Union 9-13-72 Toreros Rely On Top Backs

By CHUCK SAWYER

University of San Diego's starting backfield for its Saturday season opener at UC Riverside will consist of three players familiar to the San Diego scene plus an "import" from Northern California.

Bill Washington, a 6-0, 195-pounder and a strong receiver at DeAnza College up north, is the stranger in the group at the wide receiver post.

The other three will be Henry Sintay from Chula Vista High and the University of Arizona at quarterback, Andy Sanchez from Castle Park High and Southwestern College at tailback and Nate Harris of St. Augustine High and San Diego CC at fullback.

Coach Andy Vinci is anxious to get the Toreros off to a winning start as they return to competition on a complete interscholastic basis for the first time since the 1963 season.

His big hope, for the opening game at least, appears to be Sanchez. Only 5-8 and 175 pounds, he still gained All-Mission Conference honors at Southwestern.

CLASS RUNNER

Here is a real class running back," says Vinci. "He is a real big chip player, the kind every team must have if it expects to win. You show him your offensive setup just once and he has it down pat. The guy is a real team leader and we are very fortunate to have him."

At Southwestern, Sanchez carried 104 times last season and averaged 5.6 yards per try. He was the No. 19 rusher in the state junior college ranks and, Vinci points out, he had about 100 less carries than the other leading rushers.

Sintay, a second team CIF selection at Chula Vista in both 1967 and 1968, has a strong

HENRY SINTAY
... Toreros' opening QB

passing arm but needs work running the pass-option, according to Vinci.

Harris is a 212-pounder whose speed surprises a lot of people once he starts moving. However, area fans who remember him as a swift 440 runner at St. Augustine expect the 21-year-old junior to prove a big plus for the Toreros.

Washington was the second leading JC receiver in the state two years ago at DeAnza when he hauled in 55 passes. He comes to USD after a brief stint at Utah State.

Vinci has expected to concentrate on offense the remainder of this week but reports filtering down from Riverside following a closed scrimmage with another area school Monday has caused the Toreros' boss to push a little harder on defense.

TENTATIVE STARTERS

"We understand they are a very physical team with outstanding depth in the backfield," says Vinci. "They've got a new coach (Wayne Howard), a lot of experience (33 lettermen) and two talented quarterbacks."

The latter consist of senior Bill Krizman and a transfer from MiraCosta College, Bill Taylor.

Although stressing it is strictly a tentative lineup, Vinci announced the following probable starters in the offensive line Saturday: Earl Milligan (6-5, 210) and Roger Leonard (6-5, 220) at ends, Ron White (6-3, 235) and Mike Keese (6-3, 285) at tackles, Jim Kefalas (6-1, 225) and Bruce McFarlan (5-10, 200) at guards and Ron Allison (5-9, 180) at center.

McFarlan has been named offensive captain for the Toreros' On defense, end Cornell Stanley from Palo Verde JC will make the decisions.

Five trustees added to USD board

Five additional trustees have recently been appointed to the board of the University of San Diego, it was announced by chairman Bishop Leo T. Maher.

The new trustees are Frances G. Harpst of Coronado, Charles M. Grace of Santa Monica, Arthur H. Kaplan and Philip Gilligan both from Los Angeles and Marvin Kratter of Rancho La Costa.

USD is to expand its board of trustees to 35 members. Selection of 26 additional members is now underway.

"We've got to bring the cost (of legal counsel) down to within everyone's reach without hurting the quality of services."

"I think legal service can be made cheaper, and it's going to have to be. Organizing research centers with solid community aid programs is a good way of doing it."

"There isn't any major legal aid center in this area, not one that can offer both counsel and provide research."

Last year USD initiated an intern program through its budding young neighborhood clinical aid program. The school operates three such storefront clinics — one each in Linda Vista, National City and Southeast San Diego.

But Weckstein wants to see such services expanded — both to the benefit of the school and community simultaneously.

USD also places interns with the district attorney's office locally, and plans for this coming year include expanding the neighborhood clinic operation to Escondido, and sending students to work alongside seasoned investigators in the U.S. attorney's office and with the state Attorney General staff.

Weckstein, whose boyish face belies his 40 years, said classes also will undergo a face lifting to meet new demands of the future.

"A legal education has traditionally been a rich man's no-fault divorce laws. That's over now."

"For one thing, you know much of our livelihood has disappeared in the past couple of years with the advent of no-fault insurance and no-fault divorce laws. That's ended a lot of litigation."

"We're going to see a major shift in the law profession in the next few years — a sort of new social conscience developing. I think the medical profession is already ahead of us in that respect."

New classes are being developed to study community aid programs, and more emphasis is now placed on criminal law and problems dealing with minority groups and the poor. USD already lists a course on poverty law dealing specifically with land-lord-tenant rights, welfare and consumer protection, discrimination in housing and employment.

Law dean at USD would like to see school offer civic help

By MONTY NORRIS
EVENING TRIBUNE Education Writer

Donald T. Weckstein, new dean of the University of San Diego law school, has some radical views about where the legal profession is headed. Or should be.

And he figures the best place to start making changes is in the classroom.

For example, Weckstein would like to:

— See the USD law school become the nucleus of a large community legal services center working with various agencies and individuals, particularly in the area of group health care programs and assisting minority groups and the poor.

— Change the third and final year of law school into a clinical program for students who would spend full-time working in a specialty area to receive solid practical experience.

— Swing the emphasis of some classes — and create new ones — to gear students for future work in the areas of community legal aid.

"We have to start preparing students for future needs in legal counseling instead of relying on tradition," Weckstein said in an interview. "I'd like to see us become a major service to the community."

"We're starting now, but to reach the level needed it will take us three to five years."

The former University of Connecticut law professor, who took over his new job Aug. 15, said he envisions using the school's research facilities to set up such a center, with students and faculty tackling many of the projects.

The legal profession is going to have to make itself more available to the general community, Weckstein said. "A lot of people really need legal counsel — even in matters like selling or buying a house — but they can't afford it."

DONALD T. WECKSTEIN

Weckstein said it is just the beginning.

"I think you'll see more of these types of courses in the future, and a lot more law students will be heading in that direction."

A lot more students are apparently heading for law school, too, whatever the odds against finding a job after graduation.

Weckstein said that despite a reported glut of young lawyers in the U.S. job market, USD is expecting a record total enrollment this fall of 850 students in its law school. About one-fourth of that number will be entering freshmen.

To pick the 225 new students this year, Weckstein and admissions officers had to wade through more than 2,000 applications. That's roughly one opening for every 10 persons applying — bad odds on which to bank a career.

And if there are more lawyers than jobs, why are so many people flocking to law schools in record numbers?

Robert Castetter, dean of the law school at United States International University, offers some insight.

"When you're talking about a glut of lawyers it really only applies to popular metropolitan areas like San Diego and San Francisco on the West Coast, or maybe Washington and New York in the East."

"If somebody is willing to move to other places, they can easily find jobs. We get inquiries here all the time from places like Riverside, San Bernardino, El Centro ... places like that."

"There are even a lot of jobs available in the Los Angeles area — probably because not as many people want to work there."

"But the trouble is, of course, so many students are spoiled and want to stay around here and hold out for a job opportunity."

USIU, like USD, processes about 10 applications for every opening, Castetter said. Total student enrollment now is a little more than 450. Castetter said 170 new students have been admitted for the fall from a selection of about 1,500 applications.

"We shouldn't confuse that figure, however," Castetter warned. "Many of the students send out five or six applications, and decide to go somewhere else like Hastings, Stanford or USC."

USD's Weckstein said admission to law school is generally based on an applicant's grade record as an undergraduate, plus the score on a standard law aptitude test. Other factors, such as work experience and motivation, are used only in rare cases, he said.

Both Weckstein and Castetter agree that law schools may begin to feel the repercussions of the crowded job market within two or three years.

"One of the main reasons for the present rush to law school," Weckstein said, "is the increased interest in law among minority groups and women."

"And that's probably going to make some changes in the profession too."

USD Ends Grid Layoff In Riverside Saturday

Four days of practice remain before the University of San Diego begins its first season of varsity inter-collegiate football in 11 years and head coach Andy Vinci has picked a tough nut to crack in the Torero's initial appearance.

The 45-man USD squad journeys northward Saturday night to face a veteran UC Riverside team that will boast a big edge in both weight and experience. Indications from the Riverside campus are that the Highlanders are favored by a 13-15 point margin.

The Toreros will lack depth in most areas and must avoid injuries but have indicated a willingness to hit in pre-season work. In a two and one-half hour scrimmage last week against an 85-man Fullerton College team, USD managed two touchdowns and more than held its own.

It appears the San Diegans will have to come up with an even stronger effort against Riverside. New head coach

Wayne Howard greeted 33 lettermen at the start of fall practice and his athletes are expected to be in the middle of the fight for California Collegiate Athletic Association honors this season.

Vinci will be using an offense quarterbacked by former U. of Arizona student Henry Sintay, a 6-2, 202-pounder who can throw well but needs work with the option play. Offense will be stressed in practice this week.

USD winter concerts set to open Sept. 24

A series of winter concerts will begin Sept. 24 at the University of San Diego.

The first concert will be devoted to cello, piano and violin works.

Dr. Henry Kolar, violinist; Marjorie Hart, cellist, and Ilana Mysior, pianist, all members of the USD music faculty, will perform.

The program will include works by Mozart, Paganini and Schumann.

USD CHOSEN BY SANCHEZ

Andy Sanchez, former all-county player of the year at Castle Park High, will play football at the University of San Diego this fall.

Sanchez, who played at Southwestern College the past two seasons, reported to USD today. The 5 ft. 8 in., 170-pounder will be used at running back.

Sanchez scored 24 touchdowns and scored a county high 144 points three seasons ago in leading Castle Park to a 10-1 record. He was an all-Mission-Conference running back at Southwestern last year, averaging 5.6 yards for his 104 carries and establishing a conference record with a 94-yard run from scrimmage against Palomar College.

7 from La Jolla to attend USD

Nearness to home and small classes attracted the seven La Jollans who will enter the 1972 freshmen class at the University of San Diego.

Sharon Beckwith, graduate of La Jolla High School, is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Beckwith and the late Mr. Beckwith.

Sharon was class president fall of her senior year and class treasurer of her sophomore year.

K. C. Illes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Illes, is also a graduate of La Jolla High. He handled the publicity for school events and was the La Jolla Light/Journal reporter for the La Jolla High column.

A four-year letterman on the swim team, K. C. also found time to be a member of the Key Club and be a free-lance photographer.

Samuel F. Kahn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kahn, is a 1972 graduate of La Jolla Country Day.

Sam finds that tutoring underprivileged children is gratifying and helps him develop his own self-awareness.

Another La Jolla High graduate is Katherine Anne Kampmann. The daughter of Mrs. Anthony Kampmann and the late Mr. Kampmann, is a member of the American Youth Hostel and the Catholic Youth Organization.

She enjoys singing and was a member of the La Jolla High Girls Ensemble.

A graduate of Sacred Heart, Greenfield Hills, Colette J. O'Donnell, was familiar with the University of San Diego because her brother had attended USD and USD's School of Law. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. O'Donnell, Colette has been a Candy Stripper at Mercy and the Naval Hospital.

William Trevellyn, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Trevellyn Jr., was graduated from La Jolla High School. While there he was particularly interested in arts and crafts. Bill is another La Jollan who chose the University of San Diego because it is close to home.

Susan Yoes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Yoes, graduated from Our Lady of Peace Academy. While there she was a member of CYO, the California Scholarship Federation and the National Honor Society. Susan's main interest is journalism.

Applications for admissions are now being accepted.

ART ARENA

Two exhibits open this weekend

By JAN JENNINGS
EVENING TRIBUNE Art Writer

Two exhibits will open this weekend at local galleries including a one-man show of the sculpture of Myrna Noble at the Founders Gallery at University of San Diego and a two-man show of the paintings of Vic Herman and the sculpture of Luis Ortiz Monasterio at Thackeray Art Gallery.

Mrs. Noble, whose exhibit will open with a reception tonight, received her master of arts degree from San Diego State University. She is a member of the San Diego Art Guild and various other art associations and has exhibited in major areas in California.

Her exhibit consists of 20 cast aluminum pieces entitled "Politico" which is to be interpreted as one sculpture. The meaning of the piece, according to the sculptor, is whatever the viewer reads into it.

There is the crowd, the audience, the block — rows of almost identical faces, shiny and mirroring the activity around.

There are the pillars turned podiums, varying in height and arranged before the block of faces.

There is the taped fragments of music and crowd reactions, excitement, distress, speeches, demonstrations.

In a written statement on the piece, Mrs. Noble said, "Politico — a word element meaning 'political,' used in combination, as in politico-military, politico-religious, politico-social."

Though this tells little, as is the intention of the artist, one gets the impression of the hierarchy of politics or any meeting situation in the podiums and the hollow, expressionless faces of the masses.

She fully comprehends the piece. One should walk all around it, through it, study it, note the reflections in the shiny aluminum heads, all similar in construction, different in reflection.

Mrs. Noble has been working on the idea for the piece for the past year and on actual construction for four months. The piece will remain on view through Oct. 8.

USD Returns To Grid Wars Against Riverside Tonight

Special to The San Diego Union
RIVERSIDE — University of San Diego starts the road back to football respectability at 7:30 here tonight when new coach Andy Vinci sends the Toreros against experienced and dangerous UC Riverside.

With the exception of a Club Football program the past three years, USD has not fielded a gridiron representative since 1963 when the sport was disbanded on the Alcalá Park campus.

Toreros' fans have been longing for a return to the school's grid success of 1956-57 when Gil Kuhn and then Bob McCutcheon guided USD to a 14-5 record.

Vinci will take the first step with a squad made up chiefly of junior college transfers, many of whom also are graduates of the San Diego prep scene.

TOUGH SEASON

"We know the first season will be a tough one," admits Vinci. "We just ask our fans to believe in us and to be assured we are here to stay. I have come to USD with one single objective — to create an outstanding football program."

Headlining the starting USD backfield tonight will be quarterback Henry Sintay from Chula Vista High and the University of Arizona. A 6-1, 202-pounder, he was second team All-CIF two straight years with the Spartans.

Andy Sanchez, only 5-8 and 175 pounds, is still considered a strong runner at tailback. He scored 24 TDs as a Castle Park High senior in 1969 and was named San Diego CIF Player of the Year.

Nate Harris, 212-pounder from San Diego CC will be at fullback with Bill Washington, a top JC receiver at DeAnza College in Northern California two years ago, at flanker.

VARIED OFFENSE

"We will run from the pro 'T' with a lot of different sets and sometimes off the 'T' formation," says Vinci. "We may start out looking like the Kansas City Chiefs and end up like the Dallas Cowboys," he explained, in a strictly figuratively speaking description.

Bruce McFarlan, 5-10, 200 from the University of Nevada (Las Vegas) will be the only player scheduled to go both ways (offensive guard, defensive end) although the Toreros have only a 43-man roster.

Riverside had only a 3-7 season a year ago but has a new coach in Wayne Howard (37-18 at Gavilan College) and 23 lettermen including five offensive and nine defensive starters.

The Highlanders are basically a running team with a controlled passing attack with quarterbacking divided among Bill Krizman and Bill Taylor. Defensive end Renard Perkins is rated a strong pro prospect.

"They are a real physical team," laments Vinci. "We will have to score at least four touchdowns to beat them."

Reducing mistakes goal of Toreros

TRIBUNE

Coach Andy Vinci is going back to fundamentals today as University of San Diego prepares for a Saturday football home opener against Claremont College.

Vinci was disturbed by Torero mistakes Saturday as USD fell, 34-14, to UC Riverside in Riverside. It was the Toreros' return to football on the intercollegiate level.

"We were up against a superior team," Vinci said, "but we beat ourselves. We talked about our mistakes after the game and it was the same thing — fundamentals."

The Toreros trailed only 13-7 late in the third quarter but a 69-yard touchdown pass and a 99-yard touchdown return of an interception took them out of the game. Quarterback Henry Sintay scored one Torero touchdown on a two-yard run in the third quarter while the other came on a 58-yard run by Sammy Croom early in the fourth.

USD Loses 2 Starters For Opener

University of San Diego, already handicapped by a small roster, received further bad news yesterday when it was learned two starters have been lost for the Toreros' home opener Saturday night against Claremont College.

One of them, safety Tom Young, is out for the season with a broken ankle.

The other, offensive end Earl Milligan, injured some ribs in last week's season-opening 34-14 loss to UC Riverside and is expected to be sidelined for two weeks.

"We thought Young had only a sprained ankle," explained coach Andy Vinci yesterday, but examination reveals fracture and he has undergone surgery. With our small squad, we can't afford to lose personnel this early in the season."

The Toreros' coach admitted he was disappointed with his team's initial showing as far as the score was concerned. "But, our defense did a great job for us and, overall, we weren't too bad for the first shot out of the box."

Claremont is favored to win the NAIA District 3 crown, according to Vinci, and should be a real contender for national honors.

The Toreros will work under the recently-installed lights at USD Stadium from 5:30 to 8 each night this week.

2-B THE SENTINEL WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1972

Toreros fundamentally ready, USIU home opener Saturday

If at first you don't succeed, bring it on home and try it again.

That's exactly what University of San Diego head football coach Andy Vinci plans on doing against Claremont following the Toreros' "unwelcome back to college football" loss to UC Riverside.

The 7:30 p.m. game Saturday will be the first home appearance of the season for USD, the first ever night contest in the newly renovated campus stadium and hopefully the Toreros' first win since returning to college football after an 11-year absence.

The Toreros will be out to avenge its 34-14 opening game loss to Riverside.

"We were up against a superior team, there's no doubt about that," said Vinci. "They were a fine team but we beat ourselves."

PERSONNEL CHANGES

With that, the Toreros will spend the greater part of this week drilling on fundamentals and making personnel changes.

"We talked about our mistakes after the game and guess what — they were the same fundamentals we talked about the first day of practice," said Vinci. "There will be some changes made this week, you can bet on that."

Claremont brings a 1971 season record of 7-2 to Alcalá Park, including two consecutive second-place finishes in the District Three NAIA ratings.

This year's Stag squad offers 25 returning lettermen, including 10 of 11 offensive starters and a strong defense bolstered down by tackle Chris Stecher (6-6, 270).

Vinci will be hoping for some offensive continuity when he sends his Toreros out on the field.

Against Riverside quarterback Henry Sintay passed for 167 yards but was the victim of five interceptions, two of which were returned for touchdowns.

End Roger Leonard hauled in five Sintay tosses for 127 yards and running back Sammy Croom outdistanced a trio of defenders on route to a 58-yard scoring bust.

This Saturday they'll settle for an outscoring performance.

WESTERNERS OPEN

Two things are on the mind of United States International University head football coach Marv Braden. He's got until Saturday night to get relief.

That's when Braden sends his Westerners out for the first time this season to meet tough Puget Sound University. Game time is 7:30 at San Diego's Balboa Stadium.

First thing on the agenda is to iron out the mistakes made against Grossmont JC in last week's scrimmage. Second, get everything together for Puget Sound.

Against Grossmont the Westerners' running and passing game pleased Braden. He looks toward fullbacks Rod Perkins, a 190-pounder from West Los Angeles JC, Colin Cann, a sophomore from Yonkers, N.Y., and Chris Sullivan out of Fullerton JC to supply the punch of the ground game.

By air, Braden will go with senior quarterback Doug Omer of Anaheim.

"I thought Doug threw the ball well, but he is capable of better option execution," said Braden following the three-hour scrimmage.

Dwight McDonald, a 6-3, 190-lb. ex-Kearny Komat, continues to make impressions on everyone.

Nobile's 'Politico' on display

"Politico," the latest work of sculptress Myrna Nobile, is currently on display in Founders' Gallery at the University of San Diego through Oct. 8.

The 20-piece collection which is to be viewed as one sculpture is the artist's "statement" directed toward the political arena in this campaign year. Politico includes 15 aluminum personages resting on blue wooden cubes along with sound effects.

Myrna Nobile is a lecturer in USD's Art Department. She has served on the board of the San Diego Art Guild and is a past president of Kappa Pi international art fraternity.

The gallery is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on weekends by appointment.

USD campus with record enrollment

THE UNIVERSITY of San Diego has a record enrollment at undergraduate and graduate levels this year.

Dr. Author Hughes, president, told the Southern Cross that provisional figures show 1499 undergraduate students taking on-campus courses and 75 studying off campus.

In addition, the law school has an enrollment of approximately 850, making a total university student body of 2,424.

DR. HUGHES said that there was a large increase in transfer students from community colleges this year. The new scale of tuition costs has not, apparently, affected enrollment.

USD To End Cage Season At Cal Poly

University of San Diego, needing a victory for a .500 season, takes on Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo at 8 tonight in the Toreros' gym in the final game of the season for coach Bernie Bickerstaff's club.

The Toreros will have to halt a two-game losing streak to reach the break-even figure after suffering losses to San Fernando and Fullerton on the road over the weekend.

USD had rolled off four straight victories and six of its last seven before running into the weekend setbacks. Leading scorer Pinky Smith played only a few minutes of the San Fernando game due to the flu. However, he returned to score 24 points against Fullerton.

Cal Poly is coached by former UCSD mentor Neale Stoner.

ACCENT ON CLUBS

Seven Juniors to tour Bayside

Seven provisional members of the Juniors of Social Service Auxiliary will tour Bayside Settlement House at 10 a.m. Thursday to observe the work of the Sisters of Social Service who operate the home. Mrs. Ralph Grutesch, volunteer service chairman, will explain how members of the Juniors assist with clerical work, transportation, holiday parties, sewing and monthly medical checkups for Bayside children. The sisters will serve luncheon at the Social Service Convent, 3525 3rd Ave., after the tour. Members of the provisional class include Mmes. Walter W. Doren, Donald Fleichli, Kenneth G. Gould, Joseph E. O'Connor, Frank James G. Lawrence, W. Douglas, and J. Jr.

a minimum of 20 hours at Bayside Settlement House before becoming active members this June.

The University of San Diego Auxiliary will hold its annual membership tea and tour of the campus from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday, with the tea to be held at the Bishop's dining room in Founders Hall. Mothers of incoming freshmen have been invited as special guests. Dr. Virginia Livingston, president of the auxiliary, will join Mrs. Irving W. Martin, tea chairman, and Mrs. David L. Short, cochairman, in greeting guests along with hostesses, Mmes. George Kilgas and Harold F. Tebbetts.

San Diego County Medical Society Woman's Auxiliary president Mrs. Howard Hewitt has presented a check for $1,000 from the auxiliary to the Medical Society's student loan administrator Mrs. Milton Evangelou to be used for low-interest scholarship loans. The loans are allocated by the Medical Society's Assn. for Medical and Paramedical Education and Research (AMPER). The funds were derived from the auxiliary's 1971-72 benevolence fund. Mrs. Evangelou is president of the non-profit agency's board of directors.

USD gets federal grant for teacher education

The University of San Diego has been awarded a federal grant of $23,500 to support graduate training in the education of mentally retarded children.

Directed by the Bureau of Education for the Handicapped under the U.S. Office of Education, the grant is for the professional preparation of teachers of the mentally retarded in public and private schools.

Funds are to be used for training leading to a master's degree in special education. Persons interested in the program can contact Dr. Robert E. Nelson, chairman of the department of education, or Dr. DeForest L. Strunk, director of special education at USD.

USD sets courses at Marine depot, 2 off-campus sites

The University of San Diego will begin off-campus classes next month to help education.

One series will lead to a master's degree in educational psychology. Another will offer undergraduate courses taught by regular USD faculty in classrooms set up at Marine Corps Recruit Depot. Classes scheduled at MCRD include economics, English, history, psychology, political science and sociology. Credits can be applied toward a degree program at USD or transferred to another college or university, a USD spokesman explained.

Registration will be in Building 107, Depot Education-Transition, at MCRD at 6 p.m. Sept. 7. Classes begin Sept. 11 at 6 p.m. and continue for 15 weeks. Tuition charges, payable at registration, are $55 per unit. A $15 registration is also charged to new students.

The USD spokesman said tuition costs for servicemen can be defrayed by using in-service veteran's educational benefits or the Marine Corps tuition assistance plan.

The graduate program will be offered at two locations, Mira-Costa College in Oceanside and Imperial Valley College in El Centro.

Six graduate units in education will be offered by USD each semester. The sequence of courses will let students earn a master's degree over two years while studying evenings, according to Dr. Gilbert Oddo, director of graduate programs at USD.

Oddo said students entering the master's program must qualify as regular entering graduate students.

Oceanside registration for North County students will be Sept. 8 at 6 p.m. in Room A-1 of the Communications Center at Mira-Costa College. Classes will be held Monday and Thursday evenings for 15 weeks from 4:15 p.m. to 7 p.m. beginning Sept. 11.

Imperial Valley students will register Sept. 8 at 4 p.m. at Imperial Valley College. Classes will begin after registration that day and continue on Saturdays for 14 weeks starting at 9 a.m. each day.

"This is not a typical extension service," Oddo said. "All students entering the graduate program must meet regular qualifications and will be taught by regular USD faculty."

Students do get one break — there is no foreign language or thesis requirement for the master's degree in education at USD, Oddo said.

President To Halt Draft Next July

President Nixon talks with Ronald Reagan, chairman of the State Youth Activities Committee.

New Bonus Authority Proposed

By DONALD H. HARRISON, Staff Writer

The San Diego Union

SAN CLEMENTE — Plans to end the military draft by next July 1 were confirmed yesterday by President Nixon.

The President's announcement was distributed after he conferred for more than an hour with Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

"Based on the report submitted to me this morning by Secretary Laird," the President's statement said, "and provided the Congress enacts pending legislation I have recommended, we will be able, as planned, to eliminate entirely by July 1973, any need for peacetime conscription into the armed forces." He added:

"Some problems, however, remain to be overcome, and doing so will require the full support of the Department of Defense, the Congress and the public. These problems include:

"—Avoiding potential manpower shortages which will occur unless legislation currently pending before the Congress is passed, as to bolster vigorous service efforts already under way to improve manpower utilization, enlistments and retention.

NEED FOR DOCTORS

"—Providing sufficient numbers of doctors and other highly trained specialists in critical skills.

"—Maintaining Guard and reserve force manning, which will remain below congressionally mandated strength unless pending legislation is passed."

Mr. Nixon said he was "confident that these problems can be overcome — assuming prompt action by the Congress on the necessary pending legislation and assuming continued public and service support. In particular:

"The benefit and worth of a military career must be more effectively communicated to the American people, while all four services continue to improve their personnel management and manpower utilization procedures. Military careerists deserve the respect and the gratitude of the public they serve."

SPECIAL BONUSES

"The Congress must assist through timely passage of pending legislation, particularly the uniformed services special pay act of 1972, which will provide needed bonus authority to help fill projected shortages in critical skills and other possible shortages in the number of enlistees available under a zero draft."

"Given this kind of support," Mr. Nixon added, "we will no longer need conscription to fill manpower requirements after July 1973. This means that it will not be necessary to require from the Congress an extension of induction authority of the Selective Service Act past July of 1973; further authority to conscript thereafter would rest with the Congress."

Laird said draft calls have been reduced from 300,000 a year when Mr. Nixon took office to less than 50,000 this year.

He said although peacetime conscription will end, the na-

USD Gridders Eager To Hit

Two days of workouts with no pads and no contact have left the University of San Diego football squad a bit testy.

"The players really want to hit someone," commented head coach Andy Vinci after putting his team through what he described as an excellent practice session yesterday at Naval Training Center.

The Toreros, preparing for a Sept. 16 opener at Riverside, won't begin contact drills until tomorrow, so Vinci can't get an accurate line on what talent he has available among the 50 candidates. Some of the prospects, however, have already caught the attention of the USD staff.

Offensive line coach Gray Elliott singled out guards Bruce McFarlan and Jim Kefalas, tackle Ron White and center Ron Allison.

"These men have shown good aggressiveness, they know how to play the game," he said.

McFarlan is a 200-pounder from U. of Nevada. Kefalas, 225, is from Mesa; White is a tough 235-pounder from College of the Desert; and Allison is a local product from Southwestern.

Defensive backs Donny Austin (Santa Barbara) and Bill Yavorsky (USD) both showed good man-to-man coverage in passing drills.

USD and USIU gridders report for preseason drills

The University of San Diego, for the first time in 10 years, will greet some 60 new football prospects today at 3 p.m. as they report for physicals and equipment, just five days after the resignation of Toreros' director of athletics Phil Woolpert.

Woolpert, who had served 10 years at USD, came to San Diego after a very successful basketball coaching campaign at the University of San Francisco. His 1955 and 1956 teams were NCAA champions and for his 1955 season, Woolpert was named NCAA Coach of the Year.

The Toreros will begin fall practice Thursday at the San Diego Naval Training Center, and following 10 days of workouts will move to their campus stadium to prepare for their season opener against UC Riverside on Sept. 16.

INCOMING TALENT
Player talent will include junior college transfers, incoming high school graduates, and a few holdovers from last season's club team.

Unlike the club squad's of the past few years, recruits this season will be accredited students carrying full study loads.

Since taking the head football job seven months ago, Andy Vinci has developed a non-profit corporation which assumes all financial responsibility for the sport at the university. Established as the "U" Club and governed by a board of trustees, it has raised enough funds to fence and light the stadium and is at the half-way point of its first year goal of $50,000 to cover operational costs.

USIU CAMPAIGN

Fifty candidates for the United States International University (USIU) football team are expected to report on Thursday, Aug. 31 when physical examinations and the issuing of equipment is scheduled.

Coach Marv Braden, who sports a 20-10 record for three seasons with the Westerners, said that two-a-days will be held daily starting Friday, Sept. 1 and will continue through Saturday, Sept. 17.

All workouts will be held on the Cal Western Campus of USIU but all five home games, including the opener against the U. of Puget Sound on Saturday, Sept. 23, will be played in Balboa Stadium.

Among 15 returning lettermen is Doug Omer, a do-everything athlete who'll play quarterback after a one year absence at that position. Omer, who missed spring practice to attend the USIU campus in England, played running back and wide receiver last year as a junior and earned a letter in his sophomore year as a quarterback. He was a varsity performer as a freshman in the defensive backfield.

GRADUATION HURT

The offensive line was riddled by graduation with only three holdovers, Bob Arciaga at guard and Mike McGriff and Andy Borgia at the tackles.

"We lack depth in the offensive line," Braden said but he noted that Dan Passiacqua, a transfer from Golden West JC, looked good in spring practice at center and Don Carson, David Schleich and Bob Hood, all with some experience last year, could fill the bill at guard along with Alex Esparza, from Gavilan JC.

an enlistment bonus of $1,500 to men who sign up for four years.

Laird said American men in uniform have declined from 3.5 million when President Nixon took office in January, 1969, to 2.3 million today. He said a further reduction, in the form of a Vietnam troop level cutback, would be announced by a Vietnam troop level cutback, would be announced by President Nixon before departing for Hawaii tomorrow for a meeting with Japanese Prime Minister Nakae Tanaka.

At the meeting with the President and Laird were five members of the California Selective Service Youth Advisory Board, including Jonathan P. Connor, 23, a law student at University of San Diego Law School.

The Selective Service Youth Advisory Committees were formed to advise the state directors of Selective Service on the attitudes of young people in their state toward the draft, Selective Service procedures and military service in general, the White House said.

Mrs. James Copley named USD trustee

Southern Cross Reporter

MRS. JAMES S. Copley, wife of the publisher of the San Diego Union and Evening Tribune, has been appointed to the University of San Diego's new unified board of trustees.

Her appointment was announced by Bishop Leo T. Maher, chairman of the board, which includes priests, nuns and lay men and women. Thirteen of its 35 members were named previously.

Mrs. Copley, active in civic and charitable organizations, is a member of Mary, Star of the Sea parish, La Jolla.

DR. AUTHOR E. Hughes, USD president and board member, said that with the incorporation of the university's two colleges, the board of trustees is being reorganized "to meet our needs of reaching out to the community of San Diego and beyond."

The other 11 trustees are Msgr. John E. Baer, Ramon Castro, Msgr. I. Brent Eagen, Sister Frances Danz, Dr. Anita Figueroa, Murray Goodrich, Patricia Howe, Sister Mary Mardel, Francisco Marty, Irving Salomon and Bruce V. Wagner.

Umoja Dancers To Perform

The Umoja Dancers, a local troupe dedicated to the folk culture of Africa, will perform at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the University of San Diego's Cambo Theater. The Dancers are being sponsored by the San Diego Chapter of the National Involvement Association, an affiliate of the Afro-American Cultural Organization.

A program emphasizing relationships and common characteristics of the Negro American and African culture is scheduled for the USD performance.

USD offers degree in education

University of San Diego is offering a master of education degree by attending graduate level courses on the campuses of Mira Costa College in Oceanside and Imperial Valley College in El Centro.

"USD's External Degree Program is not a typical extension service," Dr. Gilbert Oddo, director of graduate programs, said recently. "Students must be qualified graduate students."

"All courses are taught by professors from USD's School of Education," he said.

The external program was created as a service to teachers, school administrators and interested students residing in the North County and Imperial County.

Six graduate units in education is to be offered by USD each semester. The sequence of courses is designed to offer students the opportunity to earn an M.E. with a specialization in educational psychology over a two-year period. There is no language or thesis requirement for the degree.

BACK ON THE FIELD — Coach Andy Vinci looks over University of San Diego stadium where football is scheduled to return next month after an 11-year absence. New USD team is run by non-profit organization separate from the university and meets Claremont in opening home game September 23 under lights at 7:30 p.m. Last official USD football team to play on this ground was in 1961. Vinci hopes 3,000 will use the stand and perhaps even overflow the maximum capacity of 7,000 for games against teams like La Verne, Loyola and USIU. Season's first game is at UC Riverside, September 16. — SC photo

USD's Rae Captures Escondido Net Title

ESCONDIDO — University of San Diego sophomore Andrew Rae defeated teammate Guy Fritz, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, in yesterday's finals of the Escondido County Open Tennis Championships.

Another USD entrant, Hannu Ojala, took third spot by edging Peruvian Davis Cup member Bruno Taino.

Torero hopes high after 14-6 victory

The squad is small, numbering less than 40, but the hopes are high at the University of San Diego this year.

Coach Andy Vinci has promised a successful football program in the Toreros' venture into intercollegiate competition. And in a 14-6 upset of Claremont College in their home debut Saturday night, the Toreros showed plenty of promise.

USD outgained Claremont, a team which was 15-3 over the last two seasons and had 20 of 22 starters returning, by a 282-198 margin.

The Toreros hope to take up where they left off when they venture to Eagle Rock to face the Occidental Tigers on Saturday.

Oxy, which opened its season with a 14-13 conquest of Azusa Pacific, returns 30 lettermen from a team which was 3-6 last year and won the Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference with a 3-1 record.

The Toreros must stop split end Bob Canary, who caught 37 passes for five touchdowns in gaining all-district honors last year.

Against UC Riverside, in a 34-14 loss, USD's pass defense was riddled for 250 yards. It tightened up against the Stags, however, limiting the visitors to 108 yards and picking off two passes.

Offensively, USD netted 245 yards on the ground, paced by De Anza JC transfer Sam Croom's 141 yards in 17 carries, including a 90-yard scoring run from scrimmage.

Series challenges Catholics to learn more about their faith

Southern Cross Reporter

CHALLENGE '72-'73 is designed to help Catholics get a "deeper understanding" of their faith and "live it more fully," Bishop Leo T. Maher said in endorsing the series.

He has urged pastors to encourage people to take this "splendid opportunity to enrich themselves in the knowledge of our mutual faith."

This year's series brings to the diocese six noted priest theologians, a Christian Brother and a lay woman who will explore challenges facing Christians because of their religion.

THE ANNUAL series, sponsored by the CCD adult education offices in San Diego and San Bernardino, has been expanded to include a third location — Riverside.

Speakers will appear first at USD Camino Theater, Alcala Park, and the following night either at St. Ann's parish, San Bernardino, or Our Lady of Perpetual Help, Riverside.

Speakers in both San Diego and San Bernardino and topics are:

OCT. 10 — Brother Gabriel Moran, FSC, of New York Theological Seminary (Ecumenical Center); "Revelation: the Immutability of the Past or the Uncontrollability of the Future?"

OCT. 31 — Father Kenan Osborne, OFM, Graduate Theological Union, Berkeley; "Christ in Progress."

NOV. 14 — Father David Stanley, SJ, Regis College, Canada; "Biblical Spirituality for Modern Man." (USD More Hall, not Camino Theater)

DEC. 5 — Father James Mackey of the University of San Francisco; "Christ, the Foundation of the Church."

Appearing in San Diego and then Riverside are:

JAN. 23 — Father Albert Jonsen, SJ, University of San Francisco; "Morality vs. Modernity in the Catholic Church?"

Feb. 6 — Father John McCall, SJ, Boston College;

Toreros Stun Stags 14-6

Andy Vinci promised his Toreros would surprise somebody sometime this season.

It took just two games.

University of San Diego last night celebrated the first home game of its new football era by staggering the Stags of Claremont College, 14-6, before some 3,200 fans at USD Stadium.

Claremont, 15-3 over the past two seasons and 7-2 last year, was rated a good bet to go unbeaten in 1972. The Stags had lost only four players from a year ago and had 20 of 22 starters returning.

But, two of those were at quarterback and senior Craig Ducey was found wanting as the replacement last night. He managed seven completions in 20 attempts for 103 yards, but was badly off target when it counted.

The Toreros, 34-14 losers to Riverside in the season opener a week ago, made a million mistakes in that one. They made a few more last night, but in between miscues they kept driving in a dogged attempt to pull out the upset — and it paid off handsomely.

STAGS SCORE FIRST — The Stags struck first, recovering a USD fumble on the latter's four yard line late in the opening period. Two plays later Ducey went over from less than a yard out.

The first-period score might have momentarily slowed the Toreros, but when the conversion attempt was missed, they fired up again.

Starting from their own 39 early in the second quarter, they went the 61 yards in 13 plays, helped out by a 15-yard penalty for grabbing the face mask. Sintay went the final six inches.

He appeared stopped after a few yards, bounced off two secondary defenders and headed for the right sidelines. Only the Stags' Bob Muirhead then stood between Croom and six points and he deftly brushed him aside with a good stiff-arm.

USD had to make a strong goaline stand midway of the fourth period to assure the triumph. Ducey suddenly got not to connect on three passes and moved to the Toreros' 10 from his own 18.

However, on a fourth and two at the two, Cornell Stanley stopped Bill Nash a yard short. Sintay, whose booming punts kept USD out of danger all night, came then through once more to stave off the final Claremont threat.

Bill Jache kicked the PAT and USD was in front to stay.

The clincher came in the third period when running back Sammy Croom galloped 90 yards for another USD score.

USD had just lost eight yards on a previous play fumble for a 2nd-and-18 situation from its own 10. Croom, a 6-2, 190-pound transfer from DeAnza Junior College, then took quarterback Sintay's handoff and drove off right tackle.

He appeared stopped after a few yards, bounced off two secondary defenders and headed for the right sidelines. Only the Stags' Bob Muirhead then stood between Croom and six points and he deftly brushed him

CLAREMONT STRONG

USD Prospects Are 'Frightening'

By CHUCK SAWYER

Out of the frying pan into the fire.

This could well describe the situation for coach Andy Vinci and the University of San Diego this week as the Toreros prepare to open the home season here Saturday night against Claremont College.

The Stags, to put it mildly, are loaded.

Coach Johnny Zinda's club was 7-2 last season and 8-1 the previous year. Twenty of last year's 22 starters are back and even Zinda admits the prospects are "frightening," frightening good, that is, for the school's best team ever.

"They're physical, just plain physical," says Vinci. "They may not be as fast as Riverside (34-14 victor over USD last week) but will just carry a big edge, boasting a 65-man roster compared to about 40 for the Toreros."

The Toreros also have been hit by injuries and yesterday produced more bad news.

Quarterback Andy Sanchez is among several who came up with what was believed to be only minor ankle hurts from the Riverside game, but he and several others are still hobbled.

"You should have seen that Riverside field," complains Vinci. "It was like playing on cement. The turf was real dry and they even cut out about two inches deep to mark each line at the yard markers. We kept stepping in the ruts and twisting ankles all night."

"Sanchez says he will be ready by Saturday, but we're not going to use him unless he is in A-1 shape. We have eight games left after this one and he is too valuable to risk losing for the rest of the year."

Defensive back Bill Yavorsky and fullback Nate Harris are others who probably will not be ready Saturday and defensive back Mike Murphy is considered questionable.

Thus, Vinci may need some super-human efforts in his first home opener.

"We are going to do one thing," he insists. "We are going out there and play like there is no tomorrow. We will have the only college game in town Saturday night. We hope to get a large following to our home opener and we'll give the people of San Diego a real college football game."

The Toreros are suffering, but there's no white flag in sight.

Claremont's 1971 record was 15-3. The Stags' 1972 record was 7-2.

Ellsberg billed as UCSD lecturer

Daniel Ellsberg, a controversial figure in the Vietnam war, is scheduled to speak at the University of San Diego Wednesday.

The lecture, cosponsored by the Associated Student Body, the Student Bar Association and Graduate Students Association, is to be held at More Hall.

Ellsberg, now awaiting trial, copied a top secret Pentagon study on the Indonesian war in 1969 which led to the eventual publication of the "Pentagon Papers."

In his lectures Ellsberg explains why he risked prison and discusses the unprecedented controversies revolved around government secrecy, military policy and press suppression that have resulted in his history-making actions.

Boutique Noel Will Open At USD On Oct. 20

Mrs. Joseph E. O'Connor has been named chairman of "Boutique de Noel," the fifth annual display and sale of Christmas gift items sponsored by the University of San Diego Alumnae of the Sacred Heart.

The boutique, which will feature handmade items, will occupy quarters at Founders' Hall on USD campus from Oct. 20 through Nov. 19.

Mrs. Francis Bennett will serve as cochairman and workshop supervisor.

Boutique Noel Will Open At USD On Oct. 20

Andy Vinci has a win at USD and a good start. A turnout of 3,800 saw the Toreros' home opener, a 14-7 triumph over Claremont.

"I understand it was the largest gathering at a USD event since 1958," said Vinci.

Much Vinci saw Saturday pleased the coach, including the fact that USD cut its interception turnover count from six to one.

"Mike Wagner has been great," Vinci said of the line-backer who has 3 fumble recoveries, 3 pass interceptions and 37 unassisted tackles in two games. He also praised defensive tackle George Mancillas and running back Sam Croon, who ran for 109 yards in 17 carries.

La Jolla woman joins USD board

The appointment of Mrs. C. Arnholt Smith to the University of San Diego Board of Trustees was announced recently by board chairman Bishop Leo T. Maher.

The appointment brings the number of women on the USD board to five. Others include vice chairman Dr. Anita V.

MRS. C. A. SMITH
Joins USD trustees

Figueredo, a La Jolla physician, and Mrs. James S. Copley also of La Jolla.

Mrs. Smith, a La Jolla resident, is an active member of many La Jolla and San Diego organizations including La Jolla Art Association, The Committee, Volunteer Bureau of San Diego, Inc. and Women's Association for Salk Institute and Globe Guilders. She is also active in the American Business Women's Association, National Women's Political Caucus and Republican State Central Committee of California.

Active in Republican politics, she was formerly a member of President Nixon's staff.

Mrs. Smith is a member of the Board of Trustees, Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, and the Board of the San Diego Theatre and Arts Foundation.

Besides her many philanthropic interests, she is recognized for her ability as a business woman, particularly in real estate and interior design.

Mrs. Smith is considered an expert in the field of fine arts and antiques.

Bishop Maher previously announced the following men as board members: Rev. Msgr. John E. Baer, Rector, St. Francis Seminary; Ramon Castro, attorney with Sheela, Lightner, Hughes and Castro; Rev. Msgr. I. Brent Eagen, Chancellor, Diocese of San Diego; Francisco P. Marry, vice president of Harris, Upham & Co.; Irving Salomon, retired army colonel and lecturer at USD; Bruce Wagner, vice president, Southern California First National Bank; Murray Goodrich, president of M.D. Goodrich and Co.; and USD's president, Dr. Arthur E. Hughes.

The USD Board will eventually be comprised of 35 members chosen from the clergy and laity.

USD, USIU promise big trouble in college level gridiron circles

In numbers they don't amount to much yet the results seem to add up.

That's because over at the Universities of San Diego and United States International, where together the football squads wouldn't pass for a majority, their efforts aren't silent.

In their last outings, both at home, the Westerners dropped Puget Sound 21-7, while the Toreros knock off NAIA favorite Claremont College, 14-6.

"We're very fortunate in regards to our first ball game," head Westerner coach Marv Braden admitted. "We knew more about more people out there than ever before."

The reasoning behind that statement is more clearly understood when you realize that Braden's bunch consisted of just 39 players, three of which didn't suit for the game. It's less than he's ever had to know.

"We began the year with 45 and we suited up 36 for Saturday's game," said Braden. "We don't even have a taxi squad."

Doug Omer went the distance at quarterback against the Loggers because he was the only one healthy at that position. But Saturday when the whistle starts the game against La Verne (1:30 at Balboa Stadium) even a recovered Rueben Anderson and Mike Ottobrimo might not remove Omer.

The 6-0, 180 lb. senior completed 20 of 37 throws for a total of 255 yards, including three touchdowns. Omer had good reaction from the ex-Kearny High flash, Dwight McDonald, who hauled down 10 of the 20 catches on the day, good enough for 56 yards and a pair of TD's. For that, he received the player of the game award.

"We're as fine a team as we've ever been," Braden said. "Our defense is new, it's changed a great deal. They've showed to be very quick."

TOREROS TOASTING
Quick is also the word from Alcalá Park where the Toreros wasted little time jumping in and joining college football. They whipped favored Claremont in just their second outing in 11 years in front of the largest crowd (3,200) to witness a USD event since 1958.

"It was a very emotional game," said head coach Andy Vinci, "but we were emotionally ready to play."

Like, in fact worse than, Braden's bunch, Vinci carried just 33 players on the squad

Saturday, against Occidental in Los Angeles, they'll face a team returning 43 lettermen alone.

Assisting the Toreros' enthusiasm side of the game, defensive man Mike Wagner brought his total of unassisted tackles to 27 in two games. He's also picked off three passes and recovered three fumbles.

Said Vinci, "He's a good one."

Occidental slipped past Azusa Pacific, 14-13, in their opener last weekend behind the arm of quarterback Joe Chilberg.

The Toreros hope to counter with a strong running game, led by halfback Sammy Croon. Croon, against Claremont, broke a school record with a 90-yd. touchdown run. In 20 carries on the season, he's gained 198 yards for a 9.9 average per carry.

As a team after two games, the Toreros have out rushed their opponents 455 to 262, and hit on 15 of 41 passes. Quarterback Henry Sintay has thrown for 214 yards, while Roger Leonard leads all receivers with six receptions.

See, it does add up.

ELLSBERG TO SPEAK

Daniel Ellsberg will discuss the Pentagon Papers in a lecture Wednesday at 8 p. m. in More Hall, University of San Diego.

USD students are sponsoring the lecture.

Ellsberg is awaiting federal trial on charges that he violated law by copying the secret Defense Department study of the Vietnam war which has become known as the Pentagon Papers.

Dr. Shields, USD Professor Dies

Dr. Karena Shields, associate professor of anthropology at the University of San Diego, died Wednesday in Mexico City. She was 65.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 9 p.m. today in the Carmelite Monastery, 5158 Hawley Ave.

A Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the monastery.

MISSION BENEFACTOR

Dr. Shields, a native of Loraine, Ohio, was returning from her annual trip to Chiapas, Mexico, earlier this month when she was stricken and placed in a Mexico City hospital.

Each year she took USD students to work with her in helping Indians at Mission San Leandro. She was the mission's doctor and benefactor.

She was a graduate of San Jose State College, with a bachelor of science degree. She received a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Southern California, master of arts in anthropology from the University of Mexico, and a doctor of medicine from the University of Mexico, Institute of Tropical Medicine.

OUTSTANDING EDUCATOR

Dr. Shields was selected to appear in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Educators of America. She was so recognized on the basis of civic and professional achievements and leadership in education.

She received a Hooper Foundation grant and two Werner Gren Foundations grants to further her studies in tropical diseases.

Dr. Shields has published numerous articles and books. The last, a book on the Mayan Indians, will be published under the title of "The People at the Edge of the World."

DAUGHTER SURVIVE

Dr. Shields is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Ronelle Wright of Encinitas, Mrs. Linda Wheeler of El Cajon and Mrs. Lauren Coppage of Florida.

The family suggested contributions to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, Alcalá Park, to be designated for her San Leandro Mission in Chiapas, Mexico.

in ruining the rice crop, leading to starvation.

Ellsberg predicted that Mr. Nixon will order such bombing after the November election in which he forecast a re-election for the President.

He said that studies of mining Haiphong Harbor in North Vietnam by most experts indicated it would not halt the flow of arms, but would stop the flow of food to the north.

STATEMENTS CHALLENGED

When he made these statements, Vice Adm. Fitzhugh Lee, USN, Ret., Cornado, rose from the audience to refute them. Lee said he had served at the War College in the Pentagon and had never seen a paper on bombing the dikes to starve the North Vietnamese into submission.

The retired admiral also said he had seen many studies on the effects of mining Haiphong Harbor, a number of which predicted it would impede flow of war materials.

The statements, Lee asserted, facing Ellsberg, "are grossly misleading."

QUESTION OF TRUTH

Earlier, Ellsberg told reporters that he turned over a copy of the Pentagon Papers to a New York Times reporter. He said he also gave a copy to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but there were no results.

"Everyone from a sergeant to the president lies to the public as a matter of course," he said. "I don't want to be a part of that. My responsibilities are to start telling the truth."

"I can't sign over to any boss, including the President of the United States, exclusive power over my conscience — my understanding of what my duties are as a citizen."

EXECUTIVE SECRECY

He said that officials who opposed the Vietnam war policy but left office and kept their mouths shut "are wrong."

"I think the classification system for top secret documents as it is today is a massive violation of the first amendment. It allows government officials to keep the public from knowing."

Public Denied Facts On War, Ellsberg Says

By HOMER CLANCE

Daniel Ellsberg asserted last night that his indictment in the Pentagon Papers case was a "clear cut abuse of the judicial system."

Ellsberg, indicted with Anthony Russo on conspiracy charges involving 15 counts in the case, also said that "the last three months in the courtroom" have been "disappointing."

He made the statements in a lecture before University of San Diego students in which he criticized President Nixon and drew a standing ovation when he finished.

The former Rand Corp. "think tank" analyst told the students that "by any previous interpretation of the law, Tony Russo and I had broken no law." He added that he feels a judge with more intestinal fortitude would have dismissed the indictment.

The trial of the men before U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne in Los Angeles had been delayed pending Supreme Court ruling on a writ of habeas corpus raised by the defense.

Ellsberg told his audience that President Nixon and other top government officials have lied deliberately to the people about the Vietnam war.

Ellsberg said that one top-secret assessment of bombing the dikes in North Vietnam indicated it might be successful (Continued on B-5, Col. 1)

CAMPUS CORNER

News from area universities.

UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO

By TERRI DUFFY

More than 2,500 USD students have started a semester that reflects an attitude of change.

The most evident example of change is the total reorganization of the university's academic structure, based on suggestions made to a recent survey to see how the university can best serve the students.

The reorganization has divided the campus into three schools and one college, and has created the post of provost to coordinate internal academic affairs.

Before the reorganization, USD had a departmental format, with the academic disciplines less clearly defined.

The School of Education, under the direction of Acting Dean Dr. Robert E. Nelson, is least effected by the reorganization and continues combining education courses and curricula.

The College of Arts and Sciences encompasses the liberal arts majors, formerly in the departmental format. Dean Ernest N. Morin has combined the original 16 departments into eight, reducing professors' administrative loads.

The School of Law is not new to USD, although Dean Donald T. Weckstein is. The law school was founded in 1954 as part of the former College of Men.

The School of Business Administration, with Dr. Clement J. Nouri as dean, will offer graduate degrees in the near future.

APPEARANCE HERE DRAWS 1,300

Ellsberg says people misled

By ROBERT DIETRICH

EVENING TRIBUNE Staff Writer

Former Rand Corp. defense analyst Daniel Ellsberg has defended his exposure of the top-secret Pentagon Papers as an effort to expose what he characterized as "evil policies" in the U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The 41-year-old researcher, who is under federal conspiracy indictments with Anthony Russo for making the documents public, told an audience of 1,300 yesterday at the University of San Diego he now feels he should have released the papers earlier.

He said the American people had been misled by President Nixon concerning U.S. disengagement in Indochina.

"This war hasn't ended because Nixon won't stop short of a U.S. victory," Ellsberg said. "He's the same as his predecessor. (Former president) Johnson didn't want to be the first American president to lose a war."

"I'm afraid that a large part of this country has been educated by the President for the past 3 1/2 years on what it would mean to end this war. They've heard him talk about humiliation, about defeat, about bloodbaths — hypothetical bloodbaths."

"That was an evil thing to do."

Ellsberg said the impact of the Pentagon Papers had not been as great as he had hoped.

Referring to recent polls which show the majority of the public favors Nixon's reelection, Ellsberg said the American people no longer care about U.S. involvement, "so long as there are no more American casualties. They don't care about Asian casualties."

Trial of Ellsberg and Russo in U.S. district court in Los Angeles has been delayed until the Supreme Court rules on introduction of wiretap evidence.

In a news conference before his speech here, Ellsberg told newsmen that he and Russo were the first persons to be tried for "smuggling news to the American public."

"If they are successful we will have a new law — a law that Congress has never been willing to pass," he said. "Things could get worse if I'm convicted."

"I think that the newspapers and the Congress should take a pretty lively interest in the issues that are raised by my case."

He estimated his defense would cost from $600,000 to $700,000.

Ellsberg said his motivation to expose the Pentagon Papers was based on his realization that the United States "has never had a legitimate cause" in Indochina since the end of World War II. He condemned the Indochina policies of Presidents Truman, Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson as well as those of Nixon.

"The policies we have been pursuing have been evil in their effect," he said. "I don't believe they are being carried out by evil men; they are being carried out by ordinary human beings like you and me."

Saying he expected the war to continue indefinitely if Nixon is reelected, he discounted rumors that presidential adviser Henry Kissinger might have achieved a tentative cease-fire agreement with North Vietnamese negotiators.

"I think that Henry Kissinger will continue to negotiate so long as it suits his boss' purpose," Ellsberg said.

In a question-and-answer session following the speech, Vice Adm. Fitzhugh Lee, USN, Ret., challenged Ellsberg's report of advice given Nixon by intelligence staffs concerning the military merits of mining Haiphong harbor.

