The future is under construction at USD — the futures of our students, our university, our region and our world. The Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice is the second major facility — along with the Jenny Craig Pavilion — to open on campus within the last year, but that's only the beginning. Work has begun on a new Center for Science and Technology that will play a major role in elevating USD's scientific education and research capabilities, and help solidify San Diego's status as a center of technology and innovation.

The need for the Institute for Peace and Justice was driven home within a week of the building opening this fall. The horrific attacks on New York City and Washington, D.C., were terrible reminders that the world is a volatile and dangerous place. Perhaps within the IPJ's walls, students, faculty, visiting scholars and international leaders can help prevent such tragedies, even as they do the difficult work of resolving conflict, promoting human rights and engendering mutual respect among the world's diverse cultures.

The Center for Science and Technology will be the largest academic building on campus, home to more than 70 state-of-the-art laboratory facilities, aquariums, an astronomy deck, a greenhouse and a vivarium. The center is destined to play a key role as San Diego continues to establish itself as a focal point of biotechnology and wireless communications industries.

For all these changes, USD is dedicated to remaining at its core the same campus Bishop Charles Francis Buddy and Mother Rosalie Hill envisioned more than five decades ago. We are dedicated to the development of the whole person — intellectually, spiritually, culturally and physically. Recognizing the dignity of each individual and using the education gained here in service to humanity will remain the cornerstone of a USD education.

On behalf of our students, faculty and staff, thank you for your interest in the University of San Diego.

Alice B. Hayes
President

Overview

A COMMUNITY OF SCHOLARS

For more than 50 years, the University of San Diego has been dedicated to providing a values-based education that recognizes men and women as creatures of God, and to the continuing examination of Catholic tradition in contemporary life.

USD's 180-acre campus, known as Alcalá Park, overlooks San Diego's Mission Bay and the spot where, in 1769, Father Junipero Serra celebrated the first Catholic Mass in Alta California. Like California's oldest city, the university took its name from San Diego de Alcalá, a Franciscan brother who served as an infirmarian at Alcalá de Henares, a monastery near Madrid, Spain. The graceful Spanish Renaissance architecture that characterizes the five-century old University of Alcalá serves as inspiration for all buildings on the USD campus.

Led by Mother Rosalie Hill and Bishop Charles Francis Buddy, and sponsored by the Diocese of San Diego, the University of San Diego began as separate colleges for men and women. The first classes met in 1952; the School of Law opened its doors in 1954. By the late 1960s it became clear that both colleges would benefit from a merger of their academic resources, and in 1972 the Colleges for Men and Women and the School of Law became a single, co-educational private Catholic university.

Now governed by an independent board of trustees, USD is a Roman Catholic institution that welcomes students, faculty and staff of diverse religious traditions and remains dedicated to the values originally articulated by Mother Hill and Bishop Buddy. The more than 7,000 students choose from 60 undergraduate and graduate degree programs. The academic divisions include the College of Arts and Sciences and the schools of Business Administration, Education, Law and Nursing. Men aspiring to the Roman Catholic priesthood take their academic work at the university while living in St. Francis Seminary, adjacent to the campus.

Overview

USD has always recognized that a rigorous academic challenge is only a part of a holistic education, and thus creates opportunities for spiritual, cultural, physical and emotional development to prepare students for careers that benefit their global, civic and faith communities.

ABOUT SAN DIEGO

San Diego has become one of the world's great cities, and is the seventh largest in the United States. Once a small seaport town serving a large naval installation, San Diego today is at the epicenter of burgeoning industries such as biotechnology, software development and telecommunications, and is developing into a major player in Pacific Rim economics. From its legendary beaches through the historic streets of Old Town and the Gaslamp district to its mountains and deserts, San Diego's geography parallels the diversity of its population. The museums clustered in Balboa Park, a short drive from USD, are the heart of the city's cultural life, and a renaissance is taking place in the nearby downtown area, soon to be home to a new ballpark for the San Diego Padres.

Significant Dates

- 1949 The Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy and Mother Rosalie Hill select a site in the Linda Vista (Spanish for pretty view) section of San Diego to establish two Catholic colleges, one for men and one for women, and a School of Law.
- 1952 First classes held at the College for Women.
- 1954 The College for Men and School of Law open.
- 1959 Vice President Richard Nixon delivers College for Men commencement address.
- 1961 School mascot changed from Pioneers to Toreros.
- 1971 Author E. Hughes becomes first lay president.
- 1972 Colleges for Men and Women and School of Law merge to form the University of San Diego.
- 1972 Schools of Business Administration and Education founded.
- 1974 Hahn School of Nursing and Health Science founded.
- 1984 Manchester Hall, Olin Hall and an addition to the Copley Library are dedicated.
- 1987 Hahn University Center opens.
- 1988 Mother Teresa receives honorary degree during commencement ceremonies in Torero Stadium.
- 1995 Alice B. Hayes named president.
- 2000 Jenny Craig Pavilion opens.
- 2001 The Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice opens; ground is broken on an adjacent parcel of land for the Center for Science and Technology.

