Profile

Alcalá Park

USD's 180-acre campus overlooking San Diego's Mission Bay is regarded as one of the most architecturally unique in the country, with 19 major buildings designed in an ornamental 16th century Spanish Renaissance style.

The USD campus was named Alcalá Park after a Spanish city near Madrid — Alcalá de Henares. Founded by the Greeks, it became known as Complutum during Roman times. The town was renamed Al Kala (the castle) Nahar (after the river Henares) by the Muslims. Christians recaptured the village in 1088 and founded a university in 1498 whose buildings became the inspiration for USD's architectural style.

All of USD's administrative and classroom facilities are located on the upper campus. At the east end are the Alcalá Vista apartments, the Mission housing complex, and the Sports Center complex, which includes Torero Stadium, tennis courts, an Olympic-sized swimming pool, a gymnasium and other playing fields. The newest facility, the 5,000-seat Jenny Craig Pavilion and Monsignor I. Brent Eagen Memorial Plaza, is scheduled to open in the fall of 2000.

Also well into the planning stages is the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice, a 90,000-square-foot, two-floor building that will be constructed on West Point Field. The institute will house a new curriculum in peace studies and host international conferences and symposia.

In recent years, USD has completed major construction and expansion projects. The 975-space Mission Parking Complex opened in 1998. The former San Diego Diocese building was renovated and opened for business as the Author E. and Marjorie A. Hughes Administration Center in fall of 1996. The Colachis Plaza and Shumway Fountain was finished in the fall of 1995, connecting the entrances of The Immaculata Church and the Hughes Administration Center.

The University of San Diego is a private Catholic institution of higher education located on 180 acres overlooking San Diego's Mission Bay.

USD is known for its commitment to teaching, the liberal arts, the formation of values and community involvement. The university takes pride in the personalized approach and holistic view of students it brings to the educational process.

Chartered in 1949, USD enrolls more than 6,800 students who may choose from more than 50 undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The university's academic divisions include the College of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business Administration, Education, Law and Nursing.

Throughout its history, USD has remained dedicated to the ideals of liberal education and to recognizing the dignity of men and women as human beings and as creatures of God. As a Catholic institution, the university is committed to examination of the Catholic tradition as the basis of a continuing search for meaning in contemporary life.

USD offers a year-round calendar of cultural events, and its men's and women's sports teams compete against national opponents in 16 sports.

BEGINNINGS

THE PAST AND ITS PEOPLE

- 1949 Charter granted.
Founding force: Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy, first bishop of San Diego.
- 1952 San Diego College for Women opens.
Founding force: Rev. Mother Rosalie Hill,
R.S.C.J.
- 1954 The College for Men and School of Law
(known also as San Diego University) open.
- 1969 School of Graduate and Continuing Education
founded.
- 1972 Colleges for Men and Women and School of Law
merge to form the University of San Diego.
Uniting force: Author E. Hughes, first president of the merged university.
- 1972 Schools of Business Administration and Education founded.
- 1974 Hahn School of Nursing and Health Science
founded.

Marks of Distinction

- ✱ The largest individual donation in USD history — $25 million — will be used for the building construction and development of academic programs for the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice. Named for the donor, a San Diego philanthropist, the institute will be constructed on the campus' West Point Field. Ground is scheduled to be broken in March 2000.
- ✱ Construction of a state-of-the-art, multi-use sports facility is well under way thanks to Sid Craig, who surprised his wife, Jenny Craig, with a $10 million gift in her name. From the gift, $7 million will be used toward development of the Jenny Craig Pavilion, the new home of USD's Toreros sports teams, and $3 million will be used for future institutional needs.
- ✱ The University of San Diego was in the national spotlight Oct. 16, 1996, when it hosted a presidential debate. More than 1,500 media swarmed the campus for several days leading up to the show-down. Prominent politicians, including former President Gerald Ford and activist Jesse Jackson, visited USD the night of the debate. The campus community rallied to put on a flawless production. The town hall meeting between President Bill Clinton and Republican nominee Bob Dole was staged in the refurbished Shiley Theatre.
- ✱ Founders Hall is home to two art galleries, including the recently established David W. May Indian Artifacts Collection. The exhibit in the American Parlor showcases part of the 1,600-piece collection of Southwest Indian art bequeathed to USD by the family of May, a former student. Pieces on display include Southwestern pottery and ceramics, Californian basketry and textiles.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ATHLETICS

