Historical Note

The Graduate Records Office headed by the Assistant Registrar, is responsible for the management and supervision of graduate records and dissemination of pertinent information to all graduate students, with the exception of the Law School. Employees of the Graduate Records Office implement and oversee all aspects of graduation clearance, and maintain up-to-date records regarding admission and graduation requirements for each existing and newly created program. Until 1997, all of University of San Diego graduate programs, with the exception of the School of Law, were administered by a Graduate Dean's Office and the School of Graduate and Continuing Education. 1997 brought a restructuring which led to more autonomous graduate programs and the dissolving of the Graduate Dean's Office. The Graduate Records Office became the central administrative body to manage the records of graduate students and the graduate programs.

Scope and Content Note

These records contain correspondence and informational materials about the various graduate programs at the University of San Diego. These records document policy and procedural changes undertaken in the various programs largely throughout the 1990s. Course requirements and requirements for admission and graduation make up a large portion of these records. Among the represented graduate programs are Business Administration, the School of Education, the School of Nursing, and Marine and Environmental Science. Also included among these materials are reports, statistical information about various programs, and student surveys about the Business Administration program.

In addition to programs offered during the regular academic cycle, the University of San Diego offered Intersession courses. These were both undergraduate and graduate level courses available to USD students, alumni, and interested San Diegans. As the Director of Graduate and Special Programs, Raymond Brandes headed the planning of these Intersession courses. This collection includes course information, publicity, course planning correspondence, and enrollment statistics for USD Intersessions 1970-1987. While the majority of the intersession records cover Winter Intersession, some Summer Intersession records are included as well.
