Welcome to the University of San Diego School of Law. Law school can be the most wonderful, exciting and fulfilling time of your life; it can also be one of the most depressing and demoralizing experiences you can imagine. The most wondrous thing of all is that it can be both simultaneously!

I know that it is difficult to believe, but your law school experience will be unlike any other academic experience you have ever had. For the majority of you it will be very difficult; but that difficulty is caused as much by the unfamiliarity with the process as it is with the content of the law itself. Your academic workload, examination pressures, financial setbacks, the vicissitudes of the job market, conflicts with professors and family and relationship problems all seem to pick this period, when your law school experience will be unlike any other academic experience you have ever had. SBA President Randolph Announces First-year Agenda

by Shawn Randolph
SBA President

Congratulations on your acceptance to the University of San Diego School of Law! You have made it through two very grueling processes, application and acceptance. Now you are getting ready for the real good stuff.

My name is Shawn Randolph, and I am President of the Student Bar Association (SBA). The SBA is the student government for the Law School, and upon commencement of your studies at the USD School of Law you automatically become a member of the SBA.

The SBA’s job is primarily to run the student government. Throughout the year SBA sponsors many programs such as the First-Year Mentor Program, the First-Year Orientation, the Fall Picnic, the Halloween Party, the Talent Show, and various speakers. The governing board of the SBA is also responsible for allocating funds to the many organizations of the law school for their activities.

In addition, SBA members represent the interests of students on various faculty and university committees. Finally, the SBA is here for you. Should you encounter any problems during your law school career, do not hesitate to seek out SBA officers or councilmembers for assistance.

Some of the events that you will want to watch for in the coming weeks are the Mentor Program, First-Year Elections, and the Fall Picnic.

Mentor Program

The Mentor Program involves matching first-year students with second or third year students. First years can go to their mentor throughout the year with questions and concerns. It is a wonderful way to learn the ropes the easy way. I encourage all of you to participate in this program. The SBA will sponsor a reception on Thursday, August 29 at 5pm where you can meet your mentor and mingle with other students. I highly recommend that you take advantage of this program. Further information will be available in your mailboxes.

First Year Elections

The SBA is comprised of councilmembers and officers elected from the general student body. As first years, you will be electing council members to represent each of your sections. First-year elections will take place September 10 and 11. An SBA member will come to your section to inform you how to run for a council position. Participating on the SBA Board is a great way to meet people and get involved. If you are interested, consider running!

Fall Picnic

The Fall Picnic is scheduled for Saturday, September 7, and the theme is Carnival. The annual picnic is a tradition for the law school, and is the first social event of the year. It is a wonderful opportunity for you to meet your class mates. You will also be able to get information from various student groups. There will be music, food, beer, volleyball, a dunk tank, and much more! Don’t miss it!

Final Thoughts

Reminder: Join the ABA. Upon commencement of your study of law, you will want to join the Student Division of the American Bar Association. The ABA is the national bar association that plays an integral part in your life as a law student and, later, as a lawyer.

You eventually have to join, and now is the best time to do it. Be sure to fill out one of the red application forms as soon as possible. I mention this in order to clarify the difference between the "SBA" and the "ABA," which in the past has caused some confusion for students.

Lastly, I would like to suggest to all of you that you choose at least one organization, be it the SBA, volunteer work, or any of our outstanding student organizations, to get involved with. It will become very important to your sanity for you to take time out from studying.

Getting involved with student organizations or volunteer work is a great way to relax, meet people, and retain your "well-roundedness." I wish the best of luck to all of you. I hope that amidst the difficult times to come you will find good friends, fun, excitement, insight, and lots of rewards. I trust that you will.

Some of the events that you will want to watch for in the coming weeks are the Mentor Program, First-Year Elections, and the Fall Picnic.

The Records Office: Working for YOU!

by Marjorie Zhou
Registrar

All of us in the Records Office would like to add our welcome to you as you begin your first year of law school. We know that you'll be extremely busy with all of the demands on your time and we want you to keep that we are here in Room 202 to be of service to you. Here are some of the ways we hope we can help you:

1. Keep you informed of registration and class information and we'll be happy to answer any general questions you may have about where you should go or whom you should contact regarding any specific questions you may have.

