<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Cabinet Member</th>
<th>Address</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Author Hughes</td>
<td>DS 257</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr. Jack Boyce</td>
<td>DS 218</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Ray Brandes</td>
<td>F 106</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Gilbert Brown</td>
<td>DS 216</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr. Thomas Burke</td>
<td>S 200</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean James Burns</td>
<td>SD Annex 1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Ed DeRoche</td>
<td>DS 281</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fr. Lawrence Dolan</td>
<td>Founders, Campus Ministry</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sr. Sally Furay</td>
<td>DS 212</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Sheldon Krantz</td>
<td>LS 209</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Irene S. Palmer</td>
<td>H 204</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. William Pickett</td>
<td>DS 257</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dean Joseph Pusateri</td>
<td>F 114</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr. Thomas Van Zant</td>
<td>DS 126</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Dr. Pat Watson</td>
<td>S 303</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mr. John Zeterberg</td>
<td>PP 103B</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fr. Cahill</td>
<td>Sports Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malachi Rafferty</td>
<td>F 108</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The New Year is a time for looking forward. Here are a few hopes for 1982 that reflect the wishes of many San Diego art lovers:

- A first-class overview exhibit of artwork by San Diego artists is long overdue. Even La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art director Lefty Adler is looking forward to a large group show of local talent in the near future.

- Revitalization of the San Diego Art Institute would be a welcome change. The institute, located across from the San Diego Museum of Art in Balboa Park, could be a dynamic focal point for the art community. All it needs is active support from some of the younger artists and a more creative use of the large space.

- And isn't it time either the San Diego Museum of Art or the La Jolla Museum opened a coffee shop? What better excuse to meet a friend for coffee than to look at art? This is one of the small pleasures that could do wonders for the city's cultural life.

- Too few blacks, chicanos and other ethnic groups are represented in cultural institutions here, as elsewhere in the country. In this regard, volunteer groups could be of invaluable support, in addition to the business community's financial assistance.

A special note of congratulations is in order for the many galleries that opened in 1981 and survived the year. While a few were forced to close, most of them have gained a following and have helped set a standard of improved quality for the area's art market.

In addition to the traditional galleries, there are many new poster and photography galleries in town.

There are numerous areas that hopefully can continue to develop during the new year. Like the network of downtown artists who seem to be getting displaced as Gaslamp Quarter changes push up rents ... Like the dependably fine quality of exhibits at the San Diego State University Gallery and University of San Diego Founders Gallery ... Like the growing number of aware collectors.
THE NEW YEAR is a time for looking forward. Here are a few hopes for 1982 that reflect the community. All it needs is active support from some of the younger artists and a more creative use of the large space.

- And isn’t it time either the San Diego Museum of Art or the La Jolla Museum opened a coffee shop? What better excuse to meet a friend for coffee than to look at art? This is one of the small pleasures that could do wonders for the city’s cultural life.

- Too few blacks, chicanos and other ethnic groups are represented in cultural institutions here, as elsewhere in the country. We could all benefit from an increased outreach program that would bring minorities into the museums.

- This goes along with the need for attention to the educational needs that exist for the young to develop an interest in art. Cutbacks in school budgets are sure to take their toll on the few remaining art programs.

In this regard, volunteer groups could be of invaluable support, in addition to the business community’s financial assistance. There are numerous areas that hopefully can continue to develop during the new year. Like the network of downtown artists who seem to be getting displaced as Gaslamp Quarter changes push up rents...

Like the dependably fine quality of exhibits at the San Diego State University Gallery and University of San Diego Founders Gallery... Like the growing number of aware collectors.

+++

‘The Judging’ by Betty Riis

ART

By Andrea Hoffman
Establishment of a new law center designed to upgrade legal services in San Diego to make them "as good as anywhere in the country" was announced yesterday by officials of the University of San Diego and the San Diego County Bar Association.

The bar association has pledged $40,000 to launch the center, which will research contemporary problems plaguing the courts and attempt to provide solutions. The center will be housed in the university's law school.

At a news conference, law school Dean Sheldon Krantz said that among the more pressing issues confronting the legal system in a period of escalating costs are how to provide legal services to the middle class as well as to poor people, and how to deal with the "tremendous delays" in the courts.

"The administration of justice is in need of innovation and change," Krantz said. "There is no reason why some of these problems cannot be tackled effectively."

Krantz and former bar president Daniel Tobin said presidential counselor Edwin Meese III has often suggested creation of law centers, in which law schools and lawyers could work together to improve the profession.

Meese, a former law associate of Tobin, proposed law centers in a Law Day speech he delivered in San Diego last May.

Krantz said that shortly after he became the USD dean last July, he discussed the notion of a law center with Meese, who encouraged him to pursue it with the bar association. Krantz, however, added that he did not think Meese would become involved with the USD center as long as he continues to work for President Reagan.

Krantz said he wants the center "to be very activist" and to deal with both civil and criminal issues.

Bar President Tom Ault, who called the center a joint project between the bar and USD, said the center's goal is "to make the legal profession and legal services in San Diego County a national model."
USD announces plan for new community law center

By LAURIE FISHER
Sentinel Correspondent

In an age where change is constant, the University of San Diego is making plans to meet the challenges. In keeping with this, Sheldon Krantz, in of the USD Law School, yesterday announced the organization of a new community law center on campus.

"Lawyers need to learn new tools of the trade," Krantz said. "We feel there is a strong need in the community. The field is changing. We must adjust legal education to reflect those changes."

The center's future plans are vague, but Krantz said immediate plans call for a short term assessment of San Diego's legal needs and preparation to meet those needs. The County Bar Association has given USD a $40,000 grant to begin the project.

The center will be based within the law build-

LOS ANGELES TIMES
JAN 7 1982

Community Legal Center Planned at USD Campus

A new community legal center to provide low-cost legal assistance and other legal studies will be established at the University of San Diego Law School, school officials announced Tuesday.

The law center, funded by a $40,000 grant from the San Diego County Bar Assn., will be located on the USD campus.

The center will address such legal problems as the pending decline in federal support for legal aid and the cost and delay in litigation, said Sheldon Krantz, dean of the USD Law School.

Ultimately, Tobin said, the center will provide outreach centers to the public, educating them and offering legal services. The center itself will involve people from various fields working together, such as judges, lawyers and business leaders.

"It's a project that will have deep roots in the working community," Tobin said.

In his announcement, Krantz said the center would provide advanced training for lawyers, help maintain the professional character of lawyers and provide current legal education. One of the problems Krantz plans to address is the escalating cost of legal services and its effect on the middle class.

The center also needs to assess the needs of the elderly as well as the Seminar looks at ways for engineers to cut costs

A way for manufacturing firms to save as much as 25 percent of their materials and supplies costs will be outlined in a two-day seminar.

The seminar speaker will be David Burt, Ph.D. and associate professor of marketing at University of San Diego's School of Business Administration.

Burt has more than 25 years experience in procurement, consulting and teaching. He will outline how product engineering, materials procurement, and marketing must all be integrated into a system.

Burt said his seminar will be directed not only to engineers, but also to persons and groups that work with engineers, so that there can be better communication.

The seminar will be Thursday and Friday, Jan. 21 and 22, at BankAmerica Room, USD School of Business. For more information contact the school at 293-4585.

Management Seminar Scheduled

SAN DIEGO — "Effective Project Management — tools and techniques for success," a seminar sponsored by the University of San Diego School of Business Administration and Continuing Education, will be held Jan. 14 and 15 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the BankAmerica Room, School of Business.

The $260 registration fee, payable in advance, includes tuition, course workbook, two lunches, and refreshments. A 15 percent discount is available to organizations registering three or more participants. For information and reservations, call 293-4585.

University of Connecticut professor of information management Herbert Spirer will lead the seminar designed to provide tools and techniques for effectively organizing, structuring, scheduling, cost-estimating, and controlling projects.

Procurement System Seminar at Univ. S.D.

A business seminar will be held at the University of San Diego, in the School of Business Bank of America Room, on Jan. 21 and 22, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"The Procurement System" tells how to best beat inflation and recession and come out a winner. The seminar is designed for management executives, purchasing agents, marketing and plant managers, comptrollers, and production planners.

"Shortages of money, materials, supplies, dwindling profit margins, and zero growth in productivity necessitate the implementation of cost-effective systems," asserts Dr. David Burt, associate professor as USD who will lead the seminar.

A $345 registration fee will include materials, luncheon and refreshments. Enroll by calling 293-4585.
How to beat inflation and recession and come out a winner is the theme of "The Procurement System," a business seminar to be held at the University of San Diego Jan. 21 and 22 from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Bank America Room, School of Business.

A registration fee of $345, payable in advance, includes both sessions, lesson materials, two luncheons and refreshments. A 15 percent discount is available to organizations enrolling three or more participants.

"Shortages of money, materials, and supplies, dwindling profit margins and zero growth in productivity necessitate the implementation of cost-effective systems," says seminar leader David Burt, an associate professor of marketing at USD's School of Business Administration. "And savings of 25 percent are common as a result of using this integrated systems approach."

Burt's procurement experience spans 25 years and includes consulting for such firms as Continental Teledyne, Naval Oceanographic Systems Office, Lockheed Aircraft, Raytheon and the U.S. Army.

"Integrating Study Skills and Test-Taking Skills in the School Curriculum" is the topic of a workshop sponsored by the University of San Diego School of Education Jan. 23 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The workshop will be held in the Far West Savings and Loan Association's Community Room, 9933 Mount Carmel Road.

The workshop, offered in cooperation with the USD's School of Continuing Education, costs $50. A sack lunch is suggested, and beverages will be provided.

Participants can earn one unit of professional development, or inservice credit.

The workshop, led by USD assistant professor of education Dr. Susan Zgliczynski, is designed for teachers of all grade levels. Current techniques for teaching learning skills, mathematics, and science study skills, increasing work power—spelling, listening skill memory skills a reading for speed comprehension will presented.
Communications skills workshop set

A "Communication Skills" workshop will be held at the University of San Diego Jan. 14 through 16 and Jan. 28 through 30 in USD's Camino Student Lounge. Registration for the workshop is $100 and includes materials and refreshments. A brown bag lunch is suggested. For information and reservations, call 296-4585.

"Communication Skills" will begin on Jan. 14 from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. with an overview program of topics in listening skills, expectations, and barriers to communication. The principal speaker for the workshop is John Lawyer, president of Henneberry Hill Consultants, Inc. Sponsored by USD's School of Continuing Education and the Co-Vocations Office of the Diocese of San Diego, the workshop is designed to improve effectiveness in dealing with others by the use of techniques in listening skills, assertion, leadership and conflict management.

Communication Skills Are Taught

SAN DIEGO — A "Communication Skills" workshop will be held at the University of San Diego Jan. 14-16 and Jan. 28-30 in USD's Camino Student Lounge. Registration for the workshop is $100 and includes materials and refreshments. A brown bag lunch is suggested. For information and reservations, call 296-4585.

"Communication Skills" will begin Jan. 14 from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. with an overview program including topics in listening skills, expectations, and barriers to communication. The workshop resumes Thursday, Jan. 28 from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. and Jan. 29 and 30 from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Principal speaker for the workshop is John Lawyer, president of Henneberry Hill Consultants, Inc. New York; adjunct faculty include the Rev. Daniel J. Dillabough and Sister Bonnie Pelloux of the Diocese of San Diego. Sponsored by UCD's School of Continuing Education and the Co-Vocations Office of the Diocese of San Diego, the workshop is designed to improve effectiveness in dealing with others by the use of techniques in listening skills, assertion, leadership and conflict management.