Lee said he had access to such advice while on active duty and said he had seen no memorandums offering a negative view of a mining operation.

Ellsberg said he had misled his audience about that somewhat. "There were such memorandums, but they were written by people who always came up with the losing ideas," he said.

Ellsberg predicted that Nixon, if reelected, would authorize bombing of North Vietnamese dikes, a move, he said, that would not necessarily cause drownings, but would be sufficient to destroy rice paddies.

"I think it's being done now and will get bigger after the election. The policy being carried out now is one of deliberate starvation," he said.

Diablos' Aerial Attack Downs Toreros, 29-16

Special to The San Diego Union

LOS ANGELES — University of San Diego ran into an aerial barrage fashioned by Los Angeles State quarterback Jimmy Sander and dropped a 29-16 decision to the Diablos here last night.

Sander, a 6-0 senior, completed 22 of 34 passes, riddling the Toreros' middle secondary in the process. He ended with 343 net yards including an 89-

New faculty members join The Bishop's Schools staff

New members of The Bishop's Schools faculty and staff will be introduced by Philip P. Perkins, headmaster, Friday at an all-day faculty conference at the school.

Miss Ruth Eller, who taught English, drama and speech at the school from 1967 until 1970, is returning from graduate school at Berkeley to teach Latin. A magna cum laude, Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Vassar, Miss Eller has an MA from Smith College and was working towards a Ph.D. in medieval literature at Berkeley.

Miss Carmel Peruzzi, who has a BA in English and history from Immaculate Heart College, will teach history and geography, in addition to coordinating the testing program.

She has done graduate study at the University of San Francisco, St. Mary's College (Notre Dame and Salt Lake City), Loyola, University of Santa Clara and San Diego College for Women.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Knighton will teach in the Upper School. Both are graduates of Canadian universities, the University of British Columbia and the University of Vancouver.

Knighton, who was chairman of the science department and head of the Upper School at Marlborough for four years, also served as headmaster of the Annie Wright Seminary in Tacoma, Wash., for a year, followed by a year as head of the Upper School at Hanlin School in San Francisco. He will teach upper level mathematics and be a senior class adviser.

Mrs. Knighton will teach English and be a junior class adviser. She previously taught seventh and eighth grade English at the Marlborough School in Los Angeles.

Miss Judith Wiegand will teach Spanish. A graduate of Wayne State College, with a BA in education, she studied Spanish at Carroll College, NDEA Institute and has taught English and Spanish at Bellevue High School in Bellevue, Neb., for the past two years.

Mrs. Corinne Warner, who has taught math at the Marlborough School since 1968, will teach math and be a freshman class adviser. She attended Stanford and was graduated from the University of Denver with a BA in math. Her daughter Diane will be a senior at Bishop's.

Larry Parmenter, whose wife teaches French at the school, will join the faculty to teach science and serve as adviser to San Miguel boys in seventh and eighth grades. A graduate of West Point, Parmenter has studied at Southern Illinois University and is presently working on an M.S. in bioengineering at UCSD.

Mrs. Anne Marie Troyer, who will teach French and Spanish, is a graduate of the University of Berlin. She has taught for many years in New York public schools and more recently was at Stanford doing library work in the foreign books division.

Miss Jeanne Hancock, a 1967 Bishop's School graduate, will join the staff as admissions secretary. Miss Hancock has a BA/BS degree in business administration from Georgetown University and has studied at the University of Oslo International Summer School.

Toreros eye third straight, USIU in rebounding task

If you think San Diego Conquistador owner Dr. Leonard Bloom's decision to build a new arena in Chula Vista is the biggest news around town, you haven't been paying attention to Andy Vinci's new USD football team.

The Toreros will be seeking their third win in a row, in this, their first year back in college football in 11 years, when they travel to Cal State, Los Angeles Saturday.

Also that evening, the Westerners of United States International University, who dropped a 12-10 decision to LaVerne College Saturday, entertain Southern California Intercollegiate Conference representative Redlands at 7:30 in Balboa Stadium.

Although Braden's Bunch leads in the series, 7-5 and has won seven of the last eight games played, the Bulldogs have more to offer than just a bark.

A pair of Fullerton Jr. College transfers in Jim Martinez and Tom McCutchin, and a junior speedster named Tim Streeter, has boosted the Bulldogs overall strength this season.

Martinez beat out two regular quarterbacks for the starting spot, 6-3, 245 lb. McCutchin has anchored the defense and Streeter has rushed for over 200 yards in just two games. Thus far the Bulldogs are 1-2 but their two losses came to NAIA district II champion Cal Lutheran, 21-7, and Far West Conference champ Chico State, 21-12.

The Westerners are now even at 1-1, downing Puget Sound in their opener, 21-7. The difference in the two games was like night and day.

Torero quarterback Henry Sintay has few complaints this week after engineering a 19-7 upset win over Occidental College Saturday. Sintay recorded his best effort of the young season by completing 10 of 18 passes. Bill Washington hauled in five of those for 42 yards.

The Toreros used Sammy Croom's 69 yards in 18 carries and Andy Sanchez's 70, plus his 42-yd. punt return, to balance the offensive attack.

The Toreros will have the services of fullback Nate Harris, who's missed two games because of a knee injury, for Saturday's game.

Western head coach Marv Braden, who termed his team's 12-10 loss to LaVerne Saturday as "the worst offensive performance in four years," wouldn't mind getting back a little of the encouragement his team gave away.

"You just can't encourage an opponent the way we did," said Braden, "with eight turnovers (three interceptions and five fumbles lost)."

"We just have to forget about that one and think about Redlands, which is a good ball club."

Toreros Rely On Top Backs

By CHUCK SAWYER

University of San Diego's starting backfield for its Saturday season opener at UC Riverside will consist of three players familiar to the San Diego scene plus an "import" from Northern California.

Bill Washington, a 6-0, 196-pounder and a strong receiver at DeAnza College up north, is the stranger in the group at the wide receiver post.

The other three will be Henry Sintay from Chula Vista High and the University of Arizona at quarterback, Andy Sanchez from Castle Park High and Southwestern College at tailback and Nate Harris of St. Augustine High and San Diego CC at fullback.

Coach Andy Vinci is anxious to get the Toreros off to a winning start as they return to competition on a complete interscholastic basis for the first time since the 1963 season.

His big hope, for the opening game at least, appears to be Sanchez. Only 5-8 and 175 pounds, he still gained All-Mission Conference honors at Southwestern.

CLASS RUNNER

"Here is a real class running back," says Vinci. "He is a real blue chip player, the kind every team must have if it expects to win. You show him your offensive setup just once and he has it down pat. The guy is a real team leader and we are very fortunate to have him."

At Southwestern, Sanchez carried 104 times last season and averaged 5.6 yards per try. He was the No. 19 rusher in the state junior college ranks and, Vinci points out, he had about 100 less carries than the other leading rushers.

Sintay, a second team CIF selection at Chula Vista in both 1967 and 1968, has a strong

HENRY SINTAY

Passing arm but needs work running the pass-option, according to Vinci.

Harris is a 212-pounder whose speed surprises a lot of people once he starts moving. However, area fans who remember him as a swift 440 runner at St. Augustine expect the 21-year-old junior to prove a big plus for the Toreros.

Washington was the second leading JC receiver in the state two years ago at DeAnza when he hauled in 55 passes. He comes to USD after a brief stint at Utah State.

Vinci has expected to concentrate on offense the remainder of this week but reports filtering down from Riverside following a closed scrimmage with another area school Monday has caused the Toreros' boss to push a little harder on defense.

TENTATIVE STARTERS

"We understand they are a very physical team with outstanding depth in the backfield," says Vinci. "They've got a new coach (Wayne Howard), a lot of experience (33 lettermen) and two talented quarterbacks."

The latter consist of senior Bill Krizman and a transfer from MiraCosta College, Bill Taylor.

Although stressing it is strictly a tentative lineup, Vinci announced the following probable starters in the offensive line Saturday: Earl Milligan (6-5, 210) and Roger Leonard (6-5, 220) at ends, Ron White (6-2, 235) and Mike Keese (6-2, 205) at tackles, Jim Kefalas (6-1, 225) and Bruce McFarlan (5-10, 200) at guards and Ron Allison (5-9, 180) at center.

McFarlan has been named offensive captain for the Toreros. On defense, end Carroll Stanley from Palo Verde JC will make the decisions.

Variety spices USD orchestra

A variety of occupations are represented in the membership of the University of San Diego Symphony Orchestra, which will perform Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the university's Camino Theater.

There are doctors, businessmen, teachers, members of the Navy, nurses, violin makers, scientists, housewives and students playing various instruments in the orchestra of 50.

Dr. Henry Kolar is the conductor. Now a member of the faculty, he played with the San Diego Symphony Orchestra for eight years. He was concertmaster for two years.

Soloist at the Sunday concert will be Mary MacKenzie, winner of the Metropolitan Opera National Auditions. She will sing arias from "Orfeo" by Gluck, "Joan D'Arc" by Tchaikovsky and "Carmen" by Bizet.

The orchestra also will play "Romantic Carnival Overture" by Berlioz and "The New World Symphony" by Dvorak.

Toreros vulnerable in defensive game

Last week it was the pass defense. Saturday it was the rushing defense.

Defense, it appears, is the one area University of San Diego's Toreros must improve in order to fashion a winning record in their return to intercollegiate football.

USD was betrayed by its defense Saturday night when LaVerne College rallied for a 27-21 victory, the Toreros' third loss in five games, on the USD field.

The Leopards held to no completions in 10 pass attempts, ground out 227 yards in vaulting to a 9-1 record. USD amassed 303 yards, 140 on the ground and 163 in the air as Henry Sintay connected on his first touchdown pass of the season.

Sintay collaborated with Sam Croom on a 57-yard pass to give USD a 21-7 lead in the third quarter.

USD hopes to square its record at 500 Saturday when it ventures to Pomona College for a 1:30 p.m. joust with the Sageshens.

USD Risks 2-1 Record At L.A. St.

Special to The San Diego Union
LOS ANGELES — A pivotal game for University of San Diego comes up here tonight when the Toreros (2-1) engage Los Angeles State (1-1) with a scheduled 7:30 kickoff.

If Andy Vinci's USD squad can retain the momentum it has achieved through two successive victories, the Toreros could enter their second home game next week with an impressive 3-1 record.

That, indeed, would be a shot in the arm for USD in its thus far successful struggle to return to college division football.

Standing in the way tonight is a Diabolo squad that lost its opener to Nevada (Las Vegas), 31-0, then rebounded for a 31-20 nod over Cal Poly of Pomona.

In the latter contest, L.A. State came up with a fine running performance from halfback Larry Watkins, who set a school single game record with 191 yards on 32 carries.

Quarterback Jim Sander has completed 50 per cent of his passes (13-for-26) for 237 yards without an interception. His chief receiver is flanker Roger Coleman (four catches for 109 yards and 1 TD).

Against this talent the Toreros will throw quarterback Henry Sintay (25-for-54 for 326 yards) and the running of Sammy Croom, Andy Sanchez and John McNamara. Croom is the leading ground-gainer to date with 267 yards in 38 carries, an average of 7.0 per trip.

UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO By TERRI DUFFY

Prospective candidates for the eight positions of class senators roamed the campus getting petitions signed last week. The petitions, which required 50 signatures of undergraduates, were one of the requirements for candidate eligibility.

Campaigning started Monday and elections will be held Friday.

There are 16 candidates for the eight positions, two senators for each class. Four seniors are running, three juniors, two sophomores and seven freshmen.

In addition to the petitions, each candidate must have at least a 2.0 grade point average and have completed a set number of units required for each class.

The main duty of class senators is to sit on Student Senate, the legislative branch of student government, and represent their respective classes. They are also responsible for coordinating all activities for their class.

Student Senate consists of 22 members, eight of which are the Executive Board and 14 members of the women and men resident associations represent the boarding students. Students who commute to school are represented by two appointed members. Other members of Student Senate include one spokesman from the Inter-Fraternity Council and one from St. Francis Seminary.

A POSADA in the authentic Mexican tradition will be the Christmas gift of the University of San Diego to the people of the community of San Diego County.

A performance by the Ballet Folklorico de Tijuana will be held in the open-air Greek Theater on the USD Campus Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The public of all ages is invited. The Ballet Folklorico de Tijuana was organized in June, 1972, as a part of the Cultural Affairs Office of the Mayor of Tijuana.

Forty of its members will be appearing with 20 members of the Cathedral Choir from Tijuana.

The troupe will be in full costume for "La Navidad Mexicana" or "Christmas in Mexico."

The program will be "Las Posadas," "El Kirie," the breaking of pinatas by children in the audience, "A la Vibora de la Mar," followed by the game of Juan Pirluro.

More songs and dances will include "El Patio de Mi Casa," "El Jarabe Tapatio" and "Jesuita en Chihuahua."

The Cathedral Choir of Tijuana will lead the posada which enacts the journey of Mary and Joseph to Bethlehem in search of lodging.

After being turned away many times, they find a place and there is great rejoicing.

The event is sponsored by the USD Spanish Club.

Educators Among Party Guests

Among the members of the academic community at the Aginsky party were Dr. Author Hughes, president of USD, and Mrs. Hughes, Dr. Phillip James, executive assistant to the Chancellor, UCSD, and Mrs. James, Dr. Chaim Yoran, postdoctorate fellow of cardiology, at the UCSD Medical School, and Mrs. Yoran, professor of Hebrew at California State University, San Diego, Dr. Clifford Grobstein, dean of the UCSD Medical School and Dr. Ruth Grobstein, lecturer in the UCSD medical school. Miss Catherine Blackstock, research associate of the Institute of World Understanding, H. H. Fisher, professor of investments and corporate finance at California State University, San Diego, and Mrs. Fisher, Dr. Katsuhiko Fujii, postdoctorate fellow, bio-chemical research, Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, and Mrs. Fujii (in a colorful Japanese kimono), Murray Galinson, professor of law at USIU, and Mrs. Galinson.

Artists Roberto Luis Martinez and Margarito Ricardo Romo will be honored with a reception from noon to 4 p.m. tomorrow at El Centro Cultural De La Raza, 2004 Park Blvd.

A UCSD art workshop for young people will get under way next Saturday at 10 a.m. in Quonset 321, Matthews Campus. The workshop, "Discoveries Through Art for Young People," is designed for 8 through 12-year-olds to develop a sense of form and manipulative skills in drawing, painting and constructions with various materials.

It will be taught by Joyce Shaw, a La Jolla artist who holds a master of fine arts degree from the university.

Twenty pieces designed as a unit of 20 to be viewed together as "Politic" is on exhibit at the University of San Diego's Founders Gallery through Oct. 31.

The show by Myrna Noble, a lecturer in the university's art department and a well-known Southern California artist, features aluminum figures of personages resting on blue wooden cubes and facing pillars topped with large aluminum castings.

Their representation is left to the viewer whose own reflection is seen in the polished metal. Miss Noble has made use of a process called cavityless casting — the subject of her master's thesis — for the exhibition.

The Kessler Gallery in Old Town opens a show today of silver jewelry by Frank Ferreira of Tucson. Ferreira has prepared the collection for the show, his first in two years, working this summer in artist Ted de Grazia's old pottery studio. He has worked for many years as a silversmith and jeweler in the Southwest.

'Holiday Happenings' benefit sponsored by USD Auxiliary

"Holiday Happenings" will be the theme for the Nov. 9 benefit fashion show sponsored by USD Auxiliary.

Fashions from Saks will feature holiday ensembles.

The showing will be held at the Mission Bay Room of the Bahia Hotel. Proceeds will be used for loans to students at the University of San Diego.

Dr. Virginia Livingston, president of the auxiliary, said Mrs. William Yancey and Mrs. Thomas T. Homes are co-chairmen.

Mrs. A. M. Livingston, president of the USD Women's Auxiliary, entertained guests yesterday at the auxiliary's fashion revue, "Holiday Happenings," which was attended by more than 500 guests.

FOUNDATION FOR DREAMS

Successful USD looks to next year

By JACK WILLIAMS

His team is down to 29 bodies, one fulltime coach and its last two games of the season. And there, coaxing and cajoling—and praying a lot—is Andy Vinci.

He is talking about a 6-3-1 season, 35 scholarships for next year and money, lots of it. But he also is talking about Azusa Pacific, University of San Diego's next football opponent.

The Toreros, if they are to finish 6-3-1, first must be 5-3-1, a record they can achieve by turning back Azusa Pacific's Cougars Saturday afternoon at 1:30 in Azusa.

Azusa Pacific is 2-6. It is, however, big in size and in numbers. "They still have about 60 kids," the Torero coach, Vinci pointed out.

"I'm sure we can beat 'em but with us down to 29 kids..."

USD lost its best lineman, 220 lb. Cornell Stanley, in Saturday night's 7-7 tie with U.S. International University. Stanley banged up a knee and will miss the two remaining games, against Azusa Pacific and Westminster, Utah.

"You know," said Vinci, "we should be 7-1 instead of 4-3-1. But, heck, we've gotta work for 5-3 now and we'll be meeting two big physical teams with depth."

Azusa Pacific, under first-year coach Jerry Sounce, features a running attack built around freshman halfback Dennis Koyal, who twice has surpassed 100 yards in games this season. Junior John Tully has become the school's all-time passing leader and Greg Sinnard ranks among the nation's top punters.

This is a team, however, with obvious shortcomings. "They don't pass very well," said Vinci, "but they have a very good running game behind an unbalanced line. They send everybody and his brother out on an end sweep."

Defense, however, is the Toreros' strong point, particularly against the run. They have permitted but 88.3 yards per game on the ground and 256.9 overall.

Middle linebacker Mike Wagner was credited with 51 total defensive points for his effort against USIU and Darrell Beahars, an outside linebacker, wasn't far behind.

"Our defense played well against USIU because we spent so much time with it before the game," said Vinci. "But at the same time we neglected the offensive backs and they're behind where they should be in fundamentals because of this. I don't have a backfield coach. I have to concentrate from week to week on the area that needs it most, so we fall down in other areas."

"One thing I need next season is two fulltime assistants. Now, I have none. But Bob Korzen, who handles the defense, is the best defensive coach I've worked with in 15 years of coaching."

So there they are, the fighting Toreros, a surprising 5-3-1 in their return to intercollegiate football without a coaching staff and with only 29 players. It is a start, perhaps of something big, and Vinci is quick to emphasize it is an uphill battle.

"Someway," he said, "we'll get those scholarships, some of them through federal grants, and we'll get the football players we need."

"I have three ways we can have a fulltime program here without the school spending a penny, and we can still guarantee the school $45,000 a year through the extra tuition football players will bring in."

The best, it appears, is yet to come.

Toreros Host LaVerne; USIU Tests Whittier

By CHUCK SAWYER

It's University of San Diego at home and U.S. International on the road tonight.

And it's LaVerne College in the middle.

The Toreros take on the LaVerne eleven with a 7:30 kickoff at USD Stadium.

USIU begins three successive engagements on foreign fields when the Westerners tangle with a tough Whittier outfit, also at 7:30.

The interesting role played by LaVerne is the 12-10 upset scored by the Leopards over USIU two weeks ago. A victory by USD tonight, especially an impressive one, would provide food for thought before USD and USIU knock heads Nov. 11.

It's no secret coach Andy Vinci's Toreros not only will be trying to win tonight, but to run up the score at the same time.

LaVerne comes to town with a 2-1 record, blanking Azusa Pacific, 10-0, last week. The loss was to Whittier, 42-0, in the season opener.

Despite their winning record, the Leopards have had their troubles as they experimented with three quarterbacks. They are also dead last in the eight-team NAIA District 3 offense tables, managing a mere 173 yards per game.

LaVerne's greatest asset appears to be its defense, headed by senior linebacker Dan Drake. In three games the Leopards have forced 21 fumbles, recovering 13 of them.

Meanwhile, USD will depend on the running of halfback Sammy Croom (four TDs, 351 yards, 5.9 average) and the pitching of quarterback Henry Sintay to ends Roger Leonard and Bill Washington, both of whom have made 12 grabs as the Toreros have split four games to date.

Despite completing 37 of 74 attempts, Sintay has yet to get the Toreros on the scoreboard via the air. He hopes to correct that situation tonight.

USD also has a problem on pass defense. Los Angeles State rattled the Toreros' middle last week with 343 yards passing and middle linebacker Mike Wagner is doubtful for tonight after injuring an elbow against the Diablos.

Up at Whittier, USIU (2-1) faces even more of an aerial defense problem. The Poets boast a fine thrower in Wayne Estabrook (50-for-83 for 562 yards and eight TDs in four games.)

Westerner QB Doug Omer has some outstanding credentials himself, going 40-for-81 for 515 yards and four touchdowns in three contests. Thus, tonight's meeting could develop into a strong passing duel.

The Poets are 2-1-1 on the season including the 42-0 romp over LaVerne and a 41-0 breeze past Loyola. However, the loss was to Puget Sound (23-14), a team beaten by USIU, 21-7.

Defense Failed USD—Vinci

By CHUCK SAWYER

"I guess we should have kept the lights out."

That was University of San Diego coach Andy Vinci's reaction to the Toreros' 27-21 loss to LaVerne Saturday as he discussed the game yesterday at the Sportscasters-Sportswriters Association luncheon.

A power failure at USD Stadium delayed the start of the game 45 minutes. Then, LaVerne came back with 27 second-half points to destroy the Toreros' 14-0 halftime lead.

"I know the delay in starting the game killed the mental preparation we had built up," Vinci insisted. "Then, we scored the first two times we had the ball. I guess we shocked ourselves into believing we could score anytime we wanted to."

The loss gives USD a 2-3 season record to take against Pomona College on the latter's field Saturday night.

"We tried to bolster our pass defense after being rattled the week before (by Los Angeles State)," Vinci continued. "Then we held LaVerne without a completion the entire night, but a pass interference call set up their winning touchdown."

"Our defense just couldn't hold on that last quarter. We are really hurting with (linebacker) Mike Wagner out of there (with a chipped elbow). We hope to have him back for our next home game with Loyola."

Vinci revealed it was a matter of just having to have your best players out there which forced him to use one of his top two running backs, Andy Sanchez, in the defensive secondary against LaVerne.

"I guess you could call it dangerous or risky ways," Vinci explained. "But, we just felt we had to do it if we were going to have a chance to win. He was the best man for the job."

"We had one player the week before who personally cost us about 175 yards," the coach bristled. "He wanted to play defense his way and last Saturday he gathered himself a few splinters. I hope he got the message—he'll either play our way or not at all."

The game with Loyola here Oct. 26 is on a Thursday which will be an experiment in looking towards next season, according to Vinci.

The coach also revealed the Toreros are making progress in a financial way in the school's first season of intercollegiate football since 1961.

"I haven't received the figures from our last game," he said. "But, prior to that one we needed about $1,800 to break even on the season. We also are thinking about adding some 4,000 seats to the other side of our stadium (present seating is on one side) which would make it leaseable to high schools and others which would greatly aid our program."

"We're very optimistic."

Vinci keeps eye on crowd, victory

It is the feeling of Andy Vinci that many of the 3,200 who attended University of San Diego's home opener last month "came to see us fail."

It also is the feeling of Vinci that, in compiling a 2-2 record in the revival of intercollegiate football at USD, that the Toreros "are here to stay."

The Toreros have not failed. It is likely they will be around next year, at least, and it is Vinci's hope that at least 3,200 will return to USD tonight to see the Toreros win.

USD plays host to LaVerne College, which is 2-1 after a 42-0 loss to Whittier in its opener. Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

"I said before the season started we should win four games," repeated Vinci. "The rest would be up to us—up to the progress we made and the attitude. LaVerne is one of the other six."

The Leopards have 43 lettermen on a team which stunned U.S. International University, 12-10, and blanked Azusa-Pacific, 10-0. Their strength is defense.

"What worries me," said Vinci, "is that pass defense has been our weakness and LaVerne can throw the football. They completed two key passes on the drive which beat USIU. What we have to do is keep their quarterback from scrambling. He's a good scrambler and a 'sidarm passer.'"

USD also hopes to avoid slipping itself.

"That's been our problem," said Vinci. "We've been second and 25 or more nine times in four games, mostly due to penalties. Another thing, we haven't capitalized on our breaks. We fumbled once on the 20 and dropped a pass on the eight against L.A. State."

Henry Sintay again will quarterback the Toreros, who have averaged 282.5 yards per game. His favorite receivers are flanker Bill Washington and split end Roger Leonard, who have each caught 12 passes.

Defensively, middle linebacker Mike Wagner is out with an elbow injury and will be replaced by the lone senior on the team, Walt Wilga from Marian High.

With a laugh, Ginny Bell commented that "we both have good taste" when she spotted Marge (Mrs. Albert C.) Blatz of La Jolla in the same black and white print gown adrift with maribou at hem and cuffs.

Also at the Preston party were frequent Phoenix visitors the Ed Linthicums of Dallas. Virginia Linthicum (the former Mrs. Clint Mur-

Her sister Mrs. Royal Miller of Dallas was in a beige Oscar de la Renta brightened with coral and blue embroidery. Their hostess Mrs. Preston was in summery organdy, a print in shades of shocking pink and green.

BUD (CURTIS C.) Cooper of Phoenix flew over to share the festivities with his sister Mim (Mrs. Joseph) Cuddihy of La Jolla and long-time friends the Neil Morgans. Min's becoming gown was cut from a sari in soft coral shade, glistening with gold embroidery.

In the Silver Circle (patrons were seated around the dance floor) with noted cardiologist Dr. David Carmichael and his wife (he's an admiral in the Navy medical service) were Phoenicians the Ben Hazeltons. The traditional bridge across the pool that kept party-goers flowing into the terraces and hard rock dance music by Jet Set was canopied in 2,000 tiny twinkling lights matching the main party area.

Most of the party-goers were annual supporters of the Las Patronas charities. Some, such as pretty Muffin (Mary) Pulitzer of the noted newspaper family (she has just moved to La Jolla from near Lake Placid, N.Y.), were attending for the first time. Muffin was at a table with the Bud Didrickens, Isabel and Larry O'Donnel (newcomers from Washington, D.C., where she had her own TV interview program "Watch on Wall Street" using her stockbroker knowledge to advantage) and Mrs. John Younie, a resident of La Jolla for many years and well-known to Phoenicians.

THE EVERETT Jacksons of San Diego were there, too, and asked to be remembered to their many Phoenix friends. Elaine set off her handsome Indian jewelry with a turquoise gown. Jackson is a long-time friend and former college roommate of Phoenix' Leon Black.

It was that sort of a party. These who don't summer here fly in for the event of the year. The happy result — continuing the flow of dollars to charities in the San Diego area that has totaled more than $600,000 in the past 25 years, Las Patronas prexy, attractive Mrs. Donald R. Mayne, attested.

The glittering party closed at 3 a.m. and members were on deck early the next morning, dismantling and looking ahead to another year.

Halfback Harris Provides Boost For USD Gridders

Nate Harris doesn't want to be known as a radical member of the University of San Diego student body, but he is in sharp disagreement with Torero president Dr. Author Hughes on the subject of football.

A few months ago when Dr. Hughes gave head coach Andy Vinci the green light in the latter's attempt to organize a football team for the coming season, he termed it a "100 to 1" shot. USD's grid program was started in 1956, canceled in 1961, and had been restored at a club level in 1968.

Now, with 50 athletes assembled at Naval Training Center yesterday for the Torero's first drill, Vinci is embarking upon a course which he feels will eventually bring USD back into the picture as a major independent power. Halfback Harris is one of the team's biggest boosters.

"The spirit of the guys is great; they have a lot of mental drive," Harris said after two days of physical testing. "They know they're underdogs and a lot of people have already counted them out, but they feel we're going to surprise a few teams."

Much of the Torero success could depend on the health of the 6-1, 213-pound Harris, a splendid physical specimen who was the CIF 440-yard champion while at St. Augustine High in 1969. He had a best time of 46 seconds.

"Our team has good size, speed and the depth is pretty good considering this is our first year," Nate continues.

"The situation is about the same as when I was at St. Augustine. Not many people gave us much of a chance, but we were Eastern League champions in 1968 and '69, mostly because we played as a team."

Harris, a junior, has had a career marked by a couple of crippling injuries.

"I tore some leg muscles running in the state track finals at UCLA in 1969. I was in the finals of the 440 and I was leading with only about 20 yards to go when it happened. I made it worse because I kept running. I really fouled my leg up."

Because of the injury, Harris lost out on some attractive scholarship possibilities and entered San Diego City College in 1969. The leg hadn't completely healed, however, and Nate and his teammates both suffered through a 14-1 season.

He joined the Navy in 1970 and with his leg back in shape he was named most valuable player on a Treasure Island eleven that tied for first place in its league with a 10-0 mark.

He was back at SDC last year but pulled tendons in his

Marine Life Returning To The Bay

Union 8-4-72
Cockles Among Species Noted In USD Study

The cockles are coming back to San Diego Bay, along with a lot of other creatures, that haven't been seen there for many years.

The promising confirmation that a strong revival of marine life is taking place in the bay comes from scientists who recently began what may be the most exhaustive biological study ever made there.

The study is part of a new environmental studies program under way at the University of San Diego.

The bay probe began about a month ago with water and sediment samples being taken at 68 different locations. The study will go on for many months and the collections to date offer only a fragmentary sketch of the situation.

STRONG COMEBACK

"But, what we have emerges as a very encouraging picture," said Dr. John Bradshaw, associate professor of biology and project director. "There is every sign of a strong comeback by many marine organisms in what had become a virtual marine desert."

Bradshaw said sediments dredged up from the bay bottom in recent collections have yielded a surprising variety and abundance of animals comprising the essential foundation for a healthy bay-type marine community.

"There are several kinds of mud snails and clean water snails and at least a dozen kinds of worms," he said. "Worms are at the very base of the food chain, you know. The sludge worms definitely are declining and the kind we want on the increase."

"There appear to be many more clear water diatoms (microscopic plants), crustaceans and just all kinds of things."

HARDSHELL COCKLE

Among those on the comeback trail is the wavy chione, a bivalve better known to chowder lovers as the hardshelled cockle. From November to May you can see people digging the half-dollar sized bivalves from the sands of Mission Bay Park.

Other animals returning to the big bay included rock oysters, limpets, jack knife clams, razor clams, spider crabs and the sea pansy. The latter looks like a lavender mushroom, but it is an animal despite the misnomer.

Bradshaw said fish probably also are on the increase, but the study to confirm or deny that hasn't begun yet.

He said water samples taken

In parts of the bay, once heavily polluted by sewage, now contain nearly twice as much dissolved oxygen as was present in 1961.

A similar improvement in water clarity was noted. A standard visibility disc which in 1961 could be seen only 2 1/2 to 6 feet distant now can be seen 8 to 12 feet away in the same places.

Bradshaw noted that those measurements are for the parts of the bay that tend to be most polluted. Elsewhere the clarity is even better.

The main reason for the water quality improvement, of course, is the Metropolitan Sewage System. Prior to 1963, when the new system went into operation, the bulk of county sewage was jettisoned into the harbor.

Bradshaw said the bay study is supported by a $10,000 grant from the National Science Foundation. He said it is the first study aimed at a detailed assessment of all elements of the bay ecology.

Participants in the study include Drs. Gerald Estberg, a physicist, and Don Peterson and Diana Stiggall, chemists.

SC College Tests Toreros Tonight

"Just wait until these guys are juniors. We are still a year away from becoming a fine basketball team."

That was Bernie Bickerstaff looking over his University of San Diego sophomore-laden team a year ago. It was a team destined to finish with only a 12-14 record.

But two of those sophomores, guard Stan Washington and forward Robert (Pinky) Smith, ended with impressive scoring figures of 18.1 and 17.8 per game, respectively.

Now, they are juniors and Bickerstaff hasn't changed his mind.

They get their second test of the young season tonight against Southern California College at 8 in the USD Gym. The Toreros stay home to meet Chapman College tomorrow night, also at 8.

WON OPENER

USD opened the season with a 84-90 victory over Southern Utah a week ago tonight. Washington had 27 points and Smith 25 in that one.

But there was a surprise of sorts in the same contest. It came in the person of another guy named Smith, and if he bore some resemblance to Pinky, it was with good reason.

Kenny Smith is the younger brother, fresh out of Jefferson High in Daly City, Calif., where he broke a host of Pinky's prep records. Not wanting to apply too much pressure on his freshman forward, Bickerstaff resisted an urge to start him last week.

When he did enter the action, the 6-4 and 200-pound 18-year-old hit on four of nine attempts from the field, but more important, pulled down 13 rebounds.

STARTING ROLE

His efforts earned him a starting role beside his older brother tonight.

"The guy has shown great maturity for a freshman," acknowledges Bickerstaff. "I am impressed with his quickness, defense and his ability to block shots."

Pinky is the tallest of the starting five at 6-6 1/2 so Bickerstaff again is going with a three-forward offense instead of working a man in the post. The third man up front is 6-6 Ben Thompson, another of last season's talented sophs.

Teaming with Washington at the guards is 6-1 Joe Smith, no relation to the other two, who transferred to USD from College of Marin in Northern California where he averaged 18.9 points last year in his second JC season.

FOURTH SEASON

Although this is Bickerstaff's fourth season at USD, his recruiting efforts are only now beginning to pay off. He took the job almost on a moment's notice three years ago when Phil Woolpert unexpectedly resigned.

Tonight's opponent brings a 5-1 record to town after winning its own Southern California College tourney and winning two of three in the Redlands tournament. The lone loss was to Biola College, 59-57.

The visitors have three players averaging double figures after the six games, 6-5 forward Pat Quinn, 6-7 center Russ Dickens and 5-11 guard Mike Walters. The other starters are 6-6 forward Jack Cansey and 6-6 guard John Curtis.

LaVerne Tips USD, 27-21

By CHUCK SAWYER

University of San Diego suffered a power failure twice last night, the second one costing the Toreros a ball game.

A blown fuse delayed the start of the contest at USD Stadium 45 minutes. Then USD blew a two-touchdown lead as the visiting La Verne Leopards roared back with a 27-21 triumph.

USD took a 14-0 advantage at halftime over the seemingly hapless Leopards who could do nothing right.

They could do nothing wrong in the final two periods, scoring 14 points in the third period and 12 in the fourth, the winning TD coming with 1:25 left in the game.

The result left USD with a 2-3 record while LaVerne vaulted to 4-1.

A tough Torero defense stopped the Leopards in their tracks in the first half, but then go for two points on the conversion, but Russi did and failed to make it.

However, a pass interference call against the Toreros at their own 21 yard line put LaVerne in business again and it quickly got the clincher in five plays. Curt Frick going through a big hole over left tackle from seven yards out.

The Toreros tried desperately to pull it out in the final 1:29 but on a fourth and nine at the LaVerne 49, quarterback Henry Sintay badly overthrew Bill Washington.

The Leopards took over with only 28 seconds to go and easily ran out the clock.

USD started fast after the lights finally came on, scoring the first two times it had possession with Sintay running 13 yards and Andy Sanchez one for the first-period scores.

Dan Drake recovered a USD fumble for the Leopards at the Toreros' 22 yard line midway of the third quarter and four plays later Frick scored from the seven for 14-7.

USD came back to make it 21-7 when Sintay hurled his first TD pass of the season, 57 yards to Sammy Croom. But, then the lights went out for the Toreros. LaVerne came back with Russi and Frick both gaining big hunks of yardage, Frick going 11 for a score with 3:24 left in the third period. Then Russi contributed his 45-yard scamper and Frick the winning seven-yarder in the final quarter.

USD Auxiliary Plans 'Holiday Happenings'

Mrs. William Yancey has been named chairman of "Holiday Happenings," a luncheon and fashion show planned by the University of San Diego Auxiliary on Nov. 9 at Bahia Hotel.

Mrs. Yancey was selected by the board of directors of the auxiliary, which is composed of faculty members, faculty wives, mothers of students and friends of the university. Dr. Virginia Livingston is president.

Mrs. Thomas J. Holmes will be cochairman of the party, a benefit for the university scholarship fund.

Others assisting are Mmes. James Mulvaney, Frank Pavel, Vital E. Haynes, John A. Walters, Edwin C. Ferguson, Thomas Brady, John M. Athaide, Walter Wilkins, Joseph J. Mullen, George C. Zorn, Edward Tagwerker, William T. Stonehouse, Thomas W. Keelin, Larry D. Mabile, Lamar H. Hunt and Thomas Finn.

STAN WASHINGTON

Washington carries hope of Toreros

When the Toreros of University of San Diego open their basketball season tonight, they will be led by what coach Bernie Bickerstaff considers to be the fourth best guard in the nation.

He is Stan Washington, a 6 ft. 4 in. junior.

"He's a legitimate small-college All-American," said Bickerstaff. "But more than that he's among the top four guards in the nation."

"The only ones I think are better are Ed Ratleff of Long Beach State, Doug Collins of Southern Illinois and Larry Hollyfield of UCLA."

Because of Washington and a supporting cast featuring 6-6 junior Pinky Smith, USD is hopeful of having the best team in its history.

"That would take something better than a 17-9 record," said Bickerstaff. "It's tougher now because we've upgraded our schedule so much."

"You can't go out and recruit people the caliber of Washington and tell him you're playing the Y-ettes."

Washington averaged 18.1 points per game for last year's 12-14 squad. Smith averaged 17.8. The Torero starting lineup also includes 6-6 center Ben Thompson (8.8), 6-6 forward Pete Cosenza (5.5) and 6-1 guard Joe Smith, who averaged 18.9 points per game at College of Marin last year.

Southern Utah was 11-13 last year with a 7-7 mark in the Rocky Mountain Conference. The Thunderbirds are paced by center Jim Wilding, a 6-9 junior college transfer. Forwards Hal Hamblin and Al Wittenbraker, both 6-5, provide double-figure scoring in the front line.

USD group picks theme for fashions

Planning ahead for end-of-the-year holiday parties, the University of San Diego Auxiliary has chosen "Holiday Happenings" as theme for its annual fashion show, this year scheduled Nov. 9 at the Bahia Hotel.

Mrs. William Yancey has been named chairman by the auxiliary board of directors. Her appointment was announced at a recent meeting held at the home of Dr. Virginia Livingston, president of the organization composed of faculty, faculty wives, mothers of students and friends of the university.

The luncheon show is the major fund-raising event held by the women of the auxiliary. Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund of the university.

USD's intramural baseball program has continued to be strong even after the end of the World Series.

Only now are intramural teams forming for flag football, one of the four intramural sports played here. The first flag games will be played at the end of the month.

The USD intramural program includes baseball, football, volleyball and basketball, and is open year-round to male undergraduates and law students.

In the past women have not taken an active part in the intramural program, but several co-eds living on campus recently formed their own softball team. Although they are not officially registered in the intramural program, they have had practice games with men's teams.

Rick Forster, Associated Students' secretary of student services, said that participation in intramural sports has increased more than 50% over last year. The biggest turnout is for basketball.

The individual teams receive copies of game rules and schedules. Games are usually scheduled on week nights with officials provided by the Associated Students.

There are usually two kinds of intramural participants — those who are highly skilled and competitive, and those who are out merely for the fun and recreation, Forster said.

This year two basketball leagues have been scheduled to allow for the team differences in skills and motivation.

University names four to trustees

Southern Cross Reporter

FOUR MORE members have been named to the University of San Diego Board of Trustees. They are: Dr. Earl Robert Crane of San Bernardino, Robert J. Keyes of Sacramento, Mrs. Timothy Parkman of Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. C. Arnold Smith of San Diego.

Dr. Crane, faculty member at Loma Linda University, is co-founder of the Children's Dental Clinic, San Bernardino, and president of the California State Society of Orthodontists. He will be invested a Knight of the Holy Sepulchre in October.

KEYES is Gov. Ronald Reagan's assistant for community relations. A USD College for Men graduate, he served on its Board of Trustees before the university's consolidation. Mrs. Parkman was a trustee of the USD College for Women when it had its own separate board. She is a graduate of a college of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, founders of the USD women's college. MRS. SMITH is the wife of the board chairman of Westgate-California Corp., and founder of the U.S. National Bank.

Priest vocations directors convene

Vocations directors representing most of the Catholic dioceses of the United States are to meet in San Diego during the first week of October.

The directors, who are priests, are those charged with the responsibility for encouraging young men to train for the priesthood. More than 150 will meet at the Hilton Inn for the annual convention, Oct. 2-5.

Local director, the Rev. Neal Dolan, is to act as principal host. He is vice president of the national body.

Among others from the San Diego diocese who are to speak at some of the sessions are the Rev. Henry F. Fawcett, director of the permanent deacon program, Dr. Gerald Sperrazzo, chairman for the psychology department at the University of San Diego and the Rev. Robert Buchanan, on pre-seminary work.

Lutheran Pastor Jack Lindquist, who also teaches at USD, is also to speak.

It is expected that at least six bishops are to attend the convention, representing the national Catholic bishops' committee on vocations.

USD PLAYS HERE Vinci sets sights on crowd, points

He has become a promoter as much as a football coach, measuring success by the number of people in the stands as well as the number of points on the scoreboard.

"I guess 2,000 would be a reasonable crowd," said Andy Vinci of the University of San Diego. "But we're trying for 3,000 or 4,000. If the community supports us, in time we'll have a helluva program here."

What USD has now is a team lacking in depth, experience and tradition as it opens its home season tonight at 7:30 against formidable Claremont College in the newly lighted campus stadium.

"Give us time," pleaded Vinci. "There isn't a fan who walked away from last week's game (a 34-14 loss to UC-Riverside) who wasn't entertained or felt we wouldn't be winning our share of ball games."

The battle, however, is mostly uphill. Claremont, 15-3 over the last two years, is a more potent opponent than Riverside.

The Stags, who return 20 of 22 starters, have a legitimate pro prospect in Chris Stecher, a 6-ft.-6-in., 270-lb. defensive tackle who was all-District III in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics last year. In the offensive line, Dave Austin (6-2, 250) has been all-district and, all-Southern California Intercollegiate Athletic Conference for the last three years.

Bill Nash (304 yards) and Mike Graber (573) are back to carry a thumping running game and Craig Ducey (6-4, 200) is an able, if unproven, quarterback.

"We'll throw against 'em," promised Vinci. "That's our forte."

It also proved USD's undoing against Riverside, which picked off six passes, four from starter Henry Sintay.

Sintay completed 11 of 26 in the game, five to Roger Leonard for 127 yards. It's a combination the Stags feel they must sign in 12 and "Sintay and Leonard are two of the best in the Southland at their positions," said Claremont coach John Zinda. "San Diego was impressive despite losing to Riverside. They're capable of staying in any game with that type of talent."

Noted anthropologist Dr. Karena Shields dies

By ROSEMARY ENG

Rosary for Dr. Karena Shields, 68, a medical anthropologist who discovered many ruins of the Mayan civilization which flourished in the Mexican jungle, will be recited at 8 tonight in Carmelite Monastery Chapel.

Dr. Shields was an associate professor of anthropology and sociology at University of San Diego.

Mass will be said at 4 p.m. tomorrow in the chapel. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Dr. Shields died Wednesday in a Mexico City hospital. A snakebite is the suspected cause of death.

Dr. Shields, whose parents owned a ranch in San Leandro, Chitapas, operated a medical mission at that ranch for Mayan Indians. She spent summers at the ranch, and Indians from the Mexican-Guatemalan border area began coming to her for medical aid. Because of this Dr. Shields studied tropical medicine at University of Mexico and earned her medical degree about 10 years ago.

On her ranch, called Finca Tacalapan de San Leandro, Dr. Shields grew cocoa beans and raised cattle.

Students of University of San Diego and from University of California medical school were permitted to accompany Dr. Shields to her ranch for seminar study.

In 1948, Dr. Shields wrote a diary for the old San Diego "Tribune-Sun" about her expedition into the Mexican jungles to learn more about Mayan culture.

She wrote books entitled, "Three In a Jungle" and "Mayan Legends." She was professor of humanities at University of Redlands before going on the expedition.

She began trips "back home" to Mexico in 1932.

In 1942 when she met a tribal group, she said, "I mentioned the name of their old chief and they instantly knew who I was because it seems I had become a legend with them too. This was the biggest thrill of my life."

"I think of the Mayans as my people and I am happiest when I am in the jungle."

During her 1948 expedition, she wrote, "It is wonderful to be here in the dripping forest again. There is always the soft, somnolent pulse of the cicadas and sometimes the low hollow laughter of the 'Ho Ho,' a bird of some sort that sits and makes guttural comments on the night."

She traveled by riverboat, horseback and by foot to deep jungles where she met descendants of the Mayan empire.

She said she believed herself to be the only living person Mayan chieftains and high priests, have permitted to carry off rock specimens from ancient buildings or to openly observe village life.

Born near Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. Shields went to Mexico in early childhood with her parents. She was educated in the United States, receiving degrees in education, anthropology and archeology from Stanford University and University of Southern California.

Most recently, Dr. Shields reported findings on a strange hemorrhagic fever which ravaged the Mayan Indian population in 1967.

After reviewing the epidemic, researching the disease and the medical history of the area, Dr. Shields suspected the epidemic would not have occurred if the Mexican government had not sprayed the Mexican-Guatemalan border area with DDT.

The mosquitoes, which the government was trying to eradicate, were killed but so were the cats which preyed on the rat population. The rats were the carriers of the virus which brought fever to the Indians.

The cats would get DDT on their paws, then ingest the DDT when licking their paws.

The disease was marked by pin-point hemorrhages. A county resident for 20 years, she last resided at 10094 Granito Ave., La Mesa. She had been a teacher for about 40 years.

She was a Carmelite Tertiary and was a member of Holy Angels Roman Catholic Church at the Carmelite Monastery.

Surviving are three daughters, including Mrs. Ronelle Wright of San Diego and Mrs. Donald Wheeler of El Cajon; a sister and eight grandchildren. Goodbody's Boulevard Chapel is in charge.

The family suggests contributions to Propagation of the Faith for Mission San Leandro in care of the Catholic Diocese of San Diego.

held at 11 a.m. tomorrow in La Jolla Mortuary.

She died yesterday in a convalescent hospital. Burial will be in El Camino Memorial Park.

Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., she was a county resident for 16 years. She lived at 3761 Meland St.

Surviving are her husband, Clarence G.; two sons, James and Thomas, both of the home address; a sister and two brothers.

The family suggests contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Claremont success spur for Toreros

Five years ago, Claremont College decided it was not enough to pursue excellence in academics. Why not, it asked itself, carry the ball a little further? Why not try for superiority in athletics, too?

It was about that time that John Zinder was hired to resurrect the football program. Since then, Claremont has gone 23-11-2, winning 16 of its last 19 games.

"They were known for being the doormat of their conference (Southern California Intercollegiate)," said University of San Diego coach Andy Vinci. "Now they're gotta heckuva program."

"I think we can do the same thing."

For USD, however, that time seems a long ways away.

The Toreros dropped their opener to UC-Riverside, 34-14, last week and enter their home debut tomorrow night at 7:30 as decided underdogs to Claremont.

"Claremont's tough," admitted Vinci, "but we'll be better, too. We can still have a winning season. UC-Riverside had 40 kids on full rides and a fulltime coaching staff. We have neither and yet we were still in the game until the fourth quarter. It was a wild game."

USD has made changes this time around, some dictated by necessity. "Five kids came out of the Riverside game with ankle injuries," said Vinci. One, safety Tom Young from Mount Miguel High, is out for the season with a broken ankle.

Bill Jache, Mike Murphy, Sam Croom and Tony Smith are slated to open in the secondary, which was riddled for 250 yards passing Saturday night.

Another change finds middle linebacker Mike Wagner also moving into the starting fullback slot, ahead of injured Nate Harris, who averaged 4.3 yards against Riverside. Brian Connolly takes over for Earl Milligan (chipped rib) at right end and Mike Outlaw is a likely replacement for Ron White at offensive left tackle.

Croom, who broke loose on a 54-yard touchdown against Riverside, will move in for Andy Sanchez at tailback. Sanchez, who caught four passes for 34 yards and rushed 19 times for 41 yards against Riverside, is an ankle victim. He hasn't practiced all week.

Claremont returns 20 of its 22 starters from last year's 7-2 club, which defeated USD's club team, 22-0, en route to a runner-up finish in the National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics District III rankings behind Cal Lutheran.

Mrs. Joseph O'Connor, boutique chairman, said this year's expanded inventory features gourmet food items, ecology boxes, handmade children's clothes and Christmas gifts, all made by Alumnae members. Proceeds will go to the alumnae scholarship fund.

Not a (pectoral) cross in sight

DR. GERALD SPERRAZZO, chairman of the psychology department at the University of San Diego, gave a workshop on psychological testing of seminarians at the national vocations convention this week.

Near the end of his presentation and the group discussion that followed, someone said, "That's what interests the bishops."

"What bishops?" asked Dr. Sperrazzo.

THEN TWO OF his keenest listeners were identified as Bishop Sylvester Treiman of Boise, Idaho, and Bishop Francis Shea of Evansville, Ind., members of the U.S. bishops committee on vocations — and very interested in the San Diego diocesan psychological testing program.

The reason Dr. Sperrazzo was so surprised and had not identified the bishops was, like most of the delegates, they were in casual dress.

USD hopes to improve air defense

They are shooting for, in the words of coach Andy Vincini, a 6-4 record at the very least.

Today, the University of San Diego Toreros are 2-2 as they await their second home game, Saturday against LaVerne. They are looking for a win and they are looking for a pass defense.

Los Angeles State's Jimmy Sander, a former junior college All-American at Los Angeles Harbor, picked apart the USD secondary for 343 yards in L.A. Saturday night as the Diablos handed the Toreros a 29-16 defeat.

Sander completed 22 of 34 passes, one for an 86-yard touchdown to Vince Negrete, who caught eight passes for 186 yards.

The Toreros also lost their defensive standout, middle linebacker Mike Wagner, who dislocated an elbow and is expected to miss the LaVerne game.

USD netted 298 yards against the Diablos, 184 on the passing of Henry Sintay, who was 13-for-20 and completed four each to Bill Washington and Roger Leonard.

Sam Groom picked up 84 yards in 21 carries, and Andy Sanchez gained 57 in 15. Groom, a 6 ft. 2 in., 190-lb. transfer from De Anza College in Richmond, has gained 351 yards in four games for a 5.9 average and has scored in every game.

USD's Karena Shields dies, 'she walked gently with God'

DR. KARENA SHIELDS, who died last week, was one of those rare persons who are not afraid to demonstrate their love of God and man.

Almost never without a smile, this noted anthropologist brought to the University of San Diego campus not only her great professional knowledge but the distinct impression that she walked gently with God.

Her principal motivation in recent years was work among the Mayan Indians on the border of Mexico and Guatemala, virtually untouched by the cross-currents of civilization and disease of recent centuries. Every summer she went — with professional and student colleagues — to continue her research, which received worldwide recognition.

FAVORED STUDY — Dr. Karena Shields, USD professor who died last week, examines a sculptured Mayan head in a 1968 photograph.

IT WAS HERE, on her own property, that the fatal blow struck. Whether a snake or an insect, nobody really knows. But she was bitten, and within days found her own medical knowledge and attention insufficient to stem the onset of the extreme allergic reaction to the poison.

In the hospital in Mexico City, halfway home to San Diego, she could last no more, and died there September 27, the feast of St. Vincent de Paul. She was 65.

Her professional qualifications from San Jose State, USD, and the University of Mexico, earned her the distinction of outstanding educator. Her teaching included 14 years at USD — originally as a member of the old College for Women faculty — at Redlands University and San Diego State University.

IN WARTIME she taught Naval Air Navigation. Her many publications cover everything from children's stories to highly scientific medical reports.

Her concern for others is reflected in the family wish that tributes to her take the form of contributions to the diocesan Society for the Propagation of the Faith, Alcala Park, designated to the San Leandro Mission, Chiapas, Mexico.

There are not many photographs of this self-effacing doctor who saw Christ in others. But she said she liked the picture I took of her four years ago with a sculptured head of a Mayan Indian.

Toreros sport Matador roster in first season victories

The University of San Diego football team takes another step back on the road to return Saturday night when it hosts LaVerne College. Game time is 7:30 p.m. in the USD stadium on campus.

Torero head coach Andy Vincini has restored football to the University after an 11-year absence and his squad has recorded two wins in its first three games.

Included on the USD roster is former Mt. Miguel High and Grossmont College halfback Larry Caudillo. Another former Mt. Miguel griddier, defensive back Tom Moore, broke an ankle bone in the opening game against UC

Riverside and is out for the year.

Three other sports open practices next week for upcoming seasons. Basketball coach Bernie Bickerstaff welcomes back veteran squad which should improve on its 12-14 win-loss record of 1971-72.

Tennis mentor Curt Spanis begins workouts with a squad headed by Andrew Rae and Guy Fritz while golf coach John Wilson has two newcomers for a team which won 10 of 13 matches last year.

National missions' office uses Fr. Dollen's book to mark 150 years

Southern Cross Reporter

A PRIEST of the diocese has written the life story of the founder of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith to mark its 150th anniversary.

Father Charles Dollen, librarian at University of San Diego and Southern Cross book reviewer, is the author of "Charity Without Frontiers," based on the life-work of Marie-Pauline Jaricot.

The book was published by the society which is using it for its anniversary appeal for missionary funds.

PAULINE Jaricot, daughter of a wealthy family, was born July 22, 1799, in Lyons where she died Jan. 9, 1862. She was only 23 when she founded the missions society in 1822 and gave much of her wealth away as an example to others.

"It is no exaggeration to say," Father Dollen writes, "that the society was the mainstay of American bishops during our missionary days."

"The lesson Pauline Jaricot wanted to affirm is that spiritual progress is the more important thing, while material advancement is necessary but secondary. Pauline was quite serious when she asked for a prayer and a penny—in that order."

"FOR OVER 30 years," Father Dollen observes, "she lived as if she was a poor woman. She identified with poverty, but she always had material wealth to fall back on in emergencies."

"For most of the last 10 years she literally did not know where her next meal was coming from. She existed on handouts, mainly from the poor, so that at her death even they were her debtors."

Pauline was not content just to have started the mission society. To fight growing secularism in France she started the Association of the Living Rosary for daily prayer.

LATER SHE founded the Association of the Holy Childhood and asked children to give a penny a month for the world's "pagan babies."

She also began the Society of Mary, a loosely formed religious congregation of members seeking perfection.

"On her love of God and love of neighbors, she was truly heroic," says Father Dollen. "Her faults and mistakes were very human; her charity was monumental."

"THE CAUSE of her canonization was introduced in Rome in 1930. On Feb. 25, 1963, the Congregation of Rites declared she had practiced virtue to an heroic degree."

