Facts

University of San Diego

Profile

The University of San Diego is a private Catholic institution of higher education located on 180 acres overlooking San Diego's Mission Bay.

USD is known for its commitment to teaching, the liberal arts, the formation of values and community involvement. The university takes pride in the personalized approach and holistic view of students it brings to the educational process.

Chartered in 1949, USD enrolls more than 6,700 students who may choose from more than 50 undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The university's academic divisions include the College of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education, Law and Nursing. The School of Graduate and Continuing Education coordinates the graduate programs of all schools with the exception of the School of Law.

Throughout its history, USD has remained committed to the ideals of liberal education and to recognizing the dignity of men and women as human beings and as creatures of God. As a Catholic institution, the university is committed to examination of the Catholic tradition as the basis of a continuing search for meaning in contemporary life.

USD offers a year-round calendar of cultural events open to the public, and its men's and women's sports teams compete against national opponents in 16 sports.

Marks of Distinction

- ❖ The largest individual donation in USD history — $25 million — will be used for the building construction and development of academic programs for the Joan B. Kroc Institute of Peace and Justice. Named for the donor, a San Diego philanthropist, the institute will be constructed on the campus' West Point Field. Ground is scheduled to be broken in September 1999.
- ❖ Plans for a state-of-the-art multi-use sports facility are well under way thanks to Sid Craig, who surprised his wife, Jenny Craig, with a $10 million gift in her name in December 1996. From the gift, $7 million will be used toward development of the Jenny Craig Pavilion, the new home of USD's Toreros sports teams, and $3 million will be used for future institutional needs.
- ❖ The University of San Diego was in the national spotlight Oct. 16, 1996, when it hosted a presidential debate. More than 1,500 media swarmed the campus for several days leading up to the showdown. Prominent politicians, including former President Gerald Ford and activist Jesse Jackson, visited USD the night of the debate. The campus community rallied to put on a flawless production. The town hall meeting between President Bill Clinton and Republican nominee Bob Dole was staged in the refurbished Shiley Theatre.
- ❖ Founders Hall is home to two art galleries, including the recently established David W. May Indian Artifacts Collection. The exhibit in the American Parlor showcases part of the 1,600-piece collection of Southwest Indian art bequeathed to USD by the family of May, a former student. Pieces on display include Southwestern pottery and ceramics, Californian basketry and textiles.

Alcalá Park

USD's 180-acre campus overlooking San Diego's Mission Bay is regarded as one of the most architecturally unique in the country, with 19 major buildings designed in an ornamental 16th century Spanish Renaissance style.

The USD campus was named Alcalá Park after a Spanish city near Madrid — Alcalá de Henares. Founded by the Greeks, it became known as Complutum during Roman times. The town was renamed Al Kala (the castle) Nahar (after the river Henares) by the Muslims. Christians recaptured the village in 1088 and founded a university in 1498 whose buildings became the inspiration for USD's architectural style.

All of USD's administrative and classroom facilities are located on the upper campus. At the east end are the Alcalá Vista apartments, the Mission housing complex, and the Sports Center complex, which includes Torero Stadium, tennis courts, an Olympic-sized swimming pool, gymnasium, weight room and other playing fields.

Since 1984, USD has completed 11 major construction and expansion projects. The former San Diego Diocese building was renovated and opened for business as the Author E. and Marjorie A. Hughes Administration Center in fall of 1996. The landscaped Colachis Plaza and Shumway Fountain was finished in the fall of 1995, connecting the entrances of The Immaculata Church and the Hughes Administration Center. In 1992, the university completed the 45,000-square-foot Loma Hall, which includes an expanded bookstore, a larger mail center, classrooms, laboratories and office space for physics, engineering, and arts and sciences departments. In 1990, the newly expanded and renovated Katherine M. and George M. Pardee Jr. Legal Research Center opened, a facility double the size of the former law library and reflecting the latest developments in information technology. The university completed and opened the 6,000-square-foot Douglas F. Manchester Family Child Development Center in 1989.

Other projects completed in the past 15 years include the Alcalá Vista apartments (1987), a 156-unit student apartment complex; the Ernest and Jean Hahn University Center (1987), a 76,000-square-foot building that houses dining, meeting and office areas; Olin Hall (1984), home to the School of Business Administration; and the Helen K. and James S. Copley Library (1984).

Intercollegiate Athletics

Scholarship and non-scholarship sports both play an important role in USD's day-to-day campus life, enhanced by outstanding outdoor opportunities and excellent campus facilities.

Men's basketball, baseball, soccer, tennis, golf and cross country teams compete at the Division I level and belong to the West Coast Conference. Men's crew competes as an independent. The football team is in its sixth season at the NCAA Division I-AA level in the Pioneer Football League.