USD creates teacher program

The University of San Diego's School of Education, in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education, has announced the creation of a new program for teachers which will result in credit for professional development units. The "PDU" program, which will begin in January, comprises seven courses. All are applicable for tax deduction purposes and/or for inservice salary credit. Edward DeRoche, dean of the School, suggests, however, that applicants investigate these opportunities prior to registration.

According to DeRoche, all of the courses are applicable towards a professional development certificate in teaching. Course offerings and dates:

1. "Educational Measurement," Wednesdays 7 to 9:50 p.m. beginning Feb. 3;
2. "Religious Vocations Awareness Workshop," to be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Jan. 9;
3. "Perceptual Skills for Academic Tasks," to be held from 4 to 9 p.m. Jan. 22 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jan. 23;
4. "Newspaper Workshop," to be held from 4 to 8 p.m. Jan. 29 and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Jan. 30;
5. "Assertiveness Training for Teachers," a two-day workshop, to be held Jan. 15 from 4 to 8 p.m. and Jan. 16 from 9 to 5 p.m.;
6. "Curriculum for the Physically Handicapped and Other Impaired Children and Young Adults," to be held two days every other weekend for one month beginning Feb. 5; and
7. "Integrating Study and Test-Taking Skills into the School Curriculum," to be held from 8:30 to 5 p.m. in three, two-hour sessions during the week of Feb. 1.

All PDU courses will be held on the USD Linda Vista Road campus except for the "Integrating Skills" course, which will meet at the Community Room of Far West Savings and Loan in Rancho Penasquitos.
FUNDRAISING

ERNEST E. YAHNKE, senior vice president for Bank of America, will serve as general chairman for a new University of San Diego fundraising program called Corporate Associates. It will support the university's undergraduate and professional schools through "bring the university—and regional corporations into closer relationship."

Among the San Diegans involved in the new fundraising effort are: BRUCE HAZARD, president of Hazard Products Inc.; RICHARD P. WOLTMAN, vice president of First Affiliated Securities; C.E. FRIEDIN, manager of the local Home Life Insurance Co. office; COLIN FORT, vice president of California First Bank; MAX MCCORMACK, district sales manager for United Airlines; MICHAEL PEARLMAN, president of InterOcean Systems; PAUL TOUMAINEN, vice president of Bank of America; and JACK WALSH, owner of ERA Walsh & Associates.

NOT JUST HORSING AROUND

"I've been on a horse every day of my life since I was 2," says Susan Wilson, a 17-year-old freshman at USD who plans to become a veterinarian. The Salt Lake City transplant has been showing horses since she was 4 years old and last August won a world championship in Louisville, Kentucky, in the Juvenile Five-Gaited Saddlebred division. This year she has a schedule of competition, along with her full load of classes, that would make most heads swim. The major shows alone will take her to Kansas City, Paris, Phoenix, Denver, Dallas, Houston, Lexington and back to Louisville next August for the 1982 World Championship Finals.

Blue-ribbon excellence runs in the Wilson family. Susan's mother was the world champion in the Reserve Ladies' Harness Pony class in 1978 and Susan's older brother, Tom, a senior at USD, also has cantered off with numerous ribbons in horse competition. It's a pattern Susan plans to continue. —TIM RYLAND

EDUCATION

JIM SMITH, division claim manager with the regional office of Allstate Insurance Co., has been named to the University of San Diego Board of Visitors. The board is an advisory group serving as a two-way channel between the school and the professional community.

Also, USD's president AUTH HUGHES has been elected to a two-year term to the board of directors of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.
DATE: Jan. 14-15
TIME: 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
SEMINAR: Effective Project Management — Tools and Techniques for Success
LOCATION: USD BankAmerica Room, School of Business
FEE: $260
SPONSOR: USD Schools of Business and Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4585

DATE: Jan. 14-15
TIME: 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
SEMINAR: Effective Project Management
LOCATION: USD School of Business Case Room
FEE: $245
SPONSOR: Schools of Business Administration and Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4586

DATE: Jan. 13
TIME: 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.
SEMINAR: Trust Fund Update
LOCATION: Holiday Inn Embarcadero
FEE: None
SPONSOR: USD Law School's Labor-Management Relations Center
CONTACT: 293-4583

DATE: Jan. 22-23
TIME: Friday, 4-9 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.
SEMINAR: Make It-Take It
LOCATION: DeSales Hall, USD
FEE: $50
SPONSOR: USD's School of Education and Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4585

DATE: Jan. 23
TIME: 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
SEMINAR: Integrating Study Skills and Test-Taking Skills in the School Curriculum
LOCATION: Far West Savings and Loan Association, 9933 Mount Carmel Road
FEE: $50
SPONSOR: USD School of Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4585

DATE: Jan. 14-16
TIME: Thursday, 5:30-9:30 p.m.; Friday and Saturday, all day
SEMINAR: Communication Skills
LOCATION: UCSD's Camino Student Lounge
FEE: $100
SPONSOR: USD Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4585

CONCERT
USD continues its free noontime concert series with performances each Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in French Parlor, Founders Hall. This week features the Brasswinds Quartet in a recital of contemporary music for brass. For more information call 291-6480 ext. 4296.
Teacher training offered

“Assertiveness Training for Teachers” is the subject of a workshop to be offered from 4-8 p.m. Friday at the University of San Diego. The seminar continues from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. It will be presented in DeSales Hall, room 209.

The workshop, offered by USD’s School of Education, in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education, provides one unit of Professional Development, or inservice, credit. The cost is $50. For information, call the School of Education at 293-4585.

Participants will learn to effectively express feelings, cope with upsets, assess body language and develop better listening and classroom management skills.

Led by USD assistant professor of education Dr. Susan Zgliczynski, the workshop will include lecture, demonstration, movies, and role-playing. Registration includes all reading materials and activities.
'Assertiveness training' offered

"Assertiveness Training for Teachers" is the subject of a workshop to be offered at the University of San Diego tomorrow and Saturday, in Room 209 of the university's DeSales Hall.

The workshop, which will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, provides one unit of professional development, or inservice credit. The cost is $50. The class is sponsored by USD's School of Education, in cooperation with the Division of Continuing Education. For information, call the School of Education at 293-4585.

Participants will learn to effectively express feelings, cope with upsets, assess body language and develop better listening and classroom management skills.

Led by USD assistant professor of education Dr. Susan Zgliczynski, the workshop will include lecture, demonstration, movies, and role-playing. Registration includes all reading materials and activities.

USD sets education workshop

A "Make It-Take It" workshop in perceptual skills will be held at the University of San Diego Jan. 22-23 in Room 209 of the University's DeSales Hall.

Tuition for the workshop, which will be held from 4 to 9 p.m. Jan. 22 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jan. 23, is $50. Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch. Beverages will be provided. The workshop is co-sponsored by USD's School of Education.

Designed for regular and special education teachers, the workshop will provide instruction on how to develop, reinforce and remediate perceptual skills — such as listening, staying on task and following directions — using learning activities and games, learning centers, manipulatives and current technology available to classroom teachers.

For information and reservations, call 293-4585.

The Rev. John Shea will lead two workshops at the University of San Diego this week in the Hahn School of Nursing, Room 106.

From 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday Father Shea will present "The Spiritual Journey: Stories of Adult Faith." The fee is $5.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, Shea will present "The Use of Storytelling in Ministry and Preaching." Registration for the latter is $35. Information may be obtained by calling USD's School of Continuing Education at 293-4585.
Faculty Concert Series, cellist Marjorie Hart, violinist Henry Kolar, and pianist Nicolas Reveles of USD will perform Vivaldi's Concerto in B flat with the Civic Youth Orchestra II, and the Symphonic Wind Ensemble will perform works of Williams, Fucik, and Giovannini, Sunday, January 17, 4 p.m., Camino Hall, USD. Free. 234-7227.

Faculty, Students To Give Concert

LA JOLLA — Music faculty members from the University of San Diego will join the young musicians of Civic Youth Orchestra II in concert on Jan. 17, at 4 p.m. in Camino Hall on the campus of the University of San Diego. Marjorie Hart, cello; Henry Kolar, violin; and Nicolas Reveles will be soloists with Civic Youth Orchestra II in a performance of the Vivaldi Concerto in B minor. The orchestra will also play works by Handel, Dancla and Gliere.

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble will play the second half of the program, performing works by Williams, Fucik and Giovannini.

Among the members of the Civic Youth Orchestra II are Warren and Alan Lee of Oceanside.

This concert will be co-sponsored by the University of San Diego Music Department. Admission is free. The Civic Youth Orchestra is a member of COMBO. For further information call 324-7227 or 270-0586.

Music Faculty members of USD and Civic Youth Orchestra II perform at 4 p.m. Sunday in Camino Hall, USD. Works by Handel, Dancla and Gliere played. Symphonic Wind Ensemble performs in later half of program with compositions by Williams, Fucik and Giovannini. Information: 324-7227.

A concert of sacred music will be performed at 8 p.m. by the University of Redlands Chapel Singers in Founders Chapel of the University of San Diego, sponsored by the USD Music Department.
Youth orchestra schedules concert

Music Faculty members from the University of San Diego will join musicians of Civic Youth Orchestra II in concert on Jan. 17, 4 p.m. in Camino Hall on the campus of the University of San Diego.

Marjorie Hart, Henry Kolar, and Nicolas Reveles will be soloists with C.Y.O. in a performance of the Vivaldi Concerto in Bb. The orchestra will also play works by Handel, Dancla and Gliere.

The Symphonic Wind Ensemble will play the second half of the program, performing works by Williams, Fucik and Giovannini. Admission is free. For further information please call 7227 or 270-0586.

Louis Cavarly of Leucadia is a member of Civic Youth Orchestra II.
Founders Gallery — “Watercolor San Diego,” an exhibition of paintings by members of the San Diego Watercolor Society, will continue through Feb. 16, University of San Diego, Alcala Park, S.D. 442-7960.

USD Watercolor Exhibit — “Watercolor San Diego” will be on display at the USD Founders Gallery through Feb. 26, 266 De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.

"Watercolor San Diego," an exhibition of paintings by the honorary members and past presidents of the San Diego Watercolor Society, will continue through February 26, Founders Gallery, USD. 291-6480 x4296.

SAN DIEGO — An invitational exhibition, “Watercolor San Diego,” will be featured at the University of San Diego’s Founders Gallery from Jan. 25 through Feb. 26.

Founders Gallery is open to the public on weekdays from noon to 4 p.m. and on Wednesdays from noon to 9 p.m. Held in cooperation with the San Diego Watercolor Society, “Watercolor San Diego” includes two works by each of the Society’s honorary members Rex Brandt, Phil Dike, John C. Pellew, George Post, Millard Sheets, and Eileen Monaghan Whitaker.

Contributing to the exhibition also are the 17 past presidents of the society who have guided the growth of the society from its beginnings in 1964 to the present. Currently the San Diego Watercolor Society comprises more than 600 members.

The public is invited to the opening reception, dedicated to the 12 charter members of the Society.

BLADE TRIBUNE
JAN 1 1982

Teaching Learning Skills Is Topic Of Workshop

SAN DIEGO — “Integrating Study Skills and Test-Taking Skills in the School Curriculum” is the topic of a workshop sponsored by the University of San Diego School of Education Saturday, Jan. 23 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The workshop will be held in the Far West Savings and Loan Association’s Community Room, 9933 Mount Carmel Road.

The workshop, offered in cooperation with the USD’s School of Continuing Education, costs $50. A sack lunch is suggested, and beverages will be provided. Call 293-4585 for reservations.

Participants can earn one unit of professional development or inservice credit and additional hours are required.

