notable of which was our "Rome Never Had it So Good" toga party.

The bestowing of the status of honorary member on Monsignor Booth, Messrs. Tovani, Gardener, Dermody, and Dr. Ruane highlighted the more sedate aspects of our endeavors. This was done in conjunction with the installation of our pledges.

Of unlimited importance has been the effect that our monthly fraternity Mass has had on the integration of our personalities with our modes of existence. This is another integral benefit of membership in a Christian fraternity.

The aforementioned feats, in addition to those which have not been stated, provide a full schedule of activities for the brothers during the course of the year.

This year the Brothers of Phi Kappa Theta celebrate the 75th anniversary of the founding of the Fraternity. The California Phi Delta chapter sponsored the week of April 25 to May 1 as Phi Kappa Theta week at the University of San Diego, thus properly commemorating the founding of the Fraternity on April 29. The week's festivities included the annual beach outing for the Nazareth House orphans, a joint party with California Alpha Nu chapter from Loyola University at Los Angeles, and the annual Awards Banquet and installation of our new chapter officers.

Throughout this year the Brothers of Phi Kappa Theta strove to fulfill their fraternal principles of spiritual, scholastic, and social development of the mature man. During the summer the social events were coupled with thorough preparation of the third annual DIAL student-faculty telephone book. A successful black cat theme "Out Of It" dance and the fabulous Harlem Clowns versus the San Diego Chargers basketball game completed the major activities fostered by Phi Kappa Theta for the University.

Along with the varied social events sponsored for the Brothers, Phi Kappa Theta has witnessed a maturity and stability growing in the Fraternity. The Brothers increased the chapter's strength with the addition this year of 17 new Brothers. Highlighting this growth in depth was the initiation of March 9 of two alumni Brothers, Mr. John Cihak and Mr. William E. Salesses, head of the Education Department of the College for Men. Furthering ties with the National Fraternity the Brothers welcomed the visit of Mr. George V. Uihlein, National Vice-President, to the campus. With Brother Uihlein's perceptive compliments the chapter received compensating reward for a fruitful year of constant effort.

The Brothers of Phi Kappa Theta feel that this year's firm foundation has set a practical and highly challenging pattern for growth in the future for the Fraternity and the University of San Diego.

Pi Kappa Epsilon maintains as its primary goal "the formation of the complete man." In pursuance of that objective, this fraternity has always been a highly selective group, recognizing that the individual, in his potential and development, is far more important than the organization. Such an orientation has invariably borne its fruit in the high caliber of the brotherhood; this year, the elected campus leaders are preponderantly members of Pi Kappa Epsilon.

The attainment of a thorough education is the student's first obligation. By emphasizing this in all their activities, the brothers of Pi Kappa Epsilon have repeatedly boasted an outstanding cumulative grade point average. Yet the "formation of the complete man" involves still more than the development of responsible leadership and scholastic merit. Once again, Pi Kappa Epsilon's social agenda was extensive and gratifying; and such bold adventures as the "Wind Song" dance, "Time Out" at Sea World, and "Spring Fever," besides greatly increasing Pi Kappa Epsilon's financial stability, have made the PiKE letters familiar, not only on campus, but throughout San Diego.

The Inter-Fraternity Council has done much this past year in reaching its goal of unifying the fraternity men on campus. Each man takes great pride in his fraternity but in so doing he must not neglect his foremost allegiance . . . The University of San Diego. In promoting this co-operation among the fraternities the IFC has successfully sponsored such activities as the IFC Boat Dance, the IFC Dance at the Lark, and the co-ordination of Greek Week activities. Under the leadership of Robert Ramos and Jim McGreevy this group has done a commendable job.