Marks of Distinction

- ❁ Former President Jimmy Carter spoke at the December 2001 dedication ceremonies for the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice.
- ❁ Construction for a 150,000-square foot Center for Science and Technology began in 2001. In addition to more than 70 new laboratory facilities, the building will include aquariums, an astronomy deck, an aviary and a greenhouse.
- ❁ The Jenny Craig Pavilion, USD's state-of-the-art athletics facility, hosted the West Coast Conference basketball tournament in 2001. The event at the 5,100-seat arena was so successful that WCC officials selected the pavilion to host the 2002 tournament. The pavilion also hosts a range of educational and cultural events.
- ❁ USD in 1999 launched Upward Bound, a program to help low-income students earn college degrees. Fifty students from nearby Kearny High School were selected for the four-year regimen of college-preparatory classes, tutoring, personal counseling and cultural programs to prepare them for university-level academic work. The students spend five weeks each summer living on the USD campus, attending intensive calculus, foreign language and literature classes, and participating in seminars and field trips.
- ❁ USD's Shiley Theatre was the site of the final presidential debate in 1996 between President Bill Clinton and Sen. Bob Dole.

University Ministry programs are designed for students, faculty, staff and alumni to help nourish an adult faith, form a strong community of worship, serve the poor and act for justice.

The catalyst of spiritual life on campus,

University Ministry invites people of all religious traditions and those still searching for religious identity to participate in its programs, activities and services. These include retreats, Scripture study, pastoral counseling, spiritual direction, liturgical ministries, ecumenical services, worship, the Founders Chapel choir, faith reflection groups and social justice and service opportunities.

USD is a Roman Catholic institution proud of the many faiths represented on campus. The Jewish Student Union and the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship for Evangelical Christians are active campus organizations, and the annual All-Faith Service is a cherished campus tradition. Any student of any faith can receive information from University Ministry about on- and off-campus opportunities to practice his or her faith.

Those interested in learning more about the Catholic faith or preparing for the Sacraments of Initiation (Baptism, Eucharist, Confirmation) may take part in programs presented from mid-September to early May. University Ministry staff members are available to assist in preparation for marriage in Catholic churches including Founders Chapel and The Immaculata.

Sunday worship services are held at 7 and 9 p.m. in Founders Chapel. The Eucharist is celebrated daily at 12:10 and 5 p.m. For information, call (619) 260-4735, visit www.sandiego.edu/ministry, or e-mail godsqquad@sandiego.edu.

Community Service-Learning

As an integral part of the University of San Diego's mission to educate the whole person, the Office for Community Service-Learning creates opportunities for students, faculty and staff to enrich their lives while making San Diego a better place to live. By integrating community service-learning with classroom curriculum and student-directed volunteer projects, students apply what they've learned in real-world situations, adding dimension to their education while addressing needs in the community.

During their academic careers, more than two-thirds of USD's undergraduates are involved in a range of volunteer community service projects, including: Family Learning Center, Habitat for Humanity, Homeless Outreach, Linda Vista Kids Project, Native American Outreach, Senior Outreach, Special Olympics and Volunteers for Youth.

LIVING ON CAMPUS.

More than 2,100 students — roughly one-third of the total enrollment — live on campus, supervised by five full-time resident directors, three resident coordinators and 50 student resident advisers. Camino-Founders Hall is exclusively for female students; Maher Hall and the Missions A and B complexes are co-ed. Five apartment complexes are within walking distance of the campus. A new apartment-style residence hall accommodating 350 students is projected to be open for the Fall 2002 semester. For information, call (619) 260-4777 or log on to <http://housing.sandiego.edu>.

Cultural Activities

ART

Founders Gallery, in the heart of campus, hosts frequent exhibits of a wide variety of artists and genres. The David W. May Gallery in Founders Hall hosts showings that celebrate Native American culture and traditions. Serra Hall's Anthropology Museum features the extensive holdings of the May Indian Artifacts Collection.

THEATER

USD's English department, in conjunction with San Diego's The Globe Theatres, offers a Master of Fine Arts in Dramatic Arts program that attracts students from across the nation. Student actors participate in on-stage theater work as well as academic studies. M.F.A. and undergraduate theater arts students stage regular campus performances. Recent productions include the comedy "Reckless" and Shakespeare's "Two Gentlemen of Verona."