The workshop, led by USD assistant professor of education Dr. Susan Zgliczynski, is designed for teaching learning skills, mathematics and science study skills, increasing work power, spelling, listening skills, memory skills, and reading for speed and comprehension will be presented.

BLADE TRIBUNE
JAN 2 1982

SAN DIEGO MAGAZINE
JAN 1982

University of the Third Age—USD two-week program of classes and lectures designed for senior citizens seeking intellectual stimulation and physical activity is held Jan. 4-21, Mon.-Thur. 8-moon. Info: 293-4585.

Effective Project Management—USD’s School of Business Administration offers a workshop in project management for interested professionals, led by Herbert Spirer, Jan. 14-15. Info: 293-4585.

BLADE TRIBUNE
JAN 2 1982

Watercolor Show Highlights S.D.

SAN DIEGO — An invitational exhibition, “Watercolor San Diego,” will be featured at the University of San Diego’s Founders Gallery from Jan. 25 through Feb. 26.

Held in cooperation with the San Diego Watercolor Society, “Watercolor San Diego” includes two works by each of the Society’s honorary members Rex Brandt, Phil Dike, John C. Pellew, George Post, Millard Sheets, and Eileen Monaghan Whitaker.

Contributing to the exhibition also are the 17 past presidents of the society who have guided the growth of the society from its beginnings in 1964 to the present. Currently the San Diego Watercolor Society comprises more than 600 members.

The public is invited to the opening reception, dedicated to the 12 charter members of the Society.

SAN DIEGO MAGAZINE
JAN 1982

SAN DIEGO — A Designed to instruct “Newspaper Workshop” will be held at the University of San Diego Friday, Jan. 29, from 4 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in DeSales Hall Room 209.

Tuition for the workshop, sponsored by USD’s School of Education and Continuing Education, is $50. Beverages will be provided; a sack lunch is suggested. For further information call 293-4585.

BLADE TRIBUNE
JAN 1 1982

Course Shows How To Use Newspaper In Classroom

SAN DIEGO — A Designed to instruct “Newspaper Workshop” will be held at the University of San Diego Friday, Jan. 29, from 4 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in DeSales Hall Room 209.

Tuition for the workshop, sponsored by USD’s School of Education and Continuing Education, is $50. Beverages will be provided; a sack lunch is suggested. For further information call 293-4585.

SAN DIEGO BUSINESS JOURNAL
JAN 21-22

DATE: Jan. 21-22
TIME: 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.
SEMINAR: The Procurement System: Key to Increased Productivity and Profits
LOCATION: BankAmerica Room, School of Business. USD
FEE: $345
SPONSOR: USD’s School of Business Administration and Continuing Education
CONTACT: 293-4585
'UNIVERSITY OF THIRD AGE'

Program energizes elderly

By Mark Monday
Tribune Seniors Writer

Stella Smiler, who is 70, graduates for the third time today from the University of the Third Age at the University of San Diego.

Smiler — "spell it 'smile' and add an 'r'" — is one of 80 people between 55 and 78 finishing the three-week program of instruction and exercise.

They comprised the largest class in the history of the program.

Smiler also was in the first group, the class of 1978. She was so impressed with the program — imported from France — that she took the course again at a French university in 1979. And she returned to USD this month for a three-week stint.

During the course, the students participate in a physical-fitness session each day, listen to lectures and musical programs, hold discussions and socialize.

The summer session lasts six weeks and includes a language program and more intensive debates and discussions.

Smiler said that if she had not taken the program in 1978 "I would never have had the nerve to go to Europe by myself."

The continental version was a bit different and included a showing of artworks done by senior artists.

Smiler, who lives in University City, said: "This program has brought me out of my shell."

"I prefer learning to sitting around playing bridge. I look forward to those sessions. Hopefully you meet also topics, Papua, New Guinea, and was answering questions from other seniors in the program.

"Look at that man," she said. "Look at the time he has given. He's a medical doctor. He has a business (in imports) on the side."

"I've never found anyone so eager to do what they can for you as the people in this program."

Smiler said the program made her feel better physically.

"Before I took the program the first time, I'd never been able to stay with exercises more than a few days," she said, "but after taking this the first time, I got an exercise program, and I've stayed with it."

Dick Young, 67, of University Heights, echoed Smiler's comments.

"I've been to a lot of senior groups, and this one is unique," he said. "No one talks about their illnesses, and by the time you get to be 65 everyone has some chronic illness, but here there are other things to talk about."

Young was attending for the second time. About 40 percent of those taking the mini-session had been through the program at least once before.

Mal Raftery, who heads USD's continuing education program, said such repeating students are welcome at the mini-sessions in January, but only first-time students will be accepted for the six-week summer session during July and August.

Program graduates have an alumni group that musters
Stella Smiler, who is 70, graduates for the third time today from the University of the Third Age at the University of San Diego.

Smiler — "spell it 'smile' and add an 'r'" — is one of 80 people between 55 and 78 finishing the three-week program of instruction and exercise.

They comprised the largest class in the history of the program.

Smiler also was in the first group, the class of 1978. She was so impressed with the program — imported from France — that she took the course again at a French university in 1979. And she returned to USD this month for a three-week stint.

During the course, the students participate in a physical-fitness session each day, listen to lectures and musical programs, hold discussions and socialize.

The summer session lasts six weeks and includes a language program and more intensive debates and discussions.

Smiler said that if she had not taken the program in 1978 "I would never have had the nerve to go to Europe by myself.”

The continental version was a bit different and included a showing of artworks done by senior artists.

Smiler, who lives in University City, said: “This program has brought me out of my shell.

“I prefer learning to sitting around playing bridge. I look forward to these sessions. Hopefully you meet nice, interesting people.”

Smiler nodded toward Dr. Charles Ross, a volunteer speaker who had just given a talk on one of his favorite from other seniors in the program.

“Look at that man,” she said. “Look at the time he has given. He’s a medical doctor. He has a business (in imports) on the side.”

“I’ve never found anyone so eager to do what they can for you as the people in this program.”

Smiler said the program made her feel better physically.

“Before I took the program the first time, I’d never been able to stay with exercises more than a few days,” she said, “but after taking this the first time, I got an exercise program, and I’ve been staying with it.”

Dick Young, 67, of University Heights, echoed Smiler’s comments.

“I’ve been to a lot of senior groups, and this one is unique,” he said. “No one talks about their illnesses, and by the time you get to be 65 everyone has some chronic illness, but here there are other things to talk about.”

Young was attending for the second time. About 40 percent of those taking the mini-session had been through the program at least once before.

Mal Rafferty, who heads USD’s continuing education program, said such repeating students are welcome at the mini-sessions in January, but only first-time students will be accepted for the six-week summer session during July and August.

Program graduates have an alumni group that musters about 130 active members, Rafferty said. It meets four times a year to conduct business, hear a speaker and attend a concert or musical performance at the USD campus.
MRS. ADORNE R. HUGHES, PRESIDENT of the University of San Diego for the past 10 years, had a thank you speech for USD supporters all ready but he never got the chance to deliver it. Instead, he was the recipient of kudos — but not until he faced a battery of charges of “being perfect in every way, every day” for those 10 years.

The mock trial was staged by Josiah L. Neeper, chairman of the President’s Club of USD, during the club’s annual dinner Saturday in the James S. Copley Library on the university campus. Mr. Neeper even tossed aside his prepared introduction of Dr. Hughes in favor of a new script that combined elements of “This is Your Life” and a celebrity roast.

The commentary by Mr. Neeper was accompanied by a parade of blow-up photos of Dr. Hughes from early childhood through high school which had been purloined from a family album supplied by Mrs. Hughes. The collection even included a picture with his date at a high school prom and four other comely girls described as “cousins.”

Participants in the serious-cum-humor review of Dr. Hughes’s attributes were Sister Sally Furay, USD vice president and provost; Thomas Burke, vice president and dean of students, and Peter Hughes, trustee and student liaison.

The program concluded with remarks by the Most Rev. Leo T. Maher, bishop of the San Diego Roman Catholic Diocese and chairman of the USD board, and a tape of reminiscence by Dr. Hughes’ mother.

The black-tie party began with cocktails in Camino Hall Lounge and then guests assembled in the library for dinner and dancing. Dr. Hughes thought the entertainment there would be by student vocalists. To his surprise — but not Mr. Neeper’s — the singers didn’t show.

But enough club members and guests did show — some 180 of them — that they’re thinking about ways to expand seating for next year. On the library’s balcony, perhaps.

JOINING THE HUGHESES IN welcoming guests in the lounge were Mr. and Mrs. Neeper and O. Morris Sievert, outgoing club chairman, and Mrs. Sievert and a number of university officials. Student hostesses were Cathy Cohn and Betsy Meyers curb-side greeters were Joe Laub, Vince Gulin, Guy Webb and Mike Daly.

Dr. and Mrs. Hughes were seated with the Neepers and the Sieverts at dinner and sharing a nearby table were Bishop Maher, Mrs. Harry A. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Manchester and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Trepte.

Mrs. Trepte helped with the photo display, as did Sister Virginia McMonagle and the Mmes. Neeper, Peter Hughes and Thomas Finn.

Mrs. Helen K. Copley, who with her late husband, James S. Copley, inaugurated the President’s Club dinner in 1973, was seated with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Zable and Eugene Gamble.

Dr. and Mrs. Wilson Baugh came from San Bernadino for the occasion and Dr. and Mrs. John Caslin were there from Manhattan Beach. La Jollans included Drs. Bernard and Ethel Aginsky, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Barger, Mrs. Walter Broderick with Legler Benbough, Mr. and Mrs. Barry McComic and Dr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips.

Mrs. Broderick was among the women opting for fashion’s popular color — black. Her short dress was long-sleeved and high-necked in lace. The hostess, Marge Hughes, also wore a short black lace dress, her’s with multi-ruffled skirt.

Mrs. Harold B. Starkey Jr. wore a black net tunic embroidered in gold over a black skirt. Her husband and Mr. Zable found themselves in similar dark red dinner jackets. Mr. Starkey wore one regulation black shoe and a tan loafer because of recent foot surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ninteman, just back from a wedding trip and refurbishing a condominium in Leucadia, were there. Mrs. Ninteman is the former Minnie Maloof and the couple was married Jan. 3 in St. Peter’s Episcopal Church in Del Mar. A reception followed at the Skyloft Club in Leucadia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis Powell were among Rancho Santa Fe residents attending as were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Warren, Mrs. Rosary Arecio, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Crippen and Mrs. Julia Krafft.

San Diegans included the Messrs. and Mmes. Lowell E. Davies, Bruce Hazard, Frank L. Hope, C. Terry Brown, Robert Golden, David G. Fleet and Donald Brewer. Also retired Rear Adm. and Mrs. Edward E. Grimm, Mrs. William R. Bohem and daughter, Mary, and Mr. and Mrs. John McBride Thornton.
A Good Case Of Perfection

By NOEL OSMENT
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

Marge Hughes finally learned the names of her husband's old girlfriends Saturday night at the President's Club Dinner at University of San Diego.

The dinner dance is hosted annually by the university president, Dr. Author Hughes and his wife, Marge, to thank club members, who donate $1,000 or more annually to the university.

But this year Josiah Neeper, the club's council president, turned the tables a bit. To pay tribute to Hughes, Neeper worked up a gentle roast of the tall, handsome president — who has been in the post for 10 years — putting him on trial for "perfection?"

Witnesses for the defense included five guests — Rita Neeper, Doris Hughes, Celeste Trepte, Sara Finn and Sister Virginia McMonagle — who marched about the room showing the "jury" (all the guests were members of the jury) blown-up photos, culled from old photo albums, of an assortment of young women, whom the defendant then identified.