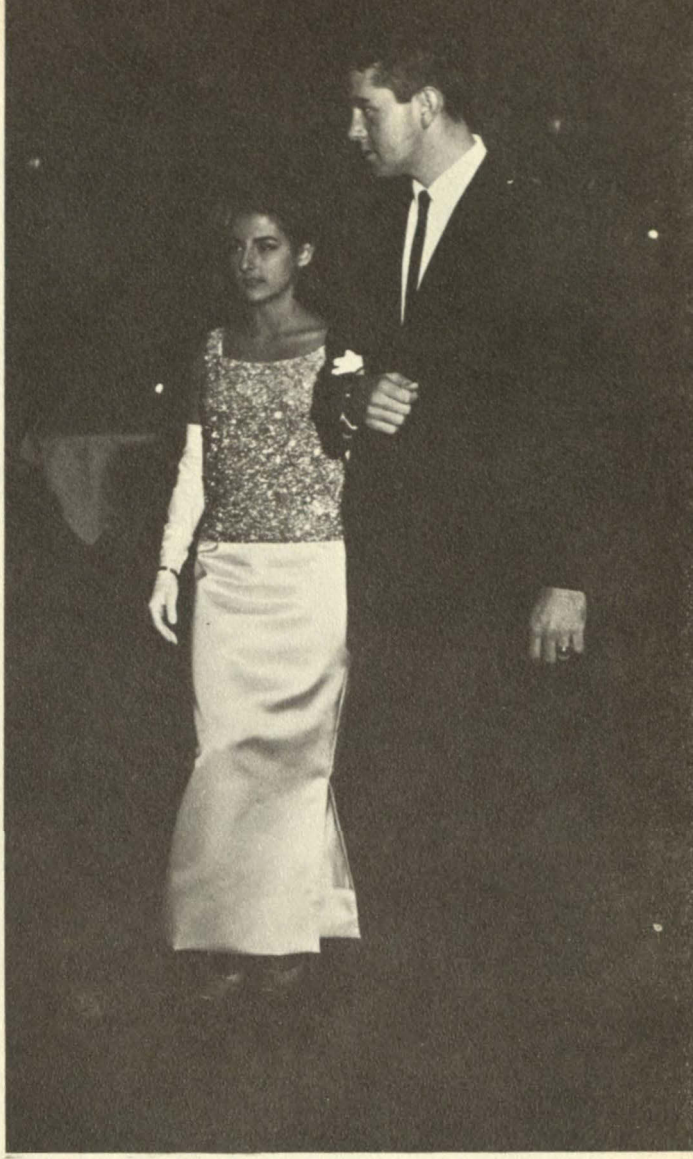
Beautiful and sophisticated describe our Homecoming Queen for 1965. Margie Masiello is a sophomore at the College for Women where she is majoring in English. Her plans for the future include studying in Florence, Italy, and teaching elementary school. Margie has shown spirit and has added to the basketball games by her lovely appearance as cheerleader. Margie was sponsored by Alpha Delta Gamma Fraternity.



Phi Kappa Theta's candidate, Terry Soler, is shown here with Michael Cihak, fraternity president. The little princess is a sophomore at the College for Women and has a double major in Spanish and French. Lovely dark-eyed Terry was indeed eye-catching as she accepted her place in the queen's court.

The Homecoming dance, which culminated the week's activities, was held at the Ocean-House. Homecoming '65 has passed, but it will not soon be forgotten; not by the Queen and her attendants, nor the victorious team, nor by anyone present. IN SEASON OPENER

Toreros Hold Off Pepperdine, 83-78

By JOHNNY McDONALD

University of San Diego's swift Toreros blitzed to a 23-point advantage but had to scramble at the finish to beat a pressing Pepperdine College, 83-78, last night at USD's gym.

Playmakers Lymond Williams and Clfff Ashford scored 21 and 19 points, respectively, to pace the Toreros in their season's basketball opener. Nate Bender, a 6-7 center, was high for the visitors with 17 points, hitting seven of these from the free throw line.

The Toreros, chalking up their first victory in four tries against the members of the West Coast Athletic Conference, ...ry Moyer (6-6) and Allan Fay (6-5) on fouls and then Pepperdine made it's belated move. The Waves closed to within nine points, 79-70, with 1:25 to go but Williams sank four free throws to give the Toreros a needed cushion.

The USD Freshmen made it a clean sweep by beating the Wave Frosh in the preliminary, 66-59.

ONWARD
TOREROS!

"We've played the toughest independent schedule in California, bar none."

With this short phrase, Coach Phil Woolpert summarized the most successful basketball season in University history which had closed only minutes before when the Toreros had gained that long sought after 15th victory.

That fifteenth win for the season seemed like it might not come when after winning game fourteen, the Toreros dropped four consecutive contests before facing Chapman College in the season finale and there stopping the Chapman club on a 65-61 count.

The University season was fairly well a sea-saw affair, with both the longest win streak, and the most lengthy losing streak numbering four.

After starting the year with an 83-78 victory over highly regarded Pepperdine, the team dropped games to Los Angeles State and Loyola, before returning to defeat Long Beach State. However the second game with Long Beach saw John Rambo, Olympic high jump medalist lead the visitors to an 85-75 victory.