Scholarship and non-scholarship sports both play an important role in USD's day-to-day campus life, enhanced by outstanding outdoor opportunities and excellent campus facilities.

Men's basketball, baseball, soccer, tennis, golf and cross country teams compete at the Division I level and belong to the West Coast Conference. Men's crew competes as an independent. The football team is in its seventh season at the NCAA Division I-AA level in the Pioneer Football League.

Women's basketball, cross country, tennis, volleyball, soccer and crew teams compete at the Division I level as members of the West Coast Conference. The women's swimming and diving team is a member of the Pacific Collegiate Swim Conference and the softball team competes in the Western Intercollegiate Softball League, which is made up of WCC members who sponsor softball teams.

Scholarships are available in men's basketball, baseball, soccer, tennis, golf and cross country, and women's basketball, swimming, tennis, volleyball, soccer, softball and cross country.

INTRAMURALS

The USD intramural program is an integral part of student life on campus. Last year more than two-thirds of the university community — including graduate and undergraduate students, faculty and staff — participated in at least one of the many activities offered.

Leagues, tournaments and special events include flag football, tennis, volleyball, basketball, softball, golf, inner tube water polo, floor hockey, bowling and other competitions.

In addition, USD students and employees can participate in a variety of outdoor activities sponsored by Outdoor Adventures. Skiing, rafting, rock climbing, horseback riding, mountain biking and hiking are some of the activities offered.

Athletics

The 1998-99 USD athletic season was highlighted by junior women's tennis player Žuzana Lesenarova being crowned the 1999 NCAA Women's Tennis Singles Champion. She also won the first two legs of the ITA Collegiate Grand Slam with wins at the Clay Courts and All-American. The women's tennis team advanced to the NCAAAs for the fifth straight year.

The fall season was capped by women's volleyball winning the West Coast Conference title for the second consecutive year, and then advancing to the NCAA second round. Men's soccer placed first in the WCC and also advanced to the NCAA second round. Both cross country teams placed second in the WCC Championships.

During the winter season, men's basketball went 18-9, placed second in the WCC and saw coach Brad Holland earn WCC Coach of the Year. Swimming and diving placed second at the PCSC Championships under first-year coach Mike Keeler.

In addition to the success of women's tennis in the spring, the softball team set a school record for wins with 44. The baseball team, under first-year coach Rich Hill, finished with a winning record.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

FOUNDERS GALLERY

Frequent exhibitions by guest, community, student and alumni artists are displayed in this gallery located in Founders Hall. Recent exhibits included "Meditations on the Beauty of Aging," an exhibit of the works of contemporary artist Helen Redman, and "Alcalá Park: From the Ground Up," a historical collection of photos, yearbooks and blueprints from USD's first 50 years.

MUSIC

A comprehensive music program includes regular performances by the USD Community Choir, the Opera Workshop and the Choral Scholars show choir. The program also presents frequent recitals by faculty and students, and performances of visiting artists.

THEATER

USD's English department, in conjunction with San Diego's Old Globe Theatre, offers a Master's in Fine Arts in Dramatic Arts program, drawing select students from across the nation who participate in practical theater work as well as academic studies in the English department. M.F.A. and undergraduate theater arts students stage campus productions regularly.

UNIVERSITY MINISTRY

Programs and services offered by the Office of University Ministry are open to students and staff of all religious traditions. Student retreats to off-campus sites are popular, as are special Masses held to celebrate events such as the opening of the semester, Thanksgiving Day and Black History Month.

