ANNUAL REPORT
1983/1984

A values-based education

Bishop Buddy

Rev. Mother Hill

Dr. Hughes

The University of San Diego is a dynamic independent institution of higher education located on 180 acres overlooking the city's Mission Bay. The university enrolls 5,264 students in its six schools—Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Law, Nursing, and Graduate and Continuing Education.

Throughout its history the University of San Diego has remained committed to the ideals of liberal education which emphasize the potentialities of men and women as human beings and creatures of God. As a Catholic institution, USD is committed to examination of the Catholic tradition as the basis of a continuing search for meaning in contemporary life.

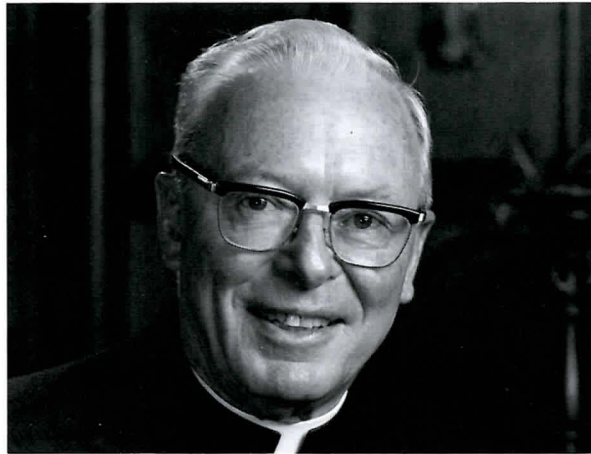

The university traces its beginnings to the vision of San Diego Bishop Charles F. Buddy, to whom it was imperative that higher education in San Diego include a quality Catholic institution. Through his efforts and those of Reverend Mother Rosalie Hill, RSCJ, USD's predecessor institutions were established at the university's present Alcala Park location—the College for Women, by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, in 1952; and the College for Men and the School of Law in 1954.

In the 1960's administrators of the two colleges agreed that a merger was necessary to guarantee the success of both institutions. In 1971, Dr. Author E. Hughes was appointed president, and under his leadership, legal unification took place the following year, creating a coeducational university with undergraduate, graduate and professional programs which has thrived during the past 13 years.

The average high school grade point of entering USD freshmen is 3.2 (B+).

Continuing the Catholic tradition

The University of San Diego represents the best in higher education—a university devoted not only to excellence, but a university which embodies the Catholic tradition to its fullest. This tradition supports an environment which affirms the moral, ethical and humanitarian values of the Church and guides students towards achieving their full potential. It is gratifying to be the Chairman of the Board of an institution so intent on fulfilling this mission.

USD has written an amazing success story in its brief 35-year history, a success story largely attributable to the vision of its founders, the Most Reverend Charles F. Buddy and Reverend Mother Rosalie Hill, RSCJ. Thanks to their foresight and energies, and due to the hard work and prayers of thousands of the university's supporters, the dream of a great Catholic university in San Diego continues to move to new stages of development.

This report reflects the successes of USD during the 1983-84 academic year. It also, and more importantly, pays tribute to all those who have contributed to the university's achievements. We are forever grateful for the efforts of these friends.

Building a better world

Knowledge is the key to building a better world—a goal important to all of us. Knowledge can solve world hunger problems, erase disease and lead us to a better understanding of our global neighbors. Knowledge in itself, however, can be destructive unless it is grounded in values that promote the betterment of all humankind.

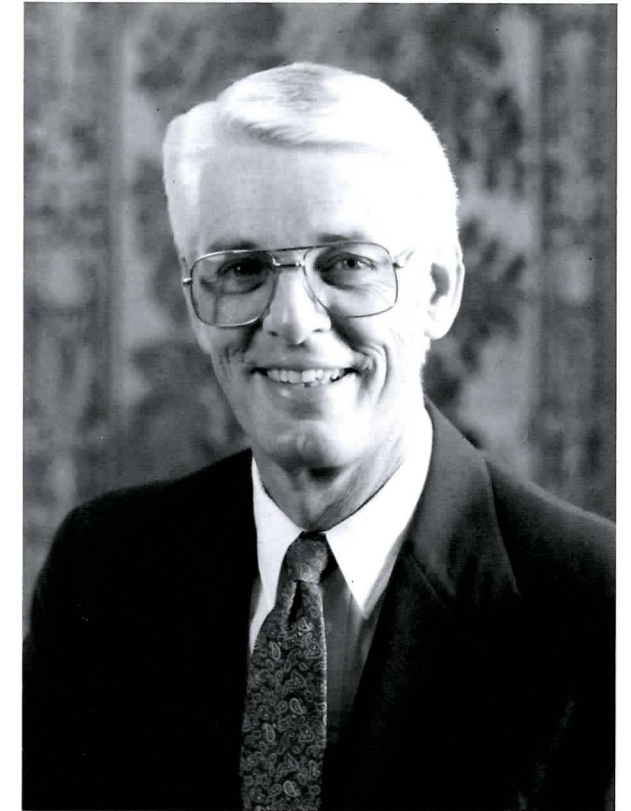

At the University of San Diego we combine knowledge and values. The University educates young men and women for today's modern world utilizing Catholic traditions and values which have guided millions of people through the centuries. Our mission is dedicated to producing well-rounded graduates who not only are competent in their fields, but who recognize their responsibility toward all humanity.