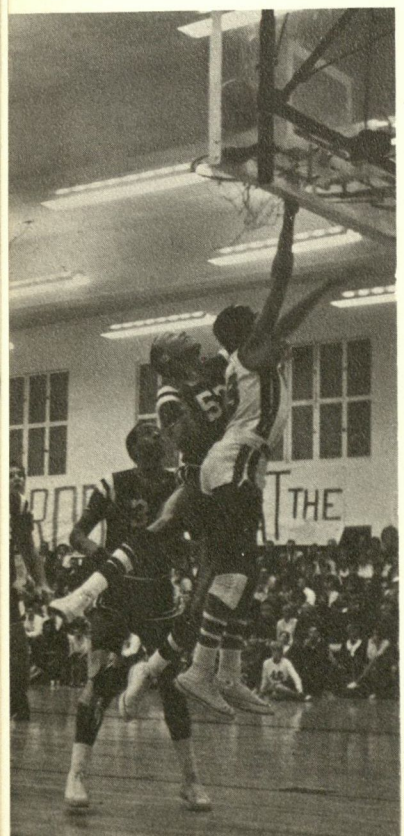
Following a loss to Whittier the Toreros entered the Cal Western tournament with a season record of 2-4. However, the tourney gave the team an opportunity to consolidate which they did by posting victories over Southern Utah, 69-58, and Cal Western 43-42 for the college division championship in this tournament. On the third eve of play, the Toreros faced the Armed Services division winner, Phibpac and scored a 68-53 victory to take the tournament at all levels. Cliff Ashford led the team scoring 24, 12, and 17 points respectively in each of the three contests.

A three game jaunt through Montana was successfully handled as the Toreros slashed Carroll College 70-53, slipped by University of Montana 68-67 and were defeated 68-63 by Montana State College.

Upon returning to their home court, the Toreros found themselves preparing to host their own tournament . . . a tournament for which Homecoming activities were scheduled.

With a definite desire to please the alumni, the Toreros disposed of Cal State at Fullerton 87-67 in their first game, and then went on to knock over hapless Cal Western 68-52 which was losing its second tourney in less than a month to the Toreros.

Days later, the team played in their third tournament . . . though they were not quite so fortunate as they had been in the previous two. Their first contest against Chapman provided them their season high in points as they defeated the Panthers 101-91.



The final game of the tournament was won by Cal Poly of Pomona when they completely demolished the Toreros 75-47.

The tourney loss was quickly forgotten, for the next Torero game was to pit the University team against cross-town rival and constant tormentor San Diego State College.

That game started at 8:15 in Petersen Gym and just a little over two hours later, including two overtime periods, the University of San Diego basketball team left Petersen Gym with an 89-85 victory. Thus the Toreros served notice to the city that they were now and would be in the future a power to be reckoned with.

Smiles sang out the words "We won," and every Torero on the hill or in alumni circles stood just a bit taller, thought just a little bigger, felt just a little better . . . for now it was their turn to claim victory over a foe which had twice conquered them in the past.

Somewhat fatigued from the previous night's game, the Toreros fell before Pepperdine 96-71, but returned to stop three foes in a row including Cal Western, UC at Santa Barbara, and San Fernando State.

It was at this point with a 14-7 record that everyone started looking forward to that fifteenth win . . . a new school record. With five games remaining, the probability of fifteen wins was considered a sure thing, and talk turned to the possibility of 17 victories and possibly more.

In their first attempt at the magic number, the Toreros were stopped by Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo 92-84. This was followed by a loss to Cal Poly of Pomona, 50-47, which was in turn followed by a crushing and unexpected defeat by thrice-beaten Cal Western.

With two games remaining chances for fifteen wins became an even bet. In bid four, Santa Clara tripped the Toreros 83-78 . . . and one game remained.

February 20 . . . USD Gym . . . vs. Chapman College.

The scene was set, the team was ready, the fans were hopeful, almost desperately so, and the game began.

Behind a well-balanced attack, including a 10 point effort by Matt Malerich the Toreros jumped off to a 33-21 half time lead. From this point, Lymond Williams with an 11 point second half and Alan Fay with nine led the way as the visiting team failed in an all out effort to foil the Toreros.

They had waited long and they had waited patiently, but now the team had its fifteenth win . . . the first Torero squad to do so. And with the yelling and shouting over . . . came the recognition to the men who had worked so hard to see this day come about.

First to the Seniors who closed their careers the "best way" . . . Lymond Williams, Mark Teissmann, Larry Moyer, and Ken Kullberg . . . they remembered their dismal sophomore year, an even season record their junior year, and now a 15-11 mark, a goal worked for, a reward earned.

For the others—Ashford, Malerich, Yavorsky, Verlasky, Wojdowski, Ferree, Bickerstaff, Fay, Price—there are still the seasons to come. Next year, and perhaps the following for some . . . and always with the thought that last year it was fifteen, how many this year. How many?