"I've lived with those old photo albums for years, but I never knew the names," said Marge Hughes, who had done the culling for the surprise skit.

The dinner and dancing took place, as is the tradition, in the impressive, Spanish-style James S. Copley Library, but this year guests mingled at cocktails first in El Camino Lounge, where they were greeted by the Neepers.

Most were longtime USD boosters, like the Thomas Bargers, Thomas Fleming, Morris and La Wanda Sievert, Leo and Anna Roan and Helen K. Copley (she and her late husband, James S. Copley, inaugurated the first dinner in 1973), but a few, like Dr. Harold and Beverly Agnew are new to the club.

The Agnews have lived in the area only two years, coming from Los Alamos, N.M., where he was a scientist. Beverly Agnew introduced a refreshing touch of the Southwest to the party, wearing a long dress of a natural color, homespun-type fabric with fine Indian jewelry, including the traditional squash blossom necklace and concho belt.

Also adding an exotic touch to the party was Dr. Anita (Figueroa) Doyle, who was wearing a richly embroidered coat she had bought in Beirut in 1970. Art was the topic of conversation for Dr. Anita and Dr. Bill Doyle and Eileen Monahan Whitaker. Bill Doyle has had some of his (Continued on D-3, Col. 1)
The ‘Perfect’ Case
(Continued from D-1)
paintings on view at Imperial Savings in La Jolla and one of Whitaker’s watercolors is in a show about to open at Founder’s Gallery at USD.
Others visiting together during the cocktail hour were Val Frager, wearing a soft rose mid-calf dress trimmed with lace and Josephine Ghio in dark red.
Another couple new to the President’s Club — but not new to San Diego — were retired Judge Anthony and Berniece Tomczak, whose enthusiasm for the club has been heightened since two of their grandchildren attended USD.
Anthony Tomczak said this was his first time in the university’s library, which had a particular interest for him, since he believes a book he edited while a student at the University of Chicago on Poles in America (the Tomczaks are both of Polish families) is somewhere in the library’s collection.
He would never have found it Saturday, since more than 65,000 of the library’s volumes had been moved out to make way for 175 guests to dine and dance to the music of Bill Green’s orchestra.

Dr. Author Hughes was honored for his 10 years as president of USD, retiring and incoming Norway consuls were feted, the La Jolla Stage Company Women’s Committee held a coffee and beard selections from the company’s current production, “Mame;” and a reception honored artist Corita Kent to mark the week’s social scene.
Hughes and his wife, Marge, appear at the President’s Club party...
The 'Perfect' Case
(Continued from D-1)
paintings on view at Imperial Savings in La Jolla and one of Whitaker's watercolors is in a show about to open at Founder's Gallery at USD.
Others visiting together during the cocktail hour were Val Frager, wearing a soft rose mid-calf dress trimmed with lace and Josephine Ghio in dark red.
Another couple new to the President's Club — but not Diane — were retired Judge Anthony and enthusiasm for the club has.
...
LEMON GROVE REVIEW
JAN 28 1982

L.G. Student at USD

Honored in Who’s Who

Joseph Janus of Lemon Grove is one of fifty-one students at the University of San Diego named to the 1982 Who’s Who among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Selection of recipients is based on academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities, and potential for the future.

The University of San Diego, an independent Catholic institution enrolling some 4,800 students, comprises an undergraduate college, a graduate division, and four professional schools in business administration, education, nursing and law.

THE TRIBUNE
JAN 27 1982

S.O.S.: The ad in the Sunday New York Times was larger than half-a-page, the second-largest Help Wanted in a 28-page section. The headline read: HEAT UP YOUR CAREER; MOVE IT TO SAN DIEGO. It was our own beleaguered SDG&E, seeking engineers.

THE NAMES: Police Chief Bill Kolender, his eyes glowing, is telling friends of plans for his wedding to Lois Karas and honeymoon early in March on Maui. . . . Dr. Robert Simmons of the USD law faculty and some of his colleagues will soon propose a plan to end skyrocketing SDG&E rates. They’ll seek independent consumer researchers to monitor SDG&E operations.

LA JOLLA LIGHT
JAN 4 1982

Special Events

University of San Diego — Michaela Rodeno, vice president of marketing and communications for Domaine Chandon winery, will speak in French on Jan 16 at a luncheon meeting of the Alliance Francaise De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.

And MICHAEL M. FAGAN has joined the division as an appraisal and research analyst. Fagan, a recent graduate of the University of San Diego, was an intern with Burnham and Co. in his senior year at USD.
A rare combination of understated elegance and a lot of good-natured banter and badinage, the University of San Diego opened its grand halls Saturday night for its ninth annual President's Club and chairs — even though more than 65,000 volumes had been removed to make room for the supper club setting.

But the guests took immediately to the dance floor — newly enlarged at the request of the members, each of whom donate $1,000 or more annually for unrestricted use by the university — and the mood of both the music and the normally quiet setting changed, becoming sprightly and playful in keeping with the spirit of the occasion.

Circulating cheerfully among the guests were Mary and Sandy Kahn (his mother donated the stained-glass windows in the Grace Courtroom of the university's law school); Christie Phillips, who says she had 179 guests at her Christmas party and has a wedding coming up soon in her family, (she's the wife of Dr. Richard Phillips); Nancy and Dr.
The bantering began as guests filed into the Camino Lounge for cocktails (an innovation this year) and were greeted by a blow-up snapshot of President Author E. Hughes in diapers with a caption reading: “Do you really want to join this man’s club?”

Hughes, of course, with his wife Marge, was host to the block-ante event and managed to keep both his sense of humor and his dignity as he was subjected to a lot of raillery both during the cocktail hour and at the dinner, where he was “put on trial” in a kind of combined roast and “This Is Your Life” production.

The “trial” came later, after a festive session of meeting and greeting at which the 175 guests were enjoying themselves so thoroughly they were almost late to dinner. The repeated tinkling of chimes finally recalled them to the real reason for the gathering, and, still chattering and chuckling as more of the host’s life was revealed through displays of old high school and college yearbook photos, the crowd followed the chimes to the traditional formal dinner in the James S. Copley Library.

A smoky musical combo (Bill Green’s group) was playing softly, as though a trifle overawed by the book-lined walls and the handcarved library tables.

Dick Weitman, a member of the board of trustees; Claire Tavares, who is active in most of La Jolla’s social, civic and cultural activities; Joe and Rita Neeper, who were to have a large part in the evening’s festivities (his name is really Josiah, but that sounds a little stilted for such an affable person, and Henriette Detoy of La Jolla and Pasadena.

There were a few vacant chairs here and there as the flu or whatever it is — is still taking its toll of guest lists, but the epidemic is surely on the wane by now.

The “roast” began when Neeper called President Hughes to the “witness stand” to defend himself against charges of being “perfect.”

“Look at that head of beautifully growing hair,” charged Neeper, whose own locks are thinning on top. “And his glasses are always clean, while mine are always dirty...and he wears his with the dash of an aviator...he’s a man of culture and taste...look at this hands, no fidgeting; he’s calm and controlled...”

Bishop Leo Maher then took the stand, announcing:

As President Hughes sat there, laughing and enjoying himself immensely, the pictures were paraded around the dance floor, including photos of former girlfriends and such titillating tidbits of information as his American-as-apple-pie background, having been born in the Corn Capital of the World, Hoopston, Ill., and the fact that he met his wife Marge (she’s from the “Home of the White Squirrel”) also in Illinois at Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, 50 miles from Hoopston, and became engaged during one of the weekly drives he made taking her to confession.

Their honeymoon trip in his ’55 Olds was financed by the sale of Marge’s car.

Taking the stand to refute these charges of perfectionism, Tom Burke, vice president of student affairs, pointed out that it was easy for Neeper to roast Hughes’ mother was played for the audience in which she praised him for having been “a good boy.”

The final verdict was that Hughes was guilty as charged with the crime of perfectionism and was sentenced to 10 more years at hard labor at USD.

Along with the La Jollans already mentioned were others from this involved community: Drs. Bernard

(Continued on page B-10)
Academe

(Continued from page B-9)

and Ethel Aginsky, Beverly and Dr. Howard Agnew, Kitty and Tom Barger, Esther Collins, Anita and William Doyle, Sara and Tom Finn (she's the hardworking publicity director at USD, without whose help this column would never have been written), Tom Fleming, Val and John Frager, Gene Gamble; Doris and Peter Hughes, Maggie and Robert Hughes, Anne and Leo Roon, Sharon and Bernard Siegan, La Wanda and Morris Sievert, Ber­niece and Anthony Tomczak, and Eileen Whittaker.

***

Another Halls of Academe event happening last week — this time on a Thursday night — was the dinner for members of the Fountainhead, support group for La Jolla Country Day School.

Mon Ami Restaurant in Solana Beach was the setting for the dinner and, cold and blustery (remember?) as it was, almost everybody managed to show up except the host and hostess, the Charles Taubmans, who, alas, had succumbed to dat ol' debbil flu. Jennifer Weatherwax took over the hostess duties, performing them capably and unflappably, making all the convivial guests feel perfectly at ease.

The talk of the evening was the up-coming “Sen­timental Journey,” the ’50s bash being staged by the La Jolla Cancer Research Foundation on Feb. 20 with Patricia Carlson (she's married to Dick Carlson, who was unable to be present at the dinner) taking a lot of special kidding about having had her picture in the Light as “homecoming queen.”

While the guests had as a common theme the fact that they were supports of Country Day, they still managed to find a dozen other mutual ties and interests, and conversation was lively and sparked with local references.

Headmaster Timothy Burns was on hand, but his wife was another victim of what seems to be mowin' 'em down.

After a brief welcoming message, followed by the introduction of former presidents of the board, the guests were seated for dinner in the various small, intimate rooms that make up the Mon Ami.

At the dinner, giving and taking a few names (since everybody was seated in small separate groups, hence hard to identify), were the Eugene Apples, the John Berols, the Ralph Djemals, the John Doles, the Renato Dulbecos, the Max Elliotts, Dana Fayman, H.P. Field, the Paul Friedmans, the Herman Froeb, the James Garros, the Allen Glicks, Bill Goodell, Bill Harris, the Joseph Johns, Wha Sim and Dr. Byong Mok Kim, Rietje and Jan Kok, Sandy and Bob Kritzik, the Richard Levins, the John Luxes and Marianne Mori.

More were the Hans Schoepflins, Drs. Marjorie and Morton Shaevitz, the Lou Tribetts and the Boris Zittriches.
Muriel Hahn Dies; USD Benefactor

Memorial services are planned Monday for Muriel Marsh Hahn, 81, a longtime benefactor of the University of San Diego. Mrs. Hahn, widow of Philip Y. Hahn, died Wednesday in a hospital. Services will be at 11:30 a.m. in the All Souls Episcopal Church of Point Loma. Mrs. Hahn had numerous philanthropic interests and her community and civic activities touched many. She joined the USD board of trustees in 1975, shortly after her husband's death, and continued his interest in the Philip Y. Hahn School of Nursing now housed in the Muriel Marsh Hahn Pavilion. Through personal gifts and her guidance of the Philip Y. Hahn Foundation, she was a major benefactor to the university.

Another major concern of Mrs. Hahn was San Felipe del Rio, a private, non-profit and non-sectarian home for dependent children near Taos, N.M. She was born in Bakersfield and in 1923 married Francis Caldwell Marsh, a Royal Air Force officer who died in 1928. She married the late Philip Hahn in 1958.

Mrs. Hahn is survived by her son, Peter Caldwell Marsh of San Diego; her daughter, Pamela Marsh Markmann of Berkeley; and five grandchildren.