We bring you this report to share some of our achievements of the past year. We continued to progress towards our never-ending quest for educational excellence.

Signs of progress included completion of three new buildings—the Manchester Executive Conference Center, the Helen K. and James S. Copley Library, and Olin Hall. Faculty growth continued, with outstanding new professionals in several fields. One professor was named a Fulbright Scholar. A record number of students graduated in June.

The achievements of the past provide a bright backdrop of enthusiasm as we look towards the future. In the years ahead, we must continue to seek a higher level of academic excellence while remaining committed to our Catholic heritage. More scholarships are needed for deserving students. Our endowment must be strengthened. We must continue to improve our facilities to meet the needs of our burgeoning student body.

It is the steadfast support of the thousands of people whose names are included in this report that brings our dreams of progress to reality. We are extremely grateful to all of them. We are also thankful for the thousands of friends who spread USD's message among the local and national community.

As we plan our future we pledge to continue educating students who will make this world a better place for all of us.

A growing campus

Church of the Immaculata and DeSales Hall in the late 1950's.

"I hope to build here a great center of Catholic education."

*Bishop Charles F. Buddy
August, 1945 as he surveyed a barren hilltop overlooking San Diego's Mission Bay*

The Douglas F. Manchester Executive Conference Center was dedicated on February 26, 1984.

Those visionary words have been transformed into a dazzling reality during the past 39 years.

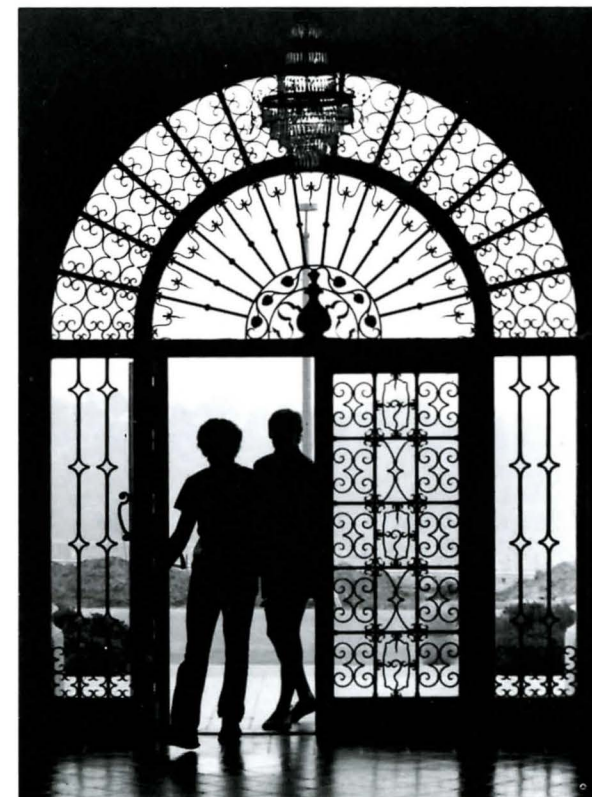

From completion of the first building in 1952 for the College for Women, the University of San Diego has expanded its facilities again and again in order to fulfill its mission and meet the needs of its students. Today, the 180-acre campus is graced by 15 buildings, all designed in 14th century Spanish Renaissance-style architecture.

Testimony to the university's rapid growth, three buildings were completed in the last year—$4.5 million Olin Hall, new home for the School of Business Administration; the $3.7 million Helen K. and James S. Copley Library, and the $2.4 million Douglas F. Manchester Executive Conference Center.

As the university continues to reach for excellence, other building projects will spring from the drawing board to reality. Planned for the immediate future is the $9 million University Center, a building that will serve as a central meeting place for students and house university offices that support the spiritual, psychological, cultural and social needs of the students. Groundbreaking for the center is scheduled during the summer of 1985.

"By 1985 we will have reached the point we projected for ourselves a decade ago regarding the expansion of campus. Then we can put all of our attention to qualitative change without having to keep one eye on quantitative change."

*Dr. Author E. Hughes, President
November, 1983 as he explained USD's
plans for the future*

USD's campus buildings reflect 14th century Spanish Renaissance Plateresque architecture.

A well-rounded education

Science course, early 1960's.

USD students have access to the most up-to-date computer equipment available.

The Helen K. and James S. Copley Library contains more than 250,000 volumes.

Exposure to the arts is an integral part of a USD education.

"Philosophy, science and the arts are integrated into a harmonious whole which offers the students the heritage of the past as an incentive and guide for future progress."