FRESHMEN BASKETBALL

From San Francisco to our nation's capitol, from Los Angeles to Arizona, from Oakland to San Diego . . . from these places come the young men who formed the most successful freshman basketball team in University history.

Under the leadership of captain Ted Fields the ball club roared to a season of 16 wins and 7 losses including an impressive though close victory over the frosh from the University of Southern California.

Along with Fields, Richard Cabrera was named to the All-Star College Freshman team for the San Diego area. Both of the boys figured prominently in scoring and rebounding throughout the past season.

Other members of the club include Mike Ferrua, Jimmy Allen, and Pat Moskimoan . . . in addition, Dave Duncan, Bill Sheridan and Danny Wightman. The entire group was given ample opportunity to play and each man did his part in progressing the cause of victory through personal desire and hard work. Good men . . . the best season to date.

Finally, this club was brought together under the guidance and able coaching of John Cunningham who molded this group into the team which they were . . . fitting tribute to a young, but very able coach.

"The deed is the proof of faith, the test of character, and the standard of worth."

The deed in point is ALL THE MEN . . . 1965. This accomplishment, if I may, is a yearbook which has been compiled by a small group of University students who have sought to present a yearbook with a pleasing balance of the artistic in photography, art, and writing.

For myself, the deed is not the most important result of this past year's work; rather, the true importance lies in the qualities which have been called forth and so very admirably displayed by those who have worked on this staff. Whenever I see the words faith, character, and standard of worth, I shall remember the group of people who worked so hard in order that this annual might be presented.

Indeed, I have had the unique opportunity to work beside a number of people who have been constantly faithful to their individual assignments, who have sustained each other when the going got rough, and who at all times have offered their finest efforts in compiling this yearbook.

I am intensely proud of these people, militantly so . . . for they have shown those virtues which make a very difficult undertaking worthwhile and certainly enjoyable.

To the reader of this book, you will notice certain adaptations of ideas used by our predecessors. At the same time, we hope that you shall also note the group effort which we feel has helped to produce a well-balanced yearbook . . . a balance which has, in our opinion, strengthened the overall character of this yearbook.

In the remainder of this column, I should like to make a few personal commentaries on the yearbook staff, for this is certainly the only manner in which I may fully express my feelings toward each person on the staff.

Bob Connell . . . the tall gangling guy with a camera. This is the description often heard when speaking of Bob. However, this man has done an outstanding job this past year, not only in his work, but in his ability to patiently adjust pictures in order that they might fit a number of rather unorthodox specifications. As a friend and co-worker . . . he's among the finest.

Elaine Biko . . . artist and make-up specialist. Elaine has done a great deal this year, especially as we reached the critical closing stages of the work to be done . . . deadline. For her art style, which has tied the book together, and for her paste-up method, which made the work go much quicker, a sincere thank you.

Jane Wydra and Sonjia Olguin . . . in charge of the Activity section. Perhaps no other part of a book is so important as that which helps to return gone-by dances, games, parties, and college life. Working as a team, the girls have endeavored to present a strong activities section — very successfully.

Julie Flores . . . a diligent worker with a constant desire to make her section best. Julie handled the fraternity section, including art and write-ups, and was the first section editor to complete her work.

Susan Bell . . . a gal with a million things to do, but who took time to work on this annual. Sue did extensive research in working to prepare the class sections — all of which has paid off in a fine presentation on her part.

Dennis Vice . . . the only experienced member of this staff. Dennis took care of the faculty and administration, using candid pictures in most cases, but standardizing the layout a bit more than in the past. Very promising worker — perhaps a future editor.

John Haegen . . . the man behind the scenes. John is the first student to take on personally the job of gathering ads to help finance this yearbook. This guy worked long and hard . . . and the money realized through the sale of ads has kept the staff somewhat relaxed when asked, "Where's the money coming from?"

Mr. Richard Peacock . . . our moderator, who has kept the little worries away from the staff, and has been there to offer moral support where needed; a sincere thanks.

Mrs. Barbara Johnson and Mr. Harold Knepper . . . our two contacts at the printing shop. Two more patient people, no one has ever met. Both have worked with us each step of the way and have served as inspiration when everyone seemed to be at a low ebb. We hope they are as proud of this book as we are of them.

May I encourage each of you to take up your book and "pass this way" often. Remember the year, remember the fun, remember all this, and every once in a while, look at the back of your book and remember the people just mentioned — their efforts helped keep your memories alive.

Indeed, "The deed is the proof of faith, the test of character, and the standard of worth."

Sincerely,

Ernie Borunda