Hughes discusses goals, structure, finances of USD

Dr. Author E. Hughes is now into his second year as the first lay president of the University of San Diego. This center of learning, created by the Catholic Church under the inspiration of Bishop Charles F. Buddy, first bishop of the San Diego diocese, is now independent of direct diocesan control and financing. In this special interview with Michael Newman, President Hughes explains the position and philosophy of the university today.

Q. The major change in the structure of the University of San Diego since you came has been the establishment of four schools. How are they shaping?

Yes, there are now four major units at USD. The first is the College of Arts and Sciences which is designed to house the basic disciplines that comprise our liberal arts offering — our heritage. The former two separate institutions (College for Women and College for Men) were largely liberal arts oriented.

Then we have three professional schools: the School of Education, where the primary emphasis is teacher preparation, and a special program within that for the mentally and physically handicapped. We also work in the elementary and secondary levels, and there is a counselor education program.

Then there is the new School of Business Administration to train people who want to enter the economic sector, earn their livings and make their career in business. Our program is management-oriented, the weight of the program is still on the liberal arts with a strong business-economic capstone. We have reversed what usually happens at other institutions.

The third program is, of course law, and our School of Law continues with its day and night programs.

Q. How many students are enrolled this year?

We have 1,538 enrolled on campus programs and 101 enrolled in off-campus programs. This is exclusive of the law school where we have an enrollment this year of 876. The totals indicate we have about 165 more students than last year.

Q. Does this mean your accommodation is full?

We do have full boarding accommodation. We could accommodate more students in classrooms, but we have no more on-campus living available. We have approximately 450 living on campus, making one-third of our undergraduate students.

Q. Is there a loss of students in their junior and senior years? I believe this has been a factor in the past.

I have not observed the attrition during these years. But what we have observed is a significant increase in students from junior (community) colleges, reaching a point where, of the new upper classmen, enrollment is 70 per cent from community colleges, as opposed to transfers from other four-year institutions.

Q. So your new tuition scale has not affected enrollment?

No, on the contrary, I think that when the students think it through they will find it is as equitable as possible in levying fees. Student reaction last year was not so much that they didn't like the program but that they were not involved in the change. That was a valid point. We have now been able to build in a scholarship program, too, which helps those students who are excellent and who want to take extra hours without extra cost.

Q. What about faculty? Have you increased or decreased since the colleges joined? And have you any idea of their breakdown in terms of religious belief?

We have, by combining the two institutions, been able to reduce faculty by attrition. On the question of religion, I have only approximate figures. There are roughly 75 per cent Catholic. I have no idea of the distribution of the balance.

Q. What about Catholicity of studies? How would you describe it? The religious studies department has expanded in areas other than Catholic, but what is the general picture?

During his undergraduate training a student is required to take nine semester hours in religious studies and 12 hours in philosophy. Some of these courses are specifically with the Catholic religion and the teaching of the Catholic Church.

Others are more comparative in nature and still others are specialized courses in non-Catholic religions. Our students may select certain courses. We require the minimum of hours, but they may select the course content.

In terms of Catholic — related to the Roman Catholic Church — I think we are holding fairly constant the availability of material. In the case of Catholic — more ecumenical — I suspect we are more ecumenical than we were 15 or 20 years ago. I have no way of saying that other than intuitively.

President Hughes

I think there is a greater concept of catholicity on the campus. We have given a lot of thought to it and I think it has to do with the humane or human characteristics of Christianity or Catholicism. We are zeroing in on these concepts as they relate to human inter-relationships. There is a conscious effort to make it a place of the living presence of the Church and not simply its intellectual presence. That is one of our goals, and it is rather a tough one.

Q. Do you have any enquiries about USD from pastors? Would you welcome parish scholarship help? And thirdly, how many students come from within the diocese?

'We can operate at the break-even point, but . . . we have to seek funding elsewhere'

MORE THAN BUS RIDE — Dr. Author Hughes is ready to board former London bus with USD students for San Diego

Blood Bank downtown. He and 15 USD students were the first group to donate blood in the bank's new facilities. — SC

I've only had a couple of enquiries from pastors — requests to help youngsters, financial help. But that's all.

The question on parish scholarships is two-pronged. We are very definitely interested in having parish help in terms of scholarship support. But it implies that a student has certain capabilities, and I would rather have the students apply for a scholarship and be granted it on terms of academic ability rather than geographic location.

The number of undergraduate students from within the diocese at present is about 900, not necessarily Catholics, of course.

Q. Moving into the area of finances. Now that you no longer have a diocesan subsidy, what is your operating situation?

Our operating budget is a little over $5 million a year. The accumulated deficit at the beginning of this fiscal year (September 1) was about $1.3 million.

Historically the deficit accumulated over three years when the bishop withdrew support and continued to the end of the last fiscal year. The anticipated deficit this year is $80,000. We hope that after that we will operate on a break-even basis. I think this is possible.

In terms of the overall fiscal posture of the university the problem is basically that we can probably — by very careful management — operate on a day-to-day basis at the break-even point, but if we are to expand or enrich our programs, or provide for the replacement of physical plant and the retirement of debt, we are going to have to seek funding elsewhere.

We are going to have to increase our total revenue potential beyond what it is now. And that's what we are trying to do with our development program.

Q. Where do you expect the money to come from?

Roughly 75 per cent of the cost of operating the university comes from the students. The balance comes from government and various kinds of financial aid.

We also receive gifts from individuals, corporations and foundations.

Q. What about the contributed services of Sisters and priests? I understand the picture here has changed.

Yes. In 1969-70 we had 36 priests and nuns on the payroll. This year we have 22 priests and nuns. The cost to USD in decreased contributed services is about $90,000 this year over last year. Priests' services are still contributed, but there are fewer priests. There are fewer nuns and they are able to contribute a lower percentage.

Q. How do you see the long range potential of USD?

The figure we are now working with is an enrollment of about 3,000 for the 1970s. It allows for growth and affords us to have adequate student enrollment in each of the schools to allow for full programming. What we do beyond that point — we have just begun to scratch the surface. We know we can accommodate more students, but what will the sacrifice be if we get too big?

Physically, we might need additional units, and we have to do something about the law library, which is very tightly squeezed. We have to consolidate the undergraduate libraries (two) into one and perhaps allow the law library to take over one of the buildings.

We are working with a master plan and I think my greatest satisfaction is seeing the shift to a very positive spirit in moving the university forward. Students and faculty show a real sense of caring. There is a great optimism here. I think we can make it a great university, but it takes time.

We have a publicity program, alumni program and fund raising program, coupled with a communications program to the general public on what our university is about.

We are attempting to make known to potential benefactors — foundations, governments, private individuals and corporations — what kind of program we have here and what kind of support we need.

LACK OF DEPTH A PROBLEM

USD coach looks to future

EVENING TRIBUNE Dispatch
POMONA — After five games, it is apparent the Toreros of University of San Diego will not make a big splash in the first year of their return to intercollegiate football.

Instead, it appears coach Andy Vincel is building a springboard for the future.

His team will return virtually intact next season, augmented by talent he hopes to recruit.

"We hope to bring as many in next season as we had this one," he said. "We need depth."

The lack of depth was severely demonstrated last week in a 27-21 loss to La Verne. Middle linebacker Mike Wagner, and tackle Mark Stillion, two of the ablest members of the Torero defense, were out with injuries and it told as the Leopards ground out 27 yards.

Tomorrow, however, the Toreros will face a Pomona College team with similar problems as they attempt to square their record at 3-3. Game time is 1:30 p.m. on the Saghens field.

Pomona has a squad of 37, 21 of whom are freshmen and sophomores. The Saghens have five seniors and six juniors, inexperience which showed in the last three games, all losses.

Pomona was beaten by Azusa Pacific, 48-14; Claremont, 31-23; and Loyola, 19-16. Its lone win came at the expense of St. Mary's, 23-14.

Comparative scores give USD the edge. The Toreros hold a 14-6 victory over Claremont.

Pomona likely will attempt to throw against the Toreros, who have moved running back Andy Sanchez into the secondary in an attempt to bolster a department which fell apart in a loss to Los Angeles State two weeks ago.

Wagner, suffering from a dislocated elbow, is likely to miss from two to three more games. Stillion, nursing an injured knee, may be out for the season.

Pomona's strength is its passing. Larry Cenotto has completed 58 of 117 passes for 892 yards and eight touchdowns.

The drive for women's suffrage has evoked images of militant women in long skirts and broad-brimmed hats marching in parades, carrying "Votes for Women" signs, and struggling with determined poise.

"Unfortunately for the sake of drama, little of this happened in San Diego."

Batik art shown at USD gallery

USD's Founders Gallery is currently showing primitive Indian batiks from villages near New Delhi through Nov. 17.

The batiks (dyed designs on cloths) represent creations from the Hindustani tradition utilizing wax resist methods rather than the paint technique.

The exhibition, from the state of Uttar Pradesh, represent a vanishing art form.

Founders Gallery is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on weekends by appointment.

Arrangements for the exhibition were made by Dr. Carl Gilbert, associate professor of history, who first saw the batiks in a gallery in New Delhi, and Therese Hanafin, assistant professor of art, both of USD.

USD offers symphony concert

A concert has been scheduled by the University of San Diego Symphony Orchestra in Camino Theater on Oct. 29.

The concert is to include Beethoven's "Roman Carnival Overture" and "New World Symphony" by Dvorak.

Conductor Mary MacKenzie is to sing three arias from "Orpheus," Tchaikowsky and "Carmen."

The concert also is to include "Emperor Waltzes" by Strauss. It begins at 8:15 p.m. and is open to the public.

Dr. Henry Kolar, conductor and violinist, is a former member of the Modern Arts Quartet and played with the San Diego Symphony for eight years. Dr. Kolar teaches at USD.

Soloist Mary MacKenzie was the winner of the Metropolitan Opera auditions for which she was given a contract with the Met. She appeared in concert recently at USD with Illana Mysior, pianist.

Week 10-22-72

STUDENT RECITALS will be presented at 11 a.m. Friday in the Grossmont College Fine Arts Lecture Hall.

THE USD SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA will play at 8 p.m. next Sunday in the school's Camino Hall Theater.

THE SAN DIEGO YOUTH SYMPHONY will play at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Casa del Prado, Balboa Park, co-sponsored by the La Jolla Art Association.

USD favored over Loyola following win

Things are looking up for the University of San Diego Toreros.

USD will be favored to climb over the .500 mark Thursday night when it plays host to Loyola University. The Toreros upped their season football record to 3-3 Saturday with a 28-6 victory over Pomona in which the offense produced 368 yards, 289 of them on the ground.

Sam Croom (143 yards, 24 carries) and former all-county prep player of the year Andy Sanchez (114 yards, 22 carries) carried the load as the Toreros scored their most convincing victory of the year.

Thursday night, USD will face a Loyola outfit which holds a 19-18 decision over Pomona.

Dale Criscione, who passed for 127 yards and two touchdowns before missing three games with a foot injury, will attack a USD defense which picked off four Pomona passes. Sanchez, Mike Murphy, Bill McCulloch and Bill Jache registered the Torero interceptions.

Loyola will bring a 1-3 record into the 7:30 game with USD, which is the Torero homecoming. The Lions were scoreless in their first three games before knocking off Pomona.

ITT scandal blamed for convention move

By GEORGE DISSINGER
EVENING TRIBUNE Staff Writer

The Republican National Convention was moved from San Diego to Miami Beach last summer to avoid the constant reminder of the ITT scandal, the chief assistant of Washington columnist Jack Anderson said here today.

Brit Hume, chief investigative reporter for Anderson, said Republicans in Washington told him they couldn't afford to have the convention in San Diego because newsmen would have mentioned daily the reported $100,000 contribution to the San Diego civic host committee to help finance the convention that renominated President Nixon.

Hume, who spoke at the University of San Diego today, declined to identify the Republicans he talked to but said there were a number who expressed the same view.

The International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. (ITT) was the subject of an investigation into charges that the giant conglomerate offered $400,000 to the Republicans to help finance the convention in hopes of influencing the Nixon administration to drop an antitrust suit against ITT. The suit was settled out of court but the Senate Judiciary Committee issued a majority report finding no support for the charges of political influence on the decision to settle the suit.

Hume discussed the central document in the ITT case — a memo from ITT lobbyist Dita Beard. The memo said the convention contribution would favorably influence the antitrust decision.

Anderson reported that he had the original memo, which ITT officials said was not written by Mrs. Beard.

Hume said today that the proof of the authenticity of Mrs. Beard's memo was a statement made by Rep. Bob Wilson, R-San Diego, in a San Diego newspaper, saying that Mrs. Beard had told him she had written the memo.

Hume described Wilson as Mrs. Beard's closest political friend in Washington and said he had no reason to doubt that Mrs. Beard would tell the truth to the San Diego congressman.

Hume was asked what had happened to Dita Beard. He said he believes she is still in Denver where she went for medical treatment for a heart condition last summer.

"I believe she is in Denver until the hearings blow over on the ITT," Hume said. "Her lawyer told me her health has reached a plateau and she may never be better."

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-San Diego, will speak at the USD School of Law's More Hall at noon Thursday. Van Deerlin seeks re-election in the 41st Congressional District.

The Environmental Action Council will host a "Meet the Candidates" forum at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Recital Hall of Balboa Park to allow candidates from the San Diego area to outline their proposals for improving or preserving the environment.

A "Meet the Candidates" program is planned in the USD School of Law's Moore Hall between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Thursday.

Primitive Indian batiks from the central villages near New Delhi are being shown through Nov. 17 at the University of San Diego Founders Gallery.

The batiks are from the state of Uttar Pradesh, a geographic area noted for its Hindustani traditions and were executed in a wax resist method as opposed to the sometimes more common paint resist technique.

The exhibition was arranged by Dr. Carl Gilbert, associate professor of history at the university who saw the batiks in the Konarak Galleries in New Delhi, and Therese Hanafin, assistant professor of art at the university.

QB Shuttling Plan Spreads

The shuttling quarterback system is catching on.

At least in San Diego.

If rotating your quarterbacks after every play is good enough for Don Coryell, then it's good enough for Andy Vinci.

Vinci told the Sportscenter-Sportswriters Association meeting yesterday that the University of San Diego rotated its signal-callers last week during a 28-6 win over Pomona. USD is now 3-3 on the year.

The system will be used again when the Toreros host Loyola in a rare Thursday night game this week.

The quarterbacks are junior Henry Sintay and freshman Tom Jones.

"Sintay has done well for us this year but Jones has looked good in practice so I decided to use both of them last week," Vinci said.

Vinci also had kind words for a Torero defense that limited Pomona to 15 yards rushing.

"When you consider six of our original starting 11 aren't with us anymore, we've done quite well," Vinci said. He noted his middle linebacker weighs 165 pounds and is flanked by 160 and 170 pounders.

Vinci singled out middle guard Cornell Stanley and linebacker Darrell Beshears for their efforts.

U.S. International University fell to 2-3 and if coach Marv Braden is upset, it hasn't affected his sense of humor.

Speaking on the turnovers that have plagued his club, Braden said:

"It doesn't matter if it's home or away, we're proficient in both places."

"The script will remain the same, but the cast will change. We've got our problems holding onto the ball. This week we spread it around. Five guys fumbled once."

Braden said if the Westerners played tomorrow (they play Saturday at Los Angeles State), freshman Ruben Anderson would be at quarterback replacing Doug Omer.

Omer is a versatile type who played several positions last year. Braden was asked where he might be Saturday.

"Right behind me on the sidelines," the coach replied.

Braden praised the play of defensive back Robert Redd and said the Westerners were once stopped after having a first-and-goal at the two and a second-and-goal at the six-inch line.

Inches are of no concern to Grossmont College's cross country team this fall. The Griffins have been winning by miles.

The Griffins have always been strong in the sport, winning the state junior college title in 1965, placing second in '66 and third last year when favored.

In 21 Mission Conference dual meets, Grossmont has never lost and the Griffins have won the last six straight by perfect

They both wear double digit numbers and they spell double trouble for the opposition. Running backs Andy Sanchez, left, and Sammy Croom will be taking handoffs when USD faces Loyola tomorrow night.

Croom, Sanchez Provided USD Touchdown Punch

By CHUCK SAWYER

University of San Diego has scored 15 touchdowns on the ground in fashioning a 3-3 record thus far this season.

Two of these belong to the Toreros' 1-2 punch of running backs Sammy Croom and Andy Sanchez.

The pair enjoyed their best evening of the season against Pomona College last week and coach Andy Vinci is hoping for a repeat tomorrow night in a rare Thursday home engagement with Loyola of Los Angeles.

"Our offense has been spotty all season," Vinci complained. "We lacked consistency in almost every game. Then, last week we put it all together for the first time. Croom and Sanchez both did outstanding jobs."

Outstanding well describes their efforts. Croom collected 143 yards and a touchdown in 24 tries, Sanchez 114 for two TDs in 22 carries.

Crossing the goal line was nothing new for Croom. The 6-2 and 190 pounder out of Elgin, Ill., has scored once in each of the Toreros' six contests. And he doesn't believe in the short gainer.

His TD romps have been for 90, 58, 57, 35, 23 and 19 yards. The 21-year-old sociology major rushed for 900 yards at Palo Verde College two years ago, then sat out most of last season with an injury.

His current stats at USD show 593 yards in an even 100 carries for an impressive 5.9 average.

Sanchez (5-8 and 175) played at Castle Park High and Southwestern College before joining the Toreros. Off to a slow start after suffering a hip pointer in pre-season scrimmages, he has come along fast in recent games and now has 345 yards in 94 trips for a 3.7 meanwhile scoring four touchdowns.

His senior year at Castle Park found Sanchez scoring 24 touchdowns and he has continued his fine play at Southwestern, making the all-league squad both seasons.

"He's the kind of a guy who can turn a game around at any time," elates Vinci. "A real blue-chip athlete who can play both offense and defense as he has had to do with our small roster of players."

The duo may have a chance to roll up considerable yardage again tomorrow night against the 1-3 Lions from Loyola.

Coach Tom Richards' club was ambushed by Redlands (30-0), Claremont (30-0), and Whittier (40-0) in its first three starts. The offense received a boost in its last start when quarterback Dale Criscione saw his first action this season after recovering from a foot injury and directed a 19-18 win over Pomona.

The Lions were idle last week as USD charged past the same Pomona club, 28-6.

The Toreros resorted to the two quarterback system for the first time against Pomona and some of the same is expected tomorrow night. Tom Jones, a 17-year-old freshman from Augusta, Ga., joined regular Henry Sintay on an equal time basis after seeing brief action the week before.

Jones completed four of five passes after going 1 for 8 previously to earn another shot here tomorrow night.

Toreros go Thursday night to bolster new grid program

To demonstrate the apprehensiveness of the University of San Diego football program, head coach Andy Vinci is about to drive home a point.

In doing so, he hopes to replace the college's name and reputation which leaked out during the past decade.

"It's the school without a name," Vinci sadly admitted. "I'm getting tired of people asking where USD is and telling them 'have you looked up and seen that monstrosity on top of the hill?'"

Yeah, right. That's the one. The one that financially couldn't back college football back in the beginning '60's and eventually turned to club football. The one that was to be the Notre Dame of the West.

Opponents like Southern Cal. Bible School, Mexico Polytechnic and Chino Institute were hardly the Michigan State's, Oklahoma's and USC's that Notre Dame of the Midwest had challenged over the years. A far cry from comparison, wouldn't you say?

Not too far, according to Vinci.

"I've been fighting what happened here 12 years ago," Vinci said. "But I'm very no alumni from 1958 on. They (alumni over the last 10 years) don't associate football with USD."

"I had to give up my recruiting. We're not like the diploma factories. We've got everything to offer that another school has. In our classrooms we've got a 12 to 1 student-teacher ratio. You can really learn in a situation like that but who wants to come here when you can't offer them any money (scholarships)?"

In the same breath, Vinci answered his own question.

"The kids that really want to play football. The ones that maybe didn't have such good senior year in high school and were overlooked by other colleges. The ones that know they'll get a chance to play here."

Also the ones that know, with Vinci leading the drive, USD will someday be the prestigious school it was once directed toward. And with his newest-to-be experiment — Thursday night college football — the drive is beginning to pick up momentum.

"Football on Monday nights," said Vinci, "why not Thursday?" We'll see come tomorrow night when the Toreros host Loyola College of Los Angeles at 7:30. It will also be USD's first homecoming in 11 years.

"Let's try it," Vinci said. "We've got the avenue to experiment. I've talked with the president (USD) and the booster club and they all said 'hey, that's a good idea.'"

"A lot of other coaches like the idea. It gives them the opportunity to scout on the weekends. And for the players it will mean a day less practice during the week. I've never met a kid that liked practicing during the week."

"There are the fewest sporting events going on in the fall on Thursday evenings. I'd like to be able to monopolize the newspaper sports sections on Thursdays. After all, there are some alumni who remember when it was USD tonight and the Rams tomorrow."

Other advantages would include making USD stadium a regional stadium, meaning USD would lease the field to area high schools on Friday and Saturday evenings, thus aiding the supply of lighted fields for night play and also bolstering the financial situation of the Toreros.

"Let's make this a place where people know they're going to see a football game on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights. Then on the nights of the high school games we can advertise our own game for the following Thursday night."

"The results remain to be seen."

There is the possibility that, through financial blessing from individual "U" Club members, carnivals, concerts, spring practice, advertising and the selling of Padre tickets, Vinci could enlarge the stadium to a capacity of 12,000, thus enabling larger crowds and bigger gross takes at USD stadium events.

"We could possibly end up with seven home games next year," Vinci said. "At $3.00 a head with a crowd of 12,000, that's $252,000 over seven games. Even at $2.00 that's still $168,000."

Then there would be the $300 per night rent from high schools.

And that is not all bad for a second year program that needs $180,000 to run a smooth operation, tuition and all. Consider this season as Vinci has managed to field some 35-40 athletes and win two of his first five games on a $20,000 budget.

"The key is having a place to play," said Vinci. "And it's not that far fetched right now."

ANDY VINCI

Why not Thursday?

apprehensive about the potential of our program now. It's a matter of proving to people that it can happen."

What can happen, or at least what Vinci has programmed to happen, is the refurbishing of the entire football structure. Determination seems to be about the only tools he has but that has given him the blueprints.

First step on the agenda when Vinci left his assignment at College of the Desert this year was to have a decent place for the Toreros to play. Renovation of USD's 4,000 seat stadium at Alcala Park included fencing to surround the field and lights for evening games.

Second and third were both unenviable tasks. Vinci, with assistance from Sports Information Director Gabe DeNunzio, had to put together a booster club, which later became known as the "U", and a recruiting pitch.

"We've got a boosters club," said Vinci, "but

Jack Anderson Aide Calls ITT Fallout Good

The ITT affair and its resultant shift of the Republican National Convention from San Diego to Miami was a "good scandal with beneficial fallout," according to a member of the Washington press corps.

The observation was by Brit Hume, chief investigative reporter for columnist Jack Anderson. Hume, who addressed students at the University of San Diego and then held a rap session, said the incident hopefully will be "reflective of a wider truth."

The "wider truth," he said, is greater awareness of the "ability of men in corporate power to influence government."

It is the hope of journalists, Hume said, that such awareness "will result in more constructive politics."

In this light, Hume said, the ITT incident was "good."

Hume conceded that while "embarrassment" has subsided as the ITT affair slipped into the background, it is overshadowed by the "mushroom cloud" of the Watergate incident, in which Democrats have charged that agents for the Republican party bugged their headquarters at the Watergate Hotel in Washington.

Hume, during the rap session with students in DeSales Hall, said it was the embarrassment surrounding the ITT incident which prompted Republicans to shift their national convention from San Diego to Miami.

At the height of the incident, the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. (ITT) was accused of offering $400,000 to the Republicans to help finance the convention in San Diego in hope of influencing the administration to drop an antitrust suit against the conglomerate. The suit was settled out of court.

Full slate of Thursday nights looms as practical USD idea

A one-year old with growing pains? Unlikely, but then, hasn't Dr. Leonard Bloom cured the aches and pains of San Diego professional basketball?

Well now, out of the same womb that brought you Saturday afternoon football, Saturday night football, Friday night football, Club football and no football, comes the University of San Diego Thursday night football.

"Why not?" questioned head coach Andy Vinci, when he himself was asked the reason for the shift in game nights.

If one had stopped long enough to dwell on the advantages, maybe the embarrassment from such a ridiculous question would have been spared.

Saturday night scheduling means to buck San Diego State's established program. Friday has long been a high school night to remember, not to mention an occasional Conquistador game.

Vinci knew that Thursdays offered the sports fan the least amount of entertainment.

True, the Gulls use the Sports Arena on the eve of the weekend eve, but as Vinci would tell you, the conflict wouldn't hurt Torero attendance. Ice hockey fans would prefer a chance at seeing a hat trick to watching the Super Bowl.

So Vinci gave it a shot. Thursday night, amid the dedicated, the curious and the skeptics, the Toreros came out on the field, spluttered for a quarter and a half, then ran over Loyola College, 35-18.

Sammy Croom, who's running punch with that of partner Andy Sanchez had given the Toreros a combination attack in their first six games, demolished the USD single game rushing record as he broke loose for 228 yards in a record-breaking 29 attempts.

The old mark of 209 in 24 attempts was held by Jim DeSantis against New Mexico Western in 1961.

"We've done the impossible," was Vinci's reaction to the win, the homecoming and the Thursday night. "There's no limit now."

"If we had lost this one, it would have been all down hill from now on."

The only thing down Thursday night, though, was the crowd. A pre-game shower dampened the thoughts of some people and only 2,200 showed for what Vinci described as, "never a dull moment."

But the feeling of success lingered in the minds of the entire organization. It was as if Vinci and his staff could hardly wait for next fall to come around so as to give the Thursday night escapade another shot.

"We're beginning to prove to people that we are for real," said defensive coordinator Bob Korzep. "As soon as they understand what we're up to, I know they'll let us go as high as we can."

"But they'll be a little skeptical (referring to Thursday's turnout) but remember what they said before the season began?"

"It was to be great if we won one game, remarkable if we could win two and fantastic if we won three. Now we've won four so I just don't know."

"We're striving for acceptance and I think they are just coming to realize it's all happening."

That it has. A booster club, a renovated stadium, a more than dedicated coaching crew and most of all, a team that doesn't know the meaning of an underdog.

TORERO RECORD TAKES A TUMBLE

Sammy Croom (22), University of San Diego running back, won't be one to put up argument over objection to Thursday night football. The speedster from DeAnza rushed for three touchdowns and a new USD single game mark Thursday evening against Loyola College when he took 29 handoffs 228 yards, 19 more than the previous record held by Jim DeSantis back in 1961.

"We're beginning to develop a little cohesiveness," explained Korzep. "With a little more help, and some good recruiting, we can really start to take on some new dimensions."

After all, why not?

1961. "Croom is the best small college running back in the Southland," remarked Loyola head coach Tom Richards. Here Croom is brought down by Lions' Bob Krueger (69), John Van Liefde (45) and Mike McCarthy (52). Torero blockers Brian Connolly (82) and Mike Keefe (53 dark) aid in paving the way. ## USD Orchestra To Play

The University of San Diego Symphony Orchestra will perform at 8:15 tonight in the Camino Theater on campus with Dr. Henry Kolar conducting a program opening with Berlioz' "Roman Carnival" Overture.

The 50-piece orchestra composed of students as well as community members also will play Dvorak's "New World" Symphony before being joined by contralto Mary MacKenzie.

Miss MacKenzie, a Metropolitan Opera auditions' winner, will sing three arias — "Che Fare" from Gluck's "Orpheus," "Adieu, Forests" from Tchaikovsky's "Joan d'Arc" and "L'Amour Est un Oiseau" from Bizet's "Carmen."

The orchestra will conclude the program with the "Emperors Waltzes" of Johann Strauss.

Book Award winner due for USD talk

Jonathan Kozol, author of "Death at an Early Age," winner of the National Book Award, will speak Sunday at 8 p.m. in More Hall at the University of San Diego.

Kozol's topic is "Political Indoctrination in the Public Schools." A Harvard graduate and a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, Kozol wrote his book based on experiences as a teacher in a predominantly black school in Boston.

Vinci plans to travel far with Toreros

By JACK WILLIAMS

Most of those familiar with Andy Vinci, University of San Diego's first-year football coach, feel that he will go far. Yesterday, Vinci went a long way toward living up to that impression.

"What I would like to do," he told the Sports Writers-Sportscasters Assn. at 7 Seas Hyatt Lodge, "is go out of the country to play football next year. That way we could schedule extra games."

"If we played out of the country, in Mexico, it wouldn't count on our record."

Vinci's idea hit a responsive chord with U.S. International University coach Marv Braden, whose Westerners are scheduled to face USD a week from Saturday night.

"Let's play each other in Tijuana," suggested Braden. "That way neither of us would be disappointed if it doesn't count."

Considering the records of the two San Diego small colleges, it's not such a bad idea. Neither team is in the position to afford a loss in this crosstown rivalry and call the season successful.

USIU is playing .500 ball, 3-3, after a 21-20 victory over Los Angeles State Saturday. USD is 4-3, following a 35-18 breeze over Loyola Thursday.

USIU will be favored, having defeated an L.A. State outfit which has beaten USD, but the first meeting between these schools since 1961 will be interesting. It also will be on the USD field, where Vinci said the Toreros drew 2,400 — 200 more than previously announced — for their rain-threatened homecoming last week.

USD is idle this week while USIU entertains Cal Lutheran Friday night at 7:30 in Balboa Stadium.

Braden said he is undecided as to his starting quarterback. Ruben Anderson, a freshman from Tampa, Fla., started Saturday and completed six of 10 passes for 98 yards. Doug Omer, coming in a relief role, threw three touchdown passes, however.

Omer completed 11 of 20 for 107 yards on a day when junior Dwight McDonald caught all but one Westerner completion.

Dwight had 16 for 191 yards and three touchdowns," said Braden. "We positioned him at split end this time where it was hard for the defense to double cover him. He actually caught 21. Three were nullified by penalties and two were out of bounds."

Braden denied he may use an alternating quarterback system in the pattern of California State University, San Diego, and USD.

"I haven't decided to go that route yet," he assured.

BENEFIT MODE PARTY PLANNED

USD Arranges Loans For Half Of Students

By JEANNETTE BRANIN

The old image of Joe College, or Jane College, for that matter, who loafs along through college while parents pay the bills, is fast fading from view.

The focus today is on the undergraduate who earns a grant, scholarship or loan, and who often takes a job to supplement those funds.

Approximately 51 per cent of the undergraduate student body at the University of San Diego has taken the responsibility of accepting loans to obtain a cherished degree.

One of the most popular of the loan programs at USD is the National Direct Student Loan Program.

Under its terms, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare makes an amount of money available to the college which the college must add to by one-ninth of the granted amount.

"The money is loaned out at three per cent, to be repaid in 10 years beginning nine months after graduation," said George T. Urdzik, financial aids director at the university.

"But there's an attractive teacher cancellation clause: if the graduate becomes a teacher, the loan is discounted 10 per cent each year up to 50 per cent of the loan."

"And if the graduate should become a teacher of low income or handicapped children, the loan will be discounted at 15 per cent a year up to 100 per cent of the entire loan."

The problem, of course, is for the university to supply the one-ninth of the total sum needed by the more than 700 students who are receiving financial aid.

"For instance, if the financial aids office determines that it will need $90,000 for loans, the office of HEW will provide $80,000 if the university provides the other $10,000," explained Mrs. William Yancey, chairman of an event which will raise funds for that purpose.

The event is "Holiday Happenings," a cocktail party and luncheon followed by a showing of holiday fashions at 11 a.m. Nov. 9 at the Mission Bay Room of Bahia Hotel. It is sponsored by the University of San Diego Auxiliary.

Mrs. Thomas T. Holmes has been named cochairman by the auxiliary, which is composed of 250 women faculty members, faculty wives, mothers of students and friends of the university.

"We have raised thousands of dollars for this type of student aid, enabling hundreds of students to complete their education," said Mrs. Yancey.

"It is gratifying to see these students complete their education instead of dropping out of school, and it's a splendid thing to see them go on to become community leaders."

Reservations for the party, which is open to the public, may be obtained from Mrs. John A. Waters of 2104 Tokain St. or Mrs. Edwin C. Ferguson of 2604 Penrose St.

Three from the Cisneros family of San Bernardino are among 700 loan recipients at USD. From left, Dennis, Ronald and Bernadette. They hold university scholarships as well.

Recipients of National Direct Student Loan funds are the Stebbins sisters of Fullerton. From left, Roseanne, Mary and Jeanine. The three also hold jobs to supplement income.

Twenty Members attended the October dinner meeting at the Hanalei.

On recommendation by the Nominating Committee (Al Reese, Chairman, Eva Irving, Jim McCain and Pat Poldakowski) Ken All, Bob Morrissey and Warren Thompson were nominated for 3-year terms on the Board.

All three were unanimously elected and will begin to serve in January. At the November 9 Board Meeting the Directors will elect the officers who will be presented to the general membership at the November 22 meeting. The new Board and Officers will be installed at the Christmas meeting on December 14.

A very lively Rap Session brought out several points of view... most everyone agreed that what was badly needed was PR FOR PR... National could and should show some leadership in this respect, but it was felt that this was not forthcoming...we certainly need to do some for ourselves in the County and several ideas were voiced... a speakers bureau...more involvement in the Community...a part in the selection of official appointments....

USD effort report

Twice a year some 2,132 University of San Diego students are subjected to academic review—commonly referred to as report card time.

That figure is 39 shy of the actual enrollment, however, and to that homogeneous clan which represents the school's football team, the timing is very misleading.

Their's more of a weekly ranking, a marking assigned each and every squad member for his effort in the week's previous ballgame.

In difference to television's Nielsen ratings, in which the few (shows) are judged on the participation of the many (viewers), the many Toreros are scored by the few.

VINCI GRADES

Head coach Andy Vinci is the chief moderator. And his staff of Bob Korpze, Tom Walsh, and John Hampeis aid in the critique of individual exertion. This week Jim Kefalas, a Mesa, Ariz. junior college transfer, was sent home smiling with top honors while the offense line scored a season high of 77 per cent in efficiency in the Toreros' 35-18 win over Loyola College of Los Angeles.

That comes out to a "B" minus in most grade books. Season-wise, though, an "A" should be awarded for effort. Vinci is ready to hand one out.

THIS SOON

"We've come a long way," he told Monday's meeting of the Sportswriters/Sportscasters Assn. at the 7 Seas Hyatt Lodge. "You'll have to agree some people never thought we'd be where we are this soon."

With just three games remaining in their first season in 11 years, the Toreros stand at 4-3 after last Thursday's homecoming win over the Lions.

"I think we will end with a winning season," said Vinci, "and no less than 500 per cent."

A good reason for his optimism is based on the talent of Sammy "Broom" Croom, known for his sweeping of left and right ends, and Andy Sanchez, the mighty-mile of offensive and defensive fame.

Against the Lions Thursday evening, Croom flew for 228 yards in 29 attempts, breaking Jim DeSantis' mark of 24 carries in one game and Bob Keyes record of 209 yards in a single game.

SEASON MARK

The "Broom" has already surpassed Tom Gates' 622 single season yards rushing, holding on to 821 with the three games left. His nine scores put him in front in that category, as does his one sprint for 90 yards.

The Toreros will have this week to rest and prepare for their Nov. 11 opponent, United States International University.

"It's good to have the cross-town rivalry renewed again," Vinci said of the game. "We're really looking forward to the opportunity of making it a big event."

And receiving a good mark.

Scholar examines Christ's humanity

Southern Cross Reporter

PROCESS—Christology stresses the nature of Jesus as man and sees him as a developing human being, a Franciscan theologian said in a CCD adult education lecture.

Father Kenan Osborne, OFM, of the Berkeley Graduate Theological Union, said process theology does not see Jesus as God but as being "intimately united to God."

The divinity of Christ is explained "in terms of relationality," he said. "There's an intimate deep presence of the divine in the human. Christ's divine aspect is related to his humanity."

FATHER Osborne spoke Tuesday night on "Christ in Process" at the USD Camino Hall Theater. On Wednesday he gave a similar talk in St. Ann's parish, San Bernardino.

"The human nature of Jesus remains human, even in his resurrection, ascension and glorification," he said. "His resurrection and ascension was for the salvation of the world and the establishment of the Church."

"There's no question of heresy" when process theologians cannot admit to two natures in the one person of Christ—human and divine, he continued.

HE NOTED THAT the New Testament does not refer to Jesus as God. God is used only in reference to the Father, but Jesus is called divine.

Process theology, he said, does not predicate infinite knowledge to Jesus.

"He was a discovery man. He discovered the will of his Father in new ways. He needed people. He was afraid of death and he prayed. If he were not discovering new experiences, he was not man."

"IF ANYTHING, Jesus was a man of prayer and stood in relationship with God. Who can say that man cannot enter into a closer unity with God with prayer?"

'Fellowship' Event To Salute Civic Units

Temple Emanuel Sisterhood will present "Fellowship Is Fashionable," a fashion show dinner dance honoring San Diego organizations, at 6:30 p.m. Oct. 14 in the Caribbean Room of El Cortez Hotel.

Mrs. Morton J. Cohn is general chairman.

"The purpose of 'Fellowship Is Fashionable' is the joining together of various organizations in the community in the areas of culture, fine arts, philanthropy, education, science, recreation and the major religious faiths in the ideals of fellowship," said Mrs. Cohn.

The organizations to be saluted—and the women who will represent them—are: Mmes. Martin Cademy, president, Temple Emanuel Sisterhood; Gilbert Rohlf, executive vice president, San Diego Ballet Association; Thomas Goodman, wife of school superintendent Thomas Goodman, San Diego Unified School District; Sally Krasne, president, Jewish Community Center; Jack Kimbrough, program chairman, Links; Robert Muench, vice president, San Diego Opera Guild; David E. Porter, president, Women's Committee of the San Diego Symphony Association; Scott E. Peck Jr., president, Sociedad El Socorro; Victor Krulak, president, Women's Association of Starlight Opera, and the United Crusade, whose representative will be announced later.

Other organizations to be saluted and their representatives are Mmes. Milton Lincoff, immediate past president, Women's Division, United Jewish Federation; David Garfield, president, Women's Association of Salk Institute; Robert Mayo, wife of Dr. Robert Mayo, representing the Protestant religion; Author Hughes, wife of the president of the University of San Diego, representing the Catholic religion; Morton J. Cohn, wife of Rabbi Morton J. Cohn, representing the Jewish religion; Carl Burnham, chairman, Women's Committee of the San Diego Fine Arts Gallery; Nate Colbert, president, Madres, representing sports; James Slaughter, first vice president, USO; Charles Melville, president, Globe Guilders, and Fred C. Stalder, wife of the president of COMBO.

The evening will include a special honor to be paid to George A. Scott, who will be named "Mr. Fellowship" in recognition of his years of service to the ideals of intergroup and intercultural relations," said Mrs. Cohn.

Invitations will be mailed next month.

Pornography... Censorship... Obscenity

Senator, Priest Give Pro, Con on Proposition 18

State Senator John Harmer, Glendale Republican, has proposed many anti-pornographic measures in the legislature and is a leading proponent of Proposition 18. The Rev. Charles Dollen, library director of the University of San Diego, is a Catholic priest and wrote the ballot argument against the measure. They were questioned together and here are their answers:

QUESTION: It is recognized by most that pornography cannot be controlled without some form of censorship. Is Proposition 18 over the permissible bounds of such regulations?

ANSWER: Senator Harmer—No. Proposition 18 does censor some things as being unacceptable to our society but, on the whole, the proposition would give both the law enforcement officer, the merchant and, above all, the citizen a much clearer understanding of what his protection and his rights are.

ANSWER: Father Dollen—As librarians, we feel that it is a very drastic censorship law. We feel that definitions extend very deeply into the citizen's private life. Taking away the socially redeeming significance clause would make our work in libraries much more difficult.

Q: For the most part pornography is now regulated by state law which established California-wide standards for obscenity. Proposition 18 would shift much of the control to local communities. Is there a possibility that we would have confusing regulations as a result?

A: Dollen—Yes. Things that would be harmful matter in one locality wouldn't be in another. We could perhaps send a book into one area and not into another.

A: Harmer—The proposition makes two provisions for local communities. First it allows a local community to enact such other ordinances as may be necessary for the sale and distribution and content of obscene material. That application is to the commercial exploitation of obscenity. The other factor concerns what is already a burden of proof on the prosecutor. Right now in an obscenity case the prosecutor must prove the existing community standard. But he is bound by a policy decision of the state Supreme Court with a statewide standard. Downtown San Diego is equated with downtown Modesto and the two are not the same. This proposition changes that burden of proof to the standards generally prevailing in the incorporated area.

Q: It has been said that the definitions of obscene and harmful matter are such in Proposition 18 that elements of the Bible, Michelangelo's David, or even viewing of films like "Patton," might be banned if Proposition 18 passes. Could they?

A: Harmer—Absolutely not. Were someone to assert that the Bible or a literary classic could be banned, he shows that he does not understand the proposition. Section 313.8A makes it very clear that the proposition applies to no book without the use of photographs. No book is affected unless it contains a photograph or a drawing intended to be utilized in a public show. To assert that the Bible or anything else could be affected by the proposition is totally missing the point. If you take the Bible and add obscene photographs you no longer have the Bible. There have been those who have done this with other literary works and they ought to be stopped. The opponents of the proposition have stated that because of verbal obscenities, "Patton," "Love Story," "Mash" and "The French Connection" would be banned. This is totally wrong.

Sen. John Harmer

Obscenity under the definition of the proposition must refer to the genitals, buttocks, female breasts or excretory functions or products or sexual conduct. It must refer to it, not be associated with it as the opposition says.

A: Dollen—What worries us is that the burden of proof is on the person accused. Section 313.8 says "making a person guilty of a misdemeanor who in any way, any capacity knowingly directs, distributes, exhibits, manages, photographs, produces, sells or shows or possesses with intent to sell or to show or participates in the creation, presentation, sale or transfer of any motion picture, television production, or of any photograph or any book, magazine or other items containing one or more photograph."

Q: Proposition 18 would permit under certain circumstances seizure of printed material before it's distribution to the public and without a search warrant. Could this be construed as a threat as great to our rights as obscenity?

A: Dollen—We think so, very definitely. One of our legislative analysts called it guilt by association and guilt by intention. Yes, we feel that it's a very great fault.

A: Harmer—And I answer definitely no. The authorization within that section is limited to two sections—those which specify the content of prescribed photographs, and to those who are authorized under the state law to arrest and seize contraband. Under the state law today an individual may make a citizen's arrest and seize contraband if he chooses to do so, but he subjects himself to the potential danger of a suit for false arrest. This proposition wouldn't change it.

Q: Do you believe that Proposition 18 could result in state suits that might clog the courts and which could delay the fight against pornography?

A: Harmer—I certainly do not under established practice of our courts. One may not take a piece of legislation and simply file a law suit against it until the legislation has been utilized so that an actual case or controversy is before the court. There is no reason to believe that under Proposition 18 there would be anything but a great savings of tax payers' monies in the use of court time because of the reduction of court time necessary under the provisions of the proposition.

A: Dollen—We in the library profession feel that it would lead to a spate of cases. We are already beginning to mobilize for that, if it's necessary. We feel that it is a drastic restriction on our freedom to read. As professional librarians we would definitely seize whatever opportunity we could to go to court.

Q: Have the so-called redeeming social values, as they relate to pornography, changed?

A: Dollen—In all honesty we have to say yes. I think we are living in a more permissive age. I certainly don't approve of pornography and I don't approve of it for minors, but I think that we are facing a world that accepts generally what I would call a lower standard.

A: Harmer—I feel that the redeeming social value clause in our present state law has constituted a massive loophole for the pornographers. The city attorney in Los Angeles several weeks ago submitted a case to the jury which involved a 40-minute motion picture of three women engaged in various acts of sexual relationship with animals. There was no plot and no dialogue. The defense was that under the redeeming social value clause in California there was a redeeming social value to this motion picture because it satisfied people's curiosity about such things. The jury was hung 7 to 5 and the defendant was acquitted.

... clearer understanding

Q: What would you care to say regarding the defenses or lack of them in Proposition 18 for persons who need protection?

A: Harmer—The defenses provided guarantee that no innocent person will be in any way able to be convicted for any offense under the proposition. The proposition addresses itself as to obscene material for both adults and minors and it distinguishes between the two. I cannot conceive the situation where an innocent person could be prosecuted successfully under this proposition.

A: Dollen—The American Library Association has done an analysis of Proposition 18 and they call Section 313.26B a false defense. They further say: The proposed section purports to provide libraries with defense charges enumerated throughout the rest of Proposition 18. However, three conditions must prevail for libraries to make use of this defense. One, it must be shown that sexual titillation, which is never defined, is not a primary purpose of those aspects of any item that would appear to be actionable under the proposition. Two, it must be shown that the defendant is a ... drastic censorship law

bonafide school, museum, or public library and three, the burden for proving conditions one and two rests solely on the library.

Q: Who would end up being the censors?

A: Dollen—We are afraid that, when it comes to libraries, we would have to sit and judge. And we simply aren't trained to be censors. We're trained to evaluate ideas on whether or not they are useful to the community and we certainly object to labelling or censoring them. We're afraid that the judges might be the district attorney and the local courts.

A: Harmer—I must raise the strongest objection to the use of the word, censor. There is nothing in the proposition which justifies the use of that phrase. The proposition does not change the law today in any aspect except that it further defines in the law what will be held to be obscene. A jury today makes a decision as to whether or not a matter is obscene, and would be exploited for its commercial purposes. The proposition doesn't change that. It is still a question for a jury and unless somebody is engaged in commercially exploiting degeneracy, he doesn't have to worry about the content of the material.

Three Smiths Brighten USD Cage Outlook

University of San Diego basketball prospects appear bright for the coming season and the Toreros may do this with a bunch of guys named Smith.

No less than three members of coach Bernie Bickerstaff's 1972-73 quintet will answer to that name, but only one is returning from last season.

Forward Pinky Smith (6-6½) brings a 17.8 average into his junior season.

Joining in the family situation will be Pinky's freshman brother, Kenny, who used his 6-4 height to lead Jefferson High of Daly City, Calif., to the North Peninsula League title with a 20.3 average and 16 rebounds per game.

Guard Joe Smith (6-1) is a junior transfer from College of Marin where he enjoyed an 18.9 mean a year ago.

Stan Washington, a 6-4 junior guard and the Toreros' leading scorer with an 18.1 average last season, also returns along with center Ben Thompson (6-6), 6-4 forward Tommy Davis, 6-6 forward Pete Cosenza, and guards Jack Robinson (5-10), Ron Modie (5-10) and Mike Bajo (6-1).

Other newcomers on the 13-man roster include 6-2 guard Skip Caruso from Boston College and forward Steve Jones (6-3½) from Mt. Carmel High and guard Mike Marrinan (6-2) from Damien High in LaVerne, both frosh.

More Autumn Happenings

Mrs. Helen Anne Bunn will entertain guests at the fashion show "Holiday Happenings," to be sponsored tomorrow by the University of San Diego Auxiliary at Bahia. Her guests will be Mrs. H. Lauren Dow, chairman of the Headress Ball, Feb. 7; Mmes. Jerome O'Connor, Carl Sabo, Mitchell Kay and Daniel Bunn, and Misses Maureen O'Connor, Ellen Dickey, Maureen O'Connor and Carol Zent.

Mrs. Stanhope Ring will open her Coronado house to Coronado Associates of the Opera Guild Nov. 15 for a "premiere preview of 'Medea.'" Mrs. Louis Roen will present a preview of the Alva Henderson opera, which will have its world premiere in San Diego Nov. 29. Mrs. John W. Roper and Mrs. Claude F. Sullivan will assist the hostess. Wine punch will be served before the program.

Retired Rear Adm. and Mrs. Rob Roy McGregor have returned from a month-long trip which took them to Pebble Beach, Crater Lake, Grand Tetons, Wyo., and Sun Valley. They also followed the Oregon Trail. In Sun Valley they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Fletcher, formerly of Rancho Santa Fe and La Jolla, who are now traveling in Japan.

2 USD opera workshops set

University of San Diego has scheduled two operas to be presented Nov. 17 and 18 by the school's opera workshops in Camino Theater. Each opera is to begin at 8 p.m.

Both performances are to include the 17th century "Didò and Aeneas," by Henry Purcell, and "Man on the Bearskin Rug," by Paul Ramsier, a contemporary opera.

The performances, in costume and complete settings, are open to the public.

USD opera workshops are the only ones produced in this part of the United States.

Performers scheduled to appear in "Didò and Aeneas" are Dolores Himes as Didò and Daniel Griesgraber as Aeneas.

The part of Doris in "The Man on the Bearskin Rug" is to be sung on alternate nights by Laura Schanes and Deborah Lynne. Henry is to be performed by James Taranakis.

'Holiday Happenings' Revue

Mrs. Author E. Hughes Jr., wife of the president of USD, will entertain guests today at the fashion show, "Holiday Happenings," to be given at the Bahia Hotel by the USD Auxiliary. Her guests will be Mmes. Emel J. Bava, Ramon Castro, John Evenson, L. Thomas Halverstadt, William Dever Johnson Jr., Carl Burnham, Peter Eros, Brage Golding and John H. Mazur.

Mrs. Remo Downs will be joined by Mmes. G. W. Doxie, John A. Waters, Marion Franco-Ferreira, Raymond Rindler, Richard Wolf, Carl Lengyel, W. A. Dewhurst and Miss Bertha Tiber. Mrs. J. E. Trevelyan will be hostess at a table for 10. Mrs. Thomas Finn and guest, Mrs. John Burke, will join Mrs. Gilbert Brown and Mrs. Ernest Morin. Mrs. A. M. Livingston, president of the auxiliary, will entertain guests.

Mrs. Carlos J. Tavares will have as guests Mmes. Phyllis Jameson, George Johnson of La Jolla and Rancho Bernardo, Joseph M. Millard III, Richard A. Jones, Willis M. Allen, John H. Hogan Jr., Lyman A. MacDonald, and William P. Higgins. Another group will include Mmes. John J. Rodee, Francis Bennett, Michael Lorch, Robert M. Hughes, Robert Mattinson and Bernard Toomey.

Joining Mrs. James F. Mulvaney will be Mmes. Raymond Rindler, James McCabe, Robert Mulvaney, Thomas Mulvaney, Ross G. Tharp, Kenneth Brown, Harold Bailey and Miss Maria Harvey.

Mrs. Richard P. Wolman has formed a party which will include Mmes. Thomas Ballauf, Braun Collins, John Frazer, Larry Kahan, Jack Hayes, and Arthur Johnson. Joining this party will be Mrs. Harry Collins, Mrs. George Pflaum, Mrs. Daniel Mulvihill and Mrs. John Athaide.

Grid rivalry renewed

USD-USIU clash after 11-year layoff

By BRUCE REID
Sentinel Sports Writer

It was Thanksgiving, the year was 1961, and the University of San Diego football program had much to be thankful for. They didn't have any more games to play that season.

Known only to a few, it was the last game they would play until Sept. 16, 1972.

Like a Tom turkey fed for execution, the Torero program had been built with the blueprints of a Notre Dame, then suddenly, with the swing of a financial ax, had its ties with the school severed.

What was to become the Notre Dame of the West soon became as obscure as Mühlenberg College of the East.

STILL FIGHTING

It took 11 years for the program to become visible again, although the distaste of the whole mess is not all gone. "I'm still fighting what happened here 11 years ago," says new head coach Andy Vinci. When asked of the progress the Toreros have made in this, their first season since 1961.

Come Saturday night at 7 in their own stadium, the Toreros will be given a chance to spit out what lingering bad tastes they might have about 1961 when they host the Westerners of United States International University.

You see, whether or not their 28-18 defeat had an effect on the decision, the Westerners were the last team in college division football that the Toreros met prior to the start of this season.

WESTERN VERSION

Saturday's version of the Westerners will feature a team capable of stopping just about any type of offense run at them, and in quarterback Ruben Anderson and senior Doug Omer and wide receiver Dwight McDonald, have the explosive power for putting points on the board.

"Dwight McDonald will be the best pass receiver we will face all season," admitted Vinci. "He's an excellent split end and I'm very impressed by his play."

It seems as if NAIA District II officials feel the same way. They voted the ex-Kearney High School All-Western League Player of the Week in his 16 receptions for 195 yards against Cal State-Los Angeles Oct. 28.

DISTRICT TOPS

Against Cal Lutheran last week, McDonald upped his scoring to 54 points (highest on team) with his ninth touchdown pass reception and his 46 total catches for 729 yards places him tops among all District III receivers.

"Our pass defense has been failing much of this season," says Vinci. "We really were burned by Cal State, Los Angeles."

Angeles, a team USIU beat. Our defense will have a tough job with McDonald."

Vinci then turned toward the problems his team will face on offense.

"They (USIU) have a terrific defensive unit. Their defensive unit is better than either our defensive or offensive units."

"They also have outstanding team speed, probably the best of any team we will see this year."

Although head USIU coach Marv Braden admitted his defense "didn't play too well" in the first half of last week's 20-7 victory over Cal Lutheran, the forces of defensive end Lem Burnham, defensive tackle Mike Haley and deep back Robert Red appear ready to shut off any Torero attack.

But Braden knows better than to take things lightly, especially when a guy like Vinci is involved.

Whereas some people consider USIU's mediocre 4-3 record a shock, just about everyone eyes the Toreros' 4-3 mark as unbelievable. "They (disbelievers) thought we'd be lucky just to win one game this season," the coaching staff proudly announces. "But this is just fantastic."

So fantastic that Sportswriters/ Sportscasters Assn. president Bob Williams feels bigger and better things are to happen should Vinci's crew beat the Westerners.

Said Williams, "Andy Vinci is the man with everything to win and if he does he expects a call from the Pope and instant sainthood."

He'll settle for a call on his two favorite running backs, Andy Sanchez and Sammy "Broom" Croom, come Saturday evening.

Croom, behind the blocking of Sanchez, has already this season rushed for more yardage than any former Torero running back and against Loyola University ran for 228 yards to break a single game mark of Bob Keyes (209).

Croom has accounted for 821 yards while his partner Sanchez has scooted for almost anywhere," said Braden.

Braden also figures the game might mean a little more to Vinci than his (Braden's) own program. But Vinci assured Braden that the contest will be evenly matched.

"I think the outcome of the game will be decided by who gets the breaks. A break or two either way can do it."