SPEAKERS

Distinguished speakers routinely appear on campus, contributing to USD's cultural and intellectual diversity. Anita Hill, a national spokeswoman for women's rights in the workplace, former Costa Rican president and Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias, and author Amy Tan are just a few of those who have visited in recent years.

Summer Conferences

When school's not in session and students move away for the summer, the USD campus comes alive with conferences and summer camps. The Residential Conference Program makes classrooms, residence halls and dining services available for rental to groups with an educational focus. From June through August, between 6,000 and 7,000 people come to Alcalá Park for meetings and conferences.

MEETINGS

USD offers a wide range of meeting facilities, including a 700-seat theater, classrooms, conference rooms, patios, courtyards and gardens.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Residence halls (also called dormitories) and apartments are open to groups that stay from one night to six weeks. The four campus housing locations for summer guests are Camino and Founders Halls, Maher Hall, San Dimas Missions and the Alcalá Vista Apartments. Bed and bath linens are provided.

DINING

Summer residents are served three meals a day in the Hahn University Center dining room, which includes indoor and outdoor dining. Monday through Friday the Marketplace and Deli are open for sandwiches, ice cream, beverages and snacks. The campus coffee house, Aromas, is also open Monday through Friday. Catering services are available through the university's Banquets and Catering Department.

Director of Summer Conferences Kathi Spittel

Continuing Education

In the spirit of the university's mission, the Division of Continuing Education is committed to academic excellence and the advancement of knowledge. The division offers non-degree, extended studies courses to the San Diego community. The courses fall into one of four program areas, which include:

CONFERENCES

The Douglas F. Manchester Executive Conference Center is a training and education hub for professional growth, career development and personal enrichment. The conference center facilities are available for professional training, workshops and conferences.

EDUCATION PROGRAMS

The division's education programs fulfill requirements for teachers to meet professional growth, credential renewal and salary advancement needs. Classes are offered throughout California as lecture series, summer institutes, workshops, certificate and specific credential courses. The International Center for Character Education opened in Fall 1998.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL PROGRAMS

The USD Division of Continuing Education provides a professional and learning environment where participants can develop business and communication skills. Classes are scheduled to best serve working professionals and boast faculty drawn from executives, consultants and School of Business Administration professors. Programs include the Family Business Institute, Certificate in International Business, Certificate in Event Management and Competitive Skill for Small Business program, sponsored by the State of California.

GENERAL PROGRAMS/LECTURE SERIES

These innovative courses and lectures include educational opportunities for seniors and the general community.

DID YOU KNOW?

GIVING BACK TO THE COMMUNITY

An estimated three-quarters of undergraduate students participate in volunteer community service at least once during their USD years. In addition, Associated Students sponsors 14 ongoing projects, including the Urban Plunge and the Linda Vista Kids project, which offers after-school programs for elementary schoolchildren.

MORE THAN BUSINESS

BusinessLink USD, the university's corporate affiliation program, regularly brings national business leaders to campus to address members of San Diego's corporate community. Past speakers have included Sam Donaldson, anchor of ABC's "Prime Time Live," and Neil Austrian, president of the National Football League.

STUDENT TEACHERS

The School of Education places student teachers in classrooms throughout the city, with a strong emphasis on two schools in a disadvantaged area near campus. Graduate students completing marriage, family and child counseling requirements provide counseling through supervised clinical internships in a variety of county settings, including San Diego military bases.

ECUMENICAL

There are 26 religious working on USD's campus. They hold a variety of positions in administration and teaching. Thirteen are women religious, 12 are priests and one is a Franciscan brother.

MAJOR CHOICES

The 10 most popular majors are business administration, political science/international relations, communication studies, accountancy, diversified liberal arts, English, Spanish, sociology, history and biology.

WORK ETHIC

More than 1,175 students work part time at USD and 555 are in the federal government's Work Study Program, which allows students to earn money to pay for educational expenses.