2. Act as Lost and Found. If you lose anything, check with us to see if it has been turned in to our office.

3. Certify your enrollment. We would like to thank the following people, without whom this first/Office issue would not have been possible: Gregory Barnes, Luis Blancas, Nancy Carter, Robert Chong, Carl Eging, Flemings Fundamentals of Law, Amy Kuhnert, Law Distributors, Robert Lipke, all the contributing professors, Kathleen Quinn, Shawn Randolph, Tamela Ridley, Mary Ann Salsbury, Kristine Stanek, John L. Sullivan, The University Center Staff, Miles Weiss, Carrie Wilson, Kirk Yake, the YMCA, Marjorie Zhou, and everyone else who directed us, took messages for us and generally helped get everything together.

ATTENTION: MOTIONS is looking for qualified writers and photographers as well as an assistant production editor and distribution coordinator. Please stop by the MOTIONS office or call 260-4600, ext. 4343 for more information. Paid positions are available.

La Raza Law Students Association

by Laura G. Morton
La Raza Law Students Association

The La Raza Law Students Association is dedicated to providing a forum for discussing the various legal issues which affect the Hispanic community. In addition, the organization is working to strengthen its ties with the Hispanic community at large.

Activities include a Law School Day for minority students interested in pursuing a law school education, speakers forums which address relevant legal issues and their effects on the Hispanic community, and a scholarship dinner/dance to raise support funds for La Raza members. La raza members become mentors to first year students and host workshops throughout the year designed to help make the most of your law school education.

In addition, La Raza is dedicated to working closely with other organizations within the law school community to strengthen communications and overcome misconceptions. All students with an interest in using the law to help the Hispanic community and advancing towards the goal of equal representation for all are encouraged to join La Raza. If you have any questions about the organization, please feel free to stop by the office on the first floor of the law school or to give us a call at extention 4342.

Good Luck in your first year of law school.

Christian Legal Society

by John L. Sullivan
Christian Legal Society

Welcome to the incoming class of law students. Most of you will be spending a great deal of your waking hours over the next three or four years thinking about the study of law and law school. Hold on to your hats, because the time really flies by. It seems like only yesterday that I received by “Congratulations” letter from the school saying I had been admitted. I was certainly proud and anxious.

Now, two years later, I am older, wiser, and a little more tempered in my zeal for the paper chase. I wish you much success, and some fun along the way.

The purpose of the Christian Legal Society on the USD campus is to provide mutual support and encouragement, fellowship and spiritual growth of students at the Law School who identify themselves as followers of Jesus Christ, in order to more faithfully live out that commitment in their personal and academic lives, to prepare and outreach for Jesus Christ in the Law School Community.

We are part of an organization of 4,000 plus attorneys and law students throughout the U.S. who share the same purpose and goals. Several of our returning members attended a regional conference at Lake Arrowhead, CA, in February of 1991, and some are planning to attend this Fall’s National Conference in St. Simon’s Island, Georgia in October. Our faculty membership includes Prof. Darrell Bratton, Prof. Jean Montoya, Prof. Mary Jo Newborn, and Asst. Dean Carrie Wilson.

Law school is very demanding, and has driven many students to their knees seeking God's help to meet the challenges and deadlines. If you feel overwhelmed by the demands of your studies, realize that you are not alone. If you would enjoy some fellowship with other students who have been through the same trials, join us for meetings of the Christian Legal Society. May God Bless your efforts.

Thomas More Society

by Amy Kuhner
Thomas More Society

COME CELEBRATE WITH US!

The Thomas More Society would like to invite all law students to celebrate Mass with us on Sundays at 7:00 pm in the Faculty/Staff Lounge on the main floor of the law school. The first Mass of the school year will be held Sunday, September 1, 1991.

The Thomas More Society at USD is the student chapter of the San Diego County Thomas More Society of Catholic attorneys. All law students are welcome to join. In addition to celebrating Mass together, The Thomas More Society sponsors social events and provides a mechanism through which students can form the friendships and support systems that are important in law school.

Brochures and membership applications are available on the Campus Ministry bulletin board on the ground floor of the law school or in the Campus Ministry Office, University Center 238.

APALSA

by Luis Blanco and Robert Chong

Asian Pacific American Law Students Association (APALSA) is comprised of students from diverse backgrounds, all with an interest in the Asian-Pacific community. APALSA provides a forum for discussing the various legal issues facing the Asian-Pacific community, as well as the legal community as a whole. APALSA attempts to keep students informed regarding scholarship, educational, and career opportunities. Also, students will have the opportunity to meet with practicing attorneys at various functions.