Muriel Hahn, USD trustee, is dead at 81

Muriel Marsh Hahn, a trustee of the University of San Diego since 1975, died yesterday at Mercy Hospital. She was 81.

USD's nursing school building is named after Mrs. Hahn, and the school is named for her late husband, Philip Y. Hahn, who had been the owner of the Crosman Arms company.

The Hahns, who moved to San Diego in the late 1960s, were major benefactors of the university. Mrs. Hahn was a native of Bakersfield. She lived in Point Loma and was a member of All-Souls Episcopal Church, where a memorial service will be conducted at 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Survivors include a son, Peter Marsh of San Diego, and a daughter.
San Diego U. Salutes the Checkmates

Luckily for the University of San Diego, Author Hughes finally has learned what writing checks is all about. When Hughes was a little boy, he once grabbed the family checkbook and started writing checks to neighbors and friends in his Illinois hometown. That was before somebody told him you don't do that with a checkbook if you can help it.

Today for President Hughes of the University of San Diego, it's the other way around. He gets people to write checks to his university, which is a Catholic one.

He and his wife, Marge, presided over a black-tie dinner in the university library for 175 of the university's closest friends and best contributors, members of the President's Club. In the crowd were many people who are well known but not necessarily for their involvement with the university. Among them were people connected with building and construction, such as the Frank Hopes, the George Pardees, the Bruce Hazards and the Gene Treptes, hotelier Terry Brown and Charlene, attorney Josiah Neeper and Rita, artist Eileen Monaghan Whitaker, retired Rear Adm. Ed Grimm and Ernie, publisher Helen Copley, the Frank Alessios of the Pepsi Cola family, the Frank Warrens from Rancho Santa Fe, people from industry such as Barry Shillito and Eileen and Morris Sievert and LaWanda, longtime university friends such as the Leo Roons and Dr. William J. Doyle and his wife Dr. Anita Figueredo, and clergypeople such as Bishop Leo T. Maher, Sister Sally Furay, Msgr. I. Brent Eagen, Sister Virginia McMonagle and Msgr. William Spain.
SE Louisiana
60-59 Victor
Over Toreros

By GLAE THIEN, Times Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—The University of San Diego basketball team appeared quite good at times but also looked the opposite on occasions Monday night.

From owning a 26-12 lead in the opening half, the Toreros fell nine points behind after halftime and eventually dropped a 60-59 decision to Southeast Louisiana before 235 fans at the USD Sports Center.

"We just don't have consistency yet," Torero Coach Jim Brovelli said before repeating a familiar line, "We do well in stretches, but we have to put 40 minutes together."

USD trailed, 52-49, when it called timeout with 3:15 remaining to plot a comeback, but the Lions' Troy Hall ruined those plans with two consecutive steals leading to baskets. Wayne Booker scored the first on a dunk, Hill took care of the next one, and the Toreros signalled again for a halt in play.

Two free throws by Booker followed to cap a 10-point streak by Southeast Louisiana and give the Lions a 58-49 edge with 2:19 left.

Yet, USD rallied and had a chance to close within two points with more than a minute to play. But the Toreros missed a shot and saw the ball go out of bounds to the Lions on the rebound.

With 50 seconds to go, Bo Bo McNair then connected on the front end of a bonus free-throw situation to score what proved to be the difference.

USD's Rich Davis tightened the margin with a basket with 37 seconds to go and then stole the ball back. However, he missed on another attempt. The Toreros were forced to foul again and regained possession when a free-throw attempt by Hall didn't connect, but two free throws by David Heppell with nine seconds left weren't enough for USD.

"In our situation, we have to be at our peak all the time," Brovelli said. "We just don't have the great individual that can carry us."

Jerry Kelley was such a man for the Lions, at least in the second half when he scored 19 of his 8 game-high 27 points.

Both schools now have 5-5 records. USD will play at home at 7:35 p.m. Wednesday against Fresno Pacific.
USD loses big lead, then game 60-59

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

The University of San Diego is not playing University of San Diego basketball these days.

Since a trip to Santa Barbara before Christmas, the Toreros have been impersonating the University of Jekyll and Hyde.

Last night, USD had two great spurts — one to open the game, one to close it. In between, however, they lost the game.

Southeastern Louisiana, getting 27 points from 6-foot-7 center Terry Kelly and shooting 50 percent from the floor because fewer than a quarter of its shots were fired up from distances exceeding 18 feet, downed the Toreros 60-59 at Alcala Park.

That represented quite a rally for USD, though. With 2:35 to go, the Toreros, burned on back-to-back steals by Lions' guard Troy Hall, gave up a third.

"There was no false security when we were up by 14," said Brovelli. "We knew off the scouting reports that they were a good (5-5) team."

It was Whitmarsh's all-around court play that sped USD to its 14-point lead. He hit three straight 15-plus footers to break an 8-8 tie and ignite a 20-4 USD run — which he capped with two layoffs off a pair of stolen passes.

Whitmarsh led USD with 16 points and David Heppell had 12.

USD hosts Fresno Pacific tomorrow at Alcala Park. Southeastern Louisiana remains in town to play a rematch with U.S. International University tomorrow at Mira Mesa High.
Toreenough; Lionsher one

By T.R. Reinman

If when Southeastern was shooting 52
tribune Sportswriter

It was precisely I added 12. But the other three start­versity of San Diegobby Roberts and guard John Prun­when it lost nine onepoints.

'd Jerry Kelly was busy scoring 27

It was precisely troostly on layups and turnarounds of ana has come to pla us nine-of-nine from the free-throw

It was 60-59 in former." But that was in the first half.

being, from USD Co.

They deserved "coach (Ken Fortenberry) chewed us thought we were stood job on the boards and that's why

USD led 28-24 at be in another one tomorrow night

Southeastern spurt tern opened its season with a 67-66

"I'm never cone USIU, which last night lost on the in the second hal-alented ballclub," said Fortenberry lead changes until iot the ball well and handle it well.

to put his team on a good ballgame. Their guy (Don)

"We're a much th anyone."

forward Gerald Jo

"physical ballgame," said Kelly.
capable of playinguch better than this team (USD), I maybe we just getmy hands full with the man I'll be then slack up. I juson."

"It's been up aneddie Goss after his loss in Wichita

(a blowout loss on; like a mirror image of us. We were

California here an seven to 10 points for most of the

there before last niot some bad shots that cost us and get back to where obled around the rim and out and we"

DaRoche leads USD to 21-0 rugby win

In Saturday's rugby game of the week, University of San Diego's ruggers trounced the UCSD side 21-0. Mike DaRoche, a USD senior, was the game's leading man, having played a part in every score. His most brilliant play was a 60-yard run, during which he eluded four tacklers to score a try.

UCSD fought off USD efforts to score through most of the first half, but USD kept the pressure up. Finally, Chris Pasqual broke open from a ruck and scored the first try, worth four points. Points piled up quickly, and the score stood at 12-0 by half-time.

Despite a strong showing by UCSD, turning back a powerful offense several times, the side was never able to score. The game between A teams was played at UCSD's Muir Field early Saturday afternoon.

The schools' B teams then met with a reversed result — UCSD won by a thin margin, 7-6. UCSD's Peter Steinmoth was named most valuable player of that meet.

USD tops Fresno-Pacific in close game

It came hard, but Coach Jim Brovelli will take a victory anyway he can get one. Brovelli's University of San Diego Toreros had to dig all the way last night before they were able to take the measure of Fresno-Pacific 55-48 at the USD Sports Center.

Brovelli was encouraged in the win by the fact the Toreros cut their turnovers to a third of their previous average and that he got solid scoring from both forwards, Robby Roberts and Gerald Jones. Roberts had 12 points and Jones 11.

The Toreros never trailed from the game's third minute, but saw their lead cut to 48-45 with just over three minutes to go. At that point, USD went into its delay game, holding the ball until
USD Strives To Improve No. 2 Image

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

There has always been a crisis of identity at the University of San Diego.
The problem is without merit. Academically and aesthetically, the university tucked into the hills overlooking both Mission Valley and Mission Bay rivals any educational institution.

Students at USD do not major in patio and hall-walking. Diplomas earned at USD carry clout. But there still is this problem. In America today, there is a tendency to equate the value of a university with its athletic program. Pity the Northwesterns, no matter how superior their schools of engineering might be.

So it has been with the University of San Diego, referred to commonly, unconsciously, as "the little school on the hill."

"There is a misconception that USD is a small school. Some people are not aware of the great strides USD has made. In the next five years, USD will grow into one of the great private universities on the West Coast."

The speaker was not USD President Dr. Author Hughes. That was the basketball coach, Jim Brovelli. That's the way it is up on the hill. No. 2 pulls together, tries harder.

No. 2 is also striding out on its own. USD tonight hosts Gonzaga University at the USD Sports Center to kick off the Toreros' third season in the West Coast Athletic Conference — one of the nation's leading collegiate basketball alliances.

To be sure, USD is still a member of the WCAC's lower echelon. But there is hope for the future. And the present isn't that bad.

Membership in the WCAC seems to be putting USD on the map. School officials say they sense a growing awareness in the community of what USD is all about.

"The kids know us now," says Brovelli of the players he's recruiting. "We're advancing. The basketball program is advancing. The university is advancing."

The question is, how far can it go? Or, how far does it want to go?

Certainly, USD is limited. The Toreros have no radio or television contract. Gate receipts in their 2,500-seat, on-campus gym are minimal and there is no rush to follow San Diego State into the Sports Arena.

"I've always felt basketball should be played on campus before the students," said Brovelli. "If it comes to going to the Sports Arena because we have to, then we'll go."

Total private booster support amounts to one fund-raising dinner a year for athletics.

USD's total athletic department budget — including all salaries plus funding for the recreation and intramural programs — comes to $1 million. Across the valley, San Diego State raises more than that through its support foundation and spends more than that on football.

Then again, USD has no Division I football program.

What USD wants is a balanced program — between men's and women's departments — that will earn recognition for the school without bankrupting it.

How long that will take is anyone's guess — but it won't happen overnight. USD's stringent entrance requirements automatically exclude many would-be recruits. Then there's the financial end of the equation.

Tuition at USD runs $4,475. A full ride — tuition, books, room — runs $7,148, nearly double the scholarship cost at most public universities. Basketball is the only sport given the support of 15 full rides. Baseball has 10 tuition grants and two full rides. There are 4½ full rides in both men's and women's tennis, eight in women's basketball, six in volleyball and two in women's swimming.

All this, plus the cost of operating the programs, is paid directly from USD's operating budget. "It will take us a little time to grow to that level, but I think we'll be competitive in the WCAC with other schools like us," says Cahill.

"Patience," preaches Brovelli, both on the court and in the way he builds to the future.

"Respect and equality will come with time," he says. "We are the new school on the block in the WCAC. We're competing with schools that have tradition and identity on their side.

"I never believed success would be instant. Time and patience, especially in our situation with the extremely high academic standards that are the most stringent even in our conference. I'm proud of that."

Still, Brovelli can cross off 60 percent of all the athletes who show interest in USD. "Many times, it comes down to Stanford or us with the players we're after," he says. "Stanford or us."

USD has 3,400 undergraduate students. Last year, the graduating class numbered 800. There are another 1,300 in graduate school. There are no P.E. majors. Yet, more than 80 percent of USD athletes graduate within a year of their class.

"The guidelines do not bother me at all," says Brovelli. "All we really need is one or two premier players. We have a strong supporting cast, sound, complementary. We're deeper than ever. We've made great strides."