READINGS — Braden singles out both Croom and defensive tackle Cornell Stanley, two of USD's top athletes. "Croom could play at San Diego State, in the PAC-8, at almost any level," said Braden. "Stanley is the best small college defensive tackle I've seen in my four years in this area ... The Westerners have defeated Cal Lutheran (20-7), Cal State, Los Angeles (21-20), Redlands (37-6) and Puget Sound (21-7) while dropping contests to Whittier (10-7), Southern Utah (14-7) and La Verne (12-10). USK has downed Claremont (14-7), Occidental (19-7), Pomona (29-6) and Loyola (35-18) and have lost to UC Riverside (34-17), Los Angeles State (29-16) and La Verne (27-21).

another 441. When needed, senior quarterback Henry Sintay, who alternates with freshman Tom Jones, slings his arm into action.

Sintay's 58 completions of 122 attempts has moved the Torero offensive unit for 821 yards.

"University of San Diego has five or six outstanding players, a couple of them could play

Straws in the Wind

Social segments here have never been so integrated. Now that the community has four major higher education facilities, there is stronger emphasis on "town and gown" activities. The military and civilian contingents long have had a good marriage here. There is a good social thing going, too, for newcomers and oldtimers, who join social forces. The two-generation party is enjoying a comeback, indicating that the generation gap could be narrowing.

Several such two-generation parties have been scheduled already for the December holidays. And never has social international exchange between residents of Tijuana and San Diego been more apparent. Many San Diegans already are planning to attend the annual Posada Dec. 9 in Tijuana.

Typical of the "town and gown" trend was the cocktail party given Monday night by Msgr. John R. Portman, chairman of the department of religious studies, University of San Diego. It was a stylish soiree with many men wearing dinner jackets and most women in long dresses. The party honored Mrs. Donald Butler (Evelyn Gathings), artist, who expertly covers a lot of canvas with a brush dipped in nostalgia. She was represented at the party by three extremely large and charming canvases in the host's private quarters in the USD library, which are warmed by lots of good books and red carpeting topped with oriental rugs, as well as paintings.

Among the guests were Mrs. deWitt H. Merriam, who also gives support to UCSD activities, and Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Aginsky, whose "town and gown" salon is well known. Among the guests were Dr. Arthur Hughes, first lay president of USD, and Mrs. Hughes, who move attractively between the "town and gown" communities, artists Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Whitaker and portrait painter, Sebastian Capella, Mrs. Capella, Mrs. Raymond Portman, mother of Msgr. Portman, Mr. and Mrs. Zoltan Rozsnyai, Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Livingston.

Also present were Dr. and Mrs. William J. Doyle of La Jolla, who have been on sabbatical leave from their medical practices for several months while touring the Middle East (Lebanon, Jordan and Israel) for the Pontifical Mission for Palestine and inspecting medical facilities of missions. Dr. Doyle, pediatrician, and Mrs. Doyle, who professionally is Dr. Anita V. Figueredo, oncologist, had the unique good fortune of being able to leave their specialized practices in the hands of their daughter, Dr. Sarita Eastman, and her husband, Dr. Brent Eastman. Young Mrs. Eastman, who took their medical training and postgraduate work at University of California, San Francisco Medical Center, have elected to remain in the area and have moved into a house on Graviola Street, La Jolla.

Jonathan Kozol, author of "Death at an Early Age," a National Book Award winner, is to speak at the University of San Diego on Nov. 5 at 8 p.m.

Title of his talk is "Political Indoctrination in the Public Schools."

Kozol was graduated summa cum laude from Harvard University where he was awarded the Boylston Prize in writing. He was elected to the Junior Eight of Phi Beta Kappa there and later attended Oxford University as a Rhodes Scholar.

"There is a certain kind of revolutionary courage, I believe, in fighting for a new world and still helping men to live without ordeal in the one they are stuck with," Kozol said.

"Death at an Early Age" is a documented account of a teacher's year in a predominantly Negro school.

THIS TORERO LIKES TO HIT

Don't Let Curls Fool You

By CHUCK SAWYER

He isn't exactly what passed for the All-American Boy type a decade or so ago. The long shoulder-plus hair parted in the middle, in long curls from the ears on down, the scratchy-looking beard, hardly what would pass as a rugged football individual even in this day of freedom of expression.

But a word to the wise for U.S. international players tomorrow night. Don't tread upon his brilliant red shoes.

Bruce McFarlan is his name — and offensive guard is his game. His uniform is that of the Toreros from the University of San Diego.

His appearance to the contrary — the guy loves to hit. And he does it with pretty good authority.

"He's one of the few players on our squad who has what it takes to go both ways," says USD coach Andy Vinci. "With our small squad, we have to use some that way. And he's one of the first we think of when we need double duty."

Told of this word of confidence from his coach, McFarlan wasn't exactly overjoyed. "I appreciate the compliment," he said, "but I would rather play just offense — that's where I really like it."

And, how does the opposition react to his tonsorial exuberance?

"I guess they take a second look when they first see me," he admits. "They glance at the long hair and the red shoes and figure I'm a little, ah, er, strange. But I try to set them straight on the first play."

"That's where you gain their respect. You have to let them know in a hurry. As for the red shoes, there's a humorous story behind them, too."

"I painted them that way a year ago Halloween," he explains. "I was going to this party as a 'jerk.' You know, wearing my letter jacket and helmet and all that."

—Staff Photo

He's got the long hair, beard, moustache and goatee — the whole bit. He's also a pretty tough customer. Offensive guard Bruce McFarlan has been one of the reasons for University of San Diego's 1972 success. He'll face USIU at USD Stadium tomorrow night.

"After that, I didn't bother to paint them black again. I just left them that way. At least, now the guys on the other team know where the action is."

McFarlan isn't using the long hair and beard as any argument with society. "I've been letting my hair grow ever since high school," he explains. "As for the beard and all, it's just me. I feel more free this way. I'm not trying to make a stand for anything. I'm not making any kind of protest."

McFarlan played at San Diego High and San Diego CC before a year at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas. Only 5-10 but a solid 200 pounds, he's presently the Toreros' offensive captain.

"I'm really looking forward to this game tomorrow night," he enthuses. "I know a lot of the guys over at USIU, so it should be a fun game. We've got some guys who know how to hit. I think our whole team is fired up for it. I know I am."

All the way from his long black hair to his bright red shoes!

Who should win tomorrow night's cross-town battle? Ask the guys who have played against both teams.

Los Angeles State defensive captain Jack Loos — (the Diablos beat USD, 29-16, and were edged by USIU, 21-20). "USD is more explosive."

They have a game breaker in (Sammy) Croom, and they have a better overall attack. The Toreros are a lot smaller than USIU, but (Dwight) McDonald is an outstanding receiver and USIU has better depth. USIU's defense is also a lot better. I would pick USIU to win it."

LaVerne senior linebacker Dan Drake — (the Leopards edged the Westerners, 12-10, and outlasted the Toreros, 27-21). "Both teams gave us a lot of trouble. Against USIU, we forced them to make a lot of mistakes. Against USD, we wore them down in the second half."

"Croom and (Andy) Sanchez are both strong runners and (Henry) Sintay throws the ball pretty well. USIU has a real good defense and they can pass. I think it should be a close game that could go either way. I pick USIU by about a touchdown."

Southern Cross Father Rouse has sanitary suggestion

Concerning the observation of E.S. (SC Oct. 19) about the sign of peace being unsanitary and therefore priests should not engage in it.

If that is true, what a strong argument it implies for communion in the hand instead of the present method.

Perhaps to obviate all difficulties the priest should vest in alb, chasuble, rubber gloves and face mask for the weekly, ecclesiastical celebration!

Immaculata four-concert series 'to honor the Infant King'

FOUR SPECIAL musical programs "to honor the Infant King" are to be presented in the Immaculata church, on the University of San Diego campus, four Sunday evenings in November and December.

The pre-Christmas series has been arranged to demonstrate the newly installed Baldwin organ and the musical talent available to the parish, according to the pastor, Msgr. John R. Portman.

The first concert, Nov. 26, will be "The majesty of organ sounds." Organist will be Zoltan Rozsnyai, former conductor-music director of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra.

THE SECOND concert, Dec. 3, will be given by the USD chorus and ensemble.

This will be followed on Dec. 10 by "The joy of strings and brass," performed by selected instrumentalists from San Diego.

The final concert, Dec. 17, will be by the recently formed Immaculata choir, under the direction of Father Warren R. Rouse, OFM, featuring carols through the ages.

"We feel this is a great opportunity to make use of the very beautiful church, with its fine acoustics, in the best musical tradition," said Father Rouse.

TICKETS FOR individual concerts ($2) or for the series ($7) are available from the Immaculata parish office or at the door. Msgr. Portman said the performances will start at 6 p.m. and should be finished by 8 p.m. "So that people may get home early."

Straws in the Wind

By Eileen Jackson

It has been a season of parties by, for and including university presidents Dr. Brage Golding, new president of California State University, San Diego, and Mrs. Golding, earned that receiving the faculty and wives or husbands of faculty members amounts to an endurance test which they handled with relaxed dispatch and charm Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. As soon as their reception for 2,000 closed, Adm. James Francis Calvert, commander of the 1st Fleet, and Mrs. Calvert received at a "mini" reception for 20 in honor of Dr. James McNaughton Hester, president of New York University, and attractive, youthful Mrs. Hester. Among the 20 guests were Dr. Arthur Hughes, president of USD, and Mrs. Hughes.

Honored In National Capital

Col. Irving Salomon received an honorary doctor of laws degree from Georgetown University yesterday in Washington, D.C. After the ceremony, a dinner was given by the university in honor of Col. and Mrs. Salomon and a few of their close friends. Among the invited guests were William C. Foster, former secretary of defense, and Mrs. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. H. Cabot Lodge, Ambassador and Mrs. El Goulli of Tunis, Rep. Bob Wilson, R-San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Drummond and Sen. and Mrs. Hubert Humphrey. Also included were some of the fellow trustees associated with Col. Salomon during the years he served Georgetown University, including Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Lainger of Tulsa, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gregory of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cannon of Chicago. Col. Salomon was given the degree for service to the U.S. government and to Georgetown University.

Toreros Get 16 Days To Plan Attack

By CHUCK SAWYER

"They will have 16 days to prepare for us. They could change their entire offense and defense in that length of time."

Those were the fears expressed by U.S. International coach Marv Braden as he looked forward to Saturday night's cross-town meeting with University of San Diego on the Toreros' field.

Braden was correct as far as the time element was concerned.

USD's last outing was against Loyola University of Los Angeles on Thursday Oct. 26. The Toreros were idle last week, and not by accident, according to Coach Andy Vinci.

And, indeed, the air of mystery continued when it was reported the USD mastermind was taking his offense inside the USD gymnasium for work out this week.

CAN'T HIDE

But, alas, the cloak and dagger atmosphere disappeared in a puff of smoke.

"We are in a real fish bowl during our practices," Vinci admitted in describing USD Stadium's valley-like location surrounded by towering cliffs.

"But, I talked to Marv about it. He isn't planning to look in on us, and we aren't thinking of checking on him, either."

It is fact, rather than fiction, that decided the issue.

"We both know what the other has in the way of personnel," Braden explained. "It is no secret that (Sammy) Croom will run with the ball for USD and they will throw mostly to (Roger) Leonard. And I'm certain they know what to expect from us."

And so, with no secrets allowed, the game boils down to a battle of strength against strength.

SHARE DUTY

For USD, it is the running of Croom and the passing of quarterback Henry Sintay, although the Toreros in their past two games have used the alternating QB system. This puts freshman Tom Jones dividing duty with Sintay a la Don Corvett at California State University, San Diego.

Sintay, powerfully built at 6-1 and 202 pounds was somewhat in Vinci's doghouse earlier this season off his insistent desire to run with the ball instead of waiting to spot his No. 2 or No. 3 receiver if No. 1 was covered.

The result was a large minus yardage for the former Chula Vista High grizzer in the Toreros' statistics.

But in recent weeks, he has learned his lesson well. Both he and USD have profited from it.

58 COMPLETIONS

Indeed, the Toreros did not score through the air in their first four games. They have only two passing TD's in seven outings.

But Sintay has a respectable 58 completions in 122 attempts for 821 yards and the two touchdowns. Which doesn't allow USIU the freedom of concentrating solely on stopping the Toreros' running game.

Leonard, another "big one" out of University High comes in at 6-5 and 220. He was an outstanding defensive end with the Dons before a freshman year at UOP and then joined the Toreros in their club football efforts.

Now he is the leading receiver for Vinci's forces with 23 catches for 404 yards.

Teammate Bill Washington has 21 receptions for 220 yards.

All of which bears out Braden's problem in defending the Toreros. Croom gives them a dynamic running game, but Sintay and friends will be around to keep the Westerners honest.

MORE HALL SPEAKER — The CCD adult lecture series continues with Father David Stanley, SJ, of Ontario, Canada, speaking at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 14, in More Hall, USD, and the next night in St. Ann's parish, San Bernardino. He will examine "Biblical Spirituality for Modern Man." The Jesuit is a former president of the Catholic Biblical Association of America and the Canadian Society of Biblical Studies. He was visiting professor at Gregorian University, and the Pontifical Biblical Institute, both in Rome.

USD professor gets honorary

Irving Salomon of the University of San Diego faculty and a member of the board of trustees will receive an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Georgetown University, Washington, D.C. Saturday, Nov. 4.

He is being cited for services to the U.S. government and Georgetown University. Salomon is a trustee emeritus of Georgetown and former U.S. delegate to the United Nations and chairman of the American delegation to UNESCO.

A former Army colonel, he teaches two political science courses at USD.

Dr. and Mrs. Hughes also have travel in their future. They will leave Nov. 14 with 175 others, mostly from the La Jolla Deanery of the Diocese of San Diego, to spend the Thanksgiving holidays in Rome. An audience with the Pope has been arranged. The group, which also will visit Capri and Florence, will return Nov. 24. Next year Dr. and Mrs. Hughes plan to join an annual Thanksgiving encampment in Baja California, which Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Aginsky (also at the Calverton reception), will take part in this month.

USD Opera Workshops Planned

Henry Purcell's "Dido and Aeneas" and Paul Ramsier's contemporary "Man on the Bearskin Rug" will be presented on the University of San Diego Opera Workshops program this week.

The production, again prepared under the direction of USD instructor Hana Mysior, will take place on the university campus in the Camino Theater. Both operas will be performed at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

The Purcell opera will feature Dolores Humes as the widowed Dido who woos the storm-wrought Aeneas to the objection of the gods. Daniel Griesgraber will sing the part of Aeneas.

Ramsier's opera also features a pair of lovers with a plot revolving about unsuccessful attempts by a suitor to woo a girl until he acquires a bear skin rug with magical powers.

Laura Schanes and Debra Lynne will share the girl's role while the part of the suitor will be sung by James Tarantino.

Sets for the opera workshop production are by Bruce Romano with costumes by Debra King. Miss Mysior and William Officer are the accompanying pianists and the orchestra for "Dido" will be under the direction of Dr. Henry Kolar.

International Dinner Held

Bob, who worked his way through high school and college as a cook, said he is a "fourth generation cook."

"My ancestors cooked on the ships that sailed from Canada to New Zealand, where my family now lives," he said.

Following the dinner, served by the young "cooks," the foreign students, dressed in native costumes performed dances of their native countries.

Georgetown Pays Tribute To Salomon

Irving Salomon, part-time instructor at the University of San Diego and member of the university's board of trustees, recently was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from Georgetown University in Washington, D.C.

The citation, commended Salomon for "service to the United States Government and Georgetown University." He is a trustee emeritus of Georgetown University and served the United States as a lieutenant colonel in the Army, as chairman of the U.S. delegation to the UNESCO conference in Paris, and later he became U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, Children's Health Center and San Antonio de Pala Mission as well as the board of trustees of Atlanta University and the School of Theology at Claremont are among the many boards served by Salomon.

Salomon and his wife traveled to Georgetown University where a dinner was given in his honor with such notables on the guest list as William C. Foster, U.S. disarmament adviser, Henry Cabot Lodge, Rep. Bob Wilson and Mrs. Hubert Humphrey.

Scholarships to come from benefit dance

A $15,000 scholarship fund for needy Mexican-American college students is being raised by the diocese's Spanish-speaking community.

The effort is seen as a first step toward providing funds to match amounts set aside by the University of San Diego for Mexican-American scholarships.

Spearheading the drive is a scholarship committee formed through the diocese's Mexican-American leadership training program sponsored by Bishop Leo T. Maher and the Office of Ethnic Affairs.

MRS. BERTHA G. Torres of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart parish, San Diego, is chairman of the committee.

It plans a benefit dance Friday, Nov. 17, at the Harbor Island Sheraton Inn. The donation is $4 a person. For more details, phone 235-6291.

AN EXCHANGE OF CULTURES

USD Foreign Students Cook Feast For 250

By OPAL CRANDALL

The enticing aromas of dishes from 21 nations pervaded the kitchen of the University of San Diego recently when 150 foreign students prepared traditional dishes of their countries. Using assembly line methods, the students prepared enough food for the 250 persons who attended the International Club's annual dinner at the university.

The cooking got under way around 9 p.m. — after students had completed classroom studies — and continued until early morning hours. Chatter flew back and forth in English and — as excitement mounted — many other tongues. Imad Shehadeh from Palestine gave directions for combining Fawakeh, a fresh fruit salad mixed with fruit wine, and a group of Chinese "cooks" chatted back and forth in their native tongues as they prepared Chinese cuisine.

Teresa Yue and Simon Wu from Hong Kong fried huge batches of pastel shrimp chips, while fellow countrymen Amy Wong and Ko Kwok Ming cooked rice steak with mushrooms.

Another group cut, pounded and chopped as they made Vietnamese salad which combined 20 pounds of chicken and 40 pounds of cabbage. Cecil Chan created fried noodles with pork, using methods of Hong Kong cooks, Mazi Moadel and Mitra Barin from Iran, assisted by Rosa Roman of Peru, labored at making loubia polo (meat balls). Students from Thailand, Hong Kong and Indonesia joined forces to prepare sata, small pieces of meat soaked all night in spices before being barbecued and dipped in Indonesian peanut butter sauce.

The international dinner, according to Bob Comeau, International Club president, is not a money making event.

"We want to exchange our cultures and food is a wonderful way to do that," he said. "If one person walks out of the dinner with a better understanding of his fellow man, we have succeeded."

Bob cooked the dessert, a new New Zealand favorite, a meringue topped with Kiwi, a fruit from New Zealand.

"It is named for the famous dancer, Pavlova. I used 150 egg whites, 40 cups of sugar and un-

Nov. 11. It once was called Armistice Day. This year it could be the start of a long series of football wars between U.S. International University and the University of San Diego. USD coach Andy Vinci points to the date to remind USIU's Marv Braden of their Saturday meeting at USD Stadium.

USD, USIU Set To Renew Rivalry

By CHUCK SAWYER

Four football coaches showed up at the Sports Writers Association luncheon yesterday.

Two of them came disguised as public relations men — each for the other's team.

University of San Diego has five or six outstanding players, a couple of them could play almost anywhere," said Marv Braden of U.S. International University.

"USIU has a tremendous defensive team. It has size, speed and technique," commented Andy Vinci of USD.

From this, one might gather that the Westerners and Toreros will be knocking heads very shortly. One would be correct.

Two met together Saturday night in USD Stadium in a rare meeting of San Diego collegiate football. History tells us it has happened on only five previous occasions.

USIU and USD have crossed paths only once before — on Thanksgiving Day of 1961. The Westerners, then called Cal Western, won that one, 28-18.

Cal Western and the Aztecs of San Diego State met three times between 1961 and 1965 with the Aztecs and USD exchanging blocks once, in 1961.

Saturday night's engagement carries a little historic value. For the teams involved, it carries a lot more.

Vinci's Toreros are in the first year of an interscholastic program after three seasons of club football, the school having dropped the grid sport after the 1961 season.

A victory over USIU wouldn't hurt a thing for the Toreros' season which already must be considered a success with four victories in seven tries — something few people believed possible at the start of the campaign.

"Vinci won't have any trouble getting his boys up for this one," Braden acknowledged. "But we don't buy the idea that we have nothing to gain and everything to lose."

The game, billed as an offensive show, was a defensive struggle — one that neither team won.

USD's Henry Sintay (14) picks up eight yards and a first down in first quarter action last night against USIU at Torero stadium. Paving way for Sintay gain were blockers Ron White (71) and Mike Keefe (52).

USIU, Toreros Battle To Frustrating Tie, 7-7

Victory for the Toreros who are playing their first season of collegiate ball since losing to USIU, 28-18, on Thanksgiving Day of 1961.

USD compiled only 157 yards in total offense compared to 205 for the Westerners. But USIU wasted more opportunities and was outplayed in several vital situations by the inexperienced Toreros.

Neither of the two players who were expected to dominate the offense lived up to expectations, but then few players did.

Senior Doug Omer took over midway of the second half and connected on 7 of 15, but he, too, couldn't must any consistency in the USIU offense.

In contrast to his past two games, USD coach Andy Vinci did not alternate his QB, Henry Sintay going all the way. He was 5-for-17 in the passing department but for only 61 yards as a rushing USIU defense put him in the "sack" on numerous occasions.

The Westerners' Rick Westergard gained 73 yards on 11 rushes and Colie Cann had 48 in three tries. But, once again they couldn't put it together when it counted.

Sandwiched around the two scoring plays were a series of missed signals, missed field goal attempts and missed opportunities.

The only ones who didn't miss anything were the fans who stayed at home.

USD — Beshears 31 run with blocked punt (Jacke kick)

Standout tackle Cornell Stanley, defensive captain of the University of San Diego football squad, will be lost for the Torero's final two games of the season following a knee injury suffered in last week's 7-7 tie with United States International University.

Head coach Andy Vinci made the announcement yesterday as USD went through preparations for Saturday's match at Azusa Pacific.

The 6-4, 220-pound Stanley was the team's top pass rusher and his loss could be a big factor against the physical Azusa eleven. Stanley was injured early in the first quarter against USIU and never returned to action. Surgery was not required but the damage will take at least a month to heal.

First year head mentor Jerry Sounce is struggling through a 2-6 won-loss record at Azusa, but the Cougars have some bright spots in their young lineup.

Junior quarterback John Tuily has become the school's all-time passer, tossing mainly to tight end Bruce Meyers and split end Mike Hobbs. Freshman halfback Dennis Royal has had a couple of 100-plus yard efforts and punter Greg Sinaud is one of the nation's best with a 42-yard average.

Azusa will have a couple of incentives going in the Saturday encounter. The Cougars have an 0-3 mark against USD, losing to Torero club units 19-18 in 1969, 35-31 in '70 and 41-31 in '71. In addition, this will be their last game of the season.

The teams have played five common opponents. Azusa defeated Loyola, 19-9, and Pomona, 42-14, while losing to Cal State Los Angeles on two blocked punts, 21-10; La Verne, 10-8, and Occidental, 14-13.

Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, will be speaker at the dinner meeting of the World Affairs Council of La Jolla on Thursday in Founders Hall, University of San Diego. A no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 p.m. will precede the 7:30 p.m. dinner.

Hosts and hostesses will be Dr. Author E. Hughes, University president, and Mrs. Hughes, and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips, Dr. and Mrs. William J. Doyle, Dr. and Mrs. Clement J. Nouri and Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Livingston.

Dr. and Mrs. Doyle will have Mrs. Townsend Cromwell and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Myers as their guests. Guests of Dr. and Mrs. Livingston will be Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bartel, Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Ravin and retired Rear Adm. and Mrs. Samuel McCarty.

USIU, USD Battle To Standoff, 7-7

By CHUCK SAWYER

U.S. International University couldn't place all the blame there. It was a contest mixed with frustrated chances by both sides and some mental errors that only added to the hapless situation.

The Westerners struck first, freshman quarterback Ruben Anderson rambling 35 yards around left end on a first-period keeper. Dave Scheminke's placement made it 7-0 only a minute and 53 seconds after the opening kickoff.

The Toreros tied it up when defensive back Darrell Beshears rushed in to block a punt by USIU's Mike Marnout in the third quarter, grabbed the ball and raced into the end zone 31 yards away.

Marnout, who should have had several other kicks blocked via his waiting an eternity to get his foot into the ball, did the same thing on this occasion and paid dearly for it.

Bill Jacke's PAT kick fetched the 7-7 reading with 1:28 gone in the second half.

That was destined to remain the final tally for the teams who entered the game with identical 4-3 records and left it without proving very much.

If anything, it was a moral (Continued on H-6, Col. 3)

As a member of the 1970-71 USD frosh five which compiled a 19-1 record, Smith tallied 311 points for a 15.5 average and had 198 rebounds.

Bickerstaff refers to his present five-day-a-week workout schedule as a "loose" type of drilling. "I'm trying to bring them along at a steady pace so they'll be set to go opening night," he said.

USD, 12-14 last season, begins its 1972-73 slate with a home appearance against Southern Utah, Dec. 1.

Complementing Smith in the Torero front line have been the 6-4 freshman brother, Kenny, 6-6 center Ben Thompson, 6-6 Pete Cosenza, 6-4 Tommy Davis and 6-3½ Steve Jones.

Backcourt prospects include 6-4 Washington, 6-1 Joe Smith, 6-2 Skip Caruso, 6-1 Mike Bajo, 6-2 Mike Martin, 5-10 Ron Modic and 5-10 Jack Robinson.

USIU end Dwight McDonald caught four passes for 50 yards and missed crossing the goal-line for only the second time in eight games.

Anderson started the game at quarterback for the Westerners but could hit on only two of 10 passing attempts. He also scared the daylight out of his backfield mates with some wild pitchouts that invited sheer disaster.

Senior Doug Omer took over midway of the second half and connected on 7 of 15, but he, too, couldn't must any consistency in the USIU offense.

This is only the second meeting of the two schools, the first taking place on Thanksgiving Day of 1961 with USIU claiming a 28-18 decision.

Ironically, that game served as USD's last collegiate contest until this season which follows a three-year club football program.

Toreros' foes have played two mutual opponents this year. LaVerne edged the Westerners, 12-10, and beat the Toreros, 27-21. L.A. State stopped USD, 29-16, before suffering the one-point loss to USIU.

Toreros' officials this week installed 1,000 additional bleachers seats to bring the stadium capacity to 5,000. They are expected to need every one of them tonight.

DARRELL BESHEARS. Blocks kick, scores

Tie serves as victory

Nobody in town expected it to be close, and certainly nobody expected University of San Diego to win. But it was close and USD did win — well, in a way it did.

Actually, the U.S. International University-USD game Saturday night ended in a 7-7 draw. But for the Toreros it was a moral victory, in that they are playing their first season of collegiate ball since losing to USIU, which was then called Cal Western, 28-18, on Thanksgiving Day, 1961.

Thanksgiving In Spain

There will be many Thanksgiving escapists this year. One hundred and 75 Cuyamaca Club members will dine Spanish style in Madrid on the November holiday. The flying house party will leave Wednesday and will return Nov. 28. Retired Rear Adm. and Mrs. Horace D. Warden, who will be on the holiday flight to Spain, gave a dinner party Friday in their home and plan a preholiday cocktail buffet on Dec. 8.

Among the others on the Cuyamaca Club's merry Madrid getaway will be Messrs. and Mrs. Richard W. Tullar, Paul Wolcott, Guy Taylor, B. Gerry Burke, Harry Scheidte, and Richard P. Woltman. The Woltmans returned in August from Russia. Mrs. Woltman's sister, Mrs. Thomas Keelin, left recently with Messrs. John Fortman's group from USD for a November holiday trip to Rome and Florence. Mrs. J. Stephen Kaga, formerly of La Jolla, will meet Mrs. Keelin in Rome and remain with her for several days of gallery hopping and sight-seeing. The Kages now live in Switzerland.

Croom Carries Record 268 In Torero Romp

Special to The San Diego Union
AZUSA — Halfback Sammy Croom established two records as the University of San Diego football team came up with four school marks in ripping Azusa Pacific, 41-27, in Hillside Stadium here yesterday.

The speedy Croom darted for 268 yards on 29 carries to surpass the 228 total he had posted against Loyola earlier this year. Included was a dazzling 99-yard run on the first play atter a Cougar punt stopped on the Torero one-yard line in the second quarter. His run bettered the mark of 90 which he also owned as the longest run from scrimmage.

The team records were 435 yards rushing and 523 yards total offense. In winning, the Toreros stretched their season record to 5-3-1 with only next Saturday's game with Westminster College of Utah remaining.

Croom scored two touchdowns but yielded scoring honors to teammate Andy Sanchez, who tallied three times. Sanchez added 88 yards to the USD rushing total on 21 carries.

USD quarterback Henry Sintay threw for three touchdowns, hitting Croom on a 15-yarder, Roger Leonard on a one-yarder on a broken play and Sanchez with a flair pass the latter carried 23 yards for the TD.

The Toreros opened a 27-7 halftime lead, expanded it to 37-7 while coasting to victory over the 2-7 Cougars.

All of the Torero scoring drive came on lengthy marches.

Against Azusa Pacific last Saturday the Toreros ran up 533 yards in route to a 41-27 victory. Rushing alone accounted for 445 yards. Croom, a 6-2, 190 pound sophomore, erased a single game rushing mark of 228 yards he had set in the seventh game of this season with an effort of 271 against the Cougars. Included was a record 99-yd. touchdown blast.

Croom now holds school standards of season yards rushing (1164), season total offense (1348), times carried season (178) and game (29).

Vinci fills prediction with wins

Suppose you were asked to choose the most prominent trait in University of San Diego head football coach Andy Vinci. The selection list would be endless.

There's his leadership — handling 30 or so gridders through a first-year program, his integrity — striving for not only the athletic abilities of his men but also for their educational needs, his involvement — spending hour after hour on the field and off in the interest of the program.

The list goes on and on but one—a man of his word—stands high above all others.

He told San Diego it would be surprised with the Toreros and unless you figured on them winning five of their first nine games, the shock has failed to subside.

LUCKY TO WIN

"They laughed at us," Vinci and his undersized staff remember, looking back on the early days of September. "They said we'd be lucky to win one game."

But Vinci and his Toreros stuck to their words and find themselves with a 5-3-1 record with one game — Westminster College of Utah at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at USD Stadium — remaining in the season.

Thus, a school that hasn't fielded a college division football team since 1961, has guaranteed itself no less than a winning season.

Into the finale of the year the Toreros will send an awesome attack that seems to generate with age. Having crumbled many USD records earlier in the season, the offense, led by running back Sammy Croom, re-broke their own before the ink had dried.

NEW RECORDS

USD Loses Castillo For Season Finale

University of San Diego closes its football season Saturday night against Westminster College of Utah and it may not be a week too soon.

The Toreros yesterday announced the loss of offensive guard Tony Castillo for the finale at USD Stadium.

Joe Cashier, a 6-1, 210-pounder from Palo Verde College, will replace Castillo who suffered a broken foot. His loss reduced the USD roster to 29 bodies.

Last week the Toreros lost standout defensive tackle Cornell Stanley with a knee injury, further cutting their small roster.

Westminster, a college of 817 enrollment in Salt Lake City, brings a 5-3 record against USD's 5-3-1.

The Parsons compete in the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference and have a standout performer in 5-10 Walt Love, who is used both as a running back and a rover on defense.

His 859 yards rushing earned him all-conference offensive honors as a sophomore two years ago and he was a defensive selection last season. This year he has been going both ways with no loss in ability.

Westminster's victories have been over Colorado Mines, College of Utah and Azusa Pacific, the latter by 10-4. USD stopped Azusa, 41-27, last week.

The Parsons are a physical outfit with a defensive line including Ray Child (250), Chuck Kilcher (225), Mark Disorbio (220) and Stan Finn (220). The offensive middle line boasts such as Rick Daniels (220), Sam Aloja (240), Bruce Hardine (230), Mark Mackowski (225) and Pat Palla (220).

The team is coached by Allen Jacobs, who has played as a running back with the pro Green Bay Packers and New York Giants.

USD brings end to year of surprises

For the University of San Diego, it has been a football season of surprises. Will they ever cease?

"All I know," said coach Andy Vinci, "is that we couldn't take the same kids all over again and do as well. For one thing, people wouldn't underestimate us."

No, indeed.

The Toreros bring a 5-3-1 record into their final game of their first season of inter-collegiate football since 1961. They will be opposed by Westminster, Utah, tomorrow night at 7:30 on the USD field.

"The fact we are in our first year has helped us," said Vinci. "People just didn't believe we could be so tough."

The Toreros will suit up something less than 30 players against a Westminster outfit which sports a 5-3 record and one of the finest running backs the USD defense has seen all season.

He is Bill Lovell, the Rocky Mountain Conference leader in rushing.

Lovell will try to dent a Torero defense which has been uncommonly begrudging against the ground game. Opponents have averaged but 80.7 yards per game against Bob Korpze's troops.

Through the air lanes, however, they have fared considerably better. USD has given up an average of 164.1 yards per game.

Westminster is big, physical and, at spots, slow. Four of their losses, however, have been by a total of six points. "They're leading their conference in defense," Vinci pointed out. "Offensively, they've been hurt by fumbles in crucial situations."

To win, USD probably will have to get considerable mileage out of tailback Sam Croom, who has rushed for 1,164 yards and averaged 6.5 this year.

TOREROS AT HOME USD, USIU End Seasons

University of San Diego and U.S. International University both end their football seasons tonight, the Toreros already assured of a winning record and the Westerners fighting to achieve one.

USD is home to Westminster College of Salt Lake City, Utah, with the kickoff set for 7:30 at USD Stadium. USIU finishes on the road, meeting Cal Poly at Pomona, also at 7:30.

Win, lose or draw tonight, the Toreros have done themselves proud in their return to NCAA competition under coach Andy Vinci.

After the school abolished the sport following the 1961 season the Toreros returned to the gridiron in the form of a club football program four years ago.

Then, Vinci appeared on the scene this summer with a strong desire and little else. He promptly molded a minimum of bodies into a workable unit which has won five games against three losses and a tie, the latter against firmly established USIU.

Injuries, several of them to key personnel, have cut his roster to 29 players for tonight's finale. But, by now, the Toreros should be accustomed to playing it short-handed.

Two of those available tonight have spearheaded the USD offense all season — running backs Sammy Croom and Andy Sanchez.

Croom, only a sophomore, broke a school record for single game rushing yardage earlier this season, then shattered his own mark with 271 yards against Azusa Pacific last week.

With tonight's game still remaining, the 6-2 and 190-pounder already has set USD records for single game and season carries, single game and season yards rushing, single game and season total offense yards, longest run from scrimmage and has tied school marks with three touchdowns in one game and 11 season TDs.

HAS AILING HIP

Croom has been bothered by a hip injury in practice this week, but has been pronounced fit for tonight's exercise.

Sanchez has scored seven touchdowns including three last week while averaging four yards per carry for the season. He also has served as one of quarterback Henry Sintay's prime receivers, last week taking off on a splendid 23-yard cross-field TD run after accepting a Sintay toss.

"These two have been tremendous," Vinci admits, "but our offensive front deserves strong credit for their success. Croom and Sanchez have really been getting some men in front of them on those runs."

Westminster, a member of the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference, has a 5-3 record, the Parsons' wins coming over Colorado Mines, College of Idaho and Azusa Pacific.

LOVE PLAYS KEY ROLE

Their offense is keyed by 5-10 senior Walt Love who also plays a standout game as a rover on defense. The Parsons are a physical outfit, their offensive middle averaging 240 pounds.

Meanwhile, USIU's Westerners will have to rebound from their only one-sided defeat of the season to assure coach Marv Braden a fourth straight winning season tonight.

They will carry a 4-4-1 record into the game with Cal Poly (4-5). In Braden's three previous seasons at the helm the final marks have been 7-3, 7-3 and 6-4.

Last week saw UC Riverside administer a 29-3 licking to the Westerners, but it was only one of nine triumphs scored by the Highlanders this season against a single setback.

EDGE IN SCORES

USIU owns a slight edge against four mutual foes with Cal Poly and should give Braden a winning season if the club's true ability comes to the fore. However, it will have to overcome a season-long record of turnovers in crucial spots to get the job done.

Another USIU goal tonight will be to give Dwight McDonald a new school epurmen. The former San Diego CC performer has 62 receptions for 921 yards and nine touchdowns, the latter already a new school figure.

He needs two more grabs tonight to equal the record 64 catches made by Jeff Baker a year ago.

Defense Helps USD Nip Westminster

University of San Diego turned it over to the defense last night and it was in good hands.

The Toreros used a fumble recovery and a blocked punt to score twice in the second quarter and made it stand up for a 14-13 victory over Westminster College of Utah in the season finale at USD Stadium.

Only an estimated 1,300 fans turned out to see the Toreros wrap up their first season of NCAA college division football in 11 years, but the small 29-man roster hung tough to end with an impressive 6-3-1 record. Westminster suffered its sixth defeat against three victories.

Things didn't appear bright for the home club when the visitors put a quick seven points on the board with less than three minutes elapsed.

USD took the opening kickoff, but was soon forced to punt with the ball sailing out of bounds the Toreros' 34.

The visiting Parsons lost five yards in two running plays, then quarterback Ray Dickerson hit halfback Jerry Gold-near the right sideline at the one yard line.

Wade Wilkie took it over on the next play. R-hip Price's conversion kick made it 7-0 with only 2:38 gone.

Early in the second period, Bill Jache recovered a Westminster fumble for USD at the enemy 14. Andy Sanchez drove for three yards and frosh quarterback Tom Jones then pulled a great fake to Sanchez, and found Roger Leonard in the endzone.

Jache's PAT tied it, 7-7, with 12:33 left in the quarter.

A little over four minutes later, Westminster was forced to kick from its own endzone with the line of scrimmage at the 40. Bruce McFarlan led a solid line blitzing the kicker and blocked the punt, Bill McCulloch falling on it for the TD.

Jache again split the uprights for 14-7 USD.

It turned out to be the Toreros' final points but they proved enough — barely.

Jones, who replaced quarterback Henry Sintay when the latter suffered a pinched nerve in his shoulder early in the first half, fumbled the ball at his own 20 early in the third period and Chuck Kilcher recovered for the Parsons.

Two plays gained only one yard but Dickerson then connected on a 29-yard toss to Dave Smith who grabbed it in front of defender Mike Murphy in the endzone. Bruce Harding's attempted conversion was wide to the right in the play that decided the ball game.

USD's Sammy Croom, who wrote a flock of school records with his brilliant running in previous games, was held to only 13 yards in as many carries last night by the big Westminster defensive line.

Leonard made seven receptions for 102 yards to end with two new school marks — 34 season catches for 631 yards.

Editor To Address World Affairs Unit

Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, will be guest speaker at the fall dinner meeting of the World Affairs Council of San Diego, to be held at the University of San Diego Thursday.

The dinner will be held in Founders Hall dining room following a 6:30 p.m. social hour. Canham has served as U.S. delegate to the U.N. General Assembly, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

ON NIXON PANEL

He was appointed in 1970 to the President's Commission on Campus Unrest.

A native of Auburn, Maine, Canham was the son of a part-time farmer and weekly newspaper publisher. He received a bachelor's degree from Bates College and a bachelor's and master's degree from Oxford University in England, which he attended as a Rhodes Scholar.

As an undergraduate he worked as a cub reporter for the Monitor and covered the League of Nations meetings in Geneva while a student in Europe. From 1932-1939 he was chief of the Monitor's Washington bureau; became its managing editor in 1942; editor in 1945; and editor-in-chief in 1964.

HEADED CHURCH

He was elected president of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston for one year in June, 1966.

Canham is an honorary fellow of Sigma Delta Chi, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Delta Sigma Rho, the Association of American Rhodes Scholars, and a 33rd-degree Mason.

He holds honorary degrees from 27 colleges and universities. Canham broadcast commentaries for ABC from 1945 to 1964 and now is a commentator on public affairs for the Westinghouse Broadcasting Co.

UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO

By TERRI DUFFY

The Alcala Park Players, a theater group organized this year with student funds, will make its debut this weekend. The students will present Peter Shaffer's "Black Comedy" at 8 p.m. Saturday and Sunday in the Camino Theater. The play is about a young sculptor whose New York City apartment is the setting for romance and mishap when the electricity fails.

Mike Hermesen, a senior history major and president of the theater group, said the group was formed to show there is a need for theater instruction and a theater arts minor.

The campus theater arts department was eliminated in the fall because of a lack of student interest, leaving seven students, including Hermesen, without a minor.

Associated Students officers and the three deans of students will hold their last weekly rap session of the quarter Tuesday. Even though the sessions were designed to promote communication between students and administration, there has been little participation from the student body because of a lack of publicity, spokesmen said.

M. Lench FIBERS displayed

A showing of FIBERS by Maria Lench opened on Friday in Founders Gallery at the University of San Diego. The hangings are to be on display until Dec. 22. Several of them may be purchased.

A La Jolla resident, Mrs. Lench studied at the University of Colorado and California State University, San Diego. She continued her education under the tutelage of such recognized weavers as Gladys Karmazin, Helga Miles and Barbara Shawcroft. She holds memberships in the San Diego Weavers Guild, Fine Arts Gallery, Tapestry West California, Laguna Beach Art Association and the San Diego Art Guild.

The artist says of her media, "I believe that fiber is a media in which an artist can express feeling of texture. Texture in all aspects of my work is very important. Color as well. In fiber, I am trying to achieve excitement of form with the combinations of color and texture. Exciting frontiers that add depth. I think of myself as working in many experimental areas and materials. Fiber is one of those areas."

Maria Lench has shown in La Jolla, San Diego and other cities in Southern California. Her hangings were in the "Artzappin" at the Salk Institute, The Jewish Community Art Festival and the Tapestry West Group Show in Pasadena.

Founders Gallery is open 9 to 5 weekdays and weekends by appointment. The gallery is located in Founders Hall on the campus of the University of San Diego.

Identifiable Toreros have lofty gridiron aims

By JACK WILLIAMS

Andy Vinci, the University of San Diego football coach, has earned a winning season. He's also earned a vacation. But his next job, recruiting 35 football players for spring practice beginning in February, lies before him.

He can tackle it secure in the knowledge that a 6-3-1 team which started with nothing, in its first year of inter-collegiate football since 1961, has secured.

Vinci yesterday outlined some objectives at the Sportswriters - Sportscasters Assn. luncheon at 7 Seas Hyatt Lodge.

They included: (1) The raising of $132,000 between now and the beginning of next season. (2) Two full-time assistant coaches. (3) Thirty-five new football players. (4) Additional community support.

Tomorrow night, when the USD football board of directors meets, Vinci is hoping for an endorsement. "There are three or four very interesting individuals," he explained. "But we also need to get the university involved."

"We can guarantee the university X number of dollars per year. We can guarantee them nothing but profit."

"We raised $120,000 this year including capital improvements but our overhead took care of that."

Vinci has a six-year lease on the USD stadium, a pleasant, intimate place for football that has a small college flavor that seems to be lacking elsewhere in the area. It is Vinci's hope that USD can lease the stadium to high schools on Friday nights and U.S. International University on Saturday afternoons.

"You know," said Vinci, "Earlier this season people thought we were UCSD. I don't get that anymore. I think we've established our own identity."

Next year, the Toreros hope to further enhance that image with an 11-game schedule that includes St. Marys, Humboldt State and the three schools which defeated it this year: Los Angeles State, UC-Riverside and LaVerne.

"But first," said Vinci, "we have to get past Dec. 11. It was Dec. 11, 1961 that inter-collegiate football was dropped at USD."

USD hosts high school seniors

University of San Diego is to host local high school seniors at its Annual College Day today. A day of tours, class visitation and discussions with faculty members is planned. Counselors are to be available for admissions and financial aid information from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Secrets of wall cast doubt on date of Old Town church

By Nicholas Biondo

MORE THAN 100 years ago, Father Antonio Ubach, famed pioneer priest of Southern California, placed some coins and newspapers as mementoes of the times in the foundation of a church he was building in Old Town.

Last week these mementoes were found and they seem to confirm that construction of his church — dedicated to the Immaculate Conception — was begun July 16, 1869, and not, as generally believed, July 10, 1868.

Found in a corroded small tin box were fragments of The Monitor, Catholic weekly of San Francisco, dated July 10, 1869. The San Diego Union, July 14, 1869 and several U.S., Mexican and Spanish coins.

THE TIN BOX was inside a larger metal cash box, also badly corroded, with fragments of The Southern Cross, May 15, 1914, and The San Diego Union, May 16, 1914, with several American coins.

It was probably the first time that The Southern Cross — only a two-year-old Catholic weekly then — was placed in a church foundation as a record of the times.

The boxes were discovered beneath a stone slab in a foundation wall of the present Immaculate Conception church erected over ruins of the original structure on San Diego Avenue.

JACK DOYLE, 73, unofficial Old Town historian, said the 1869 newspaper fragments tie in with a story in The San Diego Union, June 25, 1905, which quotes Father Ubach saying the foundation for his church "was laid July 16, 1869, the 100th anniversary of the founding of the old San Diego Mission by Father Junipero Serra."

"I wanted to raise up a new church as a monument on the anniversary of the old mission, but it was never completed."

According to Doyle, when construction on the present church began in 1914, the smaller tin box was found wrapped in cloth inside a wall.

FATHER Joseph C. Mesny, pastor of Immaculate Conception in 1914, placed some coins and newspapers of the period in a new container, adding the materials dating from Father Ubach and returning both boxes to the original resting place.

The new church, built over the old one, was opened by Father Mesny in 1917 and dedicated by Bishop John J. Cantwell of Los Angeles in 1919.

The box-within-a-box was found by members of San Diego's Gem and Treasure Hunting Association, who have been researching Old Town.

PROFESSOR James Moriarty, historian and anthropologist at the University of San Diego, investigated the findings and chemically treated the newspaper fragments for preservation.

He reported that the amateur historians, using electronic equipment, discovered the box in a foundation wall to the right of the church front steps.

They had located the metallic box from the side and had removed the facing wall bricks, exposing a shaft behind the front wall and below floor level.

ON TOP OF THE box had been a rectangular piece of white quartzite 7 3/4 by 12 by 1 1/2 inches, and above this stone the shaft had been filled with rubble to floor level.

"In all one copper and 11 silver coins, and fragments of four newspapers were discovered," said Prof. Moriarty.

"It should be noted that there is a possibility some coins might have been lost in the crawlway under the church when the box was moved."

FATHER UBACH, famed as the Father Gaspara in Helen Hunt Jackson's novel, Ramona, came to San Diego in 1866 and spent the rest of his life serving the Indians.

He was pastor of the old Adobe Chapel — also dedicated to the Immaculate Conception — on Conde Street when he began his new church. But the big fire of 1872 which destroyed most of Old Town left the church unfinished.

In 1874 Father Ubach

College Quintets Open Tomorrow

Three area collegiate basketball teams get their seasons started tomorrow night and they will have at least one thing in common — seeking winning records.

That was something which evaded all three schools last season, but only barely.

UC San Diego escaped with a 13-13 standoff a year ago. University of San Diego and U.S. International both closed at 12-14.

The Tritons and Westerners will be opening on the same floor but against different opponents in the first round of the USIU Classic in the Westerners' Golden Gym.

University of San Diego begins against a rangy Southern Utah quintet in the USD gym.

UCSD faces LaVerne to open the Westerners' tourney with host USIU taking on Pomona College in the nighttime. Winners and losers meet the following evening.

The three area coaches face similar tasks, but there is a strong contrast in their collegiate coaching experience.

Bob Kloppenburg at USIU is the veteran of the lot, beginning his 14th season with the Westerners. Bernie Bickertstaff starts his fourth year at USD while former La Jolla High coach Bill Reeves takes over for his first season at UCSD.

Kloppenburg has been working with only a 10-man roster and one of his scheduled starters, 6-4 sophomore forward Buddy Siebenthal, is doubtful for the opening exercises due to a chipped bone in his thumb.

If Siebenthal is unavailable, the Westerners probably will open with John Blume (6-6) and Ken Brush (6-6) at the forwards, Charlie Ayers (6-8) at center and Bob Vilven (6-4) and Jim Sullivan (6-0) at guards. All are seniors but Sullivan, a junior.

Vilven, the squad's leading scorer last year as a forward, moves to the backcourt as the team captain.

Bickertstaff will have a bunch of guys named Smith, three of them in fact, in his starting lineup.

One of them, junior forward Pinky Smith, is a hold-over. He finished an eyelash behind guard Stan Washington in the Toreros' scoring figures last season, Washington averaging 18.1 points per contest and Pinky 17.8.

Pinky's brother, Kenny, joins him in the forecourt after breaking a host of his brother's records at Jefferson High in Daly City, Calif., last season. Kenny, 6-4, averaged 20.3 points and 18 rebounds in his final prep year.

USD will again employ the three forward system with 6-6 junior Ben Thompson the other "up front" man. Joining Washington in the starting backcourt will be the third Smith, 6-1 junior transfer Joe from the College of Marin where he had an 18.9 mean a year ago.

Reeves has five players back from last year's roster, three of them starters. Heading the list is 6-7 center Paul Trainer and that's not a bad place to start.

Trainer led all Triton scorers as a freshman last year when he poured an average of 20.1 points through the hoop each outing. He also paced the rebounders with 10.5 caroms per contest.

The other two returning starters are 6-4 junior Pete Henderson and 5-11 senior Jon LeLevier who both had 8.1 averages last season, third best on the team.

Jeff Kostyshak, a 6-5 junior, and 6-0 senior John May are the remaining returnees. LeLevier has been suffering

Toreros eye fourth victory at Arizona

Evening Tribune Dispatch
TUCSON — University of San Diego will try to do something USC couldn't here tonight.

The Toreros will try to defeat the Arizona Wildcats.

It is the first time USD will have met Arizona in the basketball floor and, for the Toreros, it is an opportunity time.

They will bring a 3-0 record into the game. The Wildcats, fresh from a 71-69 conquest of USC, are 2-2. Their losses have come to University of San Francisco, 94-75, and Stanford, 75-69. They also hold a victory over Bakerfield State, 94-87.

Eric Money, a 6 ft. 2 in. guard, is leading the Wildcats with 19.5 points per game. Al Fleming, a 6-8 freshman forward, is hitting at a 10.5 clip.

The Toreros will counter with a lineup featuring Stan Washington and Robert "Pinky" Smith.

Washington is averaging 16.3 points per game and has collected 16 rebounds and 15 assists. Smith is averaging 27 points, including 591 from the field. He also tops the team in rebounds with 36.

Tonight's encounter marks the beginning of a three-game road trip in this state. The Toreros journey to Northern Arizona Thursday and Arizona State Friday before returning to USD Dec. 22 against LaVerne. Northern Arizona is 1-1 and Arizona State is 2-1.

USD has not played the Sun Devils since the 1965-66 season, when it lost, 60-55. Northern Arizona has beaten USD twice, most recently, 91-77, last year.

3 College Clubs Start Road Trips

Three San Diego collegiate basketball teams take to the road today for a minimum of two games before returning to their home boards.

UC San Diego, whose only competition to date has been in the USIU Classic on U.S. International's floor, plays at Southern California College tonight.

University of San Diego begins a three-game Arizona tour today for University of Arizona at Tucson while USIU takes on Claremont College in a game which opens a six-game road trip for the Westerners although the windup of the series will be in the UCSD gym.

Coach Bernie Bickerstaff's Toreros, impressive with strong rebounding and solid shooting while winning their first three games at home, face a tough assignment tonight at Tucson.

With 6-2 freshman guard and Eric Money averaging 19.5 points per game, the Wildcats have broken even in four contests with the latest a 71-69 upset over the University of Southern California.

Arizona has lost to the University of San Francisco and Stanford, the latter by seven points, and whipped Bakerfield State in addition to the triumph over the Trojans.

Junior forward Pinky Smith, thanks to a 40-point effort in the Toreros' second outing, owns a 27.0 scoring average after three games. Stan Washington and Joe Smith are next at 16.3 and 11.0, respectively.

Following tonight's engagement, USD moves on to battle Northern Arizona at Flagstaff Thursday and Arizona State at Tempe Friday before heading home and a Dec. 22 date with LaVerne College.

UCSD, 0-2 after successive losses in the USIU Classic, has an assignment in Riverside against Cal Baptist Thursday, then play its first game on the home boards Saturday against Life College.

The Tritons had several players out with illness or injury in their first two starts including regular guard Jon LeVier. The resulting turnovers by inexperienced performers hurt coach Bill Reeves' club in both contests.

USIU, 2-0 after winning its own tournament, plays at Chapman College Friday night after tonight's test at Claremont, then travels to Santa Barbara Saturday night to meet Westmont College.

The Westerners stay on the road next week with games at Portland University in Oregon Dec. 22 and 23, and then meet Redlands in a doubleheader at UCSD Dec. 28 with UCSD facing Claremont in the second contest.

The four teams move over to USIU the following evening (Dec. 29) with USIU playing Claremont and UCSD taking on Redlands.

Top sophomores, forward Preston Jackson and center Bob Kunysz, have played leading roles in USIU's winning start. Jackson is the leading scorer with 29 points in the two contests while Kunysz has 24 points and tops the club in rebounds with 29.

Arizona Tops Toreros, 79-70

TUCSON, Ariz. — University of San Diego suffered its first defeat after three victories here last night as a freshman-dominated University of Arizona quietly used a second-half surge to score a 79-70 victory.

It was the first stop of a three-game Arizona tour for the Toreros who play Northern Arizona at Flagstaff tomorrow night and Arizona State at Tempe Friday.

USD played the Wildcats on even terms in the first 20 minutes last night despite running into foul trouble at the outset. Ben Thompson, USD's 6-6 forward, drew the first three fouls of the contest and fouled out in the second half after seeing only five minutes of action all evening.

The Toreros, who received 22 points from Pinky Smith and 20 from Stan Washington, owned a 34-21 edge with more than six minutes remaining in the first half.

However, the Wildcats surged back to take a 44-40 intermission advantage, saw USD move in front briefly at 52-50 in the second half, then used their talented, towering freshmen to go in front to stay.

Eric Money (6-2), Al Fleming (6-8) and Coniel Norman (6-5), all freshmen, scored 22, 18 and 16 points, respectively, for the winners.

USD was 8-for-8 at the free throw line in the first half, then failed to get a single opportunity at the charity line in the second period.

It was the third victory against two defeats for Arizona, one of the wins being an upset over USC.

Toreros Conquer LaVerne, 87-69

University of San Diego remained unbeaten on its home floor last night by cruising to an 87-69 victory over LaVerne College behind strong scoring by Stan Washington, Ken Smith and Joe Smith.

The Toreros' season scoring leader, Pinky Smith, managed only eight points before leaving the game midway of the second half, hobbled by a recurring foot injury.

It was discovered only last night that Smith, who has been averaging over 25 points per game, has been playing the entire season with a small broken bone in his foot.

However, he was fitted with an arch pad last night and given permission by doctors to play.

