Historical Note

Author E. Hughes was appointed in 1971 as the first President of the united University of San Diego. Prior to President Hughes' appointment, the San Diego College for Women and the University of San Diego College for Men employed separate administrations. During Hughes' 24 year tenure at USD, he oversaw the official merge of the two colleges, the founding of the School of Business Administration in 1972, the founding the School of Nursing in 1974, the building of residence halls and the University Center, and establishment of student-life programs like Choral Scholars and the Center for Community Service-Learning

President Alice B. Hayes was inaugurated as the second USD president in July 1995. During her eight year tenure, she oversaw the construction of the Jenny Craig Pavilion in 2000, the Joan B. Kroc Institute for Peace and Justice in 2001, the Douglas and Elizabeth Manchester Village residence hall in 2002, and in 2003, both the Donald P. Shiley Center for Science and Technology and the Degheri Alumni Center.

President Mary E. Lyons was inaugurated as the third USD president in July 2003. During her twelve year tenure, President Lyons oversaw USD's growing acclaim as a rigorous institution, creation of the Center for Catholic Thought and Culture, and the extensive growth of the University endowment.

USD's fourth president, James T. Harris III began his tenure in August 2015.