But, it must be said, the Toreros have a long way to go. Theirs is a regional program. To eventually win the WCAC, USD must defeat a national program, the University of San Francisco.
Gonzaga Muscles Past USD 70-61

(Continued from D-1)

"They just played a better game than we did."

Early on it appeared the Toreros were going to open their third WCC campaign with a notable upset of a cast that had won 19 games a year ago and whose 8-5 preconference record included a 75-69 win over a Washington team that is 6-0 in the Pac 10.

Hustling on the defensive end and working for the mismatch at the offensive end, the Toreros tallied three quick three-point plays and were up 18-12.

The Toreros got a bit of a break because Gonzaga came out in a 9-8 alignment with Bruce McPhee starting at one forward. With the Bulldogs in a man-to-man, USD simply doubled and tripled up the center until either 6-6 Gerald Jones or 6-10 Duane Roberts was able to match up with McPhee inside the ball went.

Jones scored four of USD's first 11 points, but scored just three after the first five minutes. Roberts had six of his 10 in the first 10 minutes.

After that they held them to six of 16 in the 1st half.

Defensively, they sagged back into the middle. "They just took our inside game away," said Brovelli.

Offensively, McPhee and guard John Stockton took turns hitting four straight jumpers from long-range along the baseline. That forced USD's defense to play it honest, and opened the floodgates inside.

Once again the Toreros drew close. From a 65-55 deficit, they pressured Gonzaga into some mistakes and hit three straight baskets to make it 66-61 with 22 seconds to go.

But it just wasn't USD's night. The Toreros foiled at that point and got the missed free throw, only to have Dunlap grab the rebound. That closed the book. USD slumped to 7-4. Gonzaga improved to 9-4.

Perhaps the most disappointing part of USD's game was its shooting and defense.

Gonzaga shot 69 percent for the game. USD also had 24 field goals, but Gonzaga went 22-for-32 from the line and the hosts made only 13 of 19 attempts.

Rocha and Jones both scored 12 points for the Toreros and led USD with seven and six rebounds, respectively. Roberts had 12 points. USD leader Randy Whitemarsh had a rare off night, missing his first seven field goal attempts and finishing 2-for-12 from the floor for six points.

"When we joined this conference, I didn't think a lot of people believed me when I told them how good WCC basketball is," said Brovelli. "I think they're beginning to understand.
SAN DIEGO: Gonzaga Plays Inside Game

Continued from 4th Page

points as USD jumped to an 11-4 lead six minutes into the game.

Following a time-out, though, Gonzaga made an adjustment in putting either Dunlap or 6-10 Duane Berge- son against Jones. Then, the Bulldogs went about the business of overcoming the USD edge and eventually did so on a three-point play by Dunlop with 1:06 left before halftime.

While silenced until the point, Jones supplied a hoop following a rebound to give the Toreros a 31-30 edge at the intermission.

Jones also scored 12 points to share the team lead for the Toreros.

Gonzaga, which upset Washington earlier this season, boosted its overall record to 9-5 while USD dropped to 7-6.
Donhowe said that he chose Mesa because of its reputation as a football powerhouse. With Donhowe's help, it lived up to that reputation in 1981. Mesa was listed in the top 20 junior college teams in the country, and beat previously undefeated Fullerton, a school that was ranked second in the nation at that time.

Several schools have scouted Donhowe. Boise State, Reno Nevada, Cal State Hayward, UC Davis and Washington State have all expressed interest in Donhowe.

"I'm going up north, and I'm going to work my way down, stopping at different schools, like Santa Clara," Donhowe said. "I like Santa Clara because it has scholarships."

Donhowe wants to go to school somewhere near the coast. For that reason, Donhowe is also looking at USD and SDSU.

Unless Donhowe decides on Washington State, he won't be near fellow alumni Lydia and John Laidlaw, who live in the same dorm at Whitman College.

Lydia is a sophomore and started on the Whitman volleyball team, which finished 27-18 and went to the first round of NAIA regional playoff competition. An outside hitter, she led the team in spiking. In fact, she broke several school hitting and passing records.

Lydia likes playing on the team, although she said it has some built in obstacles to overcome.

"We have a barrier: the average grade point average at our school is 3.7," Lydia said while in town on Christmas vacation, "Academics and athletics don't seem to go hand in hand."

"It's a hard school. I spend five hours a night studying, and two or three hours practicing. The school stresses taking time off because of the pressure: they say 'don't go straight through in four years. Take a year off.'"

Originally planning to major in sociology, Lydia is now going to switch to psychology with a minor in political science. She hopes to attend law school.

John Laidlaw is having a good season playing basketball for Whitman.

"He's doing really well, and the team is doing better than at the start of the season," said Lydia. "It's 4-4 right now. John is averaging 19 points."

"Their program is really intense. They have to work out before the season starts and they practice a lot, run quite a bit." Lydia said that like her experience with volleyball, John has had to sacrifice some social life for athletics. "That's what you have to do if you want to excel," she said.
USD Loses Usual Reserve In Pilots’ 44-41 Victory

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

The names are Steve Rocha, Jim Bateman and Don Capener.

Through the first half of the University of San Diego's basketball season, they have been toiling in the wings—representing the Toreros' reserve front line.

Last night, however, in a 44-41 loss to the University of Portland, Rocha, Bateman and Capener may have forced Jim Brovelli into one of those decisions coaches hate to make.

Once the three entered the game, USD outscored the Pilots 39-32. The problem was they didn't come into the game until Portland led 12-2.

"The group of kids coming off the bench did a great job," said Brovelli after the Toreros sank to 0-2 in West Coast Athletic Conference play.

"That's one of the great things about sports. You're judged solely on performance."

What Brovelli was referring to was a decision he says will be made tomorrow in practice. Will he shake up his starting lineup? The events of last night point to a yes.

USD's starting lineup accounted for only seven points last night and the starting front line of forwards Gerald Jones and Robby Roberts and center Dave Heppell contributed just two points and seven rebounds against six turnovers in an aggregate of 28 minutes. They were a combined 0-for-5 from the floor.

Rocha, Bateman and Capener combined for 31 points and 21 rebounds and averaged 30 minutes between them.

(Continued on H-4, Col. 1)

USD 0-2 In WCAC After Loss To Portland

(Continued from H-1)

They plus forward John Prunty, spearheaded a first-half USD rally that wiped out all but three points of an early 13-point (18-5) Portland lead. Although the Toreros battled Portland on even terms throughout the second half, they never drew closer than a basket and several times came up short when they were shooting for the tie.

The loss was a tough one for the Toreros, who are now 7-7 overall. By losing its first two games in the WCAC at home to Gonzaga (73-64) last Thursday and Portland—two teams Broselli felt they might be able to beat at home—USD injured its hopes of a .500 conference campaign.

"To do it, we certainly had to break even at home this weekend," said Broselli, who is facing a tougher schedule the next few weeks.

But there were some promising sidelights to the loss, particularly in light of the way USD started. The hosts turned the ball over five times in the first 3½ minutes, shot 28 percent for the first half and made only eight points of a possible 20 from the free throw line before.

Portland’s Bryan Beard grabs rebound from among Flint and USD’s Jim Bateman (34) and Steve Rocha.

"We played a good game overall . . . except for those first few minutes," said Broselli. "Rocha was excellent. Those three guys played hard all the time they were in there."

Particularly Rocha, who finished with a game-high (also a personal career-high) 15 points and eight rebounds.

Bateman had 12 points and 11 rebounds. Prunty scored six and Capener four.

"-minish. The Toreros scored seven points in the first
USD finds errors key to WCAC play

By BEV BRINTNALL
Sentinel Correspondent

If its West Coast Athletic Conference opener is any indication, the University of San Diego basketball team is in need of a little fine tuning. The cylinders all seem to work.

"Every conference game is going to be close," said Toreros coach Jim Brovelli. "The team that wins will be the team that makes the least mistakes."

USD didn't make the least mistakes. In Thursday night's game against Gonzaga University the Toreros, lost 70-61. Each side got 24 field goals, but USD committed twice as many personal fouls, enabling the Bulldogs to account for their victory margin at the foul lines. Gonzaga outshot USD 22-13 at the line, getting 13 more attempts.

"We played well, but made critical mistakes at crucial times," explained Brovelli, whose team hosted Portland last night.

USD turned the ball over 16 times to Gonzaga's 13. Trailing 66-61 late in the game, the Toreros missed a free throw and were twice called for traveling.

It, too, was a mismatch up front as Gonzaga, with the likes of 6-10 Duane Bergeson, wore down the hosts. USD did outrebound the visitors 24-23, but in the last eight minutes, the Bulldogs outscored them 22-10 with an 18-4 run.

USD led the half 31-30 and rallied to a 51-48 advantage with 8:21 to play. Gerald Jones, who scored nine points of USD's first 11 points, finished with 12 points. Steve Rocha also finished with 12. Rocha led in rebounds with seven, while Robby Roberts had six to go with his 10 points.

USD's overall record is 7-6 with a home standing of 6-4 and a conference record of 0-1. Gonzaga stands with an overall record of 9-5 and a conference stand of 1-0.
USD's Dan Herbert and Vernon Dean of San Diego State, above converging to stop UCLA's Tim Wrightman in the Gold Bowl, have come to the end of their college football careers. Playbooks will remain in Dean's future, while Herbert seems destined to continue with text books.

Similarity ends for local DBs

By VICTOR BUCKEL
Scrip's Correspondent

Vernon Dean and Dan Herbert. There are many similarities between the two. Both played football in San Diego. Both are cornerbacks, both weighed in at 185 pounds and both participated in last Saturday's inaugural Olympia Gold Bowl.

There does exist one major difference between them. Only Dean commands attention from football's higher lords. He played at San Diego State, which has 35,000 students and plays Division I football. Herbert hails from a little school on a hill in Linda Vista, the University of San Diego. It has but 4,300 students and plays a Division III schedule.

The difference in schools, however, does not take away from Herbert's ability. The problem for USD has always been recognition, but Herbert feels that may have changed this year. "I feel we're finally on the map as far as Division III football is concerned," said the 6-foot-1, 185-pounder from Patrick Henry High. "We just finished a super season and national recognition in the polls."

The Toreros finished the finest season ever at Alcala Park by going 9-1, losing only their final game against St. Mary's. They did not, however, get invited to a bowl game.

If someone from the East Coast were to look down the Team American roster from the Gold Bowl and come across USD, they would likely think it was a misprint. They surely must mean USC.

Herbert was the mainstay on a tough defense. His eight interceptions is a school record. "Dan was one of the reasons for our successful season," said his coach, Bill Williams. "He's also the type of person we strive to get at USD."

In addition to being invited to play in the Gold Bowl, Herbert also gained some other honors. He was voted onto the second team all-NCAA academic team, and the Kodak division II all-star team.

"Playing in the Gold Bowl was a lot of fun," Herbert said, following their 36-21 loss to Team National. "I hadn't thought about anything like this happening during the season. It was a great honor to be invited."

He and Dean teamed up in the secondary for Team American.

Herbert chose to attend USD because of its academic standing. This spring he starts law school, meaning this was possibly his last football game.

"I feel I could get picked maybe in the lower rounds of the draft," he said. "But the interest just isn't there. If I am picked I would go through the tryout for the experience."

Herbert gives most of the credit for his being able to play in the Gold Bowl to Williams and the coaching staff. "Coach Williams and the staff were really good," he said. "They're the reason I'm here."

In the game itself, Herbert felt he played well enough. "I didn't want to go and embarrass myself and I didn't," he said. Williams was at the game and felt the same way. "I was charting different plays, and checking where he was lining up and little things like that, and I felt he did all right," he said.

Herbert feels he got a lot of help from Tom Flores and the staff of the Oakland Raiders, coaches for Team American.