With Pinky Smith thus slowed, Washington took over to collect 20 points with Ken Smith adding 18 and Joe Smith 16.

USD managed a 39-28 halftime edge with Joe Smith hitting seven of his left-handed jumpers before the intermission. Ken Smith hit four shots in each half to end the night with a perfect 8-for-8 from the field.

It was the Toreros' fourth victory against three losses, the latter all on the road, while the visiting Leopards fell to 2-4. LaVerne put four players in double figures, but John Jones was top man with 13 points.

"It was our best overall team defense of the season," said USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff. "Our offense wasn't as good as I would have liked it to be, but it was improved."

USD Students Win History Competition

Two University of San Diego students are recipients of historical research prizes sponsored by the Old School House, 3966 Mason St. in Old Town.

The "Old School Street School Papers" competition was for the best paper on California and San Diego history.

Thomas L. Scharf received $30 for the best paper in content and research for "The Whipple Survey in Southern California."

Barbara C. McGill received $20 as second-place winner for her paper on "John Charles Fremont: Demigod or Demon?"

Sanchez Voted Toreros MVP

Sophomore running back Andy Sanchez was named the most valuable player for the University of San Diego's football team last night at the awards banquet held at the Town and Country Hotel.

Sanchez, also used as a line-backer on defense, gained 639 yards in 167 carries and scored six touchdowns on the Toreros squad which finished with a 6-3-1 record.

A graduate of Castle Park High School where he was named Metro League back of the year in 1969, Sanchez also was an all-conference selection at Southwestern College in 1971.

Other awards last night went to Bruce McFarlan, most inspirational; Mike Wagner, best defensive player; Sammy Croom, best offensive player; Tony Castillo, highest offensive efficiency lineman; Tom Jones, most improved offense and Bill Jache, most improved defense.

Sanchez, Wagner and McFarlan were named captains for next year.

USD schedules Yule program

A posada in the authentic Mexican tradition will be the Christmas gift of the University of San Diego to the people of the community of San Diego County. A performance by the Ballet Folklorico de Tijuana will be held in the open-air Greek Theater on the USD Campus on Sunday, at 7:30 p.m. The public of all ages is invited.

The Cathedral Choir of Tijuana will lead the Posada which enacts the journey of Mary and Joseph to Bethlehem in search of lodging. After being turned away many times, they find a place and there is great rejoicing. Candy filled piñatas will be broken. The Ballet Folklorico will dance in native costumes.

Sun Devils Rip Toreros, 85-59

TEMPE, Ariz. — University of San Diego's basketball team began an invasion of Arizona last Tuesday with a 3-0 record. It departed the state last night with a 3-3 mark as Arizona State used the towering 44-27 halftime edge and were height of 6-11 and 6-9 per formers to block numerous 85-59 defeat.

The Sun Devils rushed to a 44-27 halftime edge and were never in serious trouble the rest of the game. Ron Kennedy (6-9) and Mark Wasley (6-9) knocked down shot after shot by USD and prevented the Toreros from the rebounding edge that prevailed in their opening victories.

Wasley ended with 16 points as high man for the evening. Ken Gray added 15. Mike Contreras 12 and Kennedy 11 as the Sun Devils won for the third time in five starts.

Their two defeats have been to Creighton and Cincinnati while winning over North Texas State and Loyola of Chicago.

Pinky Smith paced USD with 13 points and hauled in 15 rebounds. Stan Washington added 12 and Ken Smith and Ben Thompson had 10 each.

USD which had been shooting in the high 40 per cent bracket, could get down only 23 of 76 attempts last night for a cold 30 per cent. . . Arizona State was 39 of 90 for 43 per cent.

COPLEY AIDS QUAKE FUND

James S. Copley, chairman of the corporation publishing Copley Newspapers, last night contributed $2,500 to the Nicaraguan earthquake relief fund.

The contribution was made on behalf of The Copley Newspapers.

Contributions to the relief fund may be sent to The Nicaraguan Earthquake Disaster, in care of the American Red Cross, 3540 Fifth Ave., San Diego, Calif. 92103.

STUDENT VIEWPOINT

Opportunities Rated Improved

"Sometimes it is good; sometimes it is bad, all of the time it is very difficult."

These are the thoughts of one black student, Charles E. Davis, on being a Negro today in American society.

And while the times mean different things to different students, all generally agree there is a great challenge and excitement in being part of today.

"I think we're on top," said Mrs. Helen Gurley, a student at Chapman College and at San Diego Evening College where she serves as vice president of the Afro-American Student Council. "I think we, in a sense, are now treated differently but we are beginning to get more respect from others and it gives me a sense of being free. We're in the midst of a changing society and the black woman is beginning to shine where, before, she was in the shadows. She's coming out of the house and beginning to get out into the world and see what it's all about. We now have better opportunities to prove ourselves to other people," she added.

For Phil J. Love these times are the same as the past for Negroes with the exception that today offers more opportunities for his people.

"Now, if you really want opportunity, it is there but you have to find it. If you want an education, you can get one. In the past, you couldn't," said Love.

Dorothy Florence believes the times are particularly good for black women.

"Because a woman, and especially a black woman, who has any kind of qualifications and is really sharp, can just about get a job in any area. Just everybody and their brother wants this black female. If she is not an introvert, she can accomplish a lot for herself. Overall, it's a good time. Before, it never occurred to me that being black could be a reason why I would get a job," she said.

And for Mrs. Diane M. Dix-

Break for USD's Smith turns pain on opponents

If Robert "Pinky" Smith, University of San Diego leading scorer, goes on to establish more Torero basketball marks he can always recall that special break he received before the season even started.

Smith, whose 19 field goals and 40 points has already erased a pair of single game school records this season, began pre-season drills just like he always had.

There were even the aches and pains that complement the muscle stiffness so commonly attached to first week workouts. This year, though, one in particular hurt a bit more.

Not being one to rebound for sympathy and having a team physician that guaranteed quick relief, the soreness was diagnosed as a bone bruise. Smith went his way in hurting others on the floor until someone decided to photograph the still-bothersome foot.

Alas, a break. But in the foot and not the season. But remember the team physician?

With a special arch support he has given USD the use of Smith for the remainder of the 1972-73 hoop season. And that comes at a perfect time.

The Toreros, 4-3 on the season, host the Titans of Cal State Fullerton tonight then journey northward to the four-team Torero Tournament Friday and Saturday.

The Toreros will be out to boost their perfect 4-0 home mark at 8 and then improve on their 0-3 road act. Friday the Toreros will open against Western Washington while Stanislaus State tangles with Occidental in the nightcap.

While Smith is the leading scorer, averaging 22.7 points per game, Stan Washington leads the club with 32 assists and is second in the scoring bracket with a 15.1 average.

Smith also leads the Toreros with 26 rebounds, followed by Ben Thompson's 24 and Kenny Smith's 46.

USD downs champions, faces Oxy

Evening Tribune Dispatch

TURLOCK, Calif. — University of San Diego turned back three-time defending champion Western Washington State, 75-63, last night in opening action in the Turlock Jaycee basketball tournament.

Tonight the Toreros will engage Occidental for the championship. Oxy was a 62-61 winner over host Stanislaus State.

USD withstood a 37-point performance by Mike Franza to come out on top. Pinky Smith and Stan Washington each scored 17 points for USD.

In winning on the road for the first time in the new season, the Toreros hit 50% from the field and led all the way.

USD Defeats Oxy, 89-79

Evening Tribune Dispatch

TURLOCK, Calif. — University of San Diego put six players in double figures but needed every one of them last night as the Toreros won the Stanislaus State Invitational tournament here with an 89-79 victory over Occidental College.

Stan Washington led USD with 21 points and was named the tourney's most valuable player. Ben Thompson added 17 points last night. Joe Smith 14, Tommy Davis 13, Pinky Smith 12 and Ken Smith 10. Pinky Smith also was named to the all-tourney team along with Washington.

USD led, 41-39, at halftime with the game a close battle until the final seven minutes when the Toreros pulled away to their seventh victory against three defeats.

Best Efforts Lead Toreros To Meet Title

Two players who contributed their best performances of the season Saturday night helped University of San Diego collect the championship of the annual Stanislaus State tournament at Turlock.

The Toreros defeated Occidental College, 89-79, in the title contest after whipping defending champion Western Washington, 75-63, in the first round Friday evening.

Center Ben Thompson hit on seven of eight shots from the field, tossed in three of five free throws for 17 points and collected 15 rebounds Saturday night.

Forward Tommy Davis came off the bench in the second half to connect on six of 10 shots and wind up with 13 points. They were only two of six Toreros in double figures.

Stan Washington led the parade with 21 points and was named the tourney's most valuable player. Pinky Smith had 12 points and was named with Washington to the all-tourney squad.

Joe Smith had 14 points and Ken Smith 10 as USD ran its season record to 7-3 in winning its fourth straight game after a three-game losing streak.

"We had four players in double figures on Friday night, and then six on Saturday," reminded coach Bernie Bickerstaff. "We are beginning to get the scoring balance we need. We still have plenty of work to do, but we're getting there."

The Toreros' next action will be at UC Riverside Saturday night.

'Shooting is now' says Bickerstaff

Evening Tribune Dispatch

For all practical purposes, the name of the game is not basketball, but shooting. That's accomplished through the art of shooting.

Therefore, the University of San Diego basketball team should be a bunch of feasible young men. At least on coach Bernie Bickerstaff's belief.

"I tell them," Bickerstaff explained to Monday's meeting of the Sports-writers/ Sportscasters Assn., "that if you get your shot, take it."

And if they hit like they did against UC Riverside Saturday night, look for a pair of Torero wins this Friday and Saturday when Bickerstaff's five host Northern Arizona and then jump over to UCSD. Both games begin at 8 p.m.

"I don't care if they come down the court one on three — if they get their shot I want them to take it," said Bickerstaff.

Saturday the Toreros took 49 of "their shots" and hit 30 in a 77-70 upset win over previously undefeated UC Riverside. They parlayed their attack with a 1-2-2 zone defense that USD had not seen since Bickerstaff came to Alcala Park in 1969.

An early season loss to Northern Arizona, coupled by the fact USD starts a pair of cagers that USD once recruited, has the Toreros emotionally charged for this weekend.

"The kids are fired up," said Bickerstaff. "It's an emotional week and I'm ready to go."

Say, for a few shots.

UCSD plays tonight

Evening Tribune Dispatch

UCSD, winner of five straight games, will attempt to make it six tonight when it entertains Pacific Christian at 8.

After dropping their first three starts, the Tritons have roared back with five consecutive victories. Three of them were routs.

Pacific Christian is a Long Beach school which lost to U.S. International University Thursday night, 73-55. Christian committed 25 turnovers when confronted with a full-court press and UCSD is expected to employ similar tactics this evening.

The top Triton pointmaker continues to be 6-ft. 7-in. sophomore center Paul Trainer. He is averaging 22 points a game.

U.S. International University tries for its fourth straight victory tonight against Cal Lutheran in Golden Gym.

Game time is 8 for the Westerners, who are led by the scoring of Jim Sullivan, a junior averaging 12.7 points a game, and senior forward Ken Brush, who has a 12.3 scoring average.

Cal Lutheran's top scorer is Steve Jasper, last week's NAIA District 3 player of the week. Jasper averages 25 points a game.

University of San Diego has the toughest job of area colleges tonight. The Toreros travel to Riverside for a game with UC-Riverside, winner of 10 games without a loss this season.

USD has won its last four games behind the scoring of Pinky Smith and Stan Washington. Smith has a 20.4 scoring average while Washington's mark is 16.

Revenge motivates streaking Toreros

A little revenge can be a satisfying thing and that is exactly what University of San Diego's basketball team has in mind this week.

Friday night the Toreros will play host to Northern Arizona here, a team that represents one of the losses on USD's fine 6-3 slate to date.

"Northern Arizona beat us 79-73 during our trip to Arizona earlier this season," recalled head coach Bernie Bickerstaff yesterday.

"Really, it was the one game on that trip we should have won. I'm sure we can get them here and I know the kids will be up for it."

The Toreros demonstrated what can happen when they get up Saturday night during visit UC-Riverside.

Underdogs to a Highlander team that came into the meeting with a 10-0 record, the Toreros hit a torrid 61% from the field and came away with a 77-70 victory.

"We didn't take a lot of shots (49) but the ones we took were good ones," said Bickerstaff. "They used the same press UCLA does. Once we broke it we had the advantage and were getting the short bank shots."

Stan Washington and Pinky Smith each netted 24 points to lead the Toreros to their fifth straight triumph while Joe Smith added 12 and Ben Thompson 11. Bob Walter paced UC-Riverside with 17.

After jumping off to a 42-32 lead in the first half, the Toreros had some anxious moments when the Highlanders came back to take the lead briefly at 64-63.

"They had a capacity crowd there but our kids kept their poise," praised Bickerstaff. "It was really a great win for us."

Following Friday night's rematch with Northern Arizona, the Toreros will travel across town to UCSD Saturday night for a game with the Tritons at 8.

The Tritons captured their sixth straight victory at home Saturday night with a 77-63 nod over Pacific Christian despite fielding a team reduced to only eight men because of the flu.

Gie Simpson netted 17 points and Pete Henderson 15 to lead the Tritons while Gary Dandret scored 20, all in the second half, to pace Pacific Christian.

Area basketball coaches Bernie Bickerstaff of USD and Eob Kloppenburg of USIU came out of last weekend smiling.

"We are elated," said Bickerstaff, whose Toreros (8-3) upset previously unbeaten UC Riverside, 77-70, Saturday night.

"It was just a real good college basketball game before a turnaway crowd (in Riverside). We pressed for 35 minutes and they pressed for 40, and there were only 18 turnovers.

"We took only 49 shots but we made 31 (61 per cent)," Bickerstaff noted. "We waited for our shot and we made it."

Stan Washington and Pinky Smith each scored 24 points for the Toreros.

"NO BACK SEAT"

"I'll say it again. These guys don't have to take a back seat to any college guard or forward in the country," Bickerstaff said again.

This week, USD faces Northern Arizona, which earlier beat the Toreros in Flagstaff — a game where the officiating displeased Bickerstaff greatly.

"This is an emotional week coming up for us," he feels.

"I told you before that what goes around must come around. It comes around for us Friday night. We want that one real bad."

The Toreros will play UCSD Saturday night. "And they've got a couple of guys we recruited," Bickerstaff notes.

Kloppenburg's Westerners, 7-4 overall, are 7-1 in District 3 NAIA play with four sophomores on a 10-man squad.

"This team has been a real surprise to me, and to the rest of the district, too, I think," Kloppenburg admitted.

"I thought we would be building this year. These guys have amazed me the way they've come on."

"I just don't know how far we can go. We're leading the district in defense and we're strong on the boards. But we're not real quick."

USD, UCSD Win, Battle Tonight

University of San Diego is 9-3 or the season. UCSD is 8-3. The Tritons have won eight straight, the Toreros six in a row. Tonight something has to give as the cross-town rivals battle in the UCSD gym beginning at 8.

University of San Diego

avenged one of its three defeats by scoring a 62-55 victory over Northern Arizona on the Toreros' floor last night as Stan Washington led the way with 28 points.

The Tritons rolled to their eighth victory after three opening losses by scoring a repeat victory over Pacific Christian, 64-52, at Long Beach last night.

Paul Trainer scored 24 points and Gie Simpson 12 as the top guns for UCSD.

The USD-Northern Arizona contest was a loosely-played affair with both teams missing numerous shots from close range in the opening minutes.

Washington had 12 points in the first half but the Toreros still trailed, 33-29, at the recess. The score was only 8-8 after the first 10 minutes before Washington began to connect.

Then the Toreros opened the second half with six straight points, four by Joe Smith and two by Washington, to take a 35-33 edge.

USD was on top, 50-41, with 10:56 to play. But here both teams turned cold again and four minutes ticked off the clock with neither team scoring.

Washington came through again in the final minutes with a basket and three free throws. However, he was only 8-for-20 from the field for the night, a pattern followed by both teams.

Pinky Smith and Joe Smith followed Washington in the scoring with 12 and 11 points, respectively, for USD. The Toreros still managed to hit only 26 of 74 shots for 35 per cent.

NAU was 23 for 63 for 37 per cent.

Charlie Flemons led the losers with 13 points with Gerry Jeffrey adding 11 and Nate Payne 10 as the Arizona club fell to a 4-8 record.

In a preliminary to the USD-NAU game, Naval Training Center scored an 83-81 victory over the Los Angeles Bullets AAU Squad. Dick Ridgeway led the way for NTC with 19 points as the Bluejackets ran their season record to 16-5.

The Tritons led all the way in their school record eighth straight win last night although Pacific Christian cut the deficit to six points last in the first half.

UCSD had the same six-point margin, 30-24, at the intermission. The losers' Brad Young scored to make it 30-26 to open the second half, but the Tritons then used strong defense off a zone press to pull away.

It was 56-48 for UCSD with 2:36 to play before Trainer and Pete Henderson helped the Tritons to their final 12-point margin.

String ends, Toreros set to try again

The University of San Diego basketball team will get a chance to start a new win streak Friday night when it meets Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, in the USD gymnasium.

The Toreros saw their seven-game string of victories end last night in Bakersfield where they lost to Bakersfield State, 73-56. The loss left the USD team with a record of 10-4.

Should the Toreros take the game from Cal Poly they'll have a chance for a second straight win Saturday when they travel to Costa Mesa to meet Southern California College. Summary:

USD, USIU, UCSD PLAY TONIGHT

College Fives Busy

University of San Diego, U.S. International and U.C. San Diego continue to pad their winning streaks. But two of them face tough assignments on their home courts tonight and one of the victory strings will be broken tomorrow if UCSD gets past a road test tonight.

The Toreros of USD host Northern Arizona tonight while USIU is home to Occidental in a NAIA District 3 contest. Both games start at 8.

UCSD plays a return engagement at Pacific Christian, 77-70, a 77-61 victory over the same club here six days ago.

Then, tomorrow night, the Tritons and Toreros mix it up on the UCSD floor.

USD knocked off previously unbeaten UC Riverside, 77-70, in its last start.

Northern Arizona was 44 entering a road trip this week with one of the triumphs a 79-71 verdict over USD in Arizona. However, NAU has dropped all three starts on its trip including a 79-56 defeat by Bakersfield State Wednesday night for a present 4-7 figure.

Meanwhile, the Toreros have rolled to five straight victories with Pinky Smith leading the way with a 20.7 scoring average. Stan Washington, the club's "quarterback" as well as a strong scorer, is next with a 16.7 mean. USD is now 8-3 on the season.

PINKY SMITH ... carries 20.7 average

The Toreros suffered a loss in their defensive strength earlier this week when reserve guard Jackie Robinson fractured a hand. It was placed in a cast and he will be out for an indefinite period.

U.S. International will throw a 7-4 record at Oxy tonight with the Westerners having won their last four contests. The visiting Tigers are 7-6 after falling to Pomona College, 59-56, Wednesday night.

The loss to Pomona broke a five-game winning streak for Occidental.

USIU took care of Cal Lutheran, 80-64, last Saturday. "We played our best basketball of the season in the second half of that one," enthuses coach Bob Kloppenburg. "We outscored them, 51-35, in that time and hit on better than 50 per cent of our shots."

Jim Sullivan, junior from Van Nuys, led the second half effort with 17 of his game total 25. Sullivan now has 152 points for a 13.8 average as the top USIU scorer and also leads in assists with 52.

UCSD's Tritons have run off seven straight wins since dropping the first three games of the season. Coach Bill Reeves hopes for a repeat of last Saturday's success over Pacific Christian at Long Beach tonight to set up additional momentum for tomorrow night's battle with USD.

Sophomore center Paul Trainer scored 25 points in the Tritons' latest triumph, a 72-58 nod over Cal Baptist Thursday, to increase his team-leading average to 20.8 points per game.

USD shows winning ways

Bernie might love Bridget on television once a week but there's more of a lasting relationship with Bernie - Bickerstaff, that is - and his University of San Diego Toreros.

Bernie began the 1972-73 basketball season with the concept of having a winner. After all, everyone loves a winner.

Now 14 games into the schedule, with just three defeats in the liability column, Bernie is beginning to cherish the engagement.

The Toreros (11-3) will test their obligation this weekend when they journey to Southern California College in Costa Mesa on Saturday evening after hosting Cal Poly San Luis Obispo at 8 the night before.

The contest against Southern California will be a return match for the Toreros, who crushed coach Lynn Taylor's five earlier in the season, 93-56.

Since that meeting the Toreros have done everything to improve. They are in the process of establishing a new consecutive win mark, needing five more to tie the 1957-58 record of 12.

Stan Washington, a 6-4 junior all-American candidate, 6-1 guard Joe Smith, 6-6 center Ben Thompson, and the brothers, Pinky and Kenny Smith are pacing the Toreros to perhaps their best season ever.

With the 11 wins under their belts, and 12 games left on the slate, the Toreros have an excellent shot at erasing the 1955-56 record (17) win total. To do it, however, Bickerstaff feels his team will have to perform better in one phase.

"We have to reach an emotional medium," Bickerstaff explained. "One game we're up too high and then the next night we're not up enough."

Toreros Win 7th In Row, Roll Past Tritons, 77-61

Aggressive, ball-hawking University of San Diego led all the way in rolling to a convincing 77-61 victory over UC San Diego in a battle of winning streaks on the Tritons' floor last night.

The defeat broke the UCSD victory string at a school record eight games while the Toreros won their seventh consecutive contest for a 10-3 season record. The Tritons are now 8-4.

It is generally accepted that the Toreros play a more demanding schedule and last night's result strongly backed up the contention.

USD was easily the more physical club as it rushed to a 41-23 halftime edge and had little trouble thereafter.

Guard Stan Washington set the winner's scoring pace with 22 points with forward Pinky Smith next with 18. Ken Smith also reached double figures with 13.

Center Paul Trainer once again led the Tritons, but managed only 14 points after averaging over 20 in his previous 11 contests. Six of his points came from the free throw line as he hit on only four of 10 shots from the field.

Standing 6-7 but weighing only 170 pounds, Trainer took a physical beating in the low post last night as the Toreros used a collapsing zone defense, alternating Pinky Smith, Ben Thompson and Pete Cosenza, all 6-6, to double-team him in the process.

On the few occasions when he managed to pull down a rebound, the ball often was batted away from him and turned into USD baskets.

"We knew we had to stop Trainer," explained Toreros coach Bernie Bickerstaff. "He is not too strong physically, but when he gets hot he is hard to stop. We just didn't want him to get started."

"We played well tonight, but I think we were not up enough emotionally. Maybe, we were a little overconfident. Against Northern Arizona (Friday night) we were up too high, just tight as could be. But we got the job done tonight."

Washington got down 10 baskets in only 16 shots and added two free throws in as many tries for his 22 points. Pinky Smith missed only twice in 10 shots for his 18.

A rebound by Washington gave USD a 31-22 edge with about five minutes left in the first half but Jon LeVier's basket off a missed free throw and a charity toss by Trainer cut it to 31-25.

Here the Toreros exploded with Joe Smith hitting from the right corner. Cosenza getting a lay up off a sharp Washington pass, Washington connecting from far out, Joe Smith tallying again on a steal and Cosenza getting two points on a driving underhand layup.

UCSD could manage only a free throw by John May and Gie Simpson's basket at the halftime buzzer as it fell back by the 13 points at the intermission.

The Tritons could manage only three baskets in the game's final 10 minutes with USD rushing to its greatest lead of 23 points (69-46) on a tip-in by Pinky Smith with a little over six minutes to play.

For the night, the Toreros got down 36 of 65 attempts for 55 per cent while UCSD could manage only 22 of 60 for 37 per cent.

USD also had the rebounding edge, 33-40, although the Toreros' dominance of the boards (they often took four or five shots before getting the basket) made the difference appear even greater.

State Sets 3 Old Town Projects

San Diego Union Staff Dispatch SACRAMENTO — Three historical reconstruction and research projects have been set for Old Town San Diego State Historic Park, the Department of Parks and Recreation said.

The A. L. Seeley Stable located behind the Bandini home in the park will be rebuilt and made into a museum through the support of contractor R. E. Hazard.

The stable was built in 1850 when the old Bandini home was converted into the Cosmopolitan Hotel by Seeley. The stable was used for stage line horses. Hazard is donating $50,000 to the project and his collection of historic wagons, coaches and other artifacts worth about $1 million.

The archeological work will be conducted by Dr. Paul Ezell of California State University, San Diego.

Another reconstruction project is underway at the Rodriguez Adobe on San Diego Avenue under direction of Dr. Raymond Brandes of the University of San Diego.

The 130-year-old adobe will be used as a pipe and tobacco shop by Geoffrey A. Mogilner who is paying for the reconstruction. The Rodriguez Adobe was once used for a pipe and tobacco shop.

Archeological study will be conducted at the Maria Antonio Machado de Silva home on San Diego Avenue by Dr. William Wallace, formerly of the University of Southern California.

Work on the Machado Adobe, thought to have been built in the late 1830s, will be financed with state money.

Bickerstaff Has USD Five On Winning Path

University of San Diego has reached the halfway mark of its 26-game basketball schedule. And all of a sudden Bernie Bickerstaff has emerged as the first winning coach in the school's basketball history which began with the 1855-56 season.

The Toreros have compiled an impressive 10-3 record through their first 13 contests, the latest a 77-61 conquest of cross-town rival UC San Diego Saturday night.

And Bickerstaff, in the middle of his fourth season, has now coached the Toreros to a 46-43 career mark. And, although he no doubt looks forward to many more seasons at the USD helm, Bickerstaff now stands in good position to improve upon his present won-lost figure.

His starting five consists of four juniors and a freshman, providing good material for at least another season.

With one minor exception, Bob McCutcheon was 14-1 in his one campaign in 1957-58, USD coaches have failed to have winning careers. Phil Woolpert, whom Bickerstaff succeeded, finished a seven-year span at an even 90-90. Four others all ended with losing terms.

So Bickerstaff, who played two years at USD before serving three years as Woolpert's assistant, has a promising future to consider as his club begins the second half of its season in a game at Bakersfield State tonight.

The Toreros return home to meet Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo Friday evening, then travel to Costa Mesa Saturday for a return engagement with Southern California College.

Guard Stan Washington has closed in on leader Pinky Smith in the USD scoring statistics after 13 games. In the last two games, Washington has increased his average from 16.7 to 17.6 while Smith has dropped from 20.7 to 19.8.

The Toreros as a team are hitting at a 77.6 clip compared to 69.7 for the opposition.

Archeology students from University of San Diego dig into soil at Old Town to find the foundation of a tobacco shop that burned in 1872.

WENT UP IN SMOKE IN 1872

Old Town Dream Rekindled On Tobacco Shop's Ashes

It may be just a pipe dream but Geoffrey A. Mogilner wants to rebuild Racine and Laramie, Ltd., in San Diego's Old Town. Racine and Laramie was a store on San Diego Avenue that in 1867 dealt in cigars, tobacco, pipes, cutlery and stationery. The building, constructed in 1830 by Spanish army veteran Juan Rodriguez, was destroyed by a fire in 1872.

"Everything depends on the state leasing me the property," Mogilner said yesterday. "They want to be sure we will construct the building exactly as it was in 1872, with adobe."

They learned that Juan was the son of Pablo Pancho Rodriguez, one of the first nine Spanish settlers granted land and a house in Los Angeles in 1796. By 1815, the elder Rodriguez was "acting as major-domo" of the San Diego Mission.

Juan became a "leather-jacket" soldier in the San Diego Company of the Spanish army and served for a time at the Presidio in Monterey. By 1869, according to Mogilner's research, Rodriguez was living in a frame house and renting the Old Town site to Racine and Laramie.

A concrete sidewalk had covered much of the site until the archeological excavation project began.

UCSD's Registrar Promoted

Harold E. Temmer, the UCSD registrar and admissions officer for the past 4½ years, has been appointed to the newly created post of assistant vice chancellor for academic services.

Ronald J. Bowker, assistant to the registrar and admissions officer, will replace Temmer.

Temmer served as the director of admissions and records at the California State College, Los Angeles, for two years prior to joining UCSD in June, 1968.

Biography Studied

Meanwhile, Mogilner and his wife have been digging through historical documents to come up with a sketchy biography of Juan Rodriguez.

Student Law Clinic Helps Helpless To Solve Their Legal Problems

By RITA GILLMON

A Mexican-American housewife, in this country legally though not a citizen, is being harassed by a neighbor who is a citizen and threatens to "have her deported." She doesn't know what her rights are and is afraid. Where can she go for help?

A man buys a used car for $900 that soon after turns out to be worth less than $400. He has no money for a lawyer. Who can help him?

Cases just like this have been handled at the Legal Clinics sponsored by the University of San Diego Law School at four locations in San Diego County. The clinics are run on a team system with an attorney supervising and third-and-second-year law students handling the cases.

In January of 1970, the Board of Governors of the State Bar Association set forth rules governing the practical training of law students, and the USD Law School began using them in 1971 to train students in the practice of law.

ATTORNEY SUPERVISOR

An attorney who is supervising a group of students must be a member of the State Bar and have practiced law actively for two years.

Cases like those above have been handled by Richard Wharton, third-year law student and director of the clinic at the Metropolitan Area Advisory Council, at 827 A. St., National City.

"We have three teams here, each one consisting of two attorneys to supervise, two third-year law students who will interview clients and represent them in court or at hearings, and four second-year students who will help with research and leg work," said Wharton.

Each student comes to the clinic every third week at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, and handles from 4 to 8 cases each time. In addition, the students meet once a week in a class with Professor Charles Lynch, director of the program, and are allowed two units of credit for their clinic work.

Professor Charles A. Lynch and Bill Blatchley, third-year law student at the University of San Diego, research for a case Bill is working on for the Legal Clinic sponsored by the Law School. Poor persons are helped in four San Diego County locations.

NOT EASY

"After one interview here the student realizes that this is not going to be an easy two credits. It's working with people's lives, and they are depending on you," said Wharton.

Wharton graduated from the University of Dayton, Ohio, in 1966, and served three years in the U.S. army in Vietnam where he was a battery commander.

"When I came home, I worked for a month in New York in a management training program for a paper company. I was doing well, but knew I wasn't going to be satisfied," he said.

Wharton is enjoying his work at the clinic and plans to work as a public advocate after graduation, if it is possible.

"We have an advocate system in this country and I think it's the best kind to have; but you have to have advocates on both sides and too often the poor haven't had anyone," he said.

During 1971 through 1972, over 1,200 persons were interviewed at the MAAC clinic; 235 were accepted as clients, 437 were referred to attorneys in private practice or to other agencies and over 500 had their problems resolved at the initial interview.

At the MAAC Clinic, the Family Service Association works with the legal personnel, and the MAAC provides interpreters and office help.

Judy Di Gennaro is student director of the Southeast Welfare Law Clinic located in the Legal Aid Office at 2751 Imperial Ave. This clinic meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., and last year saw 900 applicants. Seven teams were working here.

WELFARE CLIENTS

"Last semester we worked on fair hearings with welfare clients, people who were denied aid though they thought they qualified, or people who were underpaid. This year we are going to represent people who have been accused of welfare fraud in criminal proceedings at the Municipal Court. We know the students are pretty familiar with welfare law, but how the procedure will work out remains to be seen. We are pretty well breaking new ground here," said Miss Gennaro.

Russell Robinson is director of the Linda Vista Clinic which operates out of the Neighborhood House Association on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Last year 888 clients were served, of which 65 cases required pleadings or court appearances, 503 were resolved by negotiations or on the spot advice and 320 were referred to other attorneys or to public agencies for non-legal assistance.

Linda Vista handles mostly welfare rights cases, 40 per cent, 20 per cent, and domestic or family law, 20 per cent.

NEW CLINIC

A new clinic has been started this year which operated out of a store front at 230 E. Grand Ave., Escondido 92025. Dwight Worden is the director, and it is expected that 90 per cent of the cases will be landlord-tenant, family law, same welfare rights and consumer fraud.

The third year students who handle cases have been certified by the State Bar for such work, and must be supervised by a named lawyer or lawyers who will take responsibility for the work. The program is an effort to give internship type training to law students in answer to a challenge from Warren E. Burger, Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court.

"The shortcoming of today's law graduate lies, not in a deficient knowledge of the law, but in that he had little, if any, training in dealing with facts or people—the stuff of which cases are really made," he said.

"There is no question about it. In this program the students are learning a great deal about the actual practice of law as it is actually done," said Professor Lynch.

'Best team in town' challenges Whittier

EVENING TRIBUNE Dispatch

WHITTIER—They are, some say, the best college basketball team in San Diego.

Tonight, however, the Toreros of the University of San Diego would settle for being the best in Whittier. It is here they will contest the Whittier Poets, beginning at 8 p.m.

USD will bring a 12-5 record into the game, fresh from a 72-68 victory over Cal Poly San Luis Obispo last weekend. Whittier is 8-9 but the Poets have defeated USD 15 of the 20 times the two schools have played.

Whittier is led by 6 ft. 10 in. center Fred Hicks, a junior college transfer who joined the Poets at midsemester. Hicks scored 15 points and collected 10 rebounds in his first game.

He is joined in the starting lineup by guards Al Hardin (13.3 points per game) and Jack Smoot (10.4), and forwards Rod Tatum (6.9) and Bernie Hoskin (8.4).

Robert "Pinky" Smith is pacing USD with a 17.7 average and Stan Washington is at 16.6.

USD will return home Friday night for an encounter with Cal Poly Pomona, beginning at 8.

USD names Hoffman as grid aide

University of San Diego has added a full-time assistant coach to what it hopes will be a growing football program. The school, which resumed intercollegiate football this past season with but one full-time coach, head man Andy Vincel, yesterday added Tom Hoffman.

Hoffman, 31, has coached the last three years at Montgomery High. Prior to that he was an assistant for three years at Castle Park.

Hoffman is a graduate of California State University, San Diego, where he was an offensive tackle from 1962-64. Prior to that he played at Riverside City College and Coachella Valley High.

Hoffman will handle the offensive line, according to Vincel. He will join a staff which includes defensive coordinator Bob Korzep and defensive backfield coach John Hamels.

Hoffman Selected As USD Assistant

University of San Diego yesterday announced Tom Hoffman has joined the school as offensive line coach under head football coach Andy Vincel.

The action followed Hoffman's resignation as head grid coach at Montgomery High School.

"We are very fortunate to have a man with Tom's dedication and enthusiasm and I know he will be a real asset to us," commented Vincel.

Hoffman, 31, was an offensive tackle at Cal State University, San Diego. He was defensive coordinator at Castle Park High from 1967-69 before taking over at Montgomery High in 1970.

Program Of Women's Auxiliary To Salvation Army Door Of Hope

Red Roses Symbolize Choice For San Diego Women Of Elegance

By OPAL CRANDALL

Each of 12 San Diego area women recently opened the door of her home to receive a sheaf of red roses symbolizing her selection as a Woman of Elegance.

The Women of Elegance program is sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Salvation Army Door of Hope. The auxiliary was organized in 1960 to aid unwed mothers-to-be—still one of its prime purposes.

The Women of Elegance event was instituted in 1965 to call attention to the auxiliary and its projects at The Door of Hope.

The Women of Elegance who were chosen this year for "Elegance in life styles that enable them to serve their community with grace and efficiency" are Mmes. Barbara D. Anderson, J. Dallas Clark, Harold J. Cokely, William J. Doyle (Dr. Anita V. Figueredo), Merlin H. Gale, Michael Tbs Gonzalez, Clifford Grobstein (Dr. Ruth Grobstein), Victor H. Krulak, W. Daniel Larsen, Bonsall Noon, John C. (Marge) O'Donnell and Norton S. Walbridge.

Msgr. Portman to take post as head of ecumenical group

The Rev. Msgr. John R. Portman will be installed as president of the San Diego County Ecumenical Conference tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church, 2111 Camino del Rio South.

Msgr. Portman, first Roman Catholic priest to hold the office of conference president, succeeds the Rev. Mr. Ralph B. Johnson, a United Methodist Church clergyman.

Msgr. Portman is chairman of the department of religious studies at the University of San Diego, pastor of The Immaculate Catholic Church and chairman of the Ecumenical Commission of the San Diego Roman Catholic Diocese.

Mr. Johnson, district superintendent for United Methodist churches in San Diego and Imperial counties, will serve as vice president of the conference.

Other officers will be Mrs. J. Hull Schilling, a Roman Catholic, secretary, and the Rev. Mr. Heber H. Pitman, pastor of Central Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), treasurer.

MSGR. JOHN PORTMAN

The Rev. Mr. Melvin H. Harter, former pastor of Pioneer United Church of Christ, continues as executive director.

Msgr. Portman has long been active in ecumenical affairs.

He played a leading role in the transition from the San Diego County Council of Churches to the Ecumenical Conference which made it possible for Roman Catholic churches to join the inter-Christian body.

Msgr. Portman received a doctorate in ecumenism in Rome in 1965 based on his studies and a paper on the World Council of Churches.

He was administrator of Blessed Sacrament parish from 1957 to 1963 and after returning from his studies in Rome served three years on the faculty at Immaculate Heart Seminary and USD.

He was named chairman of the Diocesan Ecumenical Commission in 1968 and was made a monsignor in 1970.

Tomorrow's meeting will be the Ecumenical Conference's third annual general assembly.

Also on the assembly agenda, besides installation of officers, will be committee reports, approval of the 1973 budget and reports of program area chairmen.

The conference now has 121 member churches, but for the second consecutive year their contributions to the conference have fallen off. Contributions have dropped from $18,024 in 1970 to $17,248 in 1971 and $15,453.14 in 1972.

Nevertheless, in a special report this week Mr. Harter said "notable progress" had been made last year "in bringing about cooperation and consultation among jurisdictions in all program areas."

Mr. Harter singled out the following Ecumenical Conference activities:

—Preparations for the local launching of Key 73.

—A series of meetings at which clergymen from different denominations explain their interpretation of the Eucharist.

—Programs focusing on the needs of farm workers, housing for the poor and preservation of such natural recreational areas as the Tijuana slough.

—Pioneering programs in planning for human services before physical services in Rancho San Diego.

—Discussion of possible future church sites with city and county officials.

Murray Goodrich
Services Planned

Murray D. Goodrich, San Diego business, political and religious leader, died yesterday at his home, 2215 Juan St. He was 70.

A family friend said Goodrich suffered a massive stroke two weeks ago.

Services will be at noon tomorrow in Temple Beth Israel with Cypress View Mortuary in charge. Other arrangements were pending.

A native of Russia, Goodrich came to the United States at the age of 3 and attended Cooper Union in New York, where he studied electrical engineering.

He moved to San Diego in 1942 and set up his own business, a scrap metal and salvage company at 1870 Main St.

Active in the Democratic party, he served two terms as chairman of the San Diego County Democratic Central Committee and was a runoff candidate for mayor in 1963, losing to Frank Curran.

Goodrich was active in civic and fund-raising activities for various causes. He was named "Mr. San Diego of 1959," "Uplifter of the Year" in 1971 and was honored in 1972 by the National Conference of Christians and Jews with the organization's highest national award, the Silver Brotherhood award.

Town Talk

By MARY FISHEL

IT'S MARDI GRAS...time again ... no not in New Orleans yet, but in San Diego.

But just as in New Orleans with all its parades, carnival and merrymaking, the Juniors of the San Diego Social Service Auxiliary, are planning the same delightful, carnival type atmosphere with plenty of merrymaking for their 26th annual Mardi Gras to be held March 3 at the Hotel del Coronado.

Mrs. Charles G. King of Pacific Beach, a fourth generation Californian, will be the chairman of this year's ball. She has had plenty of experience for this type of an affair, since she has been an active member of the Juniors for the past seven years. For past balls she has been chairman of decorations, entertainment and promotion ... also membership chairman and treasurer for the Juniors.

Proceeds from the Mardi Gras are used for Bayside Settlement House and Camp Oliver (a camp for youngsters) in Descanso operated by the Sisters of Social Service.

The Kings have four youngsters ... Teresa, six; Kristen, five; Paul, three and Michalyn, one ... therefore Mrs. King's interest in the welfare of all children has been reflected in six years volunteer service to Bayside Settlement House and Camp Oliver.

Mrs. King was graduated from University of San Diego College for Women, where she was student body president her senior year and a member of Kappa Gamma Phi scholarship society.

She has many community interests as well as the Juniors and finds time for a hobby too ... designing and creating clothes for her children.

Mrs. David Fleet is planning a New Orleans type luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Feb. 6 at her home in Point Loma in honor of San Diego area press women, past Mardi Gras ball chairmen and Queens and past presidents of the Juniors.

Creole jambalaya, salad with Mardi Gras dressing and pecan tarts a la New Orleans will be featured and prepared by Mrs. Fleet and members of her committee ... Mrs. Robert Lowell, Mrs. Robert J. LeRibeus, Mrs. Edward Streicher and Mrs. Arthur C. Johnson.

The Juniors have raised more than a quarter of a million dollars to further the development and maintenance of Camp Oliver. And so many of the members, who have worked so hard on other Mardi Gras balls, certainly deserve to be honored at a party. And the New Orleans atmosphere at the Fleet home

USD out to rebound

SAN LUIS OBISPO — They have lost two of their last three games, a tailspin the University of San Diego Toreros hope to come out of with flying colors here tonight. USD will bring an 11-5 record into the Cal Poly San Luis Obispo gym for a bout with the Mustangs. Tipoff is 8 p.m. The Toreros are hoping for a repeat victory over Cal Poly, whom they defeated, 76-62, in a previous outing. Since then, however, USD has bowed to Bakersfield State, 73-56, and Southern California College, 60-58. Robert "Pinkie" Smith, the 6 ft. 6½ in. forward who played only sparingly last week because of the flu, is expected back at full strength. Smith is leading the Toreros with a 17.8 average, followed by Stan Washington at 16.8, Ken Smith at 8.9, Ben Thompson at 8.9 and Joe Smith at 8.8. Following the Cal Poly encounter, USD will travel to Whittier College Jan. 31, then return home to entertain Cal Poly Pomona Feb. 2.

USD Battles Poets Tonight

Special to The San Diego Union
WHITTIER — University of San Diego is 12-5 for the season. Whittier College is 8-9.

But the Toreros have reason to be a little apprehensive here tonight in their game with the Poets.

Whittier has enjoyed five straight winning seasons and has won the SCIAC title 23 times since 1922. Indeed, the Poets are veterans at the game of basketball.

They got off to a rough start this season, losing their first six contests. Since that time they have won eight of 11.

In addition to a front line of 6-4 Rod Tatum, 6-6 Bernie Hoskin and 6-4 Ron Van Vliet, the Poets have been helped by the midsemester eligibility of 6-10 center Fred Hicks, a JC transfer.

Hicks scored 15 points and pulled down 10 rebounds in his first start last week.

The Poets also boast a 15-5 edge in their long series with the Toreros.

USD played only one game last week, scoring a 72-68 victory over Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo on the latter's floor. In that one, Pinkie Smith scored his average 17 points and grabbed 13 rebounds. Playmaker guard Stan Washington had 14 points and 13 assists.

The pair continues to pace the Toreros' scoring with Smith enjoying a 17.7 average and Washington 16.6. USD 17-game scoring figures:

Player	Points	Rebounds	Assists	Stolen	Blocked	Turnovers	Fouls
R. Smith	17.7	13.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	1.0
Stan Washington	16.6	13.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	1.0	1.0

Shakespeare group slates performance

The New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco will present two performances in the San Diego area this week.

On Thursday at 8 p.m. the group will perform at Montgomery Junior High School, 2470 Ulric St., playing Bertold Brecht's "The Penny Opera." On Friday at 8 p.m. they will present "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the Camino Theater at the University of San Diego.

Both performances will be open to the public without charge.

The New Shakespeare Company, directed by Margrit Rome, is a group of 26 young performers who perform weekends in Golden Gate Park.

DEVOTED TO COMMUNITY, RELIGION, PARTY
Civic leader Murray D. Goodrich dies after stroke

Murray D. Goodrich, who was Mr. San Diego in 1959 and a tireless worker for the community, his political party and his religion, died yesterday in his Mission Hills home.

Services will be conducted at 3 p.m. tomorrow in Temple Beth Israel, Cypress View Mortuary is handling arrangements.

A memorial fund is being established at the temple and the family asked that an appropriate donation be made in lieu of flowers.

Rabbi Joel S. Gorr of Temple Beth Israel described the civic leader as "probably one of the most honored men in the community."

His last honor was accorded earlier this month when the executive committee of the County Democratic Central Committee adopted a resolution expressing "gratitude for his leadership."

Goodrich, 70, served two terms as county chairman of the Democratic party.

A family friend said death was the result of a massive stroke which Goodrich suffered about two weeks ago.

Goodrich was active in many civic, religious and cultural organizations, but many of his efforts to help those less fortunate than he was never publicized. He forbade newsmen or others who learned of them to discuss them.

He was as much honored by other religions as his own.

In 1972, he received the Silver Brotherhood award, the highest national honor of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

He was chosen "Uplifter of the Year" in 1971 and was honored many times at testimonial dinners.

Goodrich was a runoff candidate for mayor of San Diego in 1963, losing to Frank Curran.

Goodrich, a native of Russia, came to the United States as a child of 3. He attended Cooper Union in New York, studying electrical engineering.

After moving to San Diego in 1942, he established a scrap metal and salvage company at 1870 Main St.

Goodrich was active in Temple Beth Israel and was honorary life president of the temple.

He was a member of the county grand jury in 1960. He was president of the Health Foundation of San Diego County and a director of Sheltered Workshops of San Diego, Inc., the Girls and Boys clubs of San Diego and the Theater Arts Foundation of San Diego county.

Goodrich was active in the Navy League and a sponsor of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Assn. He was a founder of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, chairman of Bonds for Israel, and a past president and chairman of the United Jewish Appeal.

For many years Goodrich helped raise funds for and supported growth of the University of San Diego, a Catholic institution that was the lifetime project of his close friend, the late Bishop Charles F. Buddy.

Goodrich was active in the United Community Services campaigns and was a cofounder of the Heart Assn. He was a member of the Zoological Society of San Diego. He had been a president of the State Board of Pilot Commissioners for the Port of San Diego.

Goodrich's birthday was March 17, St. Patrick's Day, and he was an un-failing guest at the annual Friendly Sons of St. Patrick dinner.

He had planned to attend this year's dinner and had a scheme to get Councilman Maureen O'Connor into the stag banquet to lead a toast.

Nose for News

By MARY ELLEN CORBETT

EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

On picking a 'Rosebud'

She looked like a sophomore in high school, and she fidgeted nervously with the pocket of her plaid dress as she talked with me.

She wanted a job on a newspaper, she said, "but nobody wants a writer fresh out of college."

Without the customary personnel tests, and without asking her to compose a single line — I hired her. For the green-eyed, impish-faced Rosemary Masterson Johnston had a certain quality about her that made her instantly likeable... Imminently employable.

"Even if she can't write," I assured myself, "she's so bright that she'll learn."

Well, I was wrong about a lot of things in my first encounter with "Rosebud."

Firstly — she was not all that green.

And she was in her twenties, not her teens.

And she wasn't by any means sophomore. (B.A. with a double major, English and history; president, Delta Epsilon Sigma, National scholastic honor society; model United Nations delegate; chairman campus publicity club; first woman editor of University of San Diego's college newspaper, Vista; Candidate for Woman of the Year 1968, 1970; academic dean's list; honors in history; a California State scholar; listed in Who's Who of American Colleges and Universities and National Student Register, published in the Journal of San Diego History.)

And secondly — she could write, and well.

But I wasn't wrong about her being likeable. In fact, soon our entire staff had come to love her.

Rosemary Johnston, in her two years as news editor of this newspaper, has made more friends for us than any other single employee in our nine year history.

Part of that is because of her sparkling manner and sensitivity. The rest is due to her sense of absolute fairness and her adherence to a rigid code of journalism ethics.

In 24 months she has become a seasoned professional, winning the respect of countless business and civic leaders. There's probably no more knowledgeable news person covering county government today than she.

There have been days when Rosemary had to stay after hours to meet a deadline, simply because she'd spent the better part of her day interviewing and extensively researching the matters on which she wanted to report.

It has not been unusual for heads of various county agencies to call her for information, as she's become a walking reference volume on county codes, the status of various county projects, and on the matters concerning community planning.

That very same ability has made her an invaluable member of both the Lemon Grove and Valle de Oro Planning Associations.

Because when Rosemary Johnston sits down to write a news story, it's totally accurate, cogent and objective.

Now she's approaching another sort of deadline, and preparing for a very special issue. For Friday, Rosemary begins her maternity leave, as she and Walt make the last-minute preparations for the arrival of their first child.

That she will be a professional parent goes without saying. For "Rosebud" is a professional in everything she does.

It's been a rewarding experience to watch her develop a style and a sense of confidence about herself and her work in the past two years.

And it's been warm and exhilarating to witness "Rosebud" blooming toward motherhood. She looks great — with a healthful, happy radiance. And her dedication to her career and her always cheerful manner inspire all of us to work harder at our jobs.

Rosemary has not allowed pregnancy to hamper her news-gathering techniques. And it's not at all an unfamiliar sight to see a pixy-woman in maternity garb tramping around some construction sight — or photographing firefighters at the scene of a big blaze.

There've been days when she went flying out of our office — on the heels of a scoop, when we held our breaths as she pulled away in her little VW bug. "Heaven help Rosemary's baby!"

She's a top-notch news-woman, a dedicated co-worker, a genuine humanitarian, and a dear friend.

If indeed there is a female counterpart to that oft-discussed masculine hero the "man's man" — it's Rosemary Johnston — the finest kind of woman's woman.

And watching her blossom has been good for my ego, too. For didn't I pick that "Rosebud?"

Torero sounds

The tunes from the University of San Diego come straight from the machine. The record machine.

Meet Mr. Machine — he's Stan Washington, a 64 junior guard that has Torero opponents singing the blues this season.

Washington, out of Spingard High in Washington, D.C., was tabbed right from the beginning by head coach Bernie Bickerstaff as "as good a college guard as there is in the country."

And he didn't waste time proving it.

In his freshman season, Washington pumped in 396 points in 20 games for an average of 19.8. Proving he was more than a shooter, he hauled down 121 rebounds.

Last season sounded the same. His 18.1 points per game was variety high and from his outside position, managed to clear the boards 165 times.

Stan Washington was on key. He sounded like, and was, the team's Most Valuable Player and small college All-American.

Now, as a polished veteran of three seasons, Washington has the Toreros up near the top of the charts this year.

His 16.8 per game clip is just beneath Pinky Smith's team high of 17.8 and both are pretty good reasons why the eagers from Alcalá Park are 11-5.

A pair of the Toreros' five defeats came in last week's action, an ill that they hope to cure by Saturday night.

That evening the Toreros will journey to San Luis Obispo for a rematch with Cal Poly. The Mustangs fell victim to the Toreros last Friday, 76-62.

Experience is what new Mustang head coach Ernie Wheeler is banking on, and the Toreros are hoping he didn't learn too much in the first meeting.

All-California Collegiate Athletic Association players Bill Jackson and Robert Jennings lead the aggressive coastal five that figure to run high in their conference.

Following the northern visit, the Toreros return home Feb. 2 to host Cal Poly Pomona.

FOLLOW THROUGHS — Tom Hoffman, former offensive tackle from San Diego State and head coach at Montgomery High School in Chula Vista, has been added to head football coach Andy Vinci's staff for next year. Hoffman will assume the duties of the offensive line as he joins other Torero assistants, Bob Korzep (defense coordinator) and John Hamels (defensive backs).

Conference picks a president

Monsignor John R. Portman, pastor of The Immaculate Catholic Church and chairman of the Department of Religious Studies of the University of San Diego, will be installed as president of the San Diego County Ecumenical Conference this Sunday. The ceremony will take place at First United Methodist Church, 2111 Camino del Rio South, at 7:30 p.m.

Monsignor Portman is the first Catholic priest to hold this office. He succeeds the Rev. Ralph B. Johnson, district superintendent of the United Methodist Church.

Rev. Johnson will serve as vice-president, the position held by Portman during 1972.

Monsignor Portman has long been involved in ecumenism. He was a member of the interfaith committee which drew up the by-laws of the Ecumenical Conference in 1969 and 1970.

He holds a doctoral degree in ecumenism and is chairman of the Ecumenical Commission of the Diocese of San Diego.

His installation will take place during the annual assembly of the Conference at which delegates from 120 member churches convene.

Serving with Msgr. Portman will be Mrs. J. Hull Schilling, secretary, and the Rev. Hebert H. Pitman, treasurer. The Rev. Melvin H. Harter is executive director.

Toreros eye better fate in rematch

For a school in its second year of basketball, Bakersfield State is doing quite well.

The Roadrunners are 15-5 this year. They are 5-0 in the California Collegiate Athletic Assn. And tonight they are in San Diego to oppose the University of San Diego Toreros at 8.

Bakersfield brings a 10-game winning streak into the game, including a 98-57 rout of UCSD Friday night. Among those victories was a 73-56 decision over USD, which will confront the Roadrunners tonight with a 12-7 record.

Since that loss, USD has dropped four of its six games.

The Toreros hope to snap back tonight. Stan Washington, a 6 ft. 4 in. junior guard, is leading the team in assists with 91 and is second in scoring with a 16.1 average. Forward Pinky Smith continues to pace the team in scoring with a 17.4 average.

Bakersfield State boasts two freshmen from the San Diego area, 6-3 guard Mike Hooper from Bonita Vista and 6-6 forward Lou Faust of University. Both are averaging 7.1 points per game.

Heads S.D. County Ecumenical Conference

Msgr. Portman calls disunity 'a scandal'

Southern Cross Reporter

"CHRISTIAN disunity is a scandal," Msgr. John R. Portman, new president of the San Diego County Ecumenical Conference, told its annual meeting last Sunday.

Too many Christians "rest too easy these days with this separation," he said, and "many of us do not feel the pain of this separation."

"Until we all truly feel this pain and are willing to suffer its presence for some time to come, ecumenism is a 'talking point,' not a reality," he stressed.

MSGR. PORTMAN, head of the Diocesan Ecumenical Commission, was installed as first Catholic president of the conference at a service in First United Methodist church, San Diego. He succeeds the Rev. Ralph B. Johnson, a United Methodist, who became vice-president.

The ecumenical movement, Msgr. Portman said, is propelled by the "burning conviction that Christ is the foundation of our search for unity."

"He is the focal point of our vision. He prayed for this unity — not a 'sort of unity,' but a unity which exists between himself and his Father."