SPEAKERS AND SEMINARS

USD's cultural and intellectual diversity is reinforced by the wide range of speakers who come to campus. A sampling of recent speakers includes: U.S. poet laureate Robert Pinsky; Arun Gandhi, grandson of India's legendary spiritual leader; poet José Montoya, one of the Chicano movement's most respected artists and educators; Coretta Scott King; Anita Hill, a national spokeswoman for women's rights in the workplace; former Costa Rican president and Nobel Peace Prize winner Oscar Arias; Secretary of Education Richard Riley; and authors Amy Tan and Maya Angelou.

Music

A comprehensive music program includes regular performances by the USD Symphony, USD Community Choir, the Opera Workshop and the Choral Scholars show choir. The program also presents frequent recitals by faculty and students, and performances by visiting artists in Shiley Theatre and the University Center.

The University of San Diego's Division of Continuing Education offers non-degree extension courses that respond to the evolving needs of the community and are in keeping with the university's commitment to academic excellence.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT FOR TEACHERS

Programs for K-12 public and private school educators include clear credential, professional growth, independent study, CLAD, computer technology and online courses.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Classes designed to serve working professionals are taught by corporate executives, consultants and faculty from USD's School of Business Administration. Current programs include: family business forum, certificate in international business, certificate in event management, competitive skills for small business, business writing workshop and management training for consultant agencies.

COMPUTER TECHNOLOGY CENTER

USD's Computer Technology Center is San Diego's premier resource for technology training. Instruction in a variety of business computing applications is offered in the state-of-the-art facility, helping professionals stay current with industry trends and providing ongoing staff training to help maintain a competitive advantage.

CATHOLIC FORUM, INSTITUTES AND PUBLIC LECTURES

The Catholic Perspectives Forum offers a series of lectures to promote a greater understanding of Catholicism in contemporary life, including a week-long Winter Institute for Clergy Formation in cooperation with Seton Hall University. The University of the Third Age, a three-week program of lectures, field trips and exercise for seniors, is offered in January and July. A variety of public lectures, concerts and other events are held throughout the year. For information, call (619) 260-4585.

CONFERENCE PLANNING AND MEETING SERVICES

Comfort and function merge in The Douglas F. Manchester Executive Conference Center, a modern, versatile facility designed to meet any conference need. From small seminars to international events, the professional staff provides all necessary services to make every meeting a success.

USD's Torero athletics teams once again turned in outstanding seasons in 2000-01, with two conference championships and two teams advancing to NCAA Tournaments.

Men's soccer won a third straight West Coast Conference title, advancing to the NCAA Tournament for the eighth time since 1990, and ranked tenth nationally with a 16-2-2 record. Head coach Seamus McFadden earned his seventh WCC Coach of the Year honor, while sophomore forward Ryan Coirer was second Team All-America and named WCC co-Player of the Year. The women's soccer team joined the men in the NCAA Tournament, its second straight trip, as junior forward Stephanie Barnier (14 goals) led the team to a 13-7 record.

The football team battled to a 4-6 season mark. After the season, USD bade farewell to two student-athletes who set new Torero records. Running back Oscar Arzu amassed 2,578 yards in his career and quarterback Mike Stadler established new passing milestones with 426 completions, 4,324 passing yards and 58 touchdown passes.

The cross country season featured the second-place finish of Antonio Lopez at the WCC Championships. USD's crew season was highlighted by senior Ali Cox earning second team All-America honors, followed by her being named to the U.S. National Team. The women's swimming and diving team won its second straight Pacific Coast Swimming Championship, with Mike Keeler earning his second consecutive Coach of the Year honor and Carolyn Gorrick winning PCSC Female Swimmer of the Year honors.

The men's and women's basketball teams, along with the volleyball team, played their initial seasons in the new Jenny Craig Pavilion. They christened the facility in grand fashion with the Torero Tip-off in December 2000 and concluded by hosting the WCC Championships in early March 2001. In that tournament, the men beat the University of San Francisco before falling to eventual champion Gonzaga. The women were defeated by Loyola Marymount.

The spring season was highlighted by the baseball team winning 35 games, the second most victories in program history, with a record 32 of those wins in Division I competition. Outfielder Joey Prast earned WCC Freshman of the Year honors. After the season, two

Athletics

Toreros joined the professional ranks when junior Greg Sain was drafted by the San Diego Padres and senior shortstop Josh Harris, whose 29-game hitting streak set a new school record, signed with the Chicago Cubs.

The golf team won three tournaments and set a school record for team scoring average (74.1). Senior Ryan Hanratty became the first USD golfer selected to participate in the NCAA finals.

Both tennis teams turned in winning seasons and were ranked among the nation's top 60. The women sent the doubles team of Heather Polumbus and Krista Manning to the NCAA Doubles Championships.