APALSA has been active this summer planning activities for the fall. We are sponsoring a forum on Thursday, September 19, 1991. We will be bringing four speakers on campus to speak on the subject of Hate Crimes. Hate crimes—offenses committed because of a victim’s race, color, religion, ancestry, national origin, political affiliation, sex, sexual orientation, age, or disability—are on the rise. This forum should enable the community to discuss, and be more aware of, this subject. In APALSA’s first meeting this semester (on August 28, 1991 at 12 o’clock noon—room to be announced), we hope to finalize the details. We invite first years and anyone interested to attend.

APALSA is also planning to develop and maintain a mentor program where second and third year students help incoming students acclimate themselves to law school. We plan to provide first years with a mentor, who will serve as a valuable contact at USD. Also, we hope to continue workshops on improving study, exam-taking, and oral advocacy skills, as well as career development.

APALSA’s 1991 organizational priorities are to strengthen communications within APALSA, build membership, provide school and community service, strengthen ties with the Pan Asian Lawyers Association, La Raza, and BLSA, and, lastly, to maintain a balanced budget.

We invite anyone interested in APALSA to join us in our first informal lunch get-together at Carlos Murphy’s on Saturday, August 24, 12-1:30pm. (Call Luis Blanco at (619) 688-0995 or Robert Chong at (619) 569-9218, if you plan to attend.) If you are unable to make lunch, perhaps your schedule will permit you to join us at Happy Hour at Confetti’s on Wednesday, August 28, 1991 at 5:30 pm.

Welcome to the USD Law School!
Law: A Profile

Phi Delta Phi
by Tamela Ridley
Magistrate, Phi Delta Phi

The purpose of Phi Delta Phi (PDP) is to impress upon law students—early in the formative years of their legal career—the need for integrity and strong ethical ties and associations. It is the oldest legal fraternity in the Western Hemisphere, established in 1899 nine years before the American Bar Association. PDP is also the largest legal fraternity in existence with over 160 chapters and in excess of 137,000 members. Our chapter, Wigmore Inn, was chartered in 1962. Currently, there are nearly 50 members form the 1992 and 1993 graduating classes. There are also many USD/PDP alumni.

PDP gains its' prestige from the many individuals who chose this fraternity and have become highly respected members of our society. Eleven Supreme Court justices and six US presidents comprise only a small number of the list. More judges, US presidents, governors, senators, representatives, cabinet members, ambassadors, American Bar Association presidents and law school deans have come from the ranks of PDP than from any other legal fraternity.

To be eligible for active membership, a law student must be of good moral character and in good academic standing. A number of schools view PDP as an honor fraternity, requiring a minimum standard of scholarship for eligibility beyond the organization’s constitutional requirement of “in good academic standing.” Wigmore Inn does not have this requirement. All students are invited to join. Affiliation with PDP provides many benefits. It provides a focus for the activities that help develop the service and leadership qualities which a law student is expected to bring to the Bar. It inculcates a sense of the importance of adhering to high standards of professional ethics, integrity, character and responsibility. It fosters close friendships, both professional and personal, which are cherished throughout life.

Specific membership benefits include a student loan program, scholarship awards and a group insurance program (life, hospital, excess major medical, long-term disability and business overhead expense insurance protection). California members are offered discounts on Barpasser courses. Also, officers of the fraternity and the Headquarters staff stand ready to counsel PDP members on job placement and opportunities.

The following are annual PDP events:
1. Fall and Spring Initiations: These may be held jointly with students from California Western School of Law.
2. Outline Sale: We raise funds by selling student’s used books and outlines on consignment.
3. Kit Carson Elementary Mentor Program: This is a community service program which targets “at-risk” elementary students who are unlikely to finish high school. Law students are paired with these “at-risk” students as mentors to provide another outlet for them and hopefully have a positive impact on their lives.

4. Bar Review Auction: We raise funds here to help finance the Barristers Ball.
5. Barristers Ball: The grand finale! This is a formal evening of cocktails, dining, and dancing for the entire law school.
6. The choice of a fraternity depends on many factors. If you look for the fraternity with the largest number of student leaders; with the highest standards of scholarship and service; and with a fellowship based upon more than mere sociability—you will find that it is Phi Delta Phi.