OBSERVING that the conference bases its work on Christ's prayer for unity and the scandal of disunity, Msgr. Portman told the delegates:

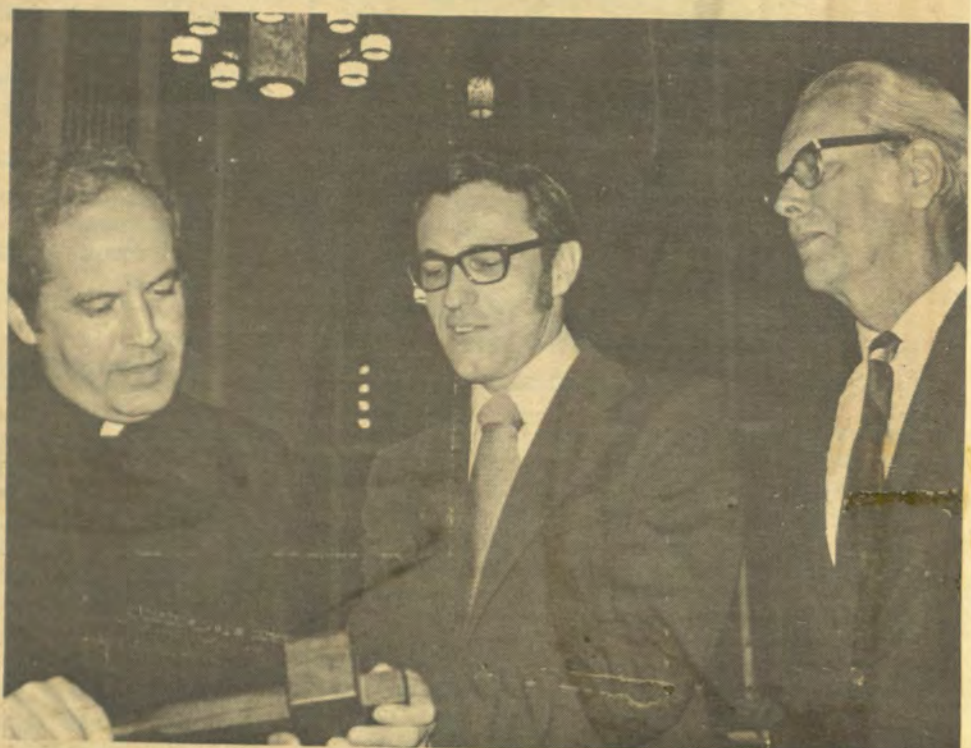

"The dramatic and exciting aspects which marked the initial stages of ecumenism are less frequent. We have now entered the stage where progress is slow, dialogue difficult, and prayer as always essential.

"We are convinced that our present witness together is growing in strength under the guidance of the Holy Spirit."

"WE OF THE ecumenical conference face a future bright with opportunities for service and further growth in unity. It is a

THEATERS

'Three Penny Opera' Slated Here Tonight

The New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco will present the Bertolt Brecht-Kurt Weill "Three Penny Opera" at 8 p.m. today in the auditorium of Montgomery Junior High School, 2470 Uble St., sponsored by Mesa College.

Margit Roma has directed the production plus the company's version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which will be performed at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the USD Camino Theatre, where the same troupe did "As You Like It" early last year.

Michael Hayes will play Mack the Knife in the Brecht-Weill work with Connie West, Ken Wilkinson, Elizabeth McAninch, Deborah Terrell, Nicole Sawaya, Andrew Callahan, Daryl Woodson and Richard Clarke in other principal roles.

Michele Miner, John bridge and David Goldmund have arranged and will perform the Weill score for the work, which is a reworking of John Gay's "The Beggar's Opera" first presented in Germany during the post-World War I Weimar Republic period.

Whittier Tops USD, 71-64

Special to The San Diego Union WHITTIER — Fred Hicks, a 6-9 newcomer, came off the bench mid-way in the first half to generate the spark to lead Whittier College to a 71-64 basketball victory over the University of San Diego last night on the victor's floor.

Hicks, who transferred to Whittier at mid-term, scored 11 points in the last nine minutes of the first half to pull the Poets away from a 20-all tie. He finished the night with 15. He was topped in scoring by teammates Bernie Hoskin and Al Hardin, who hit 17 and 16 points, respectively.

The visiting Toreros, who dropped their sixth game against 12 victories, were led by Ben Thompson's 17 while Ken Smith had 12.

Whittier penetrated the USD press and connected on 55 per cent of its shots to 44 for the Toreros.

USD returns home tomorrow night to oppose Cal Poly of Pomona.

The cast of 26 young players will be directed by Margrit Rome.

Nun provost at USD finds new degree in law big help

BY ROBERT DI VEROLI

Evening Tribune Religion Writer

Sister Sally Furay is no "women's libber" but she sees nothing wrong in a nun becoming an attorney.

As a matter of fact, for a nun who is a university administrator, an attorney's knowledge of the law is eminently practical, the University of San Diego nun suggested in an interview this week.

One thing is certain—there aren't many Roman Catholic lawyer-nuns.

There are several nuns who were attorneys before entering the order and two nuns in Sister Furay's order are now in law school, but she knows of no other nuns who have been admitted to the bar.

Sister Furay, a teacher and administrator at USD for 20 years and now its provost, was admitted to the California bar last November after graduation last May from the USD law school.

"I think of myself as a kind of bridge between higher education and the law," says the Omaha-born nun.

Sister Furay found herself immersed in many of the legal ramifications of higher education after becoming an administrator (academic dean) and trustee of the former USD College for Women in 1967.

She made her profession as a nun of the Religious of the Sacred Heart order in Rome in 1952.

She taught English at the former USD College for Women from 1952 to 1966 and has been professor of English at USD since 1966.

While Sister Furay doesn't like to call herself a "women's libber," she thinks women's role in the church has traditionally been "much too subordinate" and that the women's point of view was even inadequately heard at Vatican II.

"There are many times more women than men in religious orders in the church, yet among the many observers at the council only a very few were women," says the nun. "I certainly don't think that was right."

"I'm not a 'women's libber' in the usual sense," she says, "because I find the women's lib movement tends to be antifeminine. They often seem to be trying to completely obliterate the distinctions between men and women, which I think is ridiculous, but I do believe in real equality between the sexes, however."

"I'd like to see women in the church have more of a say in the decisions that affect them for example, and I think this is coming. We'll see more and more of this in the church. The coming Diocesan Synod here, for example, is very widely participatory. Lay, priests, nuns, everybody will have a chance to say what they think."

Does she believe in a women's priesthood?

"I think the ordination of women is pretty far down the road," she says, "but I'd like than that connected with her USD position.

"What I'd like to do eventually, though, as soon as I can find the time, is to give volunteer service to one of the legal clinics in the area. The USD law school works very closely with such clinics," she said.

Sister Furay was graduated from Duquesne College in Omaha in 1949, earned a master's degree in English at San Francisco College for Women in 1952 and a doctorate at Stanford University in 1955.

She made her profession as a nun of the Religious of the Sacred Heart order in Rome in 1952.

She taught English at the former USD College for Women from 1952 to 1966 and has been professor of English at USD since 1966.

"I'm not a 'women's libber' in the usual sense," she says, "because I find the women's lib movement tends to be antifeminine. They often seem to be trying to completely obliterate the distinctions between men and women, which I think is ridiculous, but I do believe in real equality between the sexes, however."

"I'd like to see women in the church have more of a say in the decisions that affect them for example, and I think this is coming. We'll see more and more of this in the church. The coming Diocesan Synod here, for example, is very widely participatory. Lay, priests, nuns, everybody will have a chance to say what they think."

Does she believe in a women's priesthood?

"I think the ordination of women is pretty far down the road," she says, "but I'd like to see it happen, mainly because I just don't see any valid argument against it.

"Beyond the fact that Christ himself chose men, and one has to ascertain whether this was essentially a cultural matter—I don't see anything against a women's priesthood."

"I don't think there's anything in divine revelation that says only men can be ordained either. Now, there is a long tradition in the church against it, but maybe that's cultural, too."

Sister Furay also has no objections against nuns or priests having a career in politics as long as they don't claim to be speaking in behalf of their religious orders or the church.

But she thinks there is room in the church for both the more contemplative orders and those engaged in more secular activities.

"Not only do I think there's room," she says, "but I think they are both very much needed because people are so different. Religious orders, like other groups, are collections of people with different temperaments, talents, desires and ideas about what will make them happy. I think people should be allowed to be themselves."

Murray Goodrich Services Planned

Murray D. Goodrich, San Diego business, political and religious leader, died yesterday at his home, 2215 Juan St. He was 70.

A family friend said Goodrich suffered a massive stroke two weeks ago.

Services will be at noon tomorrow in Temple Beth Israel with Cypress View Mortuary in charge. Other arrangements were pending.

A native of Russia, Goodrich came to the United States at the age of 3 and attended Cooper Union in New York, where he studied electrical engineering.

He moved to San Diego in 1942 and set up his own business, a scrap metal and salvage company at 1870 Main St.

Active in the Democratic party, he served two terms as chairman of the San Diego County Democratic Central Committee and was a runoff candidate for mayor in 1963, losing to Frank Curran.

Goodrich was active in civic and fund-raising activities for various causes. He was named "Mr. San Diego of 1959," "Uplifter of the Year" in 1971 and was honored in 1972 by the National Conference of Christians and Jews with the organization's highest national award, the Silver Brotherhood award.

MURRAY D. GOODRICH
... civic leader

Goodrich was a member of the 1960 county grand jury. He had been president of the Health Foundation of San Diego County and a director of the Sheltered Workshops of San Diego, Inc.; the Girls and Boys Clubs of San Diego, Inc.; and Theater and Arts Foundation of San Diego County.

He was an active member of Temple Beth Israel and was Goodrich was a member of the Zoological Society of San Diego and a member of the admission and allocations committee of the United Crusade. He was active in the Navy League and a sponsor of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association.

He was secretary of the state Board of Pilibs Commission for San Diego Harbor, a founder of the Hebrew Home for the Aged, chairman of Bonds for Israel, past president and campaign chairman for United Jewish Appeal, co-founder of the county Heart Association, chairman of the University of San Diego's Hall of Science building fund and past president of its boosters' club.

At a testimonial dinner, given Goodrich after he retired as Democratic county chairman, various speakers spoke of his achievements.

Nathan R. Jerald, former executive director of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, said Goodrich "kept together our struggling organization...We couldn't have done it without him."

Rabbi Joel S. Gofr of Temple Beth Israel said "he is probably one of the most honored men in the community."

Of Goodrich, state Sen. James Mills, D-San Diego, said at the dinner that "Murray is a guy who never turned his back on any man with a problem or a community with a worthy cause."

Goodrich is survived by his widow, Sarah; a daughter, Rochelle, both of San Diego, and two grandchildren.

Tragedy of war:

Modern war is "one of the major tragedies of our era" and will continue as long as men do not achieve world government, one of six lecturers told an estimated 1,000 at the NTC-hosted National Security Seminar yesterday.

The two-week series of world affairs lectures held at Luce Auditorium included a discussion of "The Nature of Modern War" by Marine Col. B.H. Curwen Jr., a member of the lecture team from the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

"As long as men do not achieve world government," warned Col. Curwen, "individual nations will try to maximize their power and in the process may set loose disruptive forces. It is a grim irony that today only the industrial and economically advanced countries have the capability to wage conventional war with modern weapons and equipment.

"Yet, in the not very distant future, the new advanced nuclear weapons will come within the reach of medium and small nations," the colonel said.

Curwen is part of the lecture team from the Industrial College that also includes Navy Capt. Andrew Serrell (team chief), Army Col. Judson J. Conner, Air Force Col. Stephen A. Farris Jr., Air Force Col. John M. Vander Voort Jr. and U.S. Foreign Service Officer Eller R. Cook of the State Department.

Following discussions on foreign assistance, the state of affairs in Africa, international relations and development, and U.S. foreign relations today, the National Security Seminar swings into its final week next week with talks on international economics, the U.S. social environment, Europe, Asia and Latin America, space exploration and new frontiers in the People's Republic of China, among others.

The seminar is hosted by the 11th Naval District and NTC and is sponsored by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with several other civilian groups.

At opening ceremonies Monday morning, San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson welcomed the audience to the seminar, Vice Adms. J.V. Smith, Industrial College commandant, and Thomas J. Walker, Pacific Naval Air Force commander, offered remarks and Dr. Author E. Hughes, University of San Diego president, gave the keynote address on society's value systems.

"It seems patently obvious to me that it is an extremely propitious time to ask ourselves, 'What exactly do I believe in?'" Dr. Hughes said. "To answer that question individually or collectively, we must proceed with the strength of reasoned, logical answers which can sustain the bombardment of the informed adversaries who challenge us, and we must assert to ourselves and to the world precisely what we believe and we must profess it openly, honestly and unashamedly with the conviction afforded only by intellectual strength."

"It is a time for this nation to enjoy a renaissance of its beliefs—it is a time to assert that we are what we profess to be," Hughes told the audience.

Keynote speaker

Dr. Author E. Hughes, University of San Diego president and keynote at Monday opening ceremonies for the National Security Seminar at Luce Auditorium, called for a review of society's value systems. "We (must) re-examine all those values... in answering the question, 'Are we what we profess to be?'" he said. Seminar continues through next Friday.

USD Edges Bakersfield

Revenge they wanted and revenge they got.

University of San Diego, using two free throws by Pinky Smith with 38 seconds remaining, defeated tough Bakersfield State, 70-69, before a howling audience in the Toreros' gym last night.

The win snapped a 10-game winning streak for the visiting Roadrunners. But it was poetic justice.

Bakersfield had broken a seven-game USD victory string at Bakersfield on Jan. 16. And this was the one the Toreros wanted.

They had to come from a 33-29 halftime deficit to do it and used 25-point production from both Pinky Smith and Stan Washington as their main weapons.

It was only the sixth defeat against 15 triumphs for Bakersfield while USD improved its mark to 13-7.

Pinky Smith got down eight baskets in only 10 attempts from the field and added nine of 11 free throws. Washington got 11 buckets in 17 tries and 3-for-5 from the charity line.

USD needed a blistering 61 per cent shooting average (28 of 46) to gain the nod. The Roadrunners were 29 of 57 for 51 per cent.

Six straight USD points to open the second half shot the Toreros into a 35-33 edge with Washington getting two baskets and Pinky Smith one.

The Toreros moved out to a 41-37 margin, Bakersfield tied it at 41 and 45, then took a 55-50 advantage, Washington then hit a hot streak to score 11 straight points for USD.

Bakersfield, refusing to panic, fought back and trailed, 63-59, with 3:33 to play. A basket by Dick Ross later brought the visitors within one at 68-67 with 50 seconds remaining.

Pinky Smith then got his two free throws with 36 seconds to go for 70-67. Ross then hit a jumper to make it 70-69 with 25 seconds left on the clock, but the game was not over yet.

With eight seconds to play, Mike Hooper fouled the Toreros' Joe Smith but he missed the first attempt on a one-and-one. Bakersfield got possession and called time out.

The Roadrunners moved into position for one final shot but Carl Toney's jumper hit the back of the rim and bounced away at the final gun.

Ken Smith had 10 points as the third Toreros player in double figures. Odie Ward and Bob Rodriguez each had 15 as the top guns for Bakersfield with Ross getting 12 and Toney and Hooper each adding 11.

USD, USIU Host Rivals Tonight

The early part of this week has not been kind to three of the area's collegiate basketball teams with UC San Diego, University of San Diego and U.S. International University all suffering defeats.

They hope to reverse the situation tonight with two of them playing at home.

USD, still boasting a highly respectable 12-6 season record despite a 71-64 loss at Whittier Wednesday, is home to Cal Poly of Pomona at 8 in the USD gym.

"USIU, a 41-37 victim in a defensive struggle at Azusa Pacific Tuesday, returns home to face Chapman College tonight in Golden Gym with frosh squads of the two schools to open the program at 6.

UCSD, which bowed to Southern California College, 75-61, on the Tritons' floor Tuesday, hits the road tonight for what could easily be an unpleasant journey. The Tritons play at Bakersfield State which is currently unbeaten (5-0) in CCAA play and owns a 14-5 overall mark.

Tomorrow night USIU remains home to meet Fresno Pacific while UCSD continues its weekend trip to visit Cal Lutheran.

The Broncos of Cal Poly are only 9-8 on the season but have won three straight over Fullerton, Northridge and UC Irvine. Coach Dan Ayala's club does not possess an outstanding scorer but relies on a balanced attack with four starters averaging between 10.6 and 12.0 points per game.

The Broncos are a rangy outfit with center Alan Smith (6-7) surrounded by forwards Gary Anderson and George Thompson (both 6-5) and guard Bob Gray (6-6). Guard Gary Koerner is only 5-10 but leads the club in assists.

Meanwhile, the Toreros hope to get a better production from their top scorer, Pinky Smith, who was held to a season low six points at Whittier against his average of over 17 points.

USIU's Westerners have lost three straight, but to tough opposition including California State University, San Diego, and Westminster. The latter two represent the only two losses for Bob Kloppenburg's quintet on its home floor this season.

Chapman has an unimpressive 4-13 record, but one of the victories was a 62-55 nod over USIU on the Chapman floor in mid-December.

Top scorers for the Panthers are forwards Norm Stancil (6-6) with a 13.8 average and Doug Elmore (6-5) with a 10.0 mean.

Forward Jimmy Sullivan continues to pace the Westerners' scoring with 215 points in 17 games for a 12.6 average. He, too, suffered a bad night against Azusa Pacific with only six points.

UCSD also finds itself in a tailspin with four consecutive defeats, the Tritons' last victory coming on Dec. 18.

Gie Simpson has been playing his best games of the season in the past two weeks, scoring 20 points against Southern California College Tuesday. He also is a standout in the Tritons' zone press.

But, coach Bill Reeves will need perhaps his team's best effort of the season against a tough Bakersfield five, especially on the enemy floor.

Art sale at USD

Feb. 20, the University of San Diego will be the setting for an exhibition and sale of original graphic art by contemporary and old master artists.

Arranged by the Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Maryland, the exhibition will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the French Parlor of Founders Hall. The sale is open to the public.

Included will be over 1,000 original etchings, lithographs and woodcuts by artists such as Picasso, Chagall, Renoir, and Dali. A representative of the Roten Galleries will be present. Proceeds from the sale will benefit University students.

Established in 1932, Roten Galleries has one of the largest collections of graphic art in the country. It specializes in arranging exhibition sales at colleges, museums and art centers throughout the country. In this way, the Gallery serves as an extension to art education programs.

USD Golfers Open

University of San Diego's golf team opens its season at 12:30 p.m. today when the Toreros host Grossmont College at Stardust Country Club.

Player-coach John Wilson has seven other returnees from last year's 10-3 squad including Gary Raggio, Bob Mirch, Art Bosco, Brian Boyle, Chris Redo, Jan Haegen and Rick Ghio.

Other squad members include USIU transfer Tom Morrell, former Southern California amateur champion Fred Goode and freshmen Graham Milner and Sandy Kahn.

Hot USD Shooting Singes Foe, 91-75

RIVERSIDE — Pinky Smith took 17 shots for University of San Diego here last night. Fifteen of them dropped as the Toreros cruised past Cal Baptist College, 91-75.

Pinky, who led all scorers with 30 points, was only a few degrees warmer than the rest of the USD squad which got down 40 of 68 attempts for a fine 59 per cent.

It was the Toreros' 14th victory against seven defeats while Cal Baptist fell to 18-14.

Stan Washington added 17 points for the Toreros with Ben Thompson getting 11 and Joe Smith 10. Mike Bartee led the losers with 20 points.

USD employed a man-to-man defense the entire game and used Washington passing into Pinky Smith in the key for the majority of its offense. The lat-

Mayor Wilson, right, leads Pledge of Allegiance at services in Balboa Park yesterday marking the end of war in Vietnam and return of American POWs. Area religious groups were sponsors.

USIU, USD To See Action

University of San Diego and U.S. International, both enjoying successful basketball seasons, hope to continue in that fashion tonight against Chapman College and Los Angeles Baptist, respectively.

The Westerners of USIU are home to the Los Angeles five while USD's Toreros travel to Orange to engage the Chapman club.

USIU has not lost in the month of February and has now built a winning streak of four games. The Westerners will carry a 13-8 record into tonight's game at 8 in Golden Gym.

USD will seek a repeat triumph over a Chapman team which dropped an 89-81 verdict to the Toreros here last December. USD, seeking its third straight victory, is 14-7, the Panthers 4-18.

Toreros Humble Chapman, 98-75

ORANGE — University of San Diego was a perfect 16-for-16 at the free throw line here last night and hit 48 per cent from the field to record a 98-75 victory over Chapman College.

It was the Toreros' 15th triumph of the season against seven defeats while the Panthers fell to 3-18.

Ben Thompson led five Toreros in double figures with 19 points with Pinky Smith getting 18 before fouling out midway of the second half.

USD moved out to a 13-4 edge

Graphic arts sale Feb. 20 at USD

An exhibit and sale of original graphic arts by contemporary and old master artists will take place 10 a.m. — 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20 at USD's Founders Hall.

Open to the public, the show will include 1,000 original etchings, lithographs and woodcuts by Picasso, Chagall, Renoir, Dali and other artists. Proceeds will benefit USD students.

The exhibit has been arranged by Ferdinand Roten Galleries of Baltimore, Md., which promotes such events as an extension of art education on college campuses.

34 recruits join USD spring drills

University of San Diego football coach Andy Vinci is expecting approximately 60 candidates to report for the opening of spring practice today.

Thirty-four of the 60 are transfer students, 16 offensive players and 18 on defense. They will be joined by 26 returnees for last year's 6-3-1 squad.

"We have some very skilled men at a number of key positions," said Vinci, who will conduct practices Monday through Thursday, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., until March 22. An intrasquad game will conclude spring drills.

Vinci's prized recruits include quarterback Bob Dulich, an all-Mission Conference choice from Saddleback College who passed for 19 touchdowns and accounted for more than 2,600 yards last year.

Other offensive standouts include Rich Paulson, the leading scorer at Westchester High in 1970, where he was an all-Los Angeles City back; Ken King, a 215-lb. tackle from Arizona and Bob Monica, a 225-lb. tight end from College of the Desert.

Defensively, Randy Carucci, a transfer from Pasadena City College who was Southern Section Class AA player of the year in 1971 at Temple City High, leads the new talent.

Vinci will be assisted in spring drills by Tom Hoffman, in charge of defensive linemen; Bill Williams, offensive backs; Bob Korzep, defensive coordinator; John Hamels, defensive backs; Matt Maslowski, offensive ends; Bruce McFarlan, offensive guards, and Jan Chapman, quarterbacks.

Next fall will mark USD's second season of intercollegiate football since 1961.

BACKS — Vic Bennett, 6-1, 195; Tony Walters, 6-2, 180; Harry Seaton, 5-11, 175; Mike McDonald, 5-11, 180; Randy McClure, 5-7, 135; Pat Johnson, 6-1, 170; Jeff Hanna, 5-7, 135; Lee Friedlander, 5-7, 170; Pete Sanchez, 5-11, 215; Scott Rogers, 6-1, 185; Randy Carucci, 6-1, 180; Tony Daniels, 6-0, 165; LINEMEN — Paul Stryker, 6-0, 195; Jerry Nantz, 6-0, 215; Howard Farmer, 6-1, 240; Gordon Duncan, 5-11, 220; Bob Campbell, 5-10, 235.
QUARTERBACKS — Bob Washington, 6-2, 210; Running backs — Bob Dulich, 5-10, 195; Ed Davis, 6-1, 200; Richard Corbin, 5-10, 195; Paul Stryker, 5-11, 195; END — Ken Wilson, 6-2, 245; Paul Tompkins, 6-2, 205; Jerry Webb, 6-1, 190; Jim Ryan, 6-2, 215; Bob Monica, 6-2, 225; LINEMEN — Ken King, 6-2, 215; Ron Ripley, 6-4, 220; Paul Stancil, 5-9, 215.

60 Toreros To Open Spring Grid Practice

University of San Diego surprised a lot of people, perhaps even coach Andy Vinci, when it won six and tied one against only three defeats in its football revision last season.

Vinci has some more surprises in store beginning today when the Toreros open spring drills at USD Stadium.

They will work from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays with an intrasquad game to climax drills on March 22.

A total of 34 recruits will join holdovers from last year's squad in the spring exercises and Vinci is counting heavily upon some junior college talent to fill some holes in last year's lineup.

"All but two of our newcomers are junior college transfers," Vinci reminds. "The other two played a lot of football with the San Diego Marines (MCRD) which provides some pretty good experience. We have some very skilled men at a number of key positions."

USD had a 37-man roster at the end of the 1972 season. Of that group, nine are not expected back. Tops among these are end Roger Leonard, tackle Bruce McFarlan and defensive back Bill Yavorsky.

"We only want to carry about 60 men this fall," Vinci explains. "We hope to find out just what we have in these spring workouts. We are holding our practice early in the year so we will have plenty of time to look for some more prospects if we find we are lacking anywhere."

One of the top new prospects is quarterback Bob Dulich who won all-conference honors at Saddleback College where he passed for 19 touchdowns and amassed over 2,600 yards in total offense. He is 5-10 and 185 pounds.

Another QB candidate with added height is 6-5 and 215-pound Bob Tomlinson from Southwestern College.

The two "freshmen" from MCRD are 6-5, 215-pound wide receiver Ken Wilson and 6-1, 240-pound defensive tackle Howard Farmer.

"We went after a couple of corners and some offensive linemen in our recruiting," says Vinci. "We finished 10th out of 421 schools in rushing defense (NCAA college division) last year, when we allowed only 74.5 yards per game. We could have been even better with a tighter defensive secondary."

Top newcomers in the latter category are Randy Carucci (6-1, 195) from Pasadena City College and Pete Sanchez (5-11, 215) from College of the Desert. "We had some very small linebackers last season," the coach continued. "All of the new ones we are bringing in go 185 pounds or better."

On offense, the Toreros have come up with 215-pound Ken King who was an all-league tackle at Mesa (Ariz.) College, all-conference tight end Bob Monica from COD and former leading scorer at Westchester High in L.A. Rich Paulson out of Los Angeles City College.

The USD recruits:

BACKS — Vic Bennett, 6-1, 195; Tony Walters, 6-2, 180; Harry Seaton, 5-11, 175; Mike McDonald, 5-11, 180; Randy McClure, 5-7, 135; Pat Johnson, 6-1, 170; Jeff Hanna, 5-7, 135; Lee Friedlander, 5-7, 170; Pete Sanchez, 5-11, 215; Scott Rogers, 6-1, 185; Randy Carucci, 6-1, 180; Tony Daniels, 6-0, 165; LINEMEN — Paul Stryker, 6-0, 195; Jerry Nantz, 6-0, 215; Howard Farmer, 6-1, 240; Gordon Duncan, 5-11, 220; Bob Campbell, 5-10, 235.

USD, USIU Battle, Both Seek Playoffs

Two basketball teams headed for possible post-season playoff assignments get together in U.S. International's Golden Gym tonight when the Westerners tangle with University of San Diego.

Game time is 8 o'clock. "It should be a most interesting ballgame," says USIU coach Bob Kloppenburg. "They're going to be going for an NCAA college division playoff berth and we're going for one in the NAIA."

USD has a 15-7 record, the Westerners 14-9. The loser will be hard-pressed to present credentials worthy of a playoff spot. The winner will enhance its chances, especially if it can come up with an impressive triumph.

"We'll have to contain their front line somehow and keep them from getting those second and third shots," continued Kloppenburg. "I really feel that USD's starting unit is a major college basketball team. The only thing that would keep them out of it would be their depth. I look for a very bruising, physical game."

To get the job done, USIU must stop a team averaging 75.2 points per game with two juniors, forward Pinky Smith and guard Stan Washington leading the way. Smith is hitting at an 18.4 mean and Washington 16.4.

The best the Westerners can offer is guard Jim Sullivan and his 11.7 average. USIU lost its No. 2 scorer, Preston Jackson and his 10.7 figure, for the season earlier this month when he was injured in a game at Whittier.

Playing a little tougher schedule, the Toreros should rule a slight favorite tonight. The home court, however, could make up for that in favor of the Westerners. "We're discounting the home court advantage for this one," says USD boss Bernie Bickerstaff. "If they beat us, they're just going to have to do it with ability and execution. We're going to play our game. We're not going to alter our style, even though we know they like to play a deliberate game."

Joining Sullivan in USIU's starting lineup will be veteran Bob Vilven at the other guard spot and Gary Morris, Ken Brush and Bob Kunysz up front. Morris rejoined the squad at the semester break and is averaging 10.9 in 14 games.

Brush and Vilven are hitting only about eight points per contest with Kunysz 7.1. Buddy Siebenhal, a 6-4 freshman, is challenging the latter three with a 7.0 figure. Ben Thompson, 6-6, runs Pinky Smith and his brother, freshman Kenny, on the USD front line. Thompson has a 9.7 average and 198 rebounds for the season, the latter mark second only to 223 by 233 caroms.

Graham laughs off Bloom's arena plans

By BILL WEURDING

Sports Arena operator Peter Graham lost his general manager yesterday but retained his penchant for not mincing words.

Asked if he thought the delay on Dr. Leonard Bloom's proposed new arena was being caused by Chula Vista officials or simply financing, Graham replied:

"I think it's financial. I think he (Bloom) is just waffle-dusting," a term Graham defined as "blowing smoke."

Graham and his general manager, Harry Ornest, appeared at the Sportscenter-Sportswriters Assn. luncheon to announce Ornest's resignation.

Ornest said he has sold his financial interests in San Diego Entertainment Inc., the corporation holding the operating lease of the Sports Arena, in order to pursue another business opportunity in the Los Angeles area.

"I have only one regret, and that is I'm leaving San Diego," said Ornest. "But then everything can't be perfect."

"The decision of who is going to replace Harry Ornest hasn't been taken yet," said Graham. "We're beginning a national search and we have some highly qualified people in mind."

Neither man commented in detail on Ornest's departure, although Graham said he and his longtime business associate are parting as the best of friends.

"Harry simply had an opportunity in Los Angeles he couldn't turn down," said Graham. "Because of his talents, he is going to be difficult to replace."

Graham was asked about the chances for both basketball and hockey at the Sports Arena next year and Graham couldn't resist a jab at Bloom's San Diego Conquistadors in responding.

"Next year is a hard word," he said, "but, yes, I can envision pro basketball returning to San Diego. And I would make book WHL hockey will be at the Sports Arena next year and for many years to come."

Other highlights from yesterday's luncheon meeting: San Diego mayor Pete Wilson purchased two San Diego Padres season tickets and pledged his support to the team's goal of selling 10,000 regular and mini-season tickets for the coming season.

"The Padres are an important part of this community and I feel deserving of this community's full support," he said. Mayor Wilson said he planned to assist the team's season ticket drive by writing letters to over 200 businesses that never have purchased season tickets and about 250 more which haven't renewed previous purchases.

It is the first such political involvement in support of any area professional franchise and the mayor was asked if the precedent might prove to be a dangerous one.

"It is a precedent I feel I can very easily control within my own powers," said Wilson. "It will be very controlled."

Andy Borthwick announced a rowing rally in which 25 shells will pass in public review will be held Saturday on Mission Bay.

The parade of boats is being held in conjunction with the San Diego Crew Classic scheduled April 7 on Mission Bay involving such rowing powers as the University of Washington and the U.S. Naval Academy.

Al Franken announced the professional track tour will debut March 24 in Los Angeles and is scheduled to appear in San Diego May 19 at the Sports Arena.

"It's going to be interesting to see if pro track will go over," Franken said. "I feel the key will be Kip Keino and national University and Bernie Bickerstaff of USD discussed the showdown between their respective teams tonight at 8 in USIU's Golden Gym.

"We're completely discarding their home-court advantage," said Bickerstaff. "We're going there to play hard, execute like we know we can and see what happens."

"We've got three games left and I feel we'll have to sweep them all to get into the NAIA playoffs," said Kloppenburg. "USD has a chance at the NCAA playoffs so there will be a lot riding on this game besides the usual rivalry involved."

USD football coach Andy Vinci announced his school will hold a coaches clinic March 17 in which new Los Angeles Rams coach Chuck Knox will be the featured speaker.

Vinci, whose Toreros opened spring football practice yesterday, said the reason for the early start was to avoid competing with the Aztecs for publicity and to give himself time to assess his needs and recruit more help later where it is needed.

The Torero head coach added his goal is to sell 1,000 season tickets before April 1 and to raise a minimum of $7,500 in the annual fund drive.

It was also announced the first San Diego County Wrestling Championship will be held April 22 at the Sports Arena and will involve competitors from all over the nation as well as any local participants interested.

The event will be carried on ABC's Wide World of Sports and is being sponsored by the San Diego County Deputy Sheriffs Assn. The group anticipates a crowd of 10,000 for the matches.

THE SAN DIEGO UNION

AIM AT PLAYOFFS

USD Faces 'Canyon Five'

With a post-season playoff berth now a distinct possibility, University of San Diego begins a three-game regular-season home stretch tonight by hosting Grand Canyon College at 8 in the USD gym.

The visiting Antelopes could provide a real stumbling block. The Toreros, now 16-7 following a bruising victory over U.S. International University Tuesday night, will be facing a club which appears their equal in almost every detail.

Grand Canyon is 16-7. It has the height with a front line averaging over 6-7 with the same threesome averaging in double figures on an individual basis.

Leading the scoring production is 6-9 freshman center Bayard Forrest with a 16.3 figure. He is a former prep All-America who earned that honor with a 27-point average.

Jim Irvine, a 6-5 junior, and 6-7 senior Rudy Santa Cruz are hitting at 12.3 and 11.0 clip, respectively.

Tonight's rivals have played six common opponents and the results are inconclusive to say the least. Northern Arizona, for example.

Grand Canyon lost to NAU, 73-56, then won, 70-64. USD fell to the same Arizona club, 79-73, then prevailed, 62-55.

Although nursing numerous bumps and bruises after the win over USIU, USD is expected to start its usual lineup of 6-6 Pinky Smith and 6-4 Ken Smith up forward, 6-6 Ben Thompson at center and 6-4 Stan Washington and 6-1 Joe Smith at the guards.

The Toreros' final two games of the regular season will be against California State University, San Diego, Tuesday and UC Riverside Friday March 2, both on the USD floor.

Toreros' officials yesterday revealed the NCAA College Division western regional playoffs will be either a four or six-team affair with the COAA champion hosting the most. Riverside and Bakersfield are currently leading the COAA with 7-2 marks with Cal Poly of Pomona 6-3.

Another entrant will be the Far Western Conference champion with Chico State and UC Davis the top contenders. It is believed Southern Colorado College is already assured a spot as an independent entrant.

A fourth team could come from USD. Seattle Pacific and the University of Puget Sound. The latter two are presently 1-7 and 1-9, respectively.

WESTERNERS, TRITONS PLAY

USD Hosts Cal Poly

Its seven-game winning streak lying broken on the Bakersfield State floor, University of San Diego returns home tonight in hopes of starting a new victory string against Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo.

Game time is 8 in the USD gym.

While the Toreros are busy at home, U.S. International University seeks to continue a successful streak that has reached five games when the Westerners invade Thousand Oaks for a return contest with Cal Lutheran.

UC San Diego, an 85-67 qualifying winner over Santa Cruz last night, faces the host school tonight at 9 in the Alt-California journey at UC Irvine. UC Davis and UC Riverside meet in the opener tonight with winners and losers meeting tomorrow night.

Cal Poly brings a 7-7 season record to face the Toreros with the Mustangs boasting four starters averaging in double figures. Forward Bill Jackson (6-5) is hitting at 17.5, center Bob Jennings (6-6) 14.1, guard Horace Williams (6-0) 14.8 and guard Rick Reed (6-2) 14.0.

USD performed in a manner which coach Bernie Bickerstaff described as "the fastest we have been all season" against Bakersfield Tuesday, hitting only 33 per cent of its shots with the club's top two scorers contributing a total of 12 points.

The Toreros may well need a better production tonight against the Mustangs, who can be either very hot or very cold.

Coach Ernie Wheeler's club is only 1-3 in the CCAA standings thus far but four of his starters return from last year's 16-10 team including Jackson, who has won the CCAA scoring title the past two seasons.

USIU boss Bob Kloppenburg credits good defense for the Westerners' success of late. "We have played fine defensive ball the last five games," he reminds. "In that time we have held the opposition to a maximum 64 points per game."

The Westerners (8-4) have limited 12 foes to an average of 60.1 points while scoring at a 67.4 mean themselves.

Guard Jim Sullivan continues to lead the USIU scoring with a 14.2 average with Preston Jackson and Ken Brush next at 11.5 and 10.9, respectively. Brush leads the rebounding with 102 in 12 games.

USIU already owns an 80-64 win over Cal Lutheran on the Westerners' floor. The King-smen are 5-10 for the season. In addition to UCSD playing in the Irvine tourney, USD and USIU also are slated for road tests tomorrow night, the Toreros at Southern California College and the Westerners at Pomona.

USD Varsity Tops Alumni

Back-to-back home runs by Kerry Dineen and Ken Bretsch led the University of San Diego baseball team to a 7-4 victory over an Alumni squad at Robb Field yesterday.

The varsity scored all of its runs in the fourth and fifth innings against Gary Myron and Steve Davis who divided the pitching for the Alumni. Dineen had two hits and three RBIs while varsity shortstop Ted Schultz collected three singles. Eight pitchers worked for the varsity.

USD opens its regular season tomorrow against California State University, San Diego, on the latter's field.

Toreros Survive Late USIU Rally

the final whistle two Toreros had fouled out, USD had seen Tommy Davis get a cut over his eye, Kenny Smith hobbled and Stan Washington forced out with a badly bruised right shoulder after accepting an elbow.

The Toreros were not the only casualties. USIU's Bobby Vilven went out with a groin injury with more than seven minutes to play and several other Westerners were battered and bruised.

Vilven appears sidelined for USIU's two remaining games.

Washington, driving with abandon and passing off when it appeared certain he would shoot, led all scorers with 21 points. However, his effort bested by only one the 20-point production of USIU's Jimmy Sullivan who laid in some beautiful, twisting shots despite his small stature.

Pinky Smith added 14 for USD as the game's only other player in double figures. The Toreros, running their season record to 16-7, took another step towards a post-season playoff berth. USIU, falling to 14-10, probably eliminated itself from any NAIA Playoff hopes.

Despite the victory, USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff was more than a little disturbed at the game's end. A few minutes earlier, when the Toreros had lost two players on fouls and two others on injuries, Bickerstaff shouted to his troops, "Hang in there, we've got a few left."

Later he explained he meant he was talking about a few healthy players, not complaining about the fouls.

However, Bickerstaff had something to say about the fouls when the contest had ended. "I just don't like to play that kind of game," he insisted. "Maybe he (USIU coach Bob Kloppenburg) does. Maybe he had to play it that way when he got so far behind."

"We were trying to protect ourselves out there, and we not only got the calls, but we get our men hurt, too. I'm sure Davis will need stitches, Joe Smith got banged up. Stan (Washington) really got an elbow in his shoulder. It was the most physical game we have been in all season."

By CHUCK SAWYER

Thirteen can be an awfully unlucky number.

Especially if it represents the shooting percentage for a basketball team in the first half of any game.

Taking advantage of that fact, University of San Diego fought off (and fought is putting it mildly) a second-half comeback by U.S. International University to stop the Westerners last night in USIU's Golden Gym, 66-56.

USIU could get down only three baskets in 23 shots for the lowly 13 per cent figure as the Toreros took a 28-11 advantage to the dressing room.

However, the Toreros paid a price for the huge margin, two starters and one reserve being assessed three fouls each in the opening 20 minutes.

This forced USD to abandon a tenacious shifting man-for-man defense in favor of a more conservative zone after intermission. And the Westerners came battling back.

They outscored USD, 25-13, in the first 10 minutes of the second half to cut the margin to a mere five points at 41-36. Two free throws by Kenny Smith and a three-point play by Stan Washington made the lead 10 points (44-36).

USIU cut it to six, 46-40, and seven, 50-43, before the Toreros ran off eight straight points for a 58-43 lead with 4:03 remaining and the issue was settled.

But if the game's outcome was decided, the battle of elbows and knees wasn't. Before USIU's Bobby Vilven (22) and Ken Brush (23) collide under the basket in a battle for a rebound last night against USD. Torero Robert Smith is at left.

New USD house more than a home

THE FIRST new building on the University of San Diego campus in nearly two decades is not only a home for the president and his family, but a hospitality and entertainment center.

Before 1971 when Dr. Author Hughes, Jr. was named first lay president, there was no need for such a center. The priests who had served as president before him were accommodated in campus apartments.

Although the Hughes family moved in last week, several events are already scheduled for the home.

THEY INCLUDE a series of dinners for a new $100,000 USD fund-raising campaign and a reception for 1973 USD graduates, families and friends.

On the northwest corner of the campus, the home was built on land previously owned by the Religious of the Sacred Heart but donated to USD with the consolidation of the university last year as an independent Catholic college.

Toreros Bomb Grand Canyon

University of San Diego took a big step in the direction of a post-season playoff berth by bombing Grand Canyon College, 92-76, in the USD Gym last night.

The victory gives the Toreros a 17-7 season record with two games to play—against California State University, San Diego Tuesday and UC Riverside Friday March 2, both games on the Toreros' floor.

The 17 victories in one season also ties a school mark for USD which finished 17-11 back in 1965-66.

Toreros eye big finish, playoff spot

University of San Diego, with a 16-7 record, has one of its best basketball teams in years. What the Toreros don't have as yet, however, is a berth in the NCAA college division playoffs.

With that as a goal, USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff, "we're contending for a playoff spot" with Bakersfield State and UC-Riverside.

The Antelopes also arrive with a 16-7 record including a 60-59 victory over the same U.S. International University outfit USD dismantled Tuesday night, 66-56.

"Right now," said USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff, "we're contending for a playoff spot" with Bakersfield State and UC-Riverside.

"I think we've got a chance because we've beaten Riverside. Of course, Bakersfield is another matter."

Indeed, one of the Toreros' seven defeats came at the hands of Bakersfield, which is tied with Riverside for the California Collegiate Athletic Assn. lead with a 7-2 record.

Winner of the CCAA will host the college division tournament but it has yet to be determined whether it will be a four or six-team affair. Winner of the Far Western Conference will supply one entrant, with both Chico State and UC-Davis the leading contenders.

Among Independents, Southern Colorado College has apparently secured a position. Other leading contenders are Seattle Pacific (15-7) and Puget Sound (16-9).

USD can finish the regular season with an 18-7 record should it defeat Grand Canyon tonight and California State University, San Diego, Tuesday in its remaining games.

Grand Canyon will confront the Toreros tonight with a lineup featuring 6 ft. 9 in. freshman center Bayard Forrest, who is averaging 16.3 points per game and hit for a 27-point average as a high school All-American.

ACTORS ENJOY SELVES

'Midsummer' Brings Chuckles

By DONALD DIERKS

No play by Shakespeare is more often given by amateur companies and schools than "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Its delightful merri-ment and obvious buffoonery can support many levels of acting skill, and its fantasies are made-to-order for styliza-tion and up-dating.

It was "A Midsummer Night's Dream" that the New Shakespeare Company of San Francisco chose for its second performance here last night at USD. The night before the company had presented Brecht's "Three Penny Opera" at Mont-gomery Junior High School.

SOME SLAPSTICK

The actors of the New Shakespeare Company are young and largely in-experienced, but they seemed to have a fine time with the popular play. And their own amusement and high spirits had a mildly infectious qual-ity.

You tended to chuckle with them and laugh at them. Never mind that some of the time they were pretty awful, or that their slapstick efforts seemed to be cheap shots for easy laughs at the expense of a great play.

Never mind either that the familiar play within the play, wherein the amate-ur actors Quince, Bottom, Snug and friends fumble through a performance of "Pyramus and Thisbe," was at times only one theatrical quality from that of the main action.

PRODUCTION CASUAL

At times, members of the cast were given to making in-terpretations of their own in Shakespeare's text. "Heavy, man," "Right on, Babe," or "Crazy," came as surprises in the flow of Shakespeare's elegant Elizabethan lan-guage, even if they may have had a certain rightness of rhythm and logic in the un-inhibited style of the concept. And the additions never failed to get their laughs.

Visually, the production was casual. Ancient Greek costumes were in evidence, but the rusties were in over-alls and coveralls—funny. The fairies were typically gossamer-clad, and Titania's costume was a great suc-cess—sheerest, flowing, chi-fon over nothing.

Margit-Roma's direction seemed to make the most of the acting material available, and it was surely lively with actors continually up and down the aisles. Puck climbed over members of the audience in a way that was reminiscent of some of the routines in "Hair."

Sandra Pappas was best of the cast as Helena, with par-ticularly funny facial ex-pressions, and Lester C. Jones stood out among his colleagues for his good voice and well-developed comic gifts.

Law School Dean Expects Socialized Legal Services

By MICHAEL SCOTT-BLAIR
Education Writer
The San Diego Union

Socialized legal services, sim-ilar to socialized medicine, will probably be available to the public in the not too distant fu-ture, Dean Donald T. Weckstein of the University of San Diego School of Law believes.

But the attorney of tomorrow will be more of a social sci-entist and less of a lawyer fight-ing battles in courtrooms, Weckstein said in an interview.

To meet this change, the USD law school has launched a five-year plan to broaden the scope of the attorney.

One result is that it might take less time — maybe only two years — to train the lawyer of tomorrow instead of the present three years, Weckstein said.

Legal charges are far too high at present, he said. This is because the overhead costs are too high and present methods are time-consuming.

In the future, do-it-yourself divorces, no-fault insurance, and more arbitrated set-tlements will take the place of court actions to an increasing extent, he said.

The legal profession has learned from the medical pro-fession that there is no point op-posing such a move, Weckstein said.

Also, he said, the legal pro-fession was becoming increas-ingly aware of social pressures and responding to them.

When free legal services were first suggested in some areas, the more conservative groups opposed it. But the lead-ers of the American Bar Asso-ciation pointed to what hap-pened to the doctors when they opposed Medicare and the at-torneys decided to work with the legislators to introduce the best possible free legal aid, Weckstein said.

Law schools will de-empha-size litigation in court and con-centrate more on counseling, rational thinking, problem solv-ing and the application of the law in the future, Weckstein said.

Much of the law that present law students will practice has not been made yet. It will be made during their professional career. The schools need to show students how to under-stand the problems of the poor, not just the law of the rich, he said.

The poor person in the future probably will have the same ac-cess to attorneys as the rich man before he buys a house, gets married, or goes into any small business venture, Weck-stein said.

This could be done through group insurance schemes to provide legal services as well as government-provided legal help, he said.

Such a program will have to be introduced if the country is to uphold its posture as a demo-cratic republic recognizing justice as the right of each in-dividual regardless of economic means, he said.

He said the Supreme Court is constantly stressing the need for equal treatment under the law of all citizens.

REAL PROBLEMS

The law of the future must relate more to social sciences and the real problems of life, he said. This means that para-legal professionals — highly skilled law clerks — will play an in-creasing part in a law office, with the attorney more free to exercise the law in relation to other problems of living.

An attorney of tomorrow could not just look at an alco-holic as an infringement of a section of the penal code. He would have to consider the problem in relation to other so-cial factors if he was going to do any good, Weckstein said.

HAPPENS NOW

But he saw little chance of any simplification of the in-creasingly complicated laws.

"You can't run a complex society with simple laws," he said.

Experience had shown that longer sentences and harsher punishments have not helped solve the rising crime problem, the law school dean said. Other social implications have to be considered and the attorney must include these in his think-ing, he said.

This is already happening in

USD lecture tonight on technology

Dr. Joseph Ghoghassian will speak on "The Philosophy of Technology: Assessment" at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the University of San Diego's De Sales Hall. The lecture is one of a series of lectures concerning man against mass society, entitled "Technology and Man."

The lecture series is sponsored by the California Theta Chapter of Phi Sigma Tau.

USD offers black-culture activities

An art show, poetry read-ings and a special lecture are among cultural activities at the University of San Diego for Black Consciousness Week, which runs through Saturday.

Recognition Day opened the week's festivities yesterday and featured songs, in-troduction of black students and poetry readings in Cam-ino Patio.

A soul-food dinner will be served in Founder's Dining Hall tonight. Tomorrow's ac-tivities include a lecture at 7 p.m. in the student union by USD psychology professor Dr. Charles W. Thomas, who has been called "father of black psychology."

Thomas' lecture will be on the role of the black student and is open to the public.

A public art show featuring works of black artists and students will be held from noon until 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the French Parlor of Founder's Hall.

On Friday the Camino Theatre will be the setting for a program of poetry, skits, dancing and music directed by Joyce Sharpe, who per-forms with her four sisters.

Professionally, the group is known as Kuumba Nyanbani, which is Swahili for "Crea-tive Family." The program begins at 7 p.m.

SOCIAL CONSCIOUSNESS TO BE STRESSED

USD law school unveils 5-year plan

To serve society, the School of Law of the University of San Diego has developed a five-year plan which stretches from Mexico to France, its dean announced yesterday.

Donald T. Weckstein, dean and professor of law at the school, revealed the 10-point program at a campus confer-ence.

USD law school, largest of the three here with 876 students, will undergo evolu-tionary changes between now and academic year 1977-78 to meet the challenge, spawned in the turbulent 1960's, said Weck-stein.

There has been a greater reliance on the law recently by more classes of people who never before thought of seeking counsel, said the 40-year-old dean who arrived on campus last August.

As a result, law students will be taught to be more so-cially conscious than lawyers have been in the past, Weck-stein explained.

To begin broadening the outlook of students, the law school is offering a course in Paris this year from July 2 to Aug. 10 in international and comparative law.

The law school also plans to take part in the university's program in Guadalajara, Mexico, the dean said.

There will be an emphasis on noninformational training, Weckstein said.

This is for two reasons, Weckstein said. First, there is a growing feeling among law professors around the na-tion that it is impossible to cover the field of law in three years, the traditional length of law school.

Second, many law faculty members believe that most of the laws future lawyers will work with will be made after they graduate.

Thus, USD law students will be trained in counseling, interviewing, problem analysis and solving, accord-ing to Weckstein.

He emphasized that USD lawyers will receive a solid education in the basic legal concepts in all fields of law and will be equipped to re-search properly.

There will be less class-room work and more individ-ualized instruction, the dean said. Students will work in law clinics, with real people with real problems, and also in simulated situations, the dean said.

Weckstein could not put a price tag on the cost of the five-year plan, but said the law school's current budget is about $1 million.

The extra cost of the pro-gram will be borne by feder-al, philanthropic and state grants, and tuition, which should carry a major share of the cost, the dean explained.

Following is a summary of the 10-point program:

— The current enrollment of 876 will be increased to 1,000 by 1977 without dimin-ishing admissions standards.

— The faculty of 25 full-time professors will be in-creased by 14 to reduce the faculty-student ratio from 40:1 to 25:1.

— The library's 57,000 vol-umes will be doubled and housed in a larger building already on the campus.

— To deal with current so-cial and legal problems, course work will become more specialized and new courses will be created.

— Joint programs will be set up to include insights and findings from other dis-ciplines. Law students will study the humanities and stu-dents from other schools at USD will take certain law courses.

— The four neighborhood legal clinics which offer in-ternship programs will be en-larged.

— A new center will be created to aid public and so-cial agencies with research and consultation. The center will also concern itself with reform of laws concerning the sea, Latin America, im-migration, criminals, and protection of the environ-ment.

— A master-of-law pro-gram will be developed; practicing lawyers will be able to take courses to up-date their knowledge; summer sessions will be expanded and entering law students will take a special program to be offered both day and night.

— An addition is planned for the library.

Black Week on at USD

Black Consciousness Week, sponsored by USD's Black Students' Union began Monday with lectures, art exhibits, music and a play on Black culture.

Dr. Charles Thomas, professor of psychology at USD and recognized "father of Black psychology," will give a lecture on the "role of the Black student and his college" tonight at 7 p.m. in the student union.

Art works of black artists and students from San Diego will be on display in the French Parlor of Founders Hall Thursday and Friday from 10-5 p.m.

On Friday at 7 p.m. Camino Theatre will be the setting for a program by a group known as Kuumba Nyanbani.

Black Consciousness Week will close Friday with a dance in the student union at 9:30 p.m., featuring music by "Soul Patrol."

USD law school begins series on law-humanities

The University of San Diego School of Law has begun a special series of 14 weekly lectures on Law and the Humanities, continuing through April 26.

The free classes meet 12:30 p.m. in Room 2A on the school's main floor every Thursday, except for March 21 and 28.

Speakers, from the humanities field, will discuss the relationships of their disciplines, especially where law is concerned.

They come from USD and other Southern California campuses, including University of California at San Diego, Cal State University, San Diego and San Diego City College.

practice. Now the law schools are starting to catch up and teach students how to handle the situation, he said.

Fifteen years ago, the volume of the laws was growing so fast that experts were beginning to think the law schools would have to go to four-year courses to cover it all, Weckstein said. Now they have reversed their thinking and have abandoned any pretense at trying to cover all law.

Increasingly, law schools will provide a basic course in legal procedures, skills and require-ments, and then deal in human cases and real life situations. With the basic teaching, stu-dents will then move into areas of specialization.

This could lead to con-sortiums, with all the law schools in Southern California providing the same basic first year or two and then for the student who wanted to special-ize, the University of Southern California could teach tax law, UCSD criminal law, and USD marine law, for example, with transfers between the campus-es, Weckstein said.

But the courts would never disappear, he said. "Every major problem in America traditionally finishes up as a legal problem. Maybe the public has a greater con-

USD's Washington is hard to figure . . . and even harder to stop

By JACK WILLIAMS

For openers—eye-openers, of course—he comes out in his yo-yo, around-the-world in 20 bounces or less dribble.

At the sight of an open man, however, Stan Washington is passing off. When he will do it, how he will do it—and to whom—nobody knows for sure. Not even Stan Washington.

He doesn't, contrary to some rumors, have eyes in the back of his head. It's just that the ones in the front are better than most.

Handling the ball, passing it any number of ways, and putting it in the hoop at the rate of nearly 17 points per game is Washington's many-splendored thing. He does it better than any amateur guard in town.

Someday, he'll probably be doing it for money, lots of it.

But right now he is doing it for the University of San Diego.

Last night, Washington helped do in U.S. International University's 66-56, in the Westerners' Golden Gym. It wasn't a pretty game—elbows flew like so many fists—but Washington managed to be as effective as he was cute.

"I still believe he's one of the top five guards in the nation," said Bernie Bickerstaff, the Toreros' coach. "He's not shooting very much this year but, if we wanted to, we could isolate him on somebody and he'd get 30 or 40 points a game."

As it is, Washington is averaging 16.4 points and 6.5 assists per game. Many come at a crucial time.