"The practices during the week were good because their staff gave each back a lot of attention, and it was a super experience to get instructions from people like that," he said.

Although they didn't play the type of schedule the Division I teams play, the Toreros were one of only a handful of teams undefeated going into that last game. "At the beginning of the year I didn't have any idea how good we were going to be,” Herbert said. “Usually it takes a few games to see what type of talent you have. After the first couple games, we knew we had the chance for a good season.”
Local cornerbacks ponder future

(Continued from page B-1)

“The thing that made Dan a super player was his player intelligence,” said Williams. “He played free safety for us and his intelligence was the key.

“He’s the type of person that I would hope my two sons would grow up to be like.”

Dan Herbert has passed his football test. Now he will try to prove himself as a student, the main reason he went to USD.

For Vernon Dean, his story started out like Herbert’s. He was playing football at U.S. International University before they dropped the program in 1979.

He was considered one of the top players on the USIU squad after he intercepted 10 passes in that last season.

The following year he transferred to San Diego State, where he promptly was injured in the team’s second game and was redshirted. After shaking all the injuries he became one of the top defensive backs in the county this season.

That was proved by the fact that he was selected to play in three post season all-star contests. In addition to the Gold Bowl, he was showcased in the Blue-Gray game in Montgomery, Ala. and the East-West Shrine Game in Palo Alto. In the first two contests, Dean gained support from scouts around the country as he was named the runner-up for top defensive player honors.

“The one thing I’ve gotten from playing in all three games is a lot of experience,” said the 5-11, 185-pounder from Los Angeles, who was a first team Western Athletic Conference cornerback. “Also I felt I played pretty good in all the games, and when you play good it gets your confidence up.”

During the beginning of the season the Aztecs confidence level was sky high. They won their first four games, including an upset over highly rated Iowa State. Things went drastically downhill from there. They proceeded to lose five of their last seven games to finish 6-5.

“The season went about how I expected,” said Dean after playing most of the Gold Bowl. “It was coach (Doug) Scovil’s first year, and we started out hot, but it finished about the way I thought it would.”

Dean feels like Herbert in response to playing in the first Gold Bowl. “It was a lot of fun to play in it, especially in front of a home crowd,” he said. “But I look at it as just another game, it’s no different from any of the others.” He said each of the post season games has helped him. “Each game I’ve had more confidence when I went out into the field.”

He’s gained more than confidence during the last three games. He’s gotten the attention of pro scouts, many who rate him as one of the top cornerbacks coming out of college. As far as the draft goes, Dean says he can’t worry about it anymore.

“There really isn’t any thing else I can do,” he said.
San Francisco Riddles Toreros 72-53

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

Last week, in a winning effort at Loyola-Marymount, the University of San Diego turned the ball over but six times in the course of a game.

Last night, against much tougher opposition, the Toreros turned the ball over 18 times — including one stretch of four straight times down floor.

The result was inevitable.

Nationally-ranked (9th) University of San Francisco routed USD 72-53 before a capacity turnout of 2,600 fans at the USD Sports Center.

"This was not as much them as us," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli, to which USF All-America guard Quintin Dailey agreed. "We made them turn the ball over in all the key situations. We were worried, but they couldn't get on top."

That summed it up perfectly. Although 7-footer Wallace Bryant went 10-for-14 inside to score 23 points and Dailey hit for 20, it was more a case of USD's self-destruction.

Last night, against much tougher opposition, the Toreros turned the ball over 18 times — including one stretch of four straight times down floor.

The result was inevitable.

Nationally-ranked (9th) University of San Francisco routed USD 72-53 before a capacity turnout of 2,600 fans at the USD Sports Center.

"This was not as much them as us," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli, to which USF All-America guard Quintin Dailey agreed. "We made them turn the ball over in all the key situations. We were worried, but they couldn't get on top."

USD Loses Poise, 72-53 Decision To Dons

(Continued from C-1)

Taller than USD per position and attacked the ball much the same way USD does. Others were just passes that wound up in the stands.

"We lost our poise," said Brovelli. "That's why we went into that drought period. We were over-anxious. We tried to force things that weren't there instead of waiting for them to open to us."

"As long as we controlled the tempo, we were fine. We could have won this game."

USD proved that with a similar lapse in the first half.

After Dave Heppell's second quick basket put USD up at 6-4, the Toreros scored no points but committed six fouls and three turnovers over the next five minutes. It was 15-6 USF by the time Rusty Whitmarsh hit an 18-foot bomb.

From that deficit, however, the Toreros rallied, chased to within two just after the start of the second half and twice were playing for a tie when they coughed the ball up.

"I felt we were not playing well early, but we settled into our game, were doing well and then we lost it," said Brovelli.

"Emotionally, we don't get up for every game and I thought we were lacking something tonight," said Dailey. "You should have heard coach (Peter Barry) at halftime. He wasn't very happy at all."
TOREROS USE DELAY, FREE THROWS TO WHIP LOYOLA 58-51

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

LOS ANGELES - Jim Brovelli entered the basketball season with no false hopes for his University of San Diego club. The Toreros just don't have the manpower to challenge for the West Coast Athletic Association title.

"But I believe we're going to be in a position to win games," Brovelli said last night. "We have been. The trouble was we had not been doing the things at the end to win the games we were in."

Last night the Toreros were in a game at the end. And last night they did all the things necessary to win - beating Loyola-Marymount 58-51.

The Toreros won by effectively running a delay game that nearly killed the clock, playing sound defense, seldom turning the ball over and - most importantly - hitting six straight free throws in the final 16 seconds.

"We took charge of this game," said Brovelli of his club's first WCAC triumph. "Let's face it," said Torero center Steve Rocha, "we're not going to overpower anyone on offense. We've got to play sound defense and minimize our mistakes. And we did it."

"We wanted that game," said guard Rusty Whitemarsh, who overcame a shooting slump of monumental proportions to make the decisive defensive play of the game.

USD, now 8-7 overall, also altered its lineup last night. At one point, both centers, Rocha and Dave Heppell were in the game. Another time, Brovelli employed four front-liners - Rocha, Jones, Robby Roberts and Capener - and a single guard, Rich Davis. Jim Bateman and Capener also started for Jones and Roberts.

"If parts of our game hadn't failed us, we could be 30 right now," said Brovelli. Last night, however, Prunty, Gerald Jones and Don Capener came through.

USD moves into tougher competition tonight at Pepperdine. The Waves, 94-91 overtime winners over St. Mary's last night, lead the WCAC at 3-0 and are 10-6 overall.

Aft \...
Waves Roll In Second Half, Trim Toreros 80-69

By BILL CENTER

MALIBU — At the end, it was a bit of a laugher — final score: Pepperdine 80, University of San Diego 69.

The score, however, was not indicative of the game.

Playing some of their finest basketball of the season, the Toreros last night had West Coast Athletic Conference leader Pepperdine on the ropes.

The Waves, behind the shooting of all-WCAC guard Boot Bond, three consecutive USD turnovers early in the second half and two questionable non-calls, put out an impressive second-half spurt to lead by as many as 17 en route to a fourth straight WCAC victory.

“We played well both ways,” USD Coach Jim Brovelli said after the Toreros fell to 8-8 overall and 1-3 in WCAC play.

“We concentrated on doing two things tonight ... stopping their transition game and staying even on the boards. Darn, I thought we played well.”

The Toreros did, too — except for two brief spells.

After trailing by one at halftime, USD turned the ball over its first three possessions of the second half and was down by seven at 40-33 before the visitor scored its first points at the 17:09 mark.

Then, while down by eight and rallying midway through the second half, the Toreros gave up two layups during which Toreros Rusty Whitmarsh and Don Capener were driven to the floor without a whistle sounding either way.

Brovelli thought both plays were clearly charges against Pepperdine.

“The turnovers at the start of the second half gave Pepperdine its first opportunity to get up by more than a basket,” Brovelli said. “And the calls not made on the charges allowed them to break it open.”

(Continued on B-14, Col. 2)

USD Impressive Despite Loss

Throughout the first half, USD, sticking to its disciplined game, stayed with a Pepperdine club that a week ago had run over No. 6-ranked San Francisco 102-92. Pepperdine is 16-1 at home, 11-6 overall and 4-0 in the WCAC to stay one step ahead of USF and Gonzaga.

In fact, the largest lead of the first half was held by USD, and, after Whitmarsh split Pepperdine's interior for a driving layin, the Toreros were shooting for a 31-25 advantage.

The shot was a layin. But instead of falling, it kicked out.

Pepperdine scored the other end and moments later took a 32-31 lead.

In the second half, the Waves turned the offense over to Bond. Getting the best of every bounce, Bond hit 14 of 20 shots from the floor and finished with 29 points — 18 in the second half.

The Toreros did get some strong games out of their east.

Point guard Rich Davis hit 7 of 13 shots from the floor, scored a season-high 13 points and made three key first-half steals that ignited a USD sport. And 6-8 center Dave Rocha came off the bench for 15 points.
Torreros battle powerful USF

The University of San Diego hoopsters will take on nationally-ranked University of San Francisco and Santa Clara in West Coast Athletic Conference action this week. USD, rated 11th by the Associated Press, plays at the USD Sports Center tomorrow, while the Broncos visit Alcala Park on Saturday. Both games begin at 7:35 p.m.

USD has a 17-2 record and is 3-1 in the WCAC. The Dons have yet to lose to USD, but the Toreros have always played well against USD, especially at home. San Francisco is led by All-American guard Quintin Dailey, who is averaging 24.1 points and 5.6 rebounds. The other probable starters for USD include guard Ken McAllister (11.5 ppg-4.6 rpg), forward John Hegwood (14.6 ppg-9.0 rpg), forward John Martens (4.1 ppg), and center Wallace Bryant (14.6 ppg-11.3 rpg).

Santa Clara comes to USD with a 10-7 record and 1-3 in the conference. The Broncos and Toreros have staged many exciting contests in the past. Santa Clara's probable starters for this game will be Derryl Williams (11.9 ppg-3.9 rpg) and Harold Keeling (6.0 ppg-1.1 rpg) at the guards, Gary Hopkins (10.4 ppg-4.5 rpg) and Scott Lanson (5.4 ppg-3.9 rpg), at forward Michael Norman, averaging 10.2 points and 4.4 rebounds, at center.

The Toreros have a record of 8-8 on the year and 1-3 in the WCAC. In action last week USD beat Loyola Marymount 58-51 on Friday night, but lost to Pepperdine 80-69 in a close game until the Waves made a sudden burst with just four minutes left on the clock.

Guard Rusty Whitmarsh is still leading the team in scoring, averaging 10.9 points per game, but the player who has been playing well in WCAC action has been Steve Rocha. Rocha, a 6-8 center, is averaging 13.3 points to hike his scoring average on the season to 6.4.

Point guard Rich Davis scored a season high 15 points against Pepperdine and is averaging 5.7 on the year. Forward Robby Roberts is leading the Toreros in rebounding averaging 6.1, and is also adding 5.7 points.

West Coast Athletic Conference action has been fierce with Pepperdine remaining the only undefeated team with a record of 4-0. USF and Gonzaga are tied for second place at 3-1, while everyone else has at least one win under their belt.

USD Home To Santa Clara Five

With a tough three-game road trip dominating the next two weekends, the University of San Diego will be looking for its first home victory of the West Coast Athletic Conference season tonight when the Toreros host Santa Clara at 7:35 in the USD Sports Center.

The 1-4 Toreros (8-9 overall) play consecutive games at St. Mary's, at Santa Clara and at the University of San Francisco after tonight's engagement with a club predicted in the preseason to finish in the WCAC's first division.

