CHICAGO'S INTEGRATED HOUSING TOPIC AT UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Calif. --Integrated housing will be the subject of a talk (Tuesday, Oct. 22) by the manager of a real estate investment fund, at 5:30 p.m. in University of San Diego's More Hall.

Morris Milgram, manager of M-REIT, a New York-based mutual real estate investment fund devoted to purchasing segregated apartment units and integrating them, will speak on integrated housing in the Chicago area.

Milgram will examine integration in housing as it has developed over the past 20 years and changes occurring as a result of the Supreme Court's decision last May involving housing rights of minority races.

He will particularly discuss the Deerfield Park (Ill.) district case which developed over the city of Deerfield's condemnation for park purposes of real estate that was to be used for housing open to all races. The property owners protested the condemnation and claimed the park district had condemned the land to prevent integration.