Take last night, for instance. USIU, making up for an atrocious start, was starting to come back. It narrowed the gap to 41-36 with 10 minutes left.

Then Washington turned a jump shot into a three-point play. He scored on a tip-in, deposited three free throws and the Toreros were up by eight, 51-43.

Moments later, he was driving for two points. Then, twice in a row, he fired three-quarter court passes to Pinky Smith for layups.

By then it was over—58-43 with 4:06 remaining—and USD had its 16th win in 23 games this season.

Washington, for his night's work, had 21 points, nine rebounds and six assists.

Nineteen of Washington's points came in the second half. Points, however, don't seem to excite this 6-ft., 4 in., 180 lb. junior from the same high school in Washington, D.C.—Springarn—which spawned Elgin Baylor and Dave Bing.

"Mainly," he tells you, "I'm a quarterback. I run the offense and look for the big man underneath. They do the work, they get open, and I like to reward 'em with the ball."

That is not to say, however, that Washington is reluctant to shoot. He

Five-year plan

USD law school moves with changing trends

Southern Cross Reporter

ANNOUNCING a new five-year plan of development for the University of San Diego School of Law, Dean Donald Weckstein last week outlined the changing trends in legal training.

"There will be more interdisciplinary programs, more time devoted to the non-litigation aspects of law," he said.

"With no depreciation of basic courses, newly packaged courses will be offered, confronting the legal and social problems of the day."

THE LAW school, which is 20 years old, now has 870 students. Dean Weckstein envisions an eventual student roll of 1,000.

Among physical changes to come in the near future are the doubling of the present library of 57,000 volumes and its removal to the Knights of Columbus library now used by the undergraduate schools.

The dean also predicted said that San Diego's special position also lends itself to special courses in the law of the seas, immigration laws and admiralty law.

In clinical education the current neighborhood legal clinics, public and private internship programs will be enlarged.

"A key element in the five-year development will be an increase of 14 in faculty to provide a projected student teacher ratio of 25 to 1.

INCREASED attention will be given to expanded summer and post graduate programs. A new venture in the field of international law is a summer study program of six weeks in Paris in cooperation with the Institute Catholique de Paris.

With law school faculty and others in Paris, students will study comparative law under European conditions.

The law school will also participate in the future in USD's regular summer courses at Guadalajara, Mexico.

WECKSTEIN, discussing the general legal scene, said a reduction in litigation has to come, but the need for more lawyers is great. He forecast changes in teaching methods which might eventually see the normal law school course cut to two years, with a third year devoted to specialist aspects.

"We've given up trying to cover everything at law school," he said. "The field of law is growing too complex to achieve this." He said that more than 90 per cent of students plan a career in law or related practices.

Appointed at the start of the 1972-73 year, Dean Weckstein succeeded acting dean Joseph Brock. He is education editor in the Professional Responsibilities of the Lawyer and contributor to many legal publications.

more individual and seminar type classes, and more clinical instruction, with "more learning outside the classroom than is the case now."

SPECIAL emphasis will be placed on studies related to Mexico and Latin America due to proximity to the border. Weckstein

New USD house more than a home

THE FIRST new building on the University of San Diego campus in nearly two decades is not only a home for the president and his family, but a hospitality and entertainment center.

Before 1971 when Dr. Author Hughes, Jr. was named first lay president, there was no need for such a center. The priests who had served as president before him were accommodated in campus apartments.

Although the Hughes family moved in last week, several events are already scheduled for the home.

THEY INCLUDE a series of dinners for a new $100,000 USD fund-raising campaign and a reception for 1973 USD graduates, families and friends.

On the northwest corner of the campus, the home was built on land previously owned by the Religious of the Sacred Heart but donated to USD with the consolidation of the university last year as an independent Catholic college.

Grid gifts. Would you believe...luxury beach apartments?

By TERRY MONAHAN
Sentinel Sports Writer

You almost can't believe the offer.

Play football and live in a resort hotel. That is the option open to athletes being recruited by the University of San Diego.

The football's budget is such that it cannot afford to house and feed its athletes on campus and have gone to the community for help. The response gives USD an offer that can't be refused.

Athletes receive more than just room and board. They are placed in hotels which are at the center of leisurely enjoyment in San Diego County.

The Town and Country Hotel and the Holiday Inn are members of the Hotel Circle in Mission Valley. They could hardly be called a dormitory. Their facilities include golfing, swimming, and numerous weekend activities to relieve the tension of the student-athlete.

San Diego's varied water-scene would be irresistible to a football recruit from the Midwest. The luxury surrounding the Catamaran and the Bahia is far beyond what most schools can offer in the way of room and board. Swimming and a number of aquatic endeavors enhance the lavish surroundings of the Islandia in Mission Bay.

For those who like to be near the city, but on the outskirts, the Toreros can accommodate with the Royal Inn and Dana Inn. From there it is only a short walk to Downtown and its various entertainments.

Residing in the heart of a big city, for those who like it, is never dull. You are near people and plenty of them. And where there are people there is bound to be entertainment. The Hotel San Diego, one of the first to donate room space, is the last link in the chain of accommodations for USD.

Off-campus housing on this level gives USD something to offer young football players. Otherwise, they would not be able to compete for talent with the larger football schools.

Recruitment is the only way to improve a football squad and the coaches have to sell their programs to the professionals do.

USD's footballers are not starving either. Several establishments outside of the hotels have given meal privileges. The food donors are Howard Johnson's, Chart House, Sir George's, Hamburger House, Butcher Shop, Love's Bar-B-Q, Pacific Bar-B-Q, and Shakey's.

Room and board extend over a seven month period covering from Feb. to May and Sept. to Nov. After football season the players will be without rooms unless the coaches can convince the donors to help again.

Sounds like the players have quite the life at USD. It is not all that easy. At a school which stresses academic performance, to sports, each player must maintain scholastic eligibility to retain his donated privileges.

Coach Andy Vinci, head man of "Flim-Flam Tech" as the arrangement is affectionately known, guessed there are 40 footballers involved in the program.

Vinci stressed the need for this community involvement if he is to have a chance at raising the level of performance. He will have to go some to top last year's 6-3-1 cinderella season on the hill.

Early spring practice, which opened this week, was scheduled so as not to conflict with San Diego State University's spring drills and also to coincide with the drive to sell 1000 season tickets. The Toreros also announced a coach's clinic will be held with new Rams' head coach, Chuck Knox, as the headliner.

There is a selfish reason for the earlier practice. It will give the coaches time to recruit players to fill vacancies for the fall. Spring practice concludes with the Blue-Gold game March 22.

There is a long way for USD to go, but how can you lose with a name like "Flim-Flam Tech."

TOREROS EYE NCAA PLAYOFF BERTH

Can USD beat 'em? Answer tonight

Evening Tribune 2/27/73

By BILL WEURDING

There has been talk in recent weeks that the best college basketball team in town is not the Aztecs of California State University, San Diego.

That honor, at least in the opinion of many fans, goes to the Toreros from University of San Diego instead of the big boys from Montezuma Mesa.

So tonight at 8 in the USD gym the talk will end and the showdown begins. Both sides agree on one point. It should be interesting.

"Other than Arizona State, the Aztecs are the toughest team we've faced all year," said USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff at yesterday's Sportscenter. "I don't think our playoff chances are contingent on beating the Aztecs," said Bickerstaff. "We've already beaten Bakersfield, the CCAA champion, and we've beaten UC-Riverside at their place. They're both top playoff contenders."

Still, it wouldn't hurt the Torero cause any to defeat the University Division Aztecs and add another feather to their cap.

Nor would it hurt the Aztec prestige to capture their fourth straight mythical city championship and continue on toward what could wind up as a respectable 16-10 season.

Davis' squad will conclude its season Saturday at the Sports Arena against Fresno State. The Aztecs are 6-5 in Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. play and there is a chance they could finish second to Long Beach State with a win over Fresno.

Presently, they are in third behind UC-Santa Barbara (6-4) while Pacific and San Jose State are 5-5 and also in contention for the runner-up spot.

"There are so many possible combinations of wins and losses this week that it's tough to figure out who we're fighting," said Davis. "But we do know we have to win Saturday against Fresno to be in it."

The Toreros close out their season Friday night here against Riverside so tonight's outcome could mean much in the way of momentum for both teams.

Unfortunately, neither team is expected to be at full strength. Torero guard Stan Washington is recovering from a case of strep throat while Aztec guard Geoff Pete is nursing a tender ankle.

They'll be paired against each other, which seems only fair.

USD offers concert 2/28/73

The University of San Diego Symphony Orchestra will perform in concert with the University's choir and the choir of the First Methodist Church of La Mesa on Sunday. The four o'clock concert will be in Camino Theatre on the USD campus.

The second part of the program will feature the orchestra playing "Soirees Musicales" which is in five short sections based upon themes by Rossini. Arranged by Britten in the 1930's, the parts are: "March," "Canzonetta," "Trioletto," "Bolero" and "Tarentella."

The USD Symphony has among its members musicians from the San Diego Symphony, the military bases in the area students, as well as persons who enjoy the opportunity of playing with an ensemble.

There is no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend.

USD's Experimental College, a student-run learning program, has been revived this semester with a shift in emphasis from heavy subjects to recreation.

Workshops in such areas as guitar, photography, bicycling and mechanics have been scheduled. If a sufficient amount of interest is shown in other areas, regular workshops will also be scheduled in those fields for student benefit.

An initial yoga workshop was scheduled to begin this week, with a workshop in photography set for next Tuesday.

This Saturday has been dubbed Old Time Night at the USD Coffee Shop, with faculty and administrators volunteering to provide entertainment as well as mind the snack bar for students.

Rev. Paul Donovan, a counselor at the Educational Development Center, will play the piano for sing-alongs. The English Department will lend a banjo player and there is the possibility of a jug band.

In response to the faculty and administration participation, students will provide the entertainment the following week. The coffee house, although less than a month old, has been the scene of entertainment programs each Saturday night with capacity attendance.

USD premieres Thompson work 3/1/73

THE USD Symphony Orchestra and choir and the First Methodist church choir of La Mesa will give a free concert at 4 p.m. Sunday, March 4, in Camino Theater, Alcala Park.

The orchestra will be under the baton of Dr. Henry Kolar, head of the USD music department and former concertmaster with the San Diego Symphony.

ALSO ON THE program will be "Soirees Musicales" — five short selections based on themes by Rossini — played by the orchestra.

CONCLUDES SERIES — Father James Carroll, CSP, chaplain at Boston University, will be the last speaker in the CCD's Challenge '72-'73 lecture series. He will speak at 7:30 p.m. Monday, March 5, in USD's Camino Theater, San Diego, on "The Imagination in the Life of Prayer." The following evening he will talk in Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, Riverside. The Paulist priest is also a poet and playwright.

LOSS PRECEDES TOURNEY 3/1/73

Toreros sputter

University of San Diego concluded its best regular season basketball record in history last night but the evening could have been brighter.

The Toreros committed 30 turnovers and lost in overtime to UC-Riverside, 63-60, in the USD gym.

The Toreros have an 18-8 record going into the NCAA District 8 playoffs at Bakersfield on Friday.

USD Shoots Down Aztecs, 78-67, On Closing Surge

12-4 Burst In Last Half Resolves It

By BILL CENTER

"This is the greatest win ever... the finest hour of our finest year."

Those were the words of University of San Diego basketball coach Bernie Bickerstaff last night after his Toreros answered the coach's dream of four years.

They beat the Aztecs of California State University, San Diego, 78-67, before a screaming, standing-room-only crowd of 2,100 in the USD gym.

THEY'RE DRAWING OUT

And the Toreros were pulling away at the finish.

"This has gotta be my biggest win," Bickerstaff said while enjoying the sunlight after living four years in the shadow of the school on Montezuma Mesa.

"Our kids did a fantastic job. When we were down, we just kept coming."

The Toreros kept coming behind the play of Robert (Pinky) Smith, a 6 foot-6 1/2 junior forward.

In the second half Smith hit for 19 points despite being handicapped by foul problems. Eight of his points came while USD was outscoring the Aztecs by a 12-4 clip and moving to a lead it never surrendered.

AN ANGRY AFFAIR

It was a frantic game spiced by confrontations between Aztec coach Dick Davis and official Doug Harvey.

Davis hollered at the official throughout the first half and Harvey responded by tagging Davis with two technicals, one in each half. In the second half, Harvey whistled the Aztecs down 17 times on fouls and violations. He blew his whistle seven times on USD.

Afterwards Davis followed Harvey to the officials' dressing room. And the coach was even hotter after being turned away at the door.

"He called me a (censored) coach," said Davis of the meeting. "It's not his place to say that. And I hope you print that."

"I told Doug he did a lousy job and I called him incompetent."

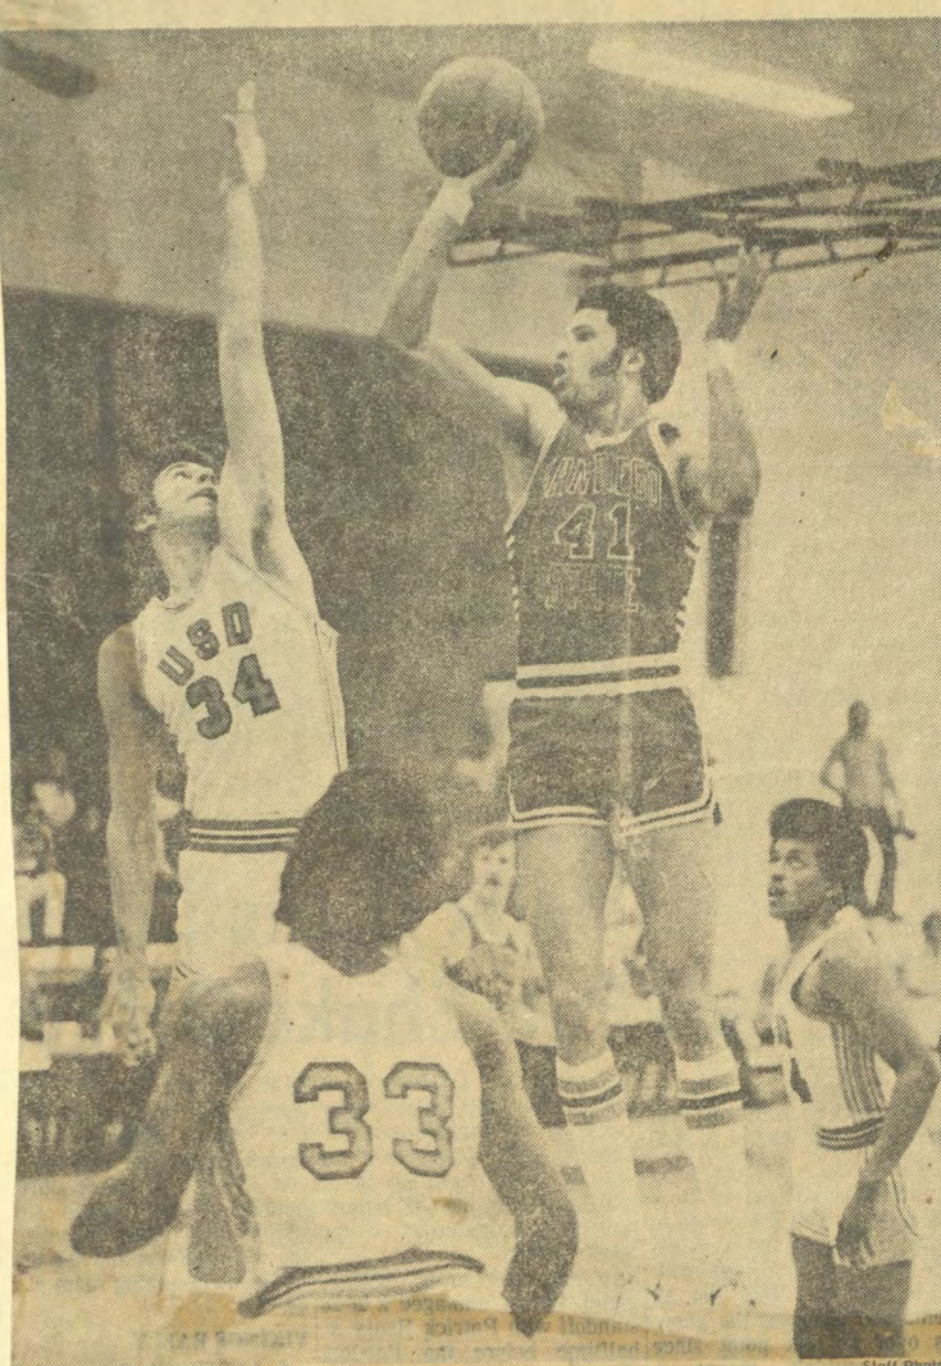

Harvey slammed the door to the officials' room and refused to offer a rebuttal.

But there was no stopping the Toreros this night.

USD shot 46 per cent, the Aztecs 31 per cent. And the Toreros outbatted the Aztecs in the decisive final minutes after San Diego State had fought back to within a basket at 63-61.

"I want to keep this win in proper perspective," said Bickerstaff. "I don't want to boast."

Toreros top Aztecs for City cage championship 2/28/73

Home courts in basketball are a distinct advantage. Sometimes, it can become a coach's greatest weapon. It's almost like having a "sixth" player on the court.

University of San Diego was determined to break the three-year string of losses to crosstown rival San Diego State University and the Toreros figured their cozy gym, nicknamed "The Pit," was the place to do it.

USD lived up to its billing as the best team in town Tuesday night by handling the Aztecs, 78-67, in the Toreros' gym. That is too simple a description of the game, though.

Both teams had reached the mythical finals for the city championship by defeating United States International University. USD won 66-56 while the Aztecs squeaked out a 58-56 decision over the Westerners.

Bernie Bickerstaff's talented young club survived a frantic first half which saw them lose both "Pinky" Smith and Ben Thompson with foul trouble. Smith left the game with his club trailing 13-12 with 12:06 remaining and Thompson followed him to the bench at 7:52 with his third personal.

The lead changed hands five times in the opening half of action and the Aztecs went to the locker room tied at 32-32 as John Service sank a 10-foot jumper at the buzzer.

Neither team shot particularly well with USD hitting 37 per cent from the field. But, the Aztecs countered with a miserable 29 per cent. State remained in the game only because USD was over the limit in fouls early. They converted 12 of 16 charities and USD hit two of three.

At intermission, "Pinky" Smith had but six points since he departed the scene early. He more than made up for it with 19 markers in the second half despite playing with four fouls. He literally owned the area around the foul line canning six of his nine second half hoops from there.

State managed to hold off USD after the break and didn't surrender the lead until a "Pinky" Smith layup with 10:00 left put the score at 53-51. John Anderson connected on a drive but Smith, "Pinky" again, countered at 8:38 with another long range jumper. USD never trailed after that hoop.

Freshman Steve Copp scored six straight points for the Aztecs to narrow the gap to 61-59. Stan Washington answered with a 10-foot jumper and Larry Jones scored on a twisting layup. USD by two, 63-61.

At 6-1, Joe Smith is considered a small guard by today's standards. He was bigger than life in the final two-and-a-half minutes as he scored all seven of his second half points to put the game out of reach.

Pete Cosenza's bucket was followed by Joe Smith's two free tosses and two more charities from "Pinky" Smith's little brother, Ken, and the margin was 69-61.

The Aztecs closed within six but Chris Marlowe missed two free throws and USD raced down the floor where Joe Smith converted a three-point play. And that was the ball game.

Joe and "Pinky" Smith each hit a basket and Geoff Pete hit one for State for the final margin.

Poor shooting plagued the Aztecs as they got down only 25 of 80 shots from the floor for a cold 31 per cent. The Toreros burned the twine at a 61 per cent clip in the final half and finished the game connecting on 46 per cent from the floor and 82 per cent from the charity stripe.

The three Smith boys led USD, now 18-7 on the year, with "Pinky" leading the way scoring 25 points while Joe and Ken contributed 13 and 12, respectively. Larry Jones led the Aztecs with 17, and Copp and Anderson added 14 markers apiece. Pete tallied 11 for the losers, who fell to 14-11 overall.

There was joy in Aztecville.

Consolidation study planned at University of San Diego

By ALLEN PALMER
EVENING TRIBUNE Education Writer

A team of California educators will examine the successful merger of two separate colleges to form the University of San Diego in discussions scheduled on campus next week.

The base study is expected to assist leaders of other small schools which may be planning consolidating their campuses.

Until the merger was completed last May, the San Diego College for Women and the University of San Diego College for Men, although both were affiliated with the Roman Catholic Church, were separate schools.

Today, the university at Alcala Park is an independent non-educational school of 2,400 students with a College of Arts and Sciences and three professional schools—law, business administration and education.

The educators, members of the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges, will evaluate how the schools were combined into the present university, USD officials said.

USD President, Arthur Hughes said he could attribute the success of the merger to the approach of school leaders and the fact the merger "started at the bottom."

"We began with the students," Hughes said. "There was no attempt to force anything upon them and by the time it reached the matter of combining the two boards of trustees, everything was settled."

Hughes said he was pleased with the plan of the Western association to sponsor a case study of the merger for the benefit of other colleges.

Gilbert Brown, director of university relations, said the study was a "new approach" to problems confronting academic administrators.

"They want to see how the University of San Diego handled its particular problem," Brown said. "We're happy to help."

The committee from the association will also conduct its accreditation procedure next week, the first since the schools were combined.

A report on the six-year project, written by USD Provost Sister Sally Furay, outlined several issues confronting the schools before merging, which included:

—A search for identity of the new university.

—Maintaining high academic levels in spite of some confusion from possible duplication of services and programs.

—Redefining the role of priests and religious on campus.

Sister Furay said the schools had previously "enjoyed a long history of cooperation in student life areas" before the consolidation.

But the cooperation stopped short when it entered academic life. All classes were separated since the College for Women was operated by the Society of the Sacred Heart, which was authorized to teach only women at the college level.

The College for Men was sponsored and operated by the Roman Catholic Diocese of San Diego.

As a result of Vatican II's urging to promote cooperation between various Catholic schools, efforts began in February 1967 to coordinate the curriculum of the schools, Sister Furay explained.

ART ARENA

Emerson exhibit opens

BY JAN JENNINGS

A one-man exhibit of the works of Charles Emerson, artist-in-residence at the La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art, opened yesterday at Founders' Gallery at the University of San Diego.

A graduate of USC, Emerson received his master's degree from Yale. He studied a year in Venice, Italy, on a Fulbright grant.

Emerson's current pieces are cloth creations done primarily in velvet designed to encompass a wall and utilize its voids as positive elements, the wall becoming an integral part of the piece.

Each wall creation consists of any number of individual pieces which may be changed and rearranged at will. They're abstract, multi-colored shapes which invite the viewer to try his hand and piece together his own design.

Texture is of primary concern as the folding, draping and modeling of the material lends dimension and substance.

Though done in cloth materials, Emerson refers to the pieces as paintings, the folding and play with the material comparable to brush strokes, either light or sweeping and heavy.

The challenge to the wall creations is the combining of elements to create an effective design. Each piece in the work has a singular shape and the combination of varying shapes, with concern to color and texture, tell the tale of success or failure or somewhere in between.

Perhaps most impressive in the wall pieces on exhibit is the lightness and airiness, somewhat of a floating quality, the feeling of abandon. They suggest the brevity which by nature is their material existence.

"Of course, they're not designed to last forever," said Emerson. "The material fades and would eventually fall apart."

Emerson further shortens the life of the pieces by continually rearranging them and initiating new pieces. It's a here today type of art, preserved only through the medium of photography.

USD Students Plan, Open First Campus Coffee House

University of San Diego students wanted a place to go on Saturday nights—so they made one.

"The Lark," the university's first coffee house, opened recently to the fanfare of a folk music group and the chili of a priest-turned-chef for the occasion.

Student planning began Dec. 1 and ended at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13. Wall mural paint was still wet as students filed in to bring the mural, depicting faces and profiles at tables, to life.

STUCK IN DORMS

"If this coffee house goes, it will do a lot to establish the community we want to build," said student Cliff Molero.

"So many students are stuck in the dorms with no cars and no place to go on the weekends," said another student.

"There's nothing open on campus after Saturday night dinner," said a faculty member. Unless there is a party or dance, most auto-less students can be found in the television lounge or the dorms. Even an 8 p.m. snack must come from a machine.

Thus, the age-long cry of students has been, "We want a lounge." But it took Tom Cosgrove, coordinator of campus programs, and 25 students to get it together.

They started with two goals—that they make a community center where students could snack, relax and be entertained—and that it be cheap.

The students made the design and the university's physical plant department did the construction and donated a student lounge.

Strangely enough, the name came 15 years before the coffee house—when the building was blessed upon opening.

When the late Bishop Charles Buddy came to what was then the cafeteria for the Catholic men's college, it was described to him as a place students would gather to eat and relax.

"Oh, I see, that's where they're going to have a lark," he said. The name stuck.

Before anyone could have a lark, however, seating for 72 had to be planned. A raised platform for tables was added, booths and benches were built in, and tables equipped with netted candles.

FAKE FIREPLACE

For atmosphere, a fake fireplace was highlighted, with a sign warning that it was not to be lit. Colored lights were installed. Everyone's probably heard of a piano bar but The Lark has modified it to a stage bar. The stage, added on to a snack bar, now boasts ketchup, mustard, baskets of sugar and bar stools alongside for quick removal when performers take over.

The wall mural was painted by two seniors majoring in art—John Galletta and Mike Ross. For Ross, it was the answer to his quest for a wall to paint.

GRAND OPENING

During the grand opening, the folk group, Friends of the Family (which includes one USD student), was begged to continue and everyone joined arm-in-arm and sang.

"I've gotten tremendous response from the students," said Connie Soja, one of the planners.

Apparently, the dream of a community center is realized. And, student-prepared from the looks of the menu, it's cheap, too. Coffee and tea are 10 cents. A slice of French bread is five cents. There are also soft drinks, hot spiced apple cider and bagels.

"We wanted to keep the fare simple and practical," said Molero. A surprise specialty of the week is planned. This could be banana bread, chili or whatever students wish to prepare.

THE USD SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA AND CHORUS will present Raudal Thompson's "Psalm of Thanksgiving" at 4 p.m. next Sunday in the school's Camino Theater. 2/25/73 UNION

State." The Aztecs did drop a 95-70 decision while USD lost to the Sun Devils by 26, 85-59.

In the games against common foes, the Aztecs have a 2-1 record while USD is 1-2. The Aztecs downed Arizona at home, 81-68, while the Toreros lost to the Wildcats at Tucson, 79-70.

San Diego State will carry a 14-10 record into the game. The visitors also hold a 7-3 edge in this series and have won the last three meetings. They are 3-3 away from home this year while USD is 9-1 at home.

One other statistic that might prove interesting tonight is the Aztecs' record in close games. Where the decision has been determined by seven or fewer points, the Aztecs are 6-1.

San Diego State will have a slight height advantage tonight although USD is considered the more physical of the two teams.

The Toreros open with 6-6 Ben Thompson at center flanked by 6-6½ Robert (Pinky) Smith and his 6-4 freshman brother, Kenny, up front. At guard is 6-4 Stan Washington and 6-1 Joe Smith.

The Aztecs will have 6-6½ leaper Larry Jones at center with 6-7 John Anderson and 6-6 freshman Steve Copp at the forwards. Geoff Pete at 6-3 and 6-1 Brad McNamara are the guards. The Aztecs will also employ 6-11 John Service at center both to spell Jones or to move Jones to forward.

Perhaps the most important matchup of the night will be at the No. 1 guard spot where Pete and Washington face off with neither athlete expected to be operating at 100 per cent.

Pete has been troubled the past three weeks with a minor ankle sprain while Washington has had a case of strep throat. Pete is the Aztecs' leading scorer while Washington is the No. 2 Torero scorer (behind Pinky Smith) and the team's quarterback.

USD, Aztecs Rated Tossup Foes Tonight

Bob Kloppenburg, a coach who has lost hard-fought decisions to both parties, feels tonight's cross-town clash between the University of San Diego Toreros and the Aztecs of California State University, San Diego, will be quite a basketball game.

The tipoff is set for 8 in the USD gym in Alcala Park.

"It's hard to evaluate off the two games we played with both teams, but I think it rates as a good, close match," Kloppenburg, the head coach at U.S. International University, said.

"USD is stronger in the backcourt and the front line is about even. San Diego State has the stronger bench."

"San Diego State also plays a tougher schedule which will work to their advantage. USD has the homecourt edge."

"If San Diego State wins the game, it will be because of its bench. USD drops when it goes to the bench."

If Kloppenburg likes the 17-7 Toreros, so does Aztec coach Dick Davis.

"I have to agree with everyone in town who feels USD can beat us," said Davis at the Sportswriters Association meeting. "Don't make any mistake about it, they have very fine talent. Enough talent to beat us."

Davis used the USIU games as a parallel.

"We were very fortunate to win that game (58-55) and USD just destroyed them (66-56 after being up 28-11 at the half)."

USD coach Bernie Bickers-taff also went to comparative scores to indicate how close tonight's foes are. "I think we both lost by 25 at Arizona (Continued on C-4, Col. 1).

"Awareness of Black Culture" is the theme chosen by USD's Black Students Union for its annual Black Consciousness Week, which ends Saturday.

The purpose of the event is to create an awareness and understanding of black culture among blacks and non-blacks, alike.

Opening the week-long festival Monday was a ceremony called "Tribute to a Queen and Brothers," during which black men and women on campus formally exchanged tokens of appreciation and respect for each other.

The second day of festivities included a show of the works of black artists and a "soul food" dinner served at the student cafeteria. Art Gallery of San Diego, through Walli Ullah (Walter Dawson) and Eddie Edwards, supplied the art works from the black community, and the "soul food" menu included corn bread, sweet potatoes, corn on the cob, greens, gumbo and sweet potato pie.

Dr. Charles W. Thomas of UCSD will discuss black consciousness in a lecture at 7 tonight in Camino Theater.

Friday's schedule includes a "black cultural experience"—skits, dances, music and poems depicting the black culture by Kuumba Nyumbani (Creative Family).

A dance in the Student Union will close the Black Consciousness Week Saturday night.

Every piece can't be a winner, as neither can every artist's paintings or sculpture, yet the right combination and spacial relationship of the individual pieces creates a pleasing wall design.

Lightness, airiness, almost an ethereal quality, is also noted in Emerson's paintings. On display is one of his circular works which suggests a swirl of clouds continually moving in a rainbow colored sky. It's an abstract piece with colors interacting and creating an almost dreamlike atmosphere. Visually, a most soothing and pleasing piece, though perhaps better displayed on a dark wall with attention to lighting.

The Emerson exhibit will remain on view at the USD gallery through February.

Five sculpted forms by Los Angeles artist Larry Bell are on view in the Oakland Museum's Art Special Gallery. Four of his atmospheric boxes as well as a new environment of overlapping, reflecting glass panes created for this exhibit are on display.

Bell creates his unique effect by an application of vaporized metallic compounds to glass panels. Light passing through refracting layers is diffused and absorbed on some surfaces, reflected off others.

Since 1964, Bell, 32, has participated in selected group exhibitions in galleries, museums and universities throughout the United States and in Germany, France, England, Brazil and Canada. The current exhibit will remain on view through March 4.

A newly created post of deputy director of the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York will be filled by Henry Berg, according to museum director Thomas M. Messer.

Berg comes to the museum from the Paul Mellon Center for British Art and British Studies at Yale University where he has been assistant director since 1969.

Previously, he was assistant director of Harvard's Fogg Art Museum. He is a graduate of Princeton, received his law degree from Yale and attended graduate school in fine arts at Harvard where he received his master's degree.

Berg will be responsible for supervising the day to day operations of the museum. He will assume his duties in May.

An exhibit of the permanent collection of 20th Century art owned by the Laguna Beach Museum of Art opens tomorrow at the museum, 307 Cliff Dr. Included in the exhibit are 100 paintings which trace the artistic history of the Art Colony from the turn of the century to the present time.

Opening with the exhibit will be a collection of serigraphs by Shirley Kalish and watercolors by Jean Edelsheim. Gallery hours are 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily.

"Amsterdam, Paris, Dusseldorf," an exhibition of more than 140 works by artists working in these three European art centers, opens Feb. 20 at the Pasadena Art Museum. It will continue through April 8.

Organized by the Solomon R. Guggenheim Museum in New York, the exhibit will include works by 23 European artists.

with the Dallas Cowboys. But he hasn't played football since junior high.

"They just like my potential, I guess," said Smith. "I wanted to play football in high school but I had a knee problem. When I saw I might do well in basketball I decided to get serious about that and concentrate on it. But football has always been my first love."

Smith is majoring in psychology at USD, with the intention of becoming a police officer. He is bright, articulate and quick to realize he has a long way to go.

"I'm greatly unrefined," he said. "I want to improve my game underneath, for one thing. I tend to take it too easy, get kinda lax, and this bothers the coach."

"I learned a lot this year against Arizona State, when I went up against a guy 6-9, about 225 lbs. He was a great ball player and I took a good beating. But, you know, I kinda enjoyed it. I profited from it."

To Smith, it was an indication he could play with the best. Even if he isn't always feeling his best.

His best game, a 40-point effort for a school record against Southern California College in which he sank 19 of 35 field goals, was played with the broken foot.

"I broke it in practice one day during a fast-break drill," remembered Smith. "There was a big bump under my foot and we taped it all the time. I finally went to the doctor and he told me it was broken. But I kept playing with an arch support."

"It feels fine right now."

With Smith feeling fine, the Toreros are conceded a good chance of surviving the regionals Friday and Saturday.

"Right now," said Smith, "we have enough confidence to take on a team as good as UCLA."

Friday night, however, the Toreros will settle for Bakersfield State.

Pinky or Bob, Toreros' standout not just another Mr. Smith

By JACK WILLIAMS

When Robert Smith was a baby, not much bigger than a basketball hoop, his mother started calling him "Pinky." It was a nickname that lasted about as long as it took somebody to say "Pinky."

Whatever you call him—and Robert longs for the day when folks will address him as just plain "Bob"—here is a guy you won't mistake for just another Mr. Smith.

Some observers, in fact, have likened him to Sidney Wicks, a basketball player of similar dimensions, style and facial characteristics.

It's a comparison Pinky Smith—"That's the way I sign my autographs"—can really get into.

"I dream of playing against Wicks," said Smith, "of having him see me and think he's looking in the mirror. It could be some day."

Indeed, it could, and a pro basketball court would be as good a place as any. Wicks, at present, is a Portland Trail-blazer.

Smith is one of two genuine pro prospects coveting for coach Bernie Bickerstaff at the University of San Diego. He is one of the big reasons they are 18-3, bound for the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. College Division playoffs Friday night in Bakersfield.

It is there, at Bakersfield City College, that the Toreros will oppose Bakersfield State, also 18-3, at 9 p.m. It is a wonder, considering his one-on-one confrontations with everything from pneumonia to black widow spiders, that Smith will be there, too.

Two weeks ago, just when he was beginning to regain most of his strength from a case of the flu and a broken foot that hounded him in the early season, Smith was bitten by the black widow.

Then came a slight injury to his knee. Last year, as a sophomore, Smith battled pneumonia for part of the season. As a freshman, all he had was a broken leg for 13 games.

His left arm remains a trifle weak from the spider bite, and he is about eight pounds under what he considers his best weight, but Smith will be there Friday night. He will be there with an 18.4 scoring average, a 55% shooting mark and the kind of board work which has produced 10.6 rebounds per game.

Despite the statistics, Smith's presence at a school as small as USD would seem a handicap in terms of a pro future.

"It could be, I suppose," he admitted, "but being in the regionals helps. So does being on a team as good as USD."

It is a team, indeed, which will get better. All five starters are underclassmen, including guard Stan Washington, Smith's roommate and another talent of pro magnitude.

Smith came to USD after averaging 27.3 points per game as a senior at Jefferson High in Daly City, Calif. "USD," he recalled, "was the second school I visited. I didn't have to see any more. There were 12 students to every teacher and that's a ratio you can't beat. And it was the kind of school where you could get to know everybody."

Pinky was joined on the USD campus this year by his brother, freshman Kenny Smith, who broke Pinky's school scoring record at Jefferson High by 49 points.

There is another Smith, Joe, on the Torero starting five. But he's no relation.

"It's fun playing with Kenny," said Smith. "He was a sophomore when I was a senior in high school and we only played two games together."

"I worked with him quite a bit last summer before he played in the state high school all-star game. That was the beginning of our unity. We shared what knowledge we had together. Before that, we were two separate players."

That is not to say, however, there isn't some rivalry between the Bros. Smith.

"There are certain drills we have," said Smith, "where you can take out personal grudges against people. My brother and I are always going at it. It's kind of a fun thing."

Pinky, at 6 ft. 6½ in., is 2½ in. taller than his brother, who shares playing time with Pete Cosenza at the other forward. He weighs 207 lbs.

The dimensions, obviously, are not those of a pro forward. "I realize that," said Pinky. "If the pros want me they may want me for the backcourt. I think I could play there but right now I don't have enough confidence because it would be a drastic change."

Of course, if basketball doesn't work out, Smith has been assured of a tryout

Technology and Man will be the theme of a lecture series sponsored by USD's chapter of Phi Sigma Tau, an international philosophical honor society.

The lecture series will be an interdisciplinary program featuring topics centered around man and his place in mass society.

"Man's Mandate to Subdue the Earth," a biblical approach to ecology, and "Computer Concepts and Misconceptions," are two of the six lectures already scheduled. All speakers are authorities in their respective fields and professors at USD.

The USD Phi Sigma Tau chapter was officially inducted last October. It is the third chapter in the state and the first in the San Diego area.

The purpose of the organization is to promote interest and application in philosophical thinking among students.

The current lecture series has been planned to provide opportunities for members of the USD community to apply philosophical questions to dilemmas of modern living. Phi Sigma Tau is also planning lecture forums with administrators in the near future.

Bakersfield Stands In Torero Path

Bickerstaff Lauds USD's Opponent In Cage Playoffs

By CHUCK SAWYER
University of San Diego will face Bakersfield State in the Toreros' first action in the NCAA College Division Far West Regional basketball playoffs at Bakersfield tomorrow night.

USD couldn't have been saddled with a worse opening opponent in the opinion of Toreros coach Bernie Bickerstaff.

"Those guys are so tough, so thoroughly disciplined," Bickerstaff said yesterday. "Riverside is equally tough, but there is something about this Bakersfield team. It just never gives in to pressure."

KNOW FOES

"We are very well acquainted with both Bakersfield and Riverside," Bickerstaff continued. "We split two games with each school this season. We don't know too much about the University of Puget Sound (the Toreros' fourth entry) but we would have preferred to take our chances with an unknown quantity."

"But this Bakersfield club. It is so very tough with its outside shooting. And it never, just never, gives up. However, we will have no excuses. Our players are ready, we have no physical excuses. We are ready to give great pressure defense to go to our best shot."

The Toreros and Bakersfield State meet in the second gameline is 6-3 senior guard Richard tomorrow night at Bakersfield. Ross with a 13.0 average. Other City College following the open starters include 6-3 guard Bob In contest at 7 between Rivas Rodriguez, also a senior, with earnings and Puget Sound.

WINNERS MEET

Tomorrow's two winners meet Saturday night for the regional title and a ticket to the NCAA College Division championships at Evansville, Ind., March 14-16.

Bakersfield's Roadrunners are 18-3 on the season, the identical record claimed by the Toreros. Bakersfield and Riverside finished in a tie for first place in the CCAA with 8-2 records but Bakersfield was given the title since it had beaten Riverside in both meetings.

Coached by Jim Larson, Bakersfield is in only its second season as a four-year institution but went 21-5 a year ago for a two-year total of 39.

Aztecs try different foe after defeat

California State University, San Diego's baseball team, which can't seem to beat rival University of San Diego, will try a different opponent tomorrow.

The Aztecs, 10-3 losers to USD yesterday for the second time this season, play host to Arizona tomorrow at 2:30. They'll also host the Wildcats at noon Saturday.

San Diego State is 8-8 after its loss to USD, which moved up to 4-3 by beating the Aztecs on their home field.

Pitcher Phil Bajo doubled and scored the go-ahead run in the fifth inning. Gary Prior went four-for-five and knocked in four runs for the Toreros. He also collected a two-run triple. Linescore:

Young USD's in hot water

University of San Diego, a team of the future, will get its feet wet in postseason basketball competition tomorrow night. It is unlikely the Toreros will drown.

Despite an all-underclassmen lineup which includes four juniors and a sophomore—when freshman forward Kenny Smith isn't starting, that is—the Toreros are conceded a good chance of surviving the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. College Division regional playoffs this weekend.

They begin their quest for postseason honors tomorrow night at 9 against Bakersfield State in the Bakersfield City College gym.

UC-Riverside and Puget Sound collide in the 7 p.m. opener. Winners of tomorrow night's games play in the District 8 championship game at 9 the following evening, following a 7 p.m. consolation encounter between tomorrow night's losers.

The District 8 champion advances to the NCAA College Division championships in Evansville, Ind., March 14-16.

In Bakersfield State, the Toreros will be meeting a team they defeated once, 70-69, at home and lost to, 73-56, on the road.

In defeating the Toreros, the Roadrunners held Stan Washington to his poorest shooting night of the season. The 6 ft. 4 in. junior guard was two-for-14 from the field in scoring six points. Robert "Pinky" Smith, a flu victim, scored only eight points.

USD turned the tables the next time as Washington and Smith each scored 25 points.

Washington and Smith will be the Torero starting lineup tomorrow night, joined by junior center Ben Thompson (6-6), junior guard Joe Smith (6-1) and sophomore forward Pete Cosenza (6-6), who shares playing time with Kenny Smith (6-4).

Bakersfield State is led by senior guard Richard Ross, who averaged 13 points per game.

Bob Rodriguez, another senior guard, is averaging 11.5. Carl Toney, a 6-8 sophomore center, hits at a 10.5 clip with 6-4 forward Odie Ward at 9.3 and 6-6 forward Ellis Porter at 7.3. All but Toney are seniors.

USD is led in scoring by Pinky Smith, who is averaging 18.4 points per game, including 55% accuracy from the field. Washington is hitting at a 16.9 clip and leads the team in assists, 157.

As a team, the Toreros outshot their foes, 47% to 41%, in compiling an 18-3 season record. They also averaged 47 rebounds to their opponents' 41 and outscored them, 75-68.

USD's 18-3 season record is the same as Bakersfield State's. UC-Riverside runner-up to the Roadrunners in the California Collegiate Athletic Assn., submits a 23-4 record. Puget Sound finished 18-10, winning 13 of its last 16 games.

Bickerstaff Comes Back With Toreros

statistics from that game," he insists. "We couldn't hit anything. Pinky (Smith) had the flu and Stan (Washington) was 2-for-14. They had 14 points between them. Down at our place they each scored 25 points."

Bickerstaff doesn't plan any different tactics against the Roadrunners tonight. "We had a good lead on them late in the game in San Diego and then made some bad mistakes, taking some bad shots," he said. "We aren't going to make those mistakes again."

The Toreros will start one sophomore (forward Pete Cosenza) and four juniors tonight. Cosenza (6-6) and Pinky Smith (6-6½) up front with center Ben Thompson (6-6) and Washington (6-4) and Joe Smith (6-1) at the guards.

Cosenza moved into the starting lineup four games from the end of the season and has been impossible to dislodge since then. "Pete seems to give us better strength early in the game," Bickerstaff explained. "But Kenny (Smith), a 6-6 freshman, seems to be stronger coming off the bench. He really injects something into the team."

Bickerstaff also feels USD has some unsung heroes, his second unit. Of Mike Bajo, Mike Merriman, Steve Jones, Charlie Caruso and Ron Modic with Tommy Davis also serving in several combinations.

"Those guys have run the opposition's style of offense so well against us in practice this year we have been tremendously prepared by the time the game came around. They are a big reason why we beat San Diego State."

Pinky Smith will take an 18.4 scoring average into tonight's battle with Bakersfield with Washington next at 16.9. Pinky also is the club's leading rebounder with 10.6 per game with Thompson next at 9.1.

Bakersfield offers a team with excellent outside shooting. The CCAA champions have a balanced attack with three players averaging in double figures led by 6-3 guard Richard Ross at 13.0. Forward Ellis Porter (6-6) and center Carl Toney (6-8) give them a slight height advantage tonight.

Riverside (23-4) has the best season record of the four entries. Puget Sound is only 18-10 but came on strong late in the season, winning 13 of its last 16.

Riverside also divided two meetings with USD, the Highlanders winning, 83-60, in the Toreros' last outing a week ago.

"We were floating in that one," Bickerstaff explains. "We had just beaten San Diego State three days before and got the formal bid to this playoff the day of that game."

"We have been having some great practices this week and are at full physical shape for a change."

USD students started out the new semester this weekend on a lark — the opening of the campus' first coffee house-entertainment center called The Lark.

The Lark is located in the Student Union in an area previously occupied by a cafeteria, also called The Lark. The cafeteria was the place on campus where everyone met and established a sense of community, and it is hoped that the coffee house of the same name will continue this tradition.

Tom Cosgrove, coordinator of campus planning, initiated the idea for the coffee house and interested a group of students in developing the idea during the fall semester.

Construction labor was donated by USD's physical plant. Sister Sally Furay, USD provost, donated the cost of materials and the art work was donated by the art department.

The Lark will be open between 8 p.m. and 1 a.m. Saturdays. It is designed to provide a meeting place for resident students as well as an outlet for campus and off-campus performers.

This Saturday Tom Boyer, of the USD campus security, will be the featured entertainer. Boyer will put aside his job as a security officer to perform on the guitar.

Gospel program set tomorrow

A program of gospel music will be presented tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the Camino Theater at the University of San Diego.

Performers will include the Pilgrim's Radio Choir, of the Pilgrim Progressive Baptist Church, Logan Heights, directed by Leroy Geter, and the Hies' Special Childrens Choir, 25 singers ranging in age from 3 to 11.

USD symposium set Sentinel by trustees Saturday 3/25/73

A symposium for the Board of Trustees of the University of San Diego has been planned for Saturday. The all day session will follow the trustees quarterly meeting to be held at the University on Friday afternoon.

Dr. Author E. Hughes, president, has planned the symposium around the theme of his opening address, "USD During the Next Five Years."

"The day of meetings will give the Trustees a general orientation of the total University," Hughes said. "The four Deans will be present as well as other administrators to answer questions and search for answers in our round table discussions."

The day will open with an address outlining the past history of USD and a look into our future. The afternoon will be devoted to in-depth deliberations with the deans presiding at round table discussions devoted to their own schools. The rotating workshop set-up will enable each person to learn something of the total University, Hughes said.

Dr. Howard R. Bowen, Chancellor of Claremont University Center, will address the group during the luncheon. Dr. Bowen's topic is "The Role of Trustees in the Future of the University."

The four schools of the University of San Diego will be represented by acting dean Ernest N. Morin, College of Arts and Sciences; acting dean Robert Nelson, School of Education; dean Clement J. Nouri, School of Business Administration; and dean Donald T. Weckstein, School of Law.

The meetings will be held at the Westgate Plaza Hotel.

NELDA ESTELA-NELSON
... will marry in Rome

Met Audition Prize Won By USD Graduate

Talent was so good in the Metropolitan Opera auditions for young singers yesterday in New York that four prizes instead of three were awarded.

And the fourth place winner was Nelda Estela-Nelson, a University of San Diego graduate, who won a $2,000 prize. As one of 11 finalists in the contest she was assured of an additional $2,000 study grant.

"My ambition is to sing at the Metropolitan ultimately," Miss Nelson said during an interview after the contest, "but first I'm going to get married in Rome in May."

Her fiancé is John Eaton, an opera composer.

Miss Nelson, 25, started vocal training in 1965 and she was a student of Charlotte Brooks Aldrich in San Diego.

She defeated 16 candidates in a contest in 1968 in San Diego in the local Metropolitan Opera auditions.

Miss Nelson is now a student at the University of Indiana. The special fourth-place award to Miss Nelson, a mezzo-soprano, was given by the Metropolitan Opera National Council after a fund-raising drive in memory of the late Metropolitan Opera general manager, Goeran Gentele.

Others who received awards were tenor Douglas Ahlstedt, contralto Cynthia Munzer and soprano Kathryn Bouleyn.

USD sets goal of 4,000 students in 5 years

The University of San Diego, currently with 2,600 students enrolled, hopes to expand to 4,000 students within five years — but expects to have problems attracting the new students.

That's because there is a declining number of eligible students in the nation, the school's board of trustees was told Saturday in a day-long symposium at the Westgate Plaza Hotel.

"It will become increasingly competitive to attract students to the small, private universities," said Dr. Author Hughes, USD president.

"We're trying to keep from pricing ourselves out of the market right now," During a closed session at the start of Saturday's meeting, university officers told the trustees that enrollment must expand if the university were to continue to prosper.

"The trustees must decide where and how we are to grow," Hughes said. "We're looking at a ceiling of about 4,000 at the end of five years."

Hughes said the board, now expanded to 25 members, would turn to the problem of attracting bright students and encouraging them to attend the private, Catholic school, while striving to maintain a low student-faculty ratio.

Dr. Anita Figueredo, board vice chairman, said the trustees would con-time to review the possibility of expanding adult education programs as one method of bolstering enrollment.

"It's time we shed some of the barnacles of the past," she said. "Education is important to all. Whether they read, talk or just watch television. We must channel the education toward a goal and purpose."

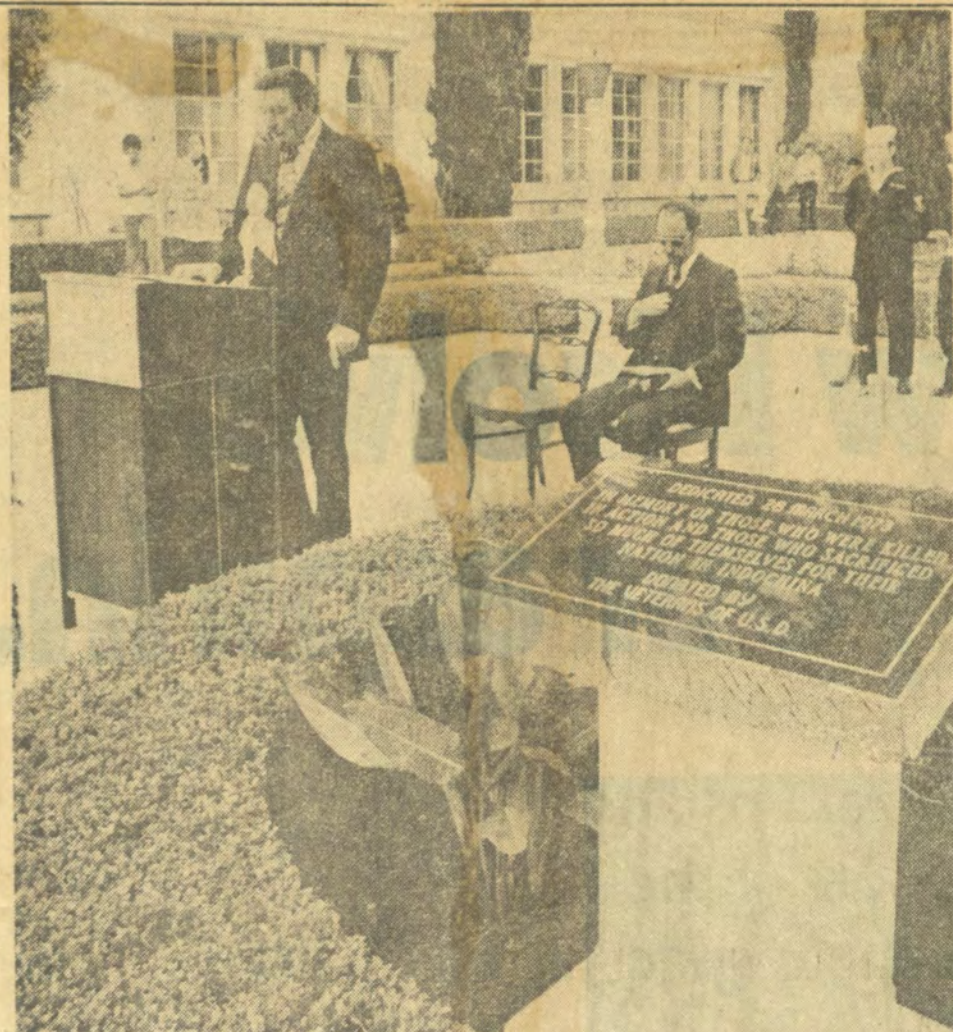

Keynote speaker at the meeting was Chancellor Howard R. Bowen of Claremont University Center in Claremont, who said strong leadership is mandatory to meet the problems in higher education today.

The leaders must have many tal-

By BETTY PEACH

A gray granite slab was dedicated to the U.S. dead in the Vietnam war at a ceremony in the rose garden at the University of San Diego yesterday.

Afterward, a small woman, her gray hair covered by a scarf against the chill wind, approached the plaque, read it slowly and wiped away tears as she turned to leave.

She was the mother of one of the 46,000 American servicemen killed in the 10-year struggle in Indochina.

The granite slab was dedicated by Tom Stubbs, who was wounded while serving as a Navy corpsman assigned to the Marines in Vietnam.

The Most Rev. Leo Maher, bishop of the San Diego Roman Catholic Diocese, dedicated the plaque and blessed it.

Rear Adm. Anthony Kieres, representing President Nixon, placed a red and white floral wreath at its base.

In the audience were representatives of all veterans organizations in the area, including men who had served in World War I, II, and Korea. There were parents of young men killed or missing in action, and one recently returned POW. He is Cmdr. Richard D. Mullins, who was interned six years.

It was to Cmdr. Mullins and the other former prisoners who have returned that Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, USMC, ret., addressed his remarks as guest speaker.

"We have undergone a reawakening to the real world of America," he said. "A rekindling of the precious spirit called freedom. It has happened in the space of the last 60 days. A few hundred men have wrought this miracle."

"You have come home to tell us eloquently who we are. You have reminded us of the deep meaning of the word 'freedom.'"

"You have said that the world is a majestic place, that the United States of America is a great country deserving open and proud patriotism; that your profession is a good and honorable one, that freedom—freedom to think, to reason, to work and dream are treasures beyond compare."

A special mass in Immaculate Chapel on campus followed the dedication, which fell on the final day of the war.

Students who have worn bracelets bearing the names of prisoners of war or those missing in action were invited to place them on the altar at the end of the mass. Only some 20 students did so, for most wished to keep the bracelets until all the missing are accounted for.

A spokesman said students who wished may have their bracelets returned, as the gesture was symbolic.