Course catalog, 1957

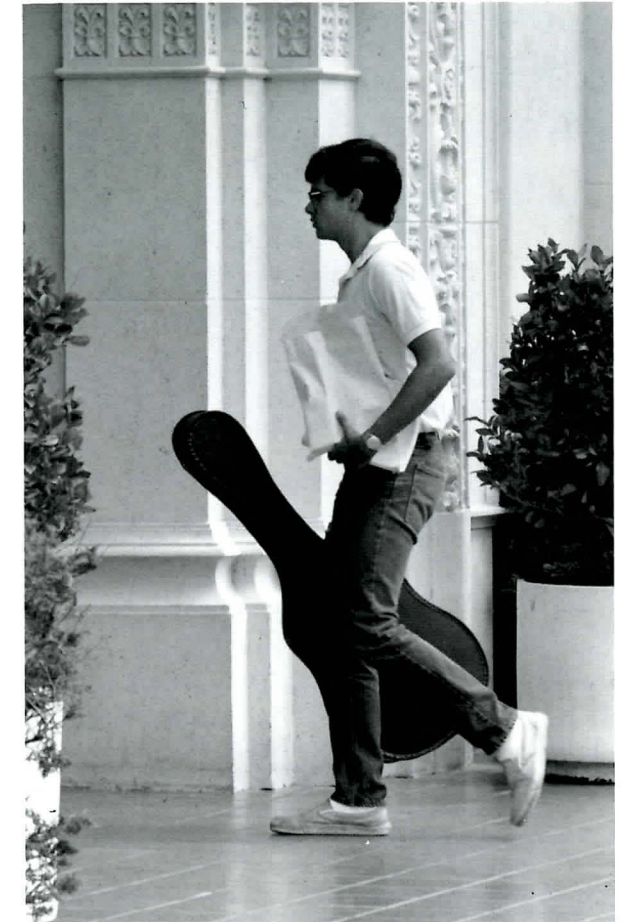

Those words from 1957 serve USD almost as well today as they did 27 years ago. The University's academic offerings are still geared towards educating the whole person, and traditional values still play a large role in educating students.

Of course, the number of academic programs has skyrocketed since 1957. USD today offers more than 50 academic programs. These include degrees such as business administration, computer science, international relations and Hispanic/Latin American studies, as well as more traditional courses. Last spring the university signed an agreement with the National Autonomous University of Mexico that eventually will lead to exchanges of faculty and students, and information sharing between the two institutions.

Because of USD's educational approach, a student may discuss Aristotle's views on life in the morning, then spend his afternoon writing a computer program designed to improve accounting methods. This type of educational philosophy produces well-rounded individuals who are prepared to handle the complexities of the modern world. All of USD's undergraduate academic programs combine study of the liberal arts with study in the student's major discipline.

"To my mind, we are not seeking some abstract academic goal. We are seeking to continue the development of this university as an institution that reflects our city and locality, its proximity to the international border and role in the greater Pacific Basin."

Dr. Author E. Hughes, President
November, 1983

There are more than 40 student organizations on campus which involve students in a range of activities—from liturgical music groups to the rugby club.

An excellent faculty

Sr. Pat Shaffer, associate professor of chemistry, in 1960.

An excellent faculty has been a USD trademark since the College for Women opened in 1952. Eleven of the first religious of the Sacred Heart faculty members held doctoral degrees, representing a range of subjects.

That same excellence is reflected today in a 198-member faculty, more than 89 percent of whom hold doctorates. Teaching is their first priority, but many have written scholarly books and articles, while others enrich their communities by serving with various citizens advisory boards. To cite just a few outstanding achievements by faculty members during the past academic year:

- A History of American Business, by Dr. C. Joseph Pusateri, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, was published in both hardcover and paperback. Noted Columbia University economic historian Stuart Bruchey called the book the best survey of the topic in print.
- Dr. Ed DeRoche, dean of the School of Education, received the Phi Delta Kappa Research Award for 1983-84 from the San Diego Chapter of the organization for his research work on newspapers in educational programs.
- Dr. Dennis Rohatyn, professor of philosophy, presented a paper on "Orwell's Religious Humanism" at the First World Congress of "The time seems opportune for the foundation of a San Diego college conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, who have more than the required degrees."

Bishop Charles F. Buddy
July 17, 1942 in a letter to Mother Rosalie Hill, then local superior at the San Francisco College for Women the International Christian Studies Association.

- Dr. Irene Palmer, dean of the Philip Y. Hahn School of Nursing, was appointed leader of the Advisory Group on Education of the American Academy on Nursing.
- Dr. Richard Philips, coordinator of environmental studies, was named a Fulbright Scholar. He will work with faculty at the University Pertanian in Malaysia.
- Sheldon Krantz, LL.B., dean of the School of Law, was selected by the Criminal Justice Section of the American Bar Association to chair a committee on Jail and Prison Overcrowding.
- Dr. Louis Burnett, associate professor of biology, presented aspects of his research on gill function at the 29th Congress of the International Union of Physiological Sciences.
- An article by Dr. Robert O'Neil, associate professor of economics, entitled "Corporate Social Responsibility and Business Ethics: A European Perspective," was published by the European Journal of Social Economics.

"We have an excellent faculty. I feel that the people here believe in this institution and its mission. Their work reflects my belief."