Women's basketball, cross country, tennis, volleyball, soccer and crew teams compete at the Division I level as members of the West Coast Conference. The women's swimming and diving team is a member of the Pacific Collegiate Swim Conference and the softball team competes in the Western Intercollegiate Softball League, which is made up of WCC members who sponsor softball teams.

Scholarships are available in men's basketball, baseball, soccer, tennis, golf and cross country, and women's basketball, swimming, tennis, volleyball, soccer, softball and cross country.

The 1997-98 USD athletic season was again a success. Volleyball won the West Coast Conference championship for the first time and advanced to the second round of the NAAs. Football finished 8-3 overall and a school-best 4-1 in the Pioneer Football League, good for second place. Men's cross country placed second at the WCC Championships.

The winter season was highlighted by the women's swimming and diving team as they finished 8-3 overall and second at the Pacific Collegiate Swimming Conference championships. The women's basketball team finished 13-14 overall and 8-6 in the WCC. The men's hoops team won five of eight down the stretch to finish 14-14 overall and advanced to the semifinals of the WCC Tournament.

In the spring, the women's tennis team advanced to the NCAA Tournament for the fourth straight year. Women's softball won 31 games and baseball said goodbye to longtime coach John Cunningham who retired after 35 years as head coach. The golf team finished second at the WCC tournament.

Intramurals

The USD intramural program is an integral part of student life on campus. Last year more than two-thirds of the university community — including graduate and undergraduate students, faculty and staff — participated in at least one of the many activities offered.

Leagues, tournaments and special events include flag football, tennis, volleyball, basketball, softball, golf, inner tube water polo, floor hockey, bowling and other competitions.

In addition, USD students and employees can participate in a variety of outdoor activities sponsored by Outdoor Adventures. Skiing, rafting, rock climbing, horseback riding, mountain biking and hiking are some of the activities offered.

Cultural Activities

Founders Gallery

Frequent exhibitions by guest, community, student and alumni artists are displayed in this gallery located in Founders Hall. Recent exhibits included "Stone Echoes: Original Prints by Françoise Gilot," a collection of more than 20 etchings and lithographs by the world-renowned French artist, and "Meditations on the Beauty of Aging," an exhibit of the works of contemporary artist Helen Redman.

Music

A comprehensive music program includes regular performances by the USD Community Choir, the Opera Workshop and the Choral Scholars show choir. The program also presents frequent recitals by faculty and students, and performances of visiting artists.

Theater

USD's English department, in conjunction with San Diego's Old Globe Theatre, offers a Master's in Fine Arts in Dramatic Arts program, drawing select students from across the nation who participate in practical theater work as well as academic studies in the English department. M.F.A. and undergraduate theater arts students stage campus productions regularly.

University Ministry

Programs and services offered by the Office of University Ministry are open to students and staff of all religious traditions. Student retreats to off-campus sites are increasingly popular, as are special Masses held to celebrate events such as the opening of the semester, Thanksgiving Day and Black History Month.

Speakers

Distinguished speakers routinely appear on campus, contributing to USD's cultural and intellectual diversity. Anita Hill, a national spokeswoman for women's rights in the workplace, former Costa Rican president and Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias, and two Supreme Court justices — Sandra Day O'Connor and Antonin Scalia — are just a few of those who have visited in recent years.

Giving Back to the Community

An estimated three-quarters of undergraduate students participate in volunteer community service at least once during their USD years. In addition, Associated Students sponsors 14 ongoing projects, including the Urban Plunge and the Linda Vista Kids project, which offers after-school programs for elementary schoolchildren.

More Than Business

BusinessLink USD, the university's corporate affiliation program, regularly brings national business leaders to campus to address members of San Diego's corporate community. Past speakers have included Sam Donaldson, anchor of ABC's "Prime Time Live," and Neil Austrian, president of the National Football League.

Student Teachers

The School of Education places student teachers in classrooms throughout the city, with a strong emphasis on two schools in a disadvantaged area near campus. Graduate students completing marriage, family and child counseling requirements provide counseling through supervised clinical internships in a variety of county settings, including San Diego military bases.

Walks of Life

There are 27 religious working on USD's campus. They hold a variety of positions in administration and teaching. Thirteen are women religious, 13 are priests and one is a Franciscan brother.

Major Choices

The 10 most popular majors are business administration, political science/international relations, communication studies, accountancy, diversified liberal arts, English, Spanish, sociology, history and biology.

Work Ethic

More than 1,100 students work part time at USD. Five hundred eighty-one are in the federal government's Work Study Program, which allows students to earn money to pay for educational expenses.

Accreditation

The University of San Diego is accredited by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

Program Accreditations Include:

School of Business Administration

American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business

Electrical Engineering, Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology

School of Education
