Little more than 50 years ago, the mesa that is now home to USD was a barren tract of land overlooking the small town of San Diego. Now, like our city, the University of San Diego has evolved into a beautiful and vibrant place where people of diverse backgrounds combine their talents and energies to make the world a better place.

One needn't look far for evidence that USD has come of age. The legacy of campus development begun by President Emeritus Author Hughes continues into the new millennium. On the east end of campus, the Jenny Craig Pavilion, the state-of-the-art home of our athletic teams, opened last fall. On the west, ground has been broken for the site of the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice, a site destined to play a major role in advancing the cause of peace around the globe. In the classrooms, labs and lecture halls in between, we are educating a diverse student body to become leaders in a multicultural society, and in the case of our computer technology and our new e-commerce major, in fields that did not exist when the university was founded.

As we work to meet tomorrow's challenges, USD in some very important ways remains the same campus Bishop Charles Francis Buddy and Mother Rosalie Hill envisioned more than five decades ago. The university is dedicated to development of the whole person—intellectual, spiritual, physical and cultural—and to recognizing the dignity of each individual. One of the enduring characteristics of a USD education is that our graduates understand they will use the knowledge they gain here in service to humanity.

On behalf of our students, faculty and staff, thank you for your interest in the University of San Diego.

Alice B. Hayes
President

Overview

A COMMUNITY OF SCHOLARS

For more than 50 years, the University of San Diego has been dedicated to providing values-based education and to the continuing examination of the Catholic tradition in contemporary life. USD offers its students an academically challenging environment that recognizes the dignity of men and women as creatures of God.

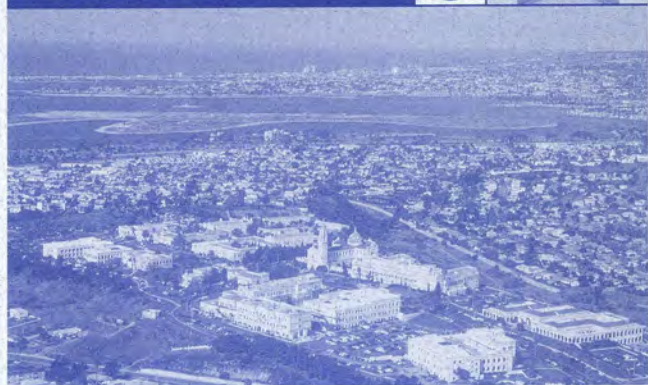

USD's 180-acre campus, known as Alcalá Park, overlooks San Diego's Mission Bay and is within view of the spot where Father Junipero Serra celebrated the first Catholic Mass in Alta California in 1769. Like California's oldest city, the university took its name from San Diego de Alcalá, a Franciscan brother who served as the infirmarian at Alcalá de Henares, a monastery near Madrid, Spain. The graceful Spanish Renaissance architecture that characterizes the five-century old University of Alcalá serves as the inspiration for all the buildings on the USD campus.

Under the leadership of Mother Rosalie Hill and Bishop Charles Francis Buddy, and sponsored by the Diocese of San Diego, the University of San Diego began as separate colleges for men and women. The first classes met in 1952; the School of Law opened its doors in 1954. By the late 1960s, it became clear both colleges would benefit from a merger, and in 1972 the two colleges and the School of Law became a co-educational private Catholic university.

Now governed by an independent board of trustees instead of the Church, the university remains dedicated to the values originally articulated by Mother Hill and Bishop Buddy. USD has always recognized that rigorous academic challenge is only part of a holistic education, creating opportunities for spiritual, cultural, physical and emotional development. Students are encouraged to develop knowledge, values and skills to enrich their lives and to prepare them for careers that benefit the global, civic and faith communities.