Environmental Law Society
by Kirk Yake
President, Environmental Law Society

The Environmental Law Society (ELS) meets formally about four times each semester. At the meetings, we present speakers on diverse topics, focusing on local environmental issues and the San Diego job market in the area of environmental law. Once each semester, we organize a debate or multi-speaker presentation on a timely environmental issue which is open to the general public. In the past year, this included a debate on the "Big Green" initiative and a scientific debate on global warming. Our organizational structure is intended to encourage participation and information sharing by all interested members. Anyone interested is welcome to join or attend meetings. At the first meeting (date and time to be announced), we will form various information-gathering committees and a recycling committee.

Regarding the goals of our organization, the ELS seeks to provide a means to network in San Diego's job market in the area of environmental law, to share information on current environmental issues, to meet other students interested in this field, and to make a positive impact in the community through both environmental activism and education.

Other Student Groups

Comparative Law Forum

Founded by Masters of Comparative Law (MCL) students to promote the study of foreign and comparative law at USD, the Forum’s activities consist of sponsorship of public lectures and development of support for the MCL program in the international and San Diego communities.

International Law Society

The society brings together interested students, faculty, and practicing attorneys for the purpose of learning more about the various aspects of international law and to contribute their own ideas to the establishment of effective rules of international law. Each year the society is a co-sponsor of a team in the Phillip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition.

Journal of Contemporary Legal Issues

A national publication, the Journal is published semi-annually and is a student-run publication assisted by interested faculty advisors. It is dedicated to the examination of important contemporary legal, political, and social issues. The journal welcomes articles on interdisciplinary topics, contemporary controversies, and novel ideas for the betterment of the legal system and society in general. Membership is open to any student in good academic standing.

Moot Court

The Moot Court Board coordinates various appellate advocacy competitions in which students act as attorneys for fictitious clients involved in contemporary legal disputes. Each competition is designed to accurately simulate the appellate advocacy process. The Board consists of 13 law students in their third or fourth year who are selected from among the outstanding competitors in the previous year’s Moot Court competitions.

The Board competes against other law schools at various national competitions throughout the United States and four members of the Board make up the USD National Team.

More Hall Public Interest Law Foundation

The foundation promotes the interests of those who are underrepresented by the legal community. The goal is to assist, as well as encourage, law students to provide assistance to community service groups.

Phi Alpha Delta Law Fraternity (PAD)

Pad is the world’s largest professional legal fraternity. It is dedicated to the ideals of community service and its goal is to form a strong bond uniting students and teachers of law with members of the Bench and the Bar. Among other things, the organization offers job preparation and job placement assistance, insurance programs, conventions, conferences, and lifetime friendships. PAD membership is open to all students.

San Diego Law Review

The San Diego Law Review is a legal journal containing articles and comments addressing major issues and topics in law written by students, professors, and legal practitioners.

Each annual volume contains five issues with two issues dedicated to legal concerns of special relevance to the San Diego region: (1) Immigration and Naturalization; and (2) Law of the Sea. The remaining three issues contain articles on current legal topics.

Membership in the Law Review is an honor given as a result of high scholastic achievement or excellence in legal writing.

Spouses and Significant Others

SPOSO is a support group for those closest to law students. The group organizes social functions and counseling programs, and provides a networking system which enables the law students and their spouses or significant others to go through the law school experience together.

Women's Law Caucus

The Caucus supports and develops a sense of community among women in the law school. Activities include speakers, informal gatherings, and supporting and operating the Women’s Legal Center.

Editor's Note: The above information was obtained from the 1991-1993 School of Law Bulletin.
Alumni Office Offers Advice and Proof that Law Students Graduate

by Kathleen Quinn
Alumni Director

Each year, the Law Alumni Association Board of Directors sponsors programs open to all students of the law school. The Student Relations Committee of the board organizes mentor programs for first year students, career seminars for all students and a post bar exam party for the graduating class. These programs are coordinated by the staff of the office of Law Alumni Relations and Development located in 112 Warren Hall.

First year students interested in meeting alumni can participate in the Alumni Advisor Program. Students who sign up for this program will be matched with a graduate who has been practicing law for a minimum of two years. An effort is made to match students with alumni who are in a field of interest to the student. Evening students can be matched with alumni who graduated from the evening program. Students meet their advisor at a reception on campus at which time they can schedule future appointments.

The Career Choices Seminar features speakers on alternative law careers in disciplines including solo practice, corporate counsel, large law firms, public agencies, and careers outside the legal profession.