Mass Of Thanksgiving For Peace Celebrated

"Peace has returned after a long winter," the Rev. Benjamin Carrier said.

"It has been an arduous time. It has been a black time. But spring always brings the light, the planting of seeds. And we thank God."

Offering his own private prayers in one of the rear pews at the Mass of thanksgiving for peace celebrated yesterday in the Immaculate at the University of San Diego was Navy Cmdr. Richard D. Mullins.

The Mass followed the dedication of a veterans' plaque by the Most Rev. Leo T. Maher, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of San Diego.

Mullins, who had spent the past six years of his life as a prisoner of war, said the service had a special meaning for him.

"I definitely wanted to be here," Mullins said softly. "This is a very important occasion."

"HAD TIME TO THINK" "During our isolation, we had time to think about how much this country stands for—faith in God, freedom of religion."

"In the early days at the camp, we tried to hold our own religious services, but they wouldn't let us. It broke camp regulations."

"Eventually, we were permitted to hold the services. But those thoughts, about how much this country stands for, they sustained us, gave us strength through the long years of imprisonment."

The same theme was touched on earlier by Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak, USMC, ret., who gave the keynote address at the university's Vietnam Memorial Day ceremony yesterday.

In a sense, the United States was a victim in Vietnam, Krulak said, adding: "As a result of the ending of the war, we have undergone a reawakening to the real world of America, a rekindling of that precious spirit called freedom. It has happened in the space of the last 60 days, 60 short days that may change the history of our land."

"HOPE, STRENGTH"

"A few hundred men have wrought this miracle," Krulak said, "the 439 former prisoners of war who have so far come back to our shores."

Krulak said he had been fortunate in having talked to 16 former prisoners of war.

"I asked them all what, beyond pure survival, they thought of: what really sustained them during the long days of confinement, when thought was their constant companion," he said.

"They seemed to say, over and over, and in many different ways, that they were given hope, strength and confidence by a clear recognition of their many blessings, and their many obligations."

Preceding the general's remarks, Bishop Maher dedicated the veterans' plaque inscribed "in memory of those who were killed in action and those who sacrificed so much of

By TERRI DUFFY

USD undergraduates are voting today to decide who will hold seven Associated Students offices for the next year.

There are 13 candidates in the running for four of the seven offices. Three student offices are uncontested with a single candidate apiece.

A proposal to postpone elections for a month because of a lack of candidates for several offices was defeated last week by the student senate. The student senators did extend the candidacy filing date three days to allow a fuller slate.

Poor publicity and a trend for students to become involved in areas other than student government were given as reasons for the small turnout of candidates for AS offices.

When the new officers take over on April 17 they will be asked to decide if student government representation should be changed from the current base of class levels to a base of academic departments.

Toreros capture playoff berth

Sentinel

3/4/73

There once was a comedy show entitled "That Was The Week That Was". And that is just the kind of week the University of San Diego had.

The Toreros opened the week by outshooting cross-town rival San Diego State University, 78-67, to win the mythical city championship and break a three-year domination of USD by the Aztecs.

Adding to that victory was the news that Bernie Bickerstaff's hoopsters have been invited to participate in the NCAA College Division.

District 8 playoffs on the strength of an 18-7 record to date.

Joining the Toreros in the tourney are Bakersfield State and University of Puget Sound. As of now, the fourth team is not set, but the winner of Tuesday's match between University of California, Riverside and Sonoma State will bet the final berth.

The four-team competition will open March 9 in Bakersfield and the winner will advance to the regional playoffs. The site for those regionals has not yet been determined.

Vinci likes recruits but he needs more

3/5/73

TRIBUNE

For more than a week, Andy Vinci has watched his new recruits at the University of San Diego. He likes what he sees.

"Right now," he said, "we're better than we were last year at midseason."

"But we still have some glaring weaknesses. We'll have to do some more recruiting."

Vinci's latest recruiting coup is V.C. Bennett, a 6 ft. 1 in., 190 lb. defensive back from West Valley JC who was named junior college defensive player of the year in Northern California last year.

"The addition of Bennett makes our secondary 100% better than last year," said Vinci. "Bill Jache is our only returnee and he's been outstanding so far."

Vinci said he has switched Henry Sintay, last year's starting quarterback, to full-back and will redshirt Tom Jones, Sintay's backup man of last season.

The reason for the switch is two-fold: Bob Dulich and Rob Tomlinson. They are sharing the quarterback role so that Dulich is an excellent runner and passer while Tomlinson has sparked as a drop-back passer.

Dulich was all-Mission Conference at Saddleback College last year and Tomlinson sparked at Southwestern.

"Of the 34 new recruits," said Vinci, "we have 18 who were either all-state or all-conference."

Two recruits from the Marine Corps Recruit Depot also have caught Vinci's eye. They are 6-5, 220 lb. receiver Ken Wilson, 22, and 6-1, 240 lb. Howard Farmer, a 24-year-old defensive tackle.

The latter has combined with veteran George Mancillas and Cornell Stanley to give the Toreros a formidable front wall. Another standout is Saddleback transfer Gordon Duncan, a 225-pounder who told Vinci upon reporting, "Play me, then weigh me."

ANDY VINCI

"You look at him cross-eyed," said Vinci, "and he'll knock your block off. He's the finest defensive player we have so far."

The Toreros will continue practicing evenings at 5:30 through March 22. They have scheduled a full-scale scrimmage Thursday night at 5:30 on the USD field.

"Our goal before April 1 is to sell 1,000 season tickets," said Vinci. "We're also trying to arrange broadcasts of all of next season's games."

"We're a team with a dream. That dream is to play California State University, San Diego."

"We've beaten them in every sport we've played 'em this season. We'd like to get the chance some day in football."

University of San Diego, a team of the future, will get its feet wet in postseason basketball competition tomorrow night. It is unlikely the Toreros will drown.

Despite an all-underclassmen lineup, which includes four juniors and a sophomore—when freshman forward Kenny Smith isn't starting, that is—the Toreros are conceded a good chance of surviving the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. College Division regional playoffs this weekend.

They begin their quest for postseason honors tomorrow night at 9 against Bakersfield State in the Bakersfield City College gym.

UC-Riverside and Puget Sound collide in the 7 p.m. opener. Winners of tomorrow night's games play in the District 8 championship game at 9 the following evening, following a 7 p.m. consolation encounter between tomorrow night's losers.

The District 8 champion advances to the NCAA College Division championships in Evansville, Ind., March 14-16.

In Bakersfield State, the Toreros will be meeting a team they defeated once, 70-69, at home and lost to, 73-56, on the road.

In defeating the Toreros, the Roadrunners held Stan Washington to his poorest shooting night of the season. The 6 ft. 4 in. junior guard was two-for-14 from the field in scoring six points. Robert "Pinky" Smith, a flu victim, scored only eight points.

USD turned the tables the next time as Washington and Smith each scored 25 points.

Washington and Smith will be the Torero starting lineup tomorrow night, joined by junior center Ben Thompson (6-6), junior guard Joe Smith (6-1) and sophomore forward Pete Cosenza (6-6), who shares playing time with Kenny Smith (6-4).

Bakersfield State is led by senior guard Richard Ross, who averaged 13 points per game.

Bob Rodriguez, another senior guard, is averaging 11.5. Carl Toney, a 6-8 sophomore center, hits at a 10.5 clip with 6-4 forward Odis Ward at 9.3 and 6-6 forward Ellis Porter at 7.3. All but Toney are seniors.

USD is led in scoring by Pinky Smith, who is averaging 18.4 points per game, including 55% accuracy from the field. Washington is hitting at a 16.9 clip and leads the team in assists, 157.

As a team, the Toreros outshot their foes, 47% to 41%, in compiling an 18-8 season record. They also averaged 47 rebounds to their opponents' 41 and outscored them, 75-68.

USD's 18-8 season record is the same as Bakersfield State's. UC-Riverside, runner-up to the Roadrunners in the California Collegiate Athletic Assn., submits a 23-4 record. Puget Sound finished 18-10, winning 13 of its last 16 games.

A Statement on AMERICANISM

"Peace and rest at length have come. All the day's long toil is past. And each heart is whispering, 'Home, Home at last.'"

There is no tumult in the streets. But should there be? There is no joyful dancing. . . no mass public rejoicing. But should there be? Or is this a time when words, and sound, and physical activity have long since spent themselves in a decade of tumult in the streets; in harsh words and even harsher deeds, in a tearing and a renting of the very fabric of this great nation whose life blood has freely flown that others may be free.

No, this is a time when strong men openly and unabashedly weep at the return of even stronger men . . . men returning from long years of captivity and degradation. . . men, who in such a short time of freedom have symbolically, if not in fact, begun to bind the wounds of this torn nation.

And so the nation, the individual, and the loving, long suffering families of these, the returning Prisoners of War, whisper in their hearts, "Home, Home at last."

And thus, rather than great displays of public joy, or even of public thanksgiving this is time for all our people to grasp the memories of these moments. . . the personal emotions felt. This is a time to begin the transformation of these experiences, these energies into actions benefiting the courage, the love of God and country, the strength of duty mindedness portrayed by these returning husbands, fathers, and sons. May God grant them the strength, the grace, and the faith to pursue the balance of a happy and productive lifetime well earned.

Concern has already been voiced that they will see great changes in their nation and its now permissive customs, its modern dress and modern modes. In the turbulence of their years of war and captivity, the forces of other turbulence swept their homeland with changes that we take for granted but will be so apparent to them.

The very social and political climate, the economic structure, the ideological and philosophical foundation of this nation has been tested.

But perhaps, if we allow it, these same returning men who have been tested by the fires of an even greater personal turbulence, can provide for us the means to renew our course toward the goals upon which this nation is founded and which they demonstratively hold so dear.

In 1884, Henry Cabot Lodge wrote, "Of 'Americanism' of the right sort we cannot have too much. . . But honest, outspoken pride and faith in our country is infinitely better . . . than to refer to our country except by way of depreciation, criticism, or general negation." Let us hope that the decade of such negation has passed and that with the coming of the peace, tenuous as it is, we will be able to be outspoken with pride and faith in our country.

We have been given a courageous challenge by those who have given so much. Pray, God, that we will pick up the gauntlet laid down in war and find a just and lasting peace for our nation now at home. "Home, Home at last."

Toreros meet destiny tonight at Bakersfield

By JACK WILLIAMS

EVENING TRIBUNE Sports Writer

BAKERSFIELD—A garden spot this community is not. But, amid the oil wells, cotton fields and roadside cafes which serve equal parts food and country music, the flowers of small college basketball will gather tonight.

It is the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. College Division regional tournament, beginning at 7 in the 3,800-seat Bakersfield City College gym.

It is, in the words of Bakersfield State coach Jim Larson, an event which brings together four teams "about as close in ability and balance as any teams can be."

To the survivor of this four-team affair will go the privilege of advancing to Evansville, Ind., Wednesday for the national tournament.

For the University of San Diego it may be a long way away, maybe a year away. The Toreros have the youngest team in the tournament. But it also may be the best.

"I don't know why people want to talk about next year," said Larson. "San Diego's good right now."

If the Toreros are good enough to sidetrack Larson's Bakersfield State Roadrunners in tonight's second game at 9, tomorrow night they will meet the winner of the 7 p.m. game between Puget Sound and UC-Riverside for the trip to Evansville.

"Of all the teams," said USD coach Bernie Bickerstaff, "Bakersfield is the one I'd least like to play in the first round. They're very well disciplined."

This will be USD's third meeting of the season with the Roadrunners. The Toreros lost, 73-56, at Bakersfield before winning, 70-69, at home.

"The way San Diego played us the last time is more indicative of what kind of team they are," said Larson. "I think it's gonna be another close one, the kind of game that's going to be decided by a break or two in the last couple of minutes."

The winner of tonight's USD-Bakersfield State encounter is conceded the inside track to the regional crown. Bakersfield turned back UC-Riverside twice in winning the California Collegiate Athletic Assn. crown.

USD split with Riverside, which is a slight favorite over a Puget Sound outfit with an 18-10 record tonight.

"We should have beaten 'em both times," said Torero Pinky Smith. "The second game (a 63-60 overtime loss) came at a time when we were at an emotional low. We had a natural let-down after beating San Diego State and being selected for the playoffs. We'll be ready if we meet them again."

The Toreros also are ready for Bakersfield State, unlike the first meeting when Smith was slowed by the flu and managed eight points, more than 10 below his average.

"USD rebounds about as well as any team we've seen all year," said Larson. "They beat us on the boards both times. For us, the key is to stay even on the boards with 'em. If we do that we can stop 'em from hurting us on the break and play our game."

The Roadrunners feature two all-CCAA guards in Bob Rodriguez, who is averaging 11.5 points per game, and Richard Ross, who is averaging 13. Almost sure to see action for the Roadrunners tonight are two freshmen from San Diego, forward Lou Faust of University High and guard Mike Hooper of Bonita Vista.

"There's a good possibility they'll start next year," said Larson. "There have been several games in which they've contributed an awful lot, where they've been a factor in us winning."

played good defense and we rebounded well."

The best Larson hoped for was a standoff on the boards with the Toreros. Bakersfield had been beaten by the Toreros twice before this season in rebounding.

Last night, however, they got that standoff—38 to 36. Bakersfield shot only 34% but it was enough.

The Roadrunners led by as much as 12 twice in the second half before USD went on a 10-2 spurt to cut the margin to four, 42-38, on a Washington drive with 8:54 remaining.

USD whittled it to three, 44-41, on a three-point play by Pinky Smith, off an assist by Washington, with 7:08 left. It was then, however, that Bakersfield played its deliberate best. And this is a team as patient as it is poised.

There wasn't another point scored until 2:13 remained, when Carl Toney converted two free throws for the Roadrunners.

It was enough to send Bakersfield into the finals tonight at 9 against a UC-Riverside outfit which shot 49% in subduing Puget Sound.

Bakersfield defeated Riverside twice in the California Collegiate Athletic Assn. The third time will not necessarily be a charm. It wasn't for Bickerstaff.

This was Bickerstaff's third game in the regional playoffs. He lost the previous two as a USD player in 1966.

3/14/73 Tribune Aztecs duck Toreros on '74 cage schedule

It has been rumored that they are planning scared. They claim that they are unable to bring this team into their schedule.

Through some strange quirk of fate, the University of San Diego does not appear on San Diego State University's basketball schedule for next year.

That seems a rather strange development in curtailing the series after 11 showings and the Aztecs holding a 7-4 advantage.

USD consented to play the Aztecs in the Sports Arena last season with both sides agreeing to play at the Toreros' gym the next two meetings. Only half of that "gentleman's agreement" has been fulfilled.

The Toreros defeated the Aztecs this year, 78-67, to capture the city championship. The thought of playing USD in their own territory against the same players may have caused the schedule change.

Stan Washington and Robert "Pinky" Smith play basketball for USD. They are not ordinary players, but may wind up as the two greatest in the school's history.

Both are juniors and will return for another campaign and Coach Bernie Bickerstaff happily points out their previous accomplishments on the hill. As freshmen, Washington averaged 19.8 points per game and Smith added 15.5 in leading the Toreros' frosh to a 19-1 finish.

Washington was the Most Valuable Player on the frosh team and was named to the same award on the varsity last year as a sophomore. USD recorded an unspectacular 12-14 but the tandem of Washington and Smith showed flashes of brilliance.

The 6-4 guard from Washington, D.C. averaged 18.1 points per game a year ago and 17.5 this year to move into seventh place on the all-time scoring list at USD with 943 points. That is just 25 points behind Smith's 968 markers. Washington was also named to the All-District 8 Team following the recent playoff tourney in which the Toreros finished third.

Smith has been a model of consistency under Bickerstaff. He has averaged 17.8 and 17.9 points per game in his two seasons at USD. He missed setting a single season scoring record in the final game when called for two line violations on successful free throws. He scored 503 points this season and the old mark is 504 held by Jim Fleming in 1960-61.

There have been rumors that Washington was being courted by the hardship draft coming soon.

"I am just looking forward to next year," he said as Bickerstaff sighed.

Besides his scoring prowess, Washington also set records for assists in one game (13) and for a season with 171, breaking his old mark of 158.

Playing against the Aztecs is a matter of pride for Washington, who was told about USD and Bickerstaff by Bernie Williams playing for the San Diego Rockets.

"The athletes at State look down on USD and its athletes," he said.

Bickerstaff doesn't think so any more.

"We're champions of San Diego until State decides to dethrone us."

"You can bet that State will continue to duck the Toreros as long as Washington and 'Pinky' Smith patrol the hardwood for USD."

College swingers test Carlton Oaks

Several of the best collegiate golfing and tennis teams will be in San Diego over the weekend.

San Diego State University will be the host school for the Aztec Invitational Golf Tournament beginning tomorrow at 9 a.m. and lasting through Saturday at Carlton Oaks Golf Course in Santee.

There will be both individual and team championships. The Aztecs host the 1974 NCAA Championships at Carlton Oaks and this tourney is a prelude for the expected entrants next year.

Many outstanding teams will be participating including the two best from last year. Texas, the defending NCAA golf champions, heads up the field which also includes the NCAA runner-up Houston, Brigham Young, Fresno State, Long Beach State, New Mexico, Arizona State, San Jose and the hosting Aztecs.

The Longhorns are rated the favorite with 1972 NCAA individual champion Ben Crenshaw expected to dominate. Texas has already won seven of eight tournaments this year.

A strong team from Houston is led by Al. Africans Bill Rogers, Arthur Russell, and Bobby Brown from Coronado.

Arizona State finished fifth in the NCAA playoffs last year and San Jose State was ninth. All of the teams participated in last year's tourney.

Also on tap for the Aztecs is the San Diego Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, this Friday and Saturday on the courts of University of San Diego, Morley Field, and San Diego City College.

The Aztecs are hosting the event along with the University of California, San Diego and USD, who won the event last year with Brigham Young second.

Among the 18 teams participating are such powers as Houston who finished fifth in last year's NCAA Tournament, Brigham Young which features nationally ranked Bruce Kleege from La Jolla, Tennessee, Drake, and Washington will bring strong teams here.

There will be six singles draws along with three doubles with the top seeded players opposing each other throughout the six draws.

Matches begin both days at 8 a.m. and admission is free to the public.

ROADRUNNERS, UC-RIVERSIDE ADVANCE IN PLAYOFFS

Young Toreros act their age in loss to Bakersfield

BY JACK WILLIAMS
EVENING TRIBUNE Sports Writer

BAKERSFIELD—In the team picture, he's situated in the back row, an inconspicuous, gnome-like figure you naturally assume is the Bakersfield State College manager.

In reality, however, this 31-year-old is one of the up-and-coming basketball coaches in the West. Under Jim Larson, the Bakersfield State program is growing as Jim Larson never did.

The Roadrunners, as they are called, are in their third year. They are in tonight's National Collegiate Athletic Assn. College Division regional finals opposite UC-Riverside. They are a team that is 39-13 over a two-year span under Larson's guidance.

Last night, in the first round of these small college playoffs, they reinforced the fact that University of San Diego is, indeed, a year away by turning back the young Toreros, 50-44, at Bakersfield City College.

If the Bakersfield State program is growing by leaps and bounds and baskets, it is not—at this point, at least—leaving USD in the dust.

The Toreros will be back, insisted coach Bernie Bickerstaff.

"This was the first time these kids have been involved in the playoffs," said Bickerstaff. "It was a new experience for them and they played like it. We were just too tense."

"But I think we learned something. If we can profit from the mistakes we made tonight. Next year, we shouldn't be bothered so much by the pressure. This is the finest USD team in history, with an 18-9 record going into tonight's consolation game at 7 opposite Puget Sound, a 71-51 loser to UC-Riverside in the first round opener last night.

The Toreros can only get better. The mainstays, guard Stan Washington and forward Pinky Smith, are juniors. So is center Ben Thompson. Alternating forwards Kenny Smith is a freshman and his counterpart, Pete Cosens, is a sophomore. The other starter, guard Joe Smith, is a junior.

Bickerstaff has reason to speak of next year. Last night, however, he had a tough time forgetting the mistakes of the present. There were, for example, 18 turnovers, seven during a first half in which Bakersfield assumed a 30-22 lead. It was a case of butterflies and butterflies.

The frustration was mirrored in the animated face of Washington, whose whip-like passes too often slipped through the fingers of other Toreros. Washington wound up with four assists. He easily could have had twice that many.

Too, there was a problem of foul trouble. Thompson fouled out with 1:53 left and Pinky Smith finished with four fouls. This is a Torero team with one glaring weakness, its bench. It cannot, as Bakersfield did last night, rest its starting five indiscriminately.

"We need another big man and we need another guard, somebody to help take the pressure off Washington, for next year," said Bickerstaff.

Washington, playing the entire 40 minutes, did not enjoy one of his better games. He was five-for-17 from the field, scoring 12 points. Richard Ross, one of the state's better defensive guards, defended Washington expertly.

Ross also shot over him for 18 points, nailing nine of his 17 shots.

"The kid (Ross) did a good job on Stan, didn't he?" observed Bickerstaff. "You know, it's a mental thing. There's so much pressure on Washington. We depend on him to bring the ball up and he doesn't have the freedom to get open without the ball, he handles it so much."

"Tonight, the shots that go in for him nire out of 10 times just weren't fall-in."

Nor were those of Pinky Smith. The 6 ft. 6½ in. forward missed all but three of his 16 field goals on a night when the Toreros could convert but 30% from the floor.

"I could tell before the game," said Bickerstaff, "that Pinky was too tense. He wasn't coming out to meet the passes to him and we weren't getting any backdoor baskets, with him passing off."

"That's what we hurt Bakersfield with last time (in a 70-69 victory at USD)."

Pinky finished with 10 points, more than eight below his average, and six rebounds.

Larson, who has by far the most disciplined team in this postseason tournament, credited the defensive work of Odis Ward, a 6-4 senior from Stockton.

"We put a very good defensive player on Smith," said Larson.

"Basketball is played in three phases," continued the Roadrunners' coach. "It's basically rebounding, defense and offense."

"We did two of them well tonight. We Communication is an important factor in the campus community—so much so that USD is trying to overcome communication problems with get-togethers and rap sessions on several levels.

TERRI DUFFY

One of these is the second annual Academics Day next Tuesday. The event is a cooperative effort on the part of faculty, administration and students to discuss the academic philosophy and structure of USD.

Instead of classes, the day is set aside for a university-wide forum, to begin with an opening session to determine the agenda and outline specific goals for the day.

Departmental meetings to discuss policy, class scheduling, curriculum and counseling will follow. Also, problem-centered "round table" discussions moderated by faculty members will tackle such topics as the goals of USD, curricular development, career development and the role of students in academic development.

Sister Sally Furay, USD provost, held a rap session with students recently and Dr. Arthur E. Hughes, university president, is scheduled to do the same next week. The purpose for these encounters is for an exchange of ideas and opinions.

Faculty and students are also given an opportunity to "rap" on a one-to-one basis during weekly Thursday afternoon get-togethers. These sessions were started last semester to help the new deans meet the student community.

Sentinel 3/14/73 USIU high on Toreros

University of San Diego placed both of their star juniors on the all-opponent squad selected by the basketball players at United States International University.

Guard Stan Washington and forward Robert "Pinky" Smith from USD garnered first team honors. Others chosen on the first team were Geoff Pete, a guard from San Diego State University, forward Dennis Vanzant from Azusa Pacific, and center Fred DeVaughan of Westmont.

Tribune 3/15/73 Scholarship concert set Sunday at USD

The third annual Sister Rossi Scholarship Concert will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Camino Theater at the University of San Diego.

"Thetis," by Rameau, will be performed by Robert Austin, baritone; Henry Kolar, violin; Marjorie Hart, cello; and John Garvey, piano. Kolar, and Miss Hart and Garvey will play Rameau's Rhapsody for cello and piano. Vivaldi's Concerto for four violins and strings will be played by Kolar, Felix Castillo, Tom Johnson, Ken Jeranian and members of the Solisti de Alcalá. Regina Birney, flutist, will play Suite Modale for Flute and String Orchestra by Bloch. The USD Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Kolar, will play "The Moldau" from Smetana's "My Country."

Sister Anne Rosi is dean emerita of the university. She devotes all her efforts to assisting talented music students who are in need of financial aid.

3/15/73 Toreros set 10 records in best year

Although University of San Diego failed in its bid for a spot in the NCAA College Division championships, the Toreros did come up with the best season record in the school's history (19-9) in Bernie Bickerstaff's fourth season as head coach.

In the process, they also broke 10 school records and won consolation honors in the District 8 playoffs.

Setting some individual records were Robert "Pinky" Smith, who set single game records of 19 field goals and 40 points and a season total of 218 field goals. Guard Stan Washington established USD marks in single game assists (13) and season assists (171).

Bickerstaff returns his top eight scorers to start off the 1973-74 schedule.

Toreros try for net win

University of San Diego will defend its team title in the San Diego Intercollegiate tennis tournament which starts tomorrow on three courts—USD, Wilbur Folsom Tennis Center and San Diego City College.

Schools competing are: California State University, San Diego, USD, UCSD, Brigham Young, Washington, Houston, Drake, Tennessee, Long Beach State, Redlands, Pepperdine, Fullerton State, Northridge State, UC Irvine and Grossmont College.

Tomorrow's matches are scheduled for USD, Folsom Center and SDCC. Saturday play will be at USD.

There is no admission charge. Play starts both days at 8 a.m.

USD Cagers Post 10 New School Marks

University of San Diego failed in its quest for a spot in the NCAA College Division championship tournament which opened yesterday at Evansville, Ind.

But the Toreros did come up with the best season record in the school's history (19-9) in Bernie Bickerstaff's fourth season as head coach.

They also broke 10 school records and won consolation honors in the District 8 playoffs, losing to Bakersfield State, 50-44, then defeating Puget Sound University, 80-73.

Robert (Pinky) Smith ended as the team's top scorer with 593 points and a 17.9 average. Ironically, he had two free throws taken away in the final game with Puget Sound on a rarely-called stepping over the foul line violation and ended one point short of the school season record of 594 points set by Jim Fleming in the 1960-61 season.

He did set school single game marks of 19 field goals and 40 points and a season record of 218 field goals.

Guard Stan Washington, who was named to the District 8 all-tournament squad, ended second in scoring with 473 points and a 16.9 mean. He established USD records in single game assists (13) and season assists (171).

Freshman forward Kenny Smith scored 19 consecutive baskets over a three-game span for a school record. USD team records in addition to the total victories and overall season figure included season total points (2,075) and field goals (881).

"This team played as a total unit," Bickerstaff said in a final analysis of his club. "There was no selfishness here. Our reserves had only one motive—to help the overall effort of the team."

Only Mike Bajo and Jackie Robinson, both of whom played only briefly this season, have concluded their eligibility, giving Bickerstaff his top eight scorers to start off the 1973-74 schedule.

College Netters Compete Here

Eighteen colleges will be represented in the San Diego Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament which starts tomorrow on the courts of University of San Diego, Wilbur Folsom Tennis Center and San Diego City College.

Serving as host schools are California State University, San Diego; USD; and University of California, San Diego.

Other colleges represented are Brigham Young, Houston, Washington, Tennessee, Drake, Redlands, Long Beach State, Northridge State, UC Irvine, Pepperdine, Fullerton State and Grossmont College.

Play will be conducted in six divisions, all of the teams' No. 1 players competing in one division, the No. 2 players in another, and so on down through six ratings.

Tomorrow's matches will be played at USD, Wilbur Folsom Tennis Center and San Diego City College but all Saturday finals are scheduled for the USD courts. Play both days will start at 8 a.m. The public is invited, admission free.

Both individual and team titles will be determined. USD won the team title last year with Brigham Young second.

Redlands won the Southern California Intercollegiate Conference last year and has six returning lettermen. Long Beach features Tom Smith, who was the Southern California and state junior college singles champion. UC Irvine was 12th in the NCAA finals last year.

Tennessee finished second in the Southeastern Conference last year and is favored to repeat. One of its key players is Paul Van Min, who plays for South Africa's Davis Cup team.

Brigham Young's squad includes San Diegans Chris DeGraff, John Bennett and Bruce Kleege.

Houston was fifth in the NCAA tournament last year and the Cougars feature Lee Merry, who won the Ojai Valley men's singles crown last spring.

La Jolla Light March 15, 1973 Terry Fowler: a team unto herself

By LOLA SHERMAN
Terry Fowler of La Jolla is a one-woman swim team—literally.

Miss Fowler, 19, is the only representative of the University of San Diego in girls' intercollegiate competition.

She's represented her "team" very well.

AT A recent meet at San Diego State, swimming against many competitors, she won all three events entered and did well enough to qualify for the national women's collegiate swim championships in all three—the 400-yard freestyle, 100-yard butterfly and 200-yard individual medley.

Miss Fowler left Tuesday for the national competition at the University of Idaho. She'll return Sunday.

San Diego State's team has sort of taken her under its wing since she has no "coach" or teammates of her own. She's staying with the State swimmers in Idaho.

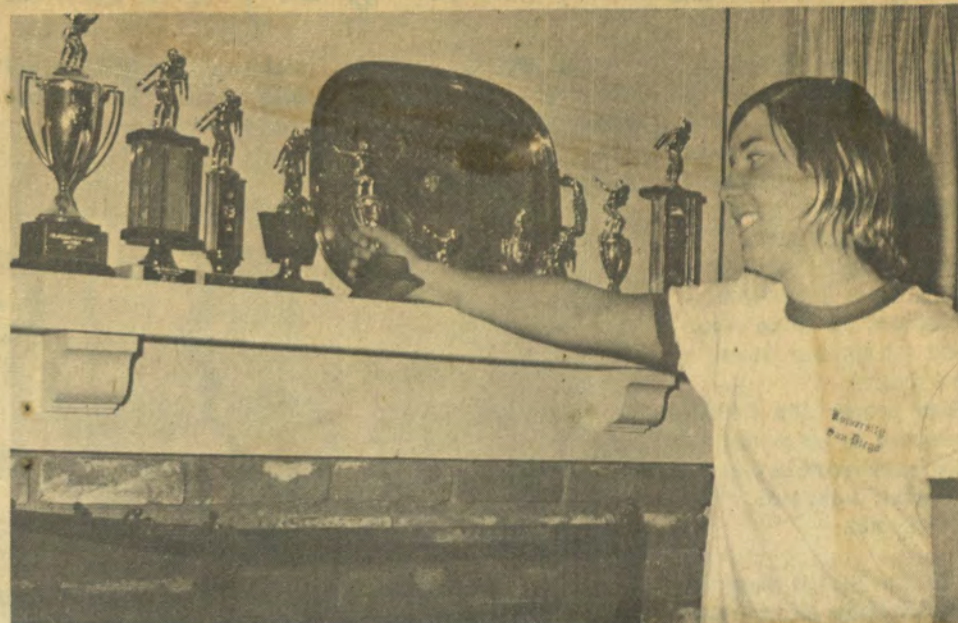

Actually, Miss Fowler has a coach—Mike Troy—and she goes out of her way to work with him.

BUT that's in Amateur Athletic Union, not college, competition.

She swims for Troy's Coronado Swim Club in AAU events and hopes to make the national finals in Louisville this summer.

Miss Fowler missed the Olympics by seconds in qualifying trials.

SHE'S been swimming she figures since she was about six months old. Her mother taught her then and has taught the other three Fowler children although only a younger brother Johnny has swum competitively.

Swimmer Terry Fowler looks over some of the trophies she has won.

Miss Fowler joined the then-new La Jolla YMCA team in its first or second month of existence and stayed with it until her college days. She says it's still the greatest for younger swimmers but not as geared to "seniors" and national competition as the Coronado club.

On top of her swimming schedule, Miss Fowler is taking a full 16-unit academic load at USD, where she's a sophomore.

Right now she's an English major a bit undecided about her future career but leaning toward law. That's what her father, John, assistant director of community development for the City of San Diego, would like her to study.

She's running for secretary of communications on campus, and, if elected, she feels she may have to give up competitive swimming to devote more time to school.

WHY did she choose a school with no swim team?

Miss Fowler explained she wanted to stay in the area because of her ties with the Coronado team. UCSD isn't liberal-arts enough, San Diego State is too big, and USIU too expensive, so that left her with USD. Anyway, it has a law school attached.

Tennis Crown To UC Irvine

UC Irvine won top honors yesterday in the final day of the second annual San Diego Collegiate Tennis Tournament with a total of 22 points.

University of Houston was second with 19 followed by BYU and Tennessee tied with 17.

Pepperdine's Dave Mitchell defeated George Yee of Washington, 6-3, 6-3, in semifinal singles play and then handed Bob Chappell of Irvine a 6-4, 6-0 loss to win the number one singles division title.

Mitchell later teamed with Rick Miller to defeat Andy Rae and Harry Fritz of USD, 7-6, 6-4, and capture the number one doubles division title.

A total of 16 teams participated in the tournament hosted jointly by San Diego City College, USD, and California State University, San Diego.

UC Irvine 22, Houston 19, BYU 17, Tennessee 17.

First singles—Semifinals: Mitchell (Pepperdine) def. Yee (Washington), 6-3, 6-3; Chappell (Irvine) def. Oden (Houston), 6-4, 6-0. Finals: Mitchell def. Chappell, 6-4, 6-0.

Toreros near end of training grind

By JACK WILLIAMS

To Andy Vinci, every day is football season, every situation first and goal-to-go, every letter in the alphabet an X or an O.

The battle, the campaign to build University of San Diego into a football power, never seems to subside.

"When you start with nothing," said Vinci, "you don't stop."

Vinci's Toreros have been at it for the last month, four days a week. They will conclude spring drills tomorrow night at 7 with a glorified scrimmage, a Blue vs. Gold game, as Vinci calls it, matching the defense against the offense.

"It's a new twist," said Vinci. "Of course, every thing we do out here is a new twist. We've gotta approach things a little differently."

Accordingly, the game will be conducted under a unique scoring system which awards points on such things as 15-yard gains, interceptions, defensive stands, etc.

"We can't play our alumni," said Vinci, "so we're dividing up the squad. I'll give the offense and defense a chance to work together, as a unit and build some pride."

The players on display tomorrow night at the USD field in many instances bear no resemblance to the USD squad which finished the season with a 6-3-1 record last season, the Toreros' first in intercollegiate competition since 1961.

"We're better right now than we were at midseason last year," said Vinci. "But we've got a tougher schedule next fall, plus the fact people won't be overlooking us anymore."

Vinci brought in 34 new recruits this spring but the recruiting season, like the football season, never ends in this man's mind.

"We need four more linemen and one running back to be two-deep at every position," said Vinci. "If we get the running back, I have a mind we're gonna have one helluva backfield."

Once again, it will revolve around tailback Sam Croom, the transfer from De Anza College who rushed for 1,177 yards and averaged 6.2 yards per carry last fall.

Croom, however, is expected to be among the missing tomorrow night. He has missed the last four days of practice with the flu.

"Last year," said Vinci, "we would have been in trouble if Sammy couldn't play. This year we're gonna have the depth."

Indeed, the tailback tomorrow night in the starting offense is Rick Paulson, a 190-pounder who has been one of the most impressive newcomers in camp.

"He can play running back or flanker for us," said Vinci. "And he's gonna play a lot."

In 1969 he was the leading scorer in prep football in Los Angeles at Westchester High.

Paulson does not boast Croom's breakaway speed. "But he hits the line harder and faster," said Vinci.

Paulson will be joined in the starting backfield by Rob Tomlinson, a 6 ft. 5 in., 220-pounder from Southwestern College at quarterback. Tomlinson, a superb dropback passer, is due to share quarterbacking duties with Bob Dulich, a 5-10, 185-pounder from Saddleback who excels as a rollout passer and runner.

"With those two quarterbacks," said Vinci, "we run two separate offenses."

Henry Sintay, last year's starting quarterback, will open at fullback. Andy Sanchez, last year's fullback, is at flanker.

"I can't say enough good things about Sintay," said Vinci. "He's the best blocking fullback I've had in years. How does he run? Like a fullback."

Sanchez, undersized at fullback, is more suited to flanker, where he has greater opportunity to use his exceptional moves and quickness in the open field.

"If we have a weakness right now," said Vinci, "it's probably in the offensive line. We could use more depth, a few more studs. I'm thinking ahead to our first game, with UC-Riverside. They've got five full-time coaches and they're deep at every position. It could be our toughest game of the season."

"Five months from today we start practice. That's not much time."

Science grant awarded USD

The National Science Foundation (NSF) has awarded the University of San Diego a science grant of $5,990, which brings USD's total awards from NSF to $17,547, according to Dr. Author E. Hughes, USD president.

"Institutional grants awarded by NSF are designed to help maintain a strong academic base for science and to assist with the cost of science activities," Hughes said.

KILLER: Warden Clinton T. Duffy, long of San Quentin, speaks tomorrow at the University of San Diego, and one of the things he'd better explain is the news release from the campus office of public information. "He officiated at 90 legal executions and participated in 60 additional ones."

USD symposium set by trustees Saturday

A symposium for the Board of Trustees of the University of San Diego has been planned for Saturday. The all day session will follow the trustees quarterly meeting to be held at the University on Friday afternoon.

Dr. Author E. Hughes, president, has planned the symposium around the theme of his opening address, "USD During the Next Five Years."

"The day of meetings will give the Trustees a general orientation of the total University," Hughes said. "The four Deans will be present as well as other administrators to answer questions and search for answers in our round table discussions."

The day will open with an address outlining the past history of USD and a look into our future. The afternoon will be devoted to in-depth deliberations with the Deans presiding at round table discussions devoted to their own schools. The rotating workshop set-up will enable each person to learn something of the total University, Hughes said.

Dr. Howard R. Bowen, Chancellor of Claremont University Center, will address the group during the luncheon. Dr. Bowen's topic is "The Role of Trustees in the Future of the University."

The four schools of the University of San Diego will be represented by acting dean Ernest N. Morin, College of Arts and Sciences; acting dean Robert Nelson, School of Education; dean Clement J. Nouri, School of Business Administration; and dean Donald T. Weckstein, School of Law.

The meetings will be held at the Westgate Plaza Hotel.

USD trustees symposium on 'next 5 years'

University of San Diego trustees will hold a symposium on "USD during the next five years" this Saturday, March 24, at the Westgate Plaza Hotel.

Dr. Howard Bowen, chancellor, Claremont University Center, will be luncheon speaker on "The role of trustees in the future of the university."

Others at the meeting include Dr. Author Hughes, USD president, and Bishop Leo T. Maher, chairman, board of trustees.

Gold color for Toreros in two ways

For years, University of San Diego's colors were blue and white. Then Andy Vinci went out and ordered some gold uniforms.

"Now," he said, "our colors are blue and gold."

The gold, as much as anything, stands for the financial struggle, as much as the artistic one, which Vinci is waging at USD.

"Our goal," he said, "is to sell 1,000 season tickets."

Moreover, it is to make the football program self-sustaining, financially solvent. With no financial assistance from the university in the form of scholarships, the program is operating with private funds—and those it can bring in through ticket sales.

Most of the scholarships USD offers are in the form of government grants based on need.

"It's an uphill struggle," said Vinci. It is one, however, that USD seems to be winning.

Tonight at 7 the Toreros will stage what they hope will be the first in an annual series: the Blue vs. Gold game.

It is an intrasquad affair in which the teams will be divided into offense and defense, with points being awarded on a performance system.

The contest concludes a 20-day spring session for USD, which posted a 6-3-1 record last year, tops among West Coast college division independents.

Two excellent prospects,

220 lb. defensive Gordon Duncan from Saddleback College and 215 lb. wide receiver Ken Wilson from the San Diego Marines, will be withheld from tonight's action because of injuries.

Rob Tomlinson, Bob Dulich and Ernie Simon will share the quarterbacking duties. Henry Sintay, last year's starter at quarterback, has been moved to fullback. Tom Jones, the freshman from Augusta, Ga., who backed up Sintay last year, is redshirting.

3-Run Double By Williams Wins For USD

Jim Williams' bases-loaded double broke up a tight pitchers' duel and lifted the University of San Diego to a 4-1 victory over Oregon State yesterday at the University of California, San Diego, diamond.

Williams knocked in three runs in the bottom of the eighth, then scored the fourth himself after stealing third and coming home on an infield out.

USD and Oregon State, using a total of six pitchers, battled through six scoreless innings before Bill Jackson homered for the Beavers in the top of the seventh.

But the Toreros battled back to load the bases in the last of the eighth with the help of a hit by Kerry Dineen, who had another single and a triple during the afternoon.

Then came Williams' double and the Toreros' seventh victory, against six losses so far this spring.

USD next sees action tomorrow in a doubleheader at Loyola, Los Angeles.

Oregon State 400-000-100 — 1-4-1 USD 000-000-000 — 4-1-3

Spring Game Ends USD Grid Drills

It's only March, but it is the end of a football season on the University of San Diego campus tonight.

The Toreros will wind up a 20-day spring practice session with a Blue-Gold intrasquad game at 7 tonight with the 60-man squad divided into offensive and defensive units.

Coach Andy Vinci, looking forward to his second season at USD this fall, hopes to stress the importance of turnovers in tonight's competition.

Under his scoring procedure tonight, the offense will receive the customary six points for a touchdown, three for a field goal and one for an extra point. In addition, it will receive a point each time the ball is advanced 15 yards and for all punts fielded inside the 10 yard line.

Five points will be credited to the defense for each intercepted pass or fumble recovery, three points for stopping the offense in the initial first down series or for a blocked punt, and one point for halting the offense on all other first down series.

Vinci has done some heavy recruiting since ending his first season with a 6-3-1 record but only a 30-man roster. Spring drills have indicated more depth at all positions.

Last season's quarterback Henry Sintay has been switched to fullback with Vinci apparently now set to go with newcomers Bob Dulich from Saddleback College, Ernie Simon of Sonoma State and Bob Tomlinson from Southwestern.

USD Netters Defeat Vols

University of San Diego scored one of its most impressive tennis victories in several seasons when the Toreros defeated the University of Tennessee, 6-3, yesterday on the USD courts.

Tennessee was 27-2 last season and is usually ranked among the top 10 collegiate teams in the nation.

Hannu Ojala, a southpaw from Finland, won the key singles decision for USD with a 6-3, 6-7, 7-6 victory over the Vols' Bob Peirce to give the Toreros a 4-2 lead entering the doubles. USD's Andrew Rae whipped Paul Van M from Southwestern in a singles match.

The Toreros, now 6-1 for the season, face the University of Washington at 1 p.m. today on the USD courts. Results:

Singles—Rae (USD) def. Van Min, 6-3, 7-5; Fritz (USD) def. Huber, 6-3, 6-2; Ojala (USD) def. Peirce, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6; Novacek (USD) def. Peirce, 6-3, 6-2; Bole (USD) def. Kramer-Freeman, 6-2, 7-6; Wells-Ojala (USD) def. Novacek-Pickett, 6-2, 6-1.

USD record reaches 8-1

University of San Diego's Toreros entered their tennis match with the University of Washington on the USD courts today with an 8-1 record.

Of those eight victories, none has been more impressive than yesterday. That's when USD turned back Tennessee, 6-3. The Volunteers, 27-2 last season, are usually ranked among the top 10 collegiate teams in the nation.

A key singles match found Hannu Ojala of USD downing Bob Peirce, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6, giving the Toreros a 4-2 lead entering doubles play. Summary:

Singles—Rae (USD) def. Van Min, 6-3, 7-5; Fritz (USD) def. Huber, 6-3, 6-2; Ojala (USD) def. Peirce, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6; Novacek (USD) def. Peirce, 6-3, 6-2; Bole (USD) def. Kramer-Freeman, 6-2, 7-6; Wells-Ojala (USD) def. Novacek-Pickett, 6-2, 6-1.

Dedicated in memory

A plaque honoring all who died in Vietnam was dedicated during last week's Vietnam Memorial Day Ceremony. The ceremony took place in the Rose Patio at the University of San Diego. Bishop Leo T. A plaque donated by the University of San Diego Veterans Club in honor of all who died in Indochina was dedicated during a Vietnam Memorial Day Ceremony Wednesday.

Bishop Leo T. Maher representing the Roman Catholic Diocese of San Diego gave the blessing and invocation at the ceremony, which took place in the Rose

Patio at the University.

Navy Commander Richard D. Mullen, a prisoner of war for six years, was one of the university's honored guests. Mullen's plane was shot down Jan. 6, 1967, while on a combat mission over North Vietnam. He was released from captivity March 7, 1973.

Rear Admiral Anthony Kiaras attended the dedication as a personal representative of President Nixon.

Dr. Thomas J. Keyes, chancellor of Claremont University Center, will deliver the keynote address at the noon luncheon. He will discuss "The Role of Trustees in the Future of the University," USD officials said. Bowen has served as presi-

Lt. General Victor H. Krulak, USMC Ret. was featured speaker at the ceremony.

"After 10 years of fighting, 45,000 lives lost and $200 Billion, the United States has experienced a trauma unequalled in U. S. history. But in a sense the U. S. was the victor in Vietnam," Krulak said, adding that "as a result of the ending of the war, we have undergone a reawakening to the real world of America, a rekindling of that precious spirit called freedom. South Vietnam now has a chance to survive as a free society."

Krulak said he was fortunate in having talked to 16 former prisoners of war. "I asked them all what they thought of, beyond pure survival, during the long days of confinement when thought was their constant companion."

"They all said in many different ways that they were given hope, strength and confidence by a clear recognition of their many blessings and obligations."

"A deepened faith in God and Country helped them survive. They appreciate the many blessings of a country that provides freedom to think, work, dream and hold an honorable profession."

"Survival comes first and will never be accomplished by acts of weakness," Krulak said.

Following the dedication a mass of thanksgiving for peace was given in the Immaculata at the University.

During the mass prisoner of war bracelets were placed on the altar as a symbolic gesture.

Following, the church bells rang in memory of the dead servicemen.

STUDENTS SURVEY CHAIN STORES

Price gap narrows among markets

A student study of chain supermarkets in the county has confirmed recent increases in food prices and also has shown that the gap has narrowed between the highest-priced markets and the lowest-priced ones.

The study was made March 8 and 9 by the California Public Interest Research Group (CALPIRG), a nonprofit corporation established by college students.

It was the second study by the group. The first was made about a month ago.

The group said that during the period between the two studies, the average price of chicken was up 12 cents lb., lean ground beef and boneless rump roast was up 10 cents, and bacon was up 3 cents.

Ellen Wilson, a student at UCSD, who led the second survey, said the spread between the highest and lowest-priced stores was 8.2%, compared to 14.5% in the first survey.

The survey covered 74 markets from Del Mar to Imperial Beach and El Cajon and included 79 items, nine more than were studied in the first survey.

The study listed Bradshaws markets as having the highest prices overall and FedMart as having the lowest.

Mayfair Markets actually had the highest prices, but was dropped from the results because of a major change in its price structure, the group said.

The market chains surveyed were FedMart, Food Basket, Safeway, Alpha Beta, K Mart, Big Bear, Von's, Bradshaws and Mayfair.

Ms. Wilson said that while FedMart had the lowest overall prices, there was less than 1% difference between that firm and Food Basket.

While meat prices generally were higher, Von's and Alpha Beta charged lower prices than they did last month, she said.

In order of overall pricing from the lowest, the supermarket chains are FedMart, Food Basket, Safeway, Alpha Beta, K Mart, Big Bear and Von's.

Ms. Wilson said that between the two studies, K Mart moved from sixth to fifth in overall pricing, and Von's moved ahead of Bradshaws.

The most recent survey also compared price difference between sections of the San Diego metropolitan area.

"The results were surprising," said Alan Friedman, a UCSD student who helped with the survey.

"While popular opinion holds that prices are higher in some areas of the city, we found no significant variations in any chain. However, this does not mean that food quality, especially for meats, is the same in each store, but this was not measured by our surveyors."

DEATH PENALTY ASSAILED

Ex-warden Duffy calls executions 'privilege of poor'

By STEVE CASEY

Clinton Duffy, the prison reformer born 74 years ago at San Quentin where he later served as warden, attacked the brutality of the death penalty yesterday and called executions "the privilege of the poor."

Speaking to students at the University of San Diego, Duffy said his opinions on the death penalty "have not changed one iota from the time I was a baby."

Nick Kasimatis, deputy district attorney, said death must be given to "those who commit crimes so horrible no other penalty seems appropriate."

As a child growing up at San Quentin where his father was a guard, Duffy said he always knew when an execution was under way because the prison fell still and quiet.

Later, as warden, he officiated at 90 executions. The hangings were brutal, he said.

"(The inmate) squeals, he whistles, he whines, gasping for breath. He urinates, he defecates. He perspires."

"Witnesses pass out. It takes 10 to 15 minutes for the heart to stop, depending on the vitality of the individual."

It's the same story with the electric chair, except "most of the time they smell like cooked meat," Duffy said.

The lethal gas chamber now used in California has been called the most humane way to execute a person.

"I don't know of a humane way to kill a person at any time for any reason," he said.

Duffy said not once in 32 years as a correctional official did he meet a killer who admitted thinking about the death penalty prior to committing his crime.

He cited statistics showing no correlation between a death penalty and the rise or decline of homicides.

Duffy said the death penalty has been applied unequally in the state and the nation.

"Do you know of a wealthy person who has ever been executed in the history of the United States?" he asked.

Executions are expensive, and do not save taxpayers' money, he said.

Duffy said it costs at least $20,000 more to execute a man than it would to keep him in prison for life, because of extra court costs and the need for constant high security.

Although Duffy said the trend in America is to reinstate the death penalty, he predicted legal actions would put off the next execution for a long time.

Kasimatis acknowledged that "the right to life is the most fundamental right of any person."

"I submit, however, that any right can be forfeited."

Since a moratorium on executions began in 1963 (broken once in 1967), the homicide rate has increased 80%, he said.

The prosecutor said that in a poll of Los Angeles robbers, 25% said they used toy guns in their crimes because they feared the death penalty.

When you consider the Charles Manson group, Juan Corona, a presidential assassin, or an aircraft bomber, the death penalty "satisfies the need for an adequate punishment for an outrageous crime," Kasimatis said.

"I think some people could never kill somebody, or mandate that the state kill somebody," he said.

"But I think most people would kill in self-defense, and I think the death penalty is merely an extended form of self-defense."

Attorney Charles Sevilla and Ben Rayburn, both of Federal Defenders, criticized capital punishment as barbaric and racist.

Rayburn, who said he once faced a possible death sentence for armed robbery and served 23 years in federal prison, said society loses when a man is executed and can never contribute to the common good.

USD honors dead in memorial ceremony

A plaque donated by the University of San Diego Veterans Club in honor of all who died in Indochina was dedicated during a Vietnam Memorial Day Ceremony Wednesday.

Bishop Leo T. Maher representing the Roman Catholic Diocese of San Diego gave the blessing and invocation at the ceremony, which took place in the Rose

Patio at the University.

Navy Commander Richard D. Mullen, a prisoner of war for six years, was one of the university's honored guests. Mullen's plane was shot down Jan. 6, 1967, while on a combat mission over North Vietnam. He was released from captivity March 7, 1973.

Rear Admiral Anthony Kiaras attended the dedication as a personal representative of President Nixon.

Lt. General Victor H. Krulak, USMC Ret. was featured speaker at the ceremony.

"After 10 years of fighting, 45,000 lives lost and $200 Billion, the United States has experienced a trauma unequalled in U. S. history. But in a sense the U. S. was the victor in Vietnam," Krulak said, adding that "as a result of the ending of the war, we have undergone a reawakening to the real world of America, a rekindling of that precious spirit called freedom. South Vietnam now has a chance to survive as a free society."

Krulak said he was fortunate in having talked to 16 former prisoners of war.

"I asked them all what they thought of, beyond pure survival, during the long days of confinement when thought was their constant companion."

"They all said in many different ways that they were given hope, strength and confidence by a clear recognition of their many blessings and obligations."

"A deepened faith in God and Country helped them survive. They appreciate the many blessings of a country that provides freedom to think, work, dream and hold an honorable profession."

"Survival comes first and will never be accomplished by acts of weakness," Krulak said.

Following the dedication a mass of thanksgiving for peace was given in the Immaculata at the University.

During the mass prisoner of war bracelets were placed on the altar as a symbolic gesture.

Following, the church bells rang in memory of the dead servicemen.

USD future topic of trustees' meeting

Trustees of the University of San Diego will discuss "USD During the Next Five Years" at a special symposium Saturday at the Westgate Plaza Hotel.

USD President Arthur E. Hughes said the day-long meeting will follow the board's quarterly meeting to be held tomorrow. Purpose of the symposium, Hughes said, is to give the trustees "a general orientation of the total university."

"The four deans will be present as well as other administrators to answer questions and search for answers in our discussions," Hughes explained.

Dr. Howard R. Bowen, chancellor of Claremont University Center, will deliver the keynote address at the noon luncheon. He will discuss "The Role of Trustees in the Future of the University," USD officials said.

Bowen has served as president of the University of Iowa and as a business and education consultant in private industry.

Trustees to attend the symposium include the Most Rev. Leo T. Maher, chairman; Dr. Anita V. Figueredo, vice chairman; the Rev. Monsignor John E. Baer; Thomas Barger; Dr. H. John Cashin; Ramon Castro; Mrs. James S. Copley; the Rev. Monsignor I. Brent Eagen; Mrs. Frances G. Harpst; Marvin Kratter; Francisco Marty; Irving Salomon; Mrs. G. Arnold Smith; and Bruce Wagner, all of San Diego.

Also, Dr. Earl R. Crane of San Bernardino; Sister Frances Danz of Menlo; Philip Gilligan; Charles Grace; Arthur H. Kaplan and Robert J. Keyes, all of Los Angeles; Patricia Howe and Sister Mary Mardel, both of San Francisco; Mrs. Timothy Parkman of Tucson; and William P. Reilly of Phoenix.

USD Attack Tops Defense

The University of San Diego offense edged the defense, 42-41, last night in the Torero's spring football game at USD Stadium.

Quarterback Bob Dulich paced the offensive surge by directing two long drives, scoring a touchdown on a 21-yard sneak and flipping a screen pass to halfback Sam Croom, which went for a 70-yard tally.

Croom, last year's rushing leader, broke for runs of 30, 25 and 20 yards, while Rich Poulson, a 175-pound transfer from Harbor College, checked in with 29, 20 and 13-yard sorties and scored on a five-yard dive off tackle.

Dulich, a 5'11-inch thrower from Saddleback College, received high praise from USD head coach Andy Vinci.

George Hartman, Dulich's mentor at Saddleback, who attended last night's contest, said, "Bob showed great leadership; he makes things happen."

Vinci felt the pass-catching of halfbacks Andy Sanchez and flanker Bob Molina also showed well. Sanchez is a USD returner.