Overview

As a proudly Roman Catholic institution, USD welcomes students, faculty and staff of diverse religious traditions. The university now enrolls more than 6,900 students who choose from more than 50 undergraduate and graduate degree programs. USD's academic divisions include the College of Arts and Sciences and the schools of Business Administration, Education, Law and Nursing. Men aspiring to the Roman Catholic priesthood take their academic work at the university while living in St. Francis Seminary, adjacent to the campus.

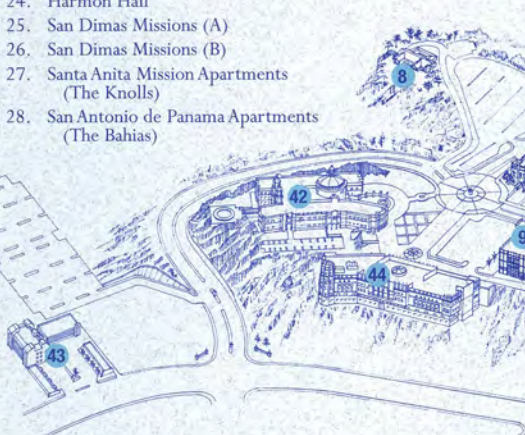

ABOUT SAN DIEGO

From its early days as a seaport town serving a large Naval installation, San Diego has matured into one of the world's great cities. Now the sixth-largest city in the United States, San Diego is at the epicenter of burgeoning industries including bio-technology, software development and telecommunications, in addition to emerging as a major player in Pacific Rim economics. The museums clustered at Balboa Park, only a short drive from the USD campus, are the heart of the city's cultural life and a renaissance is taking place in the nearby downtown area, soon home to a new ballpark for the San Diego Padres, helping transform San Diego into a leading 21st century city.

Significant Dates

Marks of Distinction

- 1949 Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy and Mother Rosalie Hill select a site in the Linda Vista (Spanish for pretty view) section of San Diego to establish two Catholic colleges, one for women and one for men, plus a School of Law. Mother Olga Rossi suggests calling the site Alcalá Park, after San Diego de Alcalá, for whom the city was named.
- 1952 San Diego College for Women opens.
- 1954 The College for Men and School of Law (known also as San Diego University) open.
- 1959 Vice President Richard Nixon gives commencement address at the College for Men.
- 1961 School mascot changed from Pioneers to Toreros.
- 1971 Author E. Hughes named first lay president.
- 1972 Colleges for Men and Women and School of Law merge to form the University of San Diego.
- 1972 Schools of Business Administration and Education founded.
- 1974 Hahn School of Nursing and Health Science founded.
- 1984 Copley Library addition, Manchester Hall and Olin Hall are dedicated in a span of eight months, dramatically increasing facilities available to faculty and students.
- 1987 Hahn University Center opens.
- 1988 Mother Teresa receives honorary degree.
- 1995 Alice B. Hayes named USD president.
- 1996 USD hosts presidential debate between President Bill Clinton and Senator Bob Dole.
- 2000 Jenny Craig Pavilion opens.

- ✿ The Jenny Craig Pavilion, USD's state-of-the-art athletic facility, opened this fall. The 5,100-seat arena is home to USD's Division I basketball and volleyball teams, and serves a range of educational, cultural and athletic events.
- ✿ Construction on the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice is scheduled for completion in the fall of 2001. Named for one of San Diego's most generous philanthropists, the institute has already named its director, Joyce Neu, a distinguished scholar who most recently was associate director of the conflict resolution center at The Carter Center in Atlanta, Ga.
- ✿ Plans are under way for a 150,000-square-foot Science and Technology Center to be constructed in the parking lot below Olin Hall. In addition to world-class lab facilities, the building will include aquariums, an astronomy deck, an aviary and a greenhouse.
- ✿ USD's Shiley Theater was the site of the final presidential debate in 1996 between President Bill Clinton and Sen. Bob Dole.
- ✿ USD in 1999 launched a new Upward Bound program to help low-income students obtain college degrees. Fifty students in nearby Kearny High School were selected for the four-year regimen of college-preparatory classes, tutoring, personal counseling and cultural programs, all designed to prepare them for university-level academic work. The students spend five weeks during summers living on the USD campus, attending intensive calculus, foreign language and literature classes and participating in field trips and seminars.