The Law Clerk Training Seminar features speakers covering topics on the role of the law clerk, research methods and materials, deposition summaries, and presentation of work product.

The Board of Directors also host a party immediately following the bar exam in San Diego. Information will be sent out in a new alumni packet in late June.

Programs will be publicized throughout the year in Motions and posted in the law school and in your student mailboxes. For more information on alumni sponsored events for law students, please stop by the alumni office in 112 Warren Hall or call 260-4692. The alumni office staff

Legal Research Center Offers New Students High Tech Research Aids

by Prof. Nancy Carol Carter
Legal Research Center Director

On behalf of the Legal Research Center (LRC) staff, I am pleased to welcome new students. We look forward to helping you cope with the challenges of legal research and serving you with our ongoing program of library development. Our librarians and staff members can be your best allies as you strive to use the library efficiently and effectively—but only if you let us help. Our service areas are prominently marked and staffed for long hours. Please ask for assistance without hesitation—we understand that no one is born knowing legal research! Riches of talent and resources await you at the LRC, you only need to take advantage of what is offered.

LRC Goes High-tech with SALLY

Forget the card catalog and filling out those paper check-out slips. USD’s two-year library automation project culminated in June with the introduction of “SALLY,” an online catalog and computerized check-out system. User-friendly terminals are located throughout the LRC.

SALLY’S replacement of the card catalog means that computers are now used to check library holdings. Searches may be made by author, title, subject, keyword in title and other access points. An added benefit of SALLY is that the database is campus-wide, showing holdings of the LRC, Copley Library and the Media Center. The locations and call numbers are displayed with every search.

To use the check-out system efficiently, students need to display a valid student ID card with a bar code whenever borrowing a book or reserve item. Once you receive your ID for the Fall semester, stop by the Circulation Desk to get a barcode.

LRC Tours Scheduled

To help familiarize first year and other new students with the LRC, the Reference Department will be offering guided tours during the first few weeks of the semester. Watch for additional information or inquire at the Reference Desk.

Lexis/Westlaw Password Access

First year students will be trained in computer-assisted legal research through Lexis and Westlaw in the Spring semester. First-year students who may have used these systems elsewhere do not have access to passwords or USD’s terminals until undergoing a local training session.

Computer Instructional Lab Update

The instructional lab is open to any USD student with a valid ID card. Law students may use any computer lab on campus, but have priority at the LRC lab which offers Lexis and Westlaw access on its terminals in addition to word processing functions. Non-law students are given priority at other campus labs.

Laser printers are located in the lab for convenience in retrieving and checking copies. Dot matrix copies in the lab are free. Laser copies cost 10 cents—an amount which helps defray the cost of paper and the expensive ink cartridges these printers require.

Legal Research Center Hours

Sunday - Thursday: 8am - Midnight

Friday - Saturday: 8am - 10pm

Law Professors Offer Advice

In an effort to help first-year students adjust to life at USD Law School, USD law professors have offered the following words of wisdom.

---If you are not in good aerobic condition, get there. If you are, stay there. The pressures of competition and never ending assignments take a physical toll as well as a psychological toll. Conditioning keeps you healthy.

---The profession always has room for another “good” lawyer—one who can truly put client needs in front of personal needs while retaining a sense of personal dignity. The profession does not need even one lawyer whose financial goals and interests always come first.

---Don’t panic if you don’t comprehend the cases or writings. Keep trying. For many with limited law connections before school, it will take at least one year before you can read and understand a case. Others with more experience will get it faster, but will lose their advantage if they rest on that quick success. If this stuff were so easy, no one would pay for it.

---Lawyers perform widely varying work. Find out what they do. See how you like the “feel” of these varying tasks. Find work which you like, money will follow in amounts sufficient for your needs (if not your wants).

---School is a place to take risks with no damage to others. Don’t sit back; join the fray. Your future clients will be much benefited and you’ll lose the stage fright that all normal people possess.

---First year law school classes focus largely on protection of monied interests. If you came to the law with a broader notion of a lawyer’s role, don’t panic. The tools can be used as Lenin’s rope. Upper class courses provide a broader view of the law’s social role; but you can’t get there without passing go.

---Keep contacts with non-law individuals. They’ll restrain your tendency (school induced) to reduce all human endeavors to logical formalisms.

---Find something humorous, ironic, or otherwise human in all you survey; it keeps the blood at a lower boil.