University Ministry programs and services are designed for students, faculty, staff and alumni to help nourish an adult faith, form a strong community of worship, serve the poor and act for justice.

University Ministry is the catalyst of spiritual life on campus, inviting persons of all religious traditions and those still searching for their religious identity to take part in its programs, activities and services. These include: retreats, scripture study, pastoral counseling, spiritual direction, liturgical ministries, ecumenical services, worship, the Founders Chapel choir, faith reflection groups and social justice and service opportunities.

Although USD is a Roman Catholic institution, the university is proud of the many faiths represented on campus. The Jewish Student Union and the InterVarsity Christian Fellowship for evangelical Christians are active campus organizations, and the annual All-Faith Service is a cherished campus tradition. In addition, any student of any faith can receive information about on- and off-campus opportunities to practice their faith by contacting a University Ministry staff member.

Those interested in learning more about the Catholic Church or preparing for the Sacraments of Initiation (Baptism, Eucharist, Confirmation) may take part in programs presented from mid-September to early May. University Ministry staff members are available to assist in preparation for marriage in Founders Chapel, The Immaculata church, or another Catholic church.

Major gatherings for Sunday worship are at 7 and 9 p.m. in Founders Chapel. The Eucharist is also celebrated daily at 12:10 and 5 p.m. For more information, call (619) 260-4735, visit www.acusd.edu/Ministry or e-mail godsqquad@acusd.edu.

Community Service-Learning

Some things can't be taught in a classroom. As an integral part of the University of San Diego's mission to educate the whole person, the Office for Community Service-Learning creates opportunities for students, faculty and staff to enrich their lives while making San Diego a better place to live. By integrating community service-learning with classroom curriculum and student-directed volunteer projects, students apply what they've learned in real-world situations, adding dimension to their own education while helping to address actual needs in the community.

During their academic careers, more than two-thirds of USD's undergraduates are involved in a range of volunteer community service projects, including: Family Learning Center, Habitat for Humanity, Homeless Outreach, Linda Vista Kids Project, Native American Outreach, Senior Outreach, Special Olympics and Volunteers for Youth.

Cultural Activities

ART

Founders Gallery in the heart of campus hosts frequent exhibitions by a diverse roster of artists, from the David W. May Indian Artifacts Collection to "Meditations on the Beauty of Aging" by contemporary artist Helen Redman, and "Stone Echoes: Original Prints by Françoise Gilot," a collection of more than 20 etchings and lithographs by the French artist.

THEATER

USD's English department, in conjunction with San Diego's Old Globe Theatre, offers a Master of Fine Arts in Dramatic Arts program that attracts students from across the nation. Student actors participate in on-stage theater work as well as academic studies. M.F.A. and undergraduate theater arts students stage regular campus performances. Recent productions include the rock musical Hair and Shakespeare's As You Like It.

SPEAKERS & SEMINARS

USD's cultural and intellectual diversity is reinforced by the wide range of speakers who come to campus. A sampling of recent speakers includes: Arun Gandhi, grandson of India's legendary spiritual leader; poet José Montoya, one of the Chicano movement's most respected artists and educators; Anita Hill, a national spokeswoman for women's rights in the workplace; former Costa Rican president and Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias; Secretary of Education Richard Riley; and authors Amy Tan and Maya Angelou.

Music

A comprehensive music program includes regular performances by the USD Community Choir, the Opera Workshop and the Choral Scholars show choir. The program also presents frequent recitals by faculty and students, and performances of visiting artists in Shiley Theatre and the University Center.

In the spirit of the university's mission, the Division of Continuing Education is committed to academic excellence and the advancement of knowledge. The division offers non-degree, extended studies courses to the San Diego community and beyond. The courses are divided into four program areas.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL PROGRAMS

The USD Division of Continuing Education provides a professional learning environment where participants can develop business and communication skills. Classes are scheduled to best serve working professionals and are taught by corporate executives, consultants and School of Business Administration professors. Programs include the Family Business Forum, Certificate in International Business, Certificate in Event Management and Competitive Skills for Small Business.

CONFERENCES

The Douglas F. Manchester Executive Conference Center is a training and education hub for professional growth, career development and personal enrichment. The conference center facilities are available for professional training, workshops and conferences.

EDUCATION PROGRAMS

The division's education programs fulfill requirements for teachers to meet professional growth, credential renewal and salary advancement needs. Classes are offered throughout California as lecture series, summer institutes, workshops, certificate and special credential courses.

GENERAL PROGRAMS/LECTURE SERIES

These innovative courses and lectures include educational opportunities for seniors and the general community.

Invisible University, USD's longest-running community outreach program, offers a variety of educational and cultural opportunities to the public.

University of the Third Age, a biannual three-week program of lectures, field trips and exercise has added new dimension to the lives of thousands of people over the age of 55. Topics include music, science, history, literature and the social sciences.

The 1999-2000 USD athletic season was an outstanding one, with four teams advancing to postseason play and four athletes earning All-America honors.

The men's soccer team won the West Coast Conference championship, and advanced to the NCAA tournament for the seventh time in the '90s. Head coach Seamus McFadden earned his sixth WCC Coach of the Year Award, and senior Brian O'Connor was named co-WCC Player of the Year and an NCAA second-team All-America. The women's soccer team turned in a 16-5 record and advanced to the second round of NCAA tournament play.

Senior Petia Yanchulova led the women's volleyball team to a 23-6 record and earned first-team All-America honors for the second consecutive year. The women's and men's cross-country teams placed in the upper half of the WCC championships, finishing third and fourth, respectively. The Torero football program broke even, finishing 5-5.

Both basketball teams had strong seasons. The women won the WCC championship and advanced to the NCAA tournament for the second time as senior Susie Erpelding earned WCC Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year and third-team Academic All-America honors. Men's head coach Brad Holland, whose team finished 20-9 overall, was recognized with his second straight WCC Coach of the Year award. The swimming and diving team won the Pacific Collegiate Swim Conference (PCSC) championship with head coach Mike Keeler earning coach of the year honors and a senior Shannon Pace garnering her third consecutive PCSC diver of the year award.

The spring season was highlighted by women's tennis teammates Zuzana Lesenarova and Katarina Valkyova being named first-team All America, while the men's tennis team turned in their fourth straight winning campaign. Both the softball and baseball teams had winning seasons, and 31 of the baseball team's 34 victories came against Division I opponents, establishing a new USD record. Two tournament victories and three runners-up helped earn men's golf coach Frank Cates WCC Coach of the Year honors. USD also was successful on the water, as the men's crew team won the gold medal at the Dad Vail Regatta and the women's team placed second in the WCC.

INTRAMURALS

The USD intramural program is an integral part of student life on campus. Last year more than two-thirds of the university community — including graduate and undergraduate students, faculty and staff — participated in at least one of the many activities offered.

Leagues, tournaments and special events include flag football, tennis, volleyball, basketball, softball, golf, inner tube water polo, floor hockey, bowling and other competitions.

In addition, USD students and employees can participate in a variety of outdoor activities sponsored by Outdoor Adventures. Skiing, rafting, rock climbing, horseback riding, mountain biking and hiking are some of the activities offered.

THE TORERO

USD's 16 NCAA Division I athletic teams compete under the nickname Toreros. In 1961, the Most Reverend Bishop Buddy announced the change of the school's nickname from Pioneers. Torero is a general term describing a bullfighter and signifies courage, honor and fidelity. Like the Torero, USD students have a willingness to stand alone in the ring and accept challenges.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Each person who receives a degree from the University of San Diego enjoys full membership privileges in the USD Alumni Association.