Santa Clara last weekend lost two games while playing without leading scorer Bill Duffy (17.5 points per game). The 6-foot-4 guard has been troubled by an injured thumb — one of three Broncos to be sidelined this season with injuries.
USD Can 'Turn Corner' Vs. USF

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

To Jim Brovelli, the University of San Francisco represents much of what he loves about basketball — and much of what, as the head coach of the University of San Diego, he’s up against.

“The green-and-gold, the Dons,” he says. “I have my roots in San Francisco, friends, memories. I used to listen to USF games as far back as I can remember ... to the Bill Russell teams.”

There was great basketball in the Bay Area in those years. USF was winning consecutive NCAA titles — to be followed by the Golden Bears of California.

Jim Brovelli matured amid the excitement. He grew to love the game and practice it with skill.

Brovelli grew up in the Sunset District across Golden Gate Park from USF. The Dons practiced at the high school he attended, St. Ignatius. He became an all-city player and, naturally, enrolled at USF. He helped the Dons win back-to-back West Coast Athletic Conference titles and was voted all-West Coast in the 1963-64 season.

He launched his coaching career as a USF graduate assistant in 1964.

Now he’d like to do nothing more than beat the Dons. Just once. Tonight, at 7:30 in the USD Sports Center. USF (17-2) is the nation’s ninth- or 12th-ranked team, depending on the poll you follow, and is tied for second in the WCAC.

The Toreros are 8-8 and 1-3 in the WCAC, and have a program that could turn the corner with a victory over USF.

“One of these years, it would be nice to beat them,” says Brovelli in talking about a USF team with a legitimate All-American in guard Quintin Dailey (24.1 scoring average) and a 7-footer in Wallace Bryant (14.6 points, 11.3 rebounds).

“You’re not really an equal with programs like USF until you’ve beaten them,” he says. “It’s a corner that has to be turned.

“We can beat them. It will take a lot ... a maximum effort for 40 minutes.”

Certainly, the Toreros do not match up well on paper. USF has four players scoring in double figures — Dailey (24.1), Bryant (14.6 and 11.3 rebounds), John Hegwood (14.6 and 9.0 rebounds) and Ken McAlister (11.5).

USD has one, barely, in guard Rusty Whitmarsh who is still at 10.9 despite a prolonged shooting slump; although 6-8 workaholic center Steve Rocha is averaging 13.3 points in four WCAC efforts.

San Diego 78, Santa Clara 68—Guard Rich Davis scored 17 points and forward Jim Bateman added 16 to lead the Toreros at San Diego.

Forward Derryl Williams led Santa Clara with 24 points.

At the University of San Diego, even though the Toreros won one of two West Coast Athletic Association basketball games last weekend, it had to be considered a successful trip for Coach Jim Brovelli’s crew.

The Toreros handled Loyola Marymount, 58-51, before bowing to powerful Pepperdine, a surprise 102-92 winner over highly-rated USF earlier in the week. Pepperdine, the defending WCAC co-champion with USF, finally prevailed, 60-68, leaving USD with a 1-3 conference record and 8-8 season’s mark.
SAN DIEGO—With All-American guard Quintin Dailey attracting much of the notice, there is a large oversight on the University of San Francisco basketball team, the proportions of which are 7-0 and 245 pounds.

He's senior center Wallace Bryant, who used his talents along with his size to score a game-high of 23 points Thursday night in a 72-53 victory over the University of San Diego.

"Quintin deserves the credit, but I do think there are times when everyone thinks about one player instead of all of the USF Dons," Bryant said. "Still, that's cool. I'd rather be unsung. Let them expect a lot from Quintin, and I'll blow it apart."

The attraction of USF, ranked ninth nationally in the AP poll and 12th by UPI, brought a standing room-only, crowd of 2,650 to the USD Sports Center. The total represented about 10 times more than the usual gathering at Torero games in 1982.

By Bryant's account, the Dons are even better than the ratings indicate. He's aiming for the finals of the NCAA tournament.

"We've come up with a motto—San Francisco, the City of Winners," he said. "If the 49ers can do it, so can we."

The Dons raised their record to 18-2 overall and 4-1 in the West Coast Athletic Conference by downing the USD squad that is now 8-9 and 1-4.

Despite their differences in the standings, though, USD had its moments Thursday against the national power, including a stint using four reserves over a 10-minute span in the first half.

The problem for the Toreros was that the players off the bench inherited a 15-6 deficit with 14:13 remaining before halftime. It was a distressing moment for them because the starters had committed all six of the game's turnovers to that point and had already put USF in the bonus free throw situation.

Yet, after Don Capener and Gerald Jones entered the contest, USD quickly became competitive. Rusty Whitmarsh sandwiched two baskets around a hoop by Capener to bring the Toreros within three points.

John Prunty and Steve Rocha completed the group of substitutes, who were mainly responsible for keeping the Toreros close. They came within four points of USF on seven occasions and ended with a 30-26 disadvantage at the intermission.

"I really don't know what it is that accounts for the reserves coming in and doing so well," Jones said. "I guess it's just the combinations (of players) that we got. Some seem to do better than others at times."

The switching of players closely resembled the Toreros' last home appearance three games previously when juggling the lineup put them back in the game. However, at that time, Jones had gone from starter to sitter.

Jones responded against the Dons to lead his team with 12 points and a game-high 9 rebounds.

"We lost our composure and poise," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli. "I don't know if we could've won, but we couldn't afford our mistakes against such a good team. We were just overanxious and tried to rush the ball."
Toreros take on a big challenge

The University of San Diego Toreros face a heady challenge tonight when the highly-ranked University of San Francisco Dons invade Alcala Park at 7:35.

USF is ranked No. 9 in the nation on the Associated Press poll and No. 12 by United Press International. The Dons' seasonal record is 17-2. The Toreros, meanwhile, are 8-8, and have only one win in the West Coast Athletic Conference against three defeats.

"One of these days it would be nice to beat them," USD Coach Jim Brovelli said.

USF is led by its All-America candidate Quintin Daily, who is averaging 24.1 points a game, but the Dons also have a seven-footer in Wallace Bryant, who is averaging 14.6 points a game along with 11.3 rebounds.

USD has only one player — Rusty Whitmarsh — scoring in double figures and that just barely at 10.9 per game.

USD records basketball win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The University of San Diego made six out of six free throws in the last 16 seconds to beat Loyola-Marymount 58-51 in a West Coast Athletic Conference game Friday night.

WAVES SINK USD/ Guard Boot Bond scored 29 points Saturday night, leading Pepperdine to an 80-69 West Coast Athletic Conference basketball victory over the University of San Diego. Rich Davis and reserve Steve Rocha led San Diego, which fell to 1-3 in conference action and 8-8 on the season, with 15 points each. The Waves are now 4-0 in WCAC play and 11-6 overall. San Diego held a 31-27 late in the first half, but Pepperdine scored seven of the final nine points of the half to take a 34-33 advantage at the intermission. The Waves scored the first six points of the second half and weren't threatened seriously after that. Pepperdine led 80-63 before San Diego tallied the game's final six points. The Toreros return home Thursday night, hosting powerhouse University of San Francisco at 7:35 at the USD Sports Center.

TOREROS WIN, CRUSADERS LOSCE — The University of San Diego Toreros successfully employed the stall last night to squeeze past the Loyola-Marymount Lions 58-51 in the losers' gym.

Meanwhile, in La Mirada, Point Loma's Crusaders were going down to defeat at the hands of Biola College 70-51.

For the Toreros, Don Capener was the leading scorer with 14. Capener also had 5 rebounds. Steve Rocha helped out with 11 points and a couple of steals.
USD Defeats Northern Arizona

The University of San Diego defeated Northern Arizona, 69-64, in a college basketball game Saturday night at Flagstaff, Ariz.

USD Aims For First WCAC Victory

The University of San Diego faces an important task tonight — to win its first West Coast Athletic Conference game when it opposes Loyola-Marymount at Los Angeles. The Toreros are 7-7 overall and 0-2 in WCAC competition and the Lions are 0-2 and 2-13 overall.

TOREROS TACKLE LIONS — The University of San Diego Toreros will be out to win their first West Coast Athletic Conference game when they go up against the Loyola-Marymount Lions tonight in Los Angeles at 7:30. The Toreros are 7-7 overall and 0-2 in WCAC competition. The Lions are also 0-2 in the conference and 1-13 overall. USD plays Pepperdine University Saturday night at 7:30.

USD LOSES/ Bill Dunlap scored 27 points to lead visiting Gonzaga University to a 70-61 victory over the University of San Diego Thursday in the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball season-opener for both teams. Gerald Jones and Steve Rocha led San Diego, which fell to 7-6, with 12 points each. Torero Rusty Whitmarsh was held to a season-low six points. Gonzaga outscored the Toreros, 22-10, in the final eight minutes. The Toreros will host Portland University Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the USD Sports Center.

Toreros gear for busy week at home

University of San Diego opens a busy week tonight when it meets leading Southern independent, Southeastern Louisiana, at 7:35 in the USD Sports Center. It's the first of three games this week winding up the Toreros' pre-West Coast Conference basketball schedule.

The Toreros, 5-4 after a 69-64 victory at Northern Arizona Saturday, will be home Wednesday to Fresno Pacific and Saturday to Nebraska Wesleyan.
By Jerry Froide
Tribune Sportswriter

At an age when most athletes have enough trouble worrying about what they are going to do today let alone tomorrow, Quintin Dailey is already thinking about what he wants to do 10 or 15 years from now.

The 21-year-old University of San Francisco All-America candidate, who is regarded by many as the premier guard in college basketball, has the future neatly mapped out in his head. He can see himself following the road that leads to a career in the National Basketball Association. But it's what lies beyond that, after his playing days are over, that he visualizes as his ultimate goal in life.

"I want to come back and coach basketball one day at USF," said Dailey last night after he and 7-foot center Wallace Bryant led the Dons to a 72-53 victory over the University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference encounter before an overflow crowd of 2,600 at USD's Sports Center.

"That's my real dream. Basketball is something you play when you're young. But when it is time to give it up, I'm going to come back and coach. Coach (Pete) Barry has told me there will be a job waiting for me (at USF) for the next 10 years."

Dailey is already a coach in his own youthful way. The 6-3 junior, with the picture-perfect jumper and ability to play inside as well as outside, is the leader on the court for the high-powered Dons, who are ranked ninth in the nation, depending on which poll you follow.

He scored 20 points (slightly below his season average of 24.3), and Bryant led all scorers with 23 as USD overcame a scrappy, but outmanned bunch of Toreros.

"Coach (Pete) Barry has told me there will be a job waiting for me (at USF) for the next 10 years."

— Quintin Dailey

USD trailed just 38-34 early in the second half, but fell victim to a rash of turnovers that made for the lopsided final result. USD turned the ball over 18 times in all, including four successive times during one stretch of the game.

"Things just fell apart there in the second half," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli, whose club next takes on Santa

"Coach (Pete) Barry has told me there will be a job waiting for me (at USF) for the next 10 years."

Clara tomorrow night at 7:30 at USD. "We seemed to lose our poise and started turning the ball over."

The Dons upped their record to 4-1 in conference play and 18-2 overall, while the Toreros, who were led by Gerald Jones with 12 points and Rusty Whitmarsh and Jim Bateman with 10 apiece, slipped to 1-4 and 8-9.

Although disappointed by his own team's effort, Brovelli wasn't surprised by the play of Dailey. He knows all about Dailey from previous conference games and offered these impressions of the USF standout.

"To me, Quintin Dailey is a bona fide All-American," said Brovelli. "The guy is quick, handles the ball well, is a great passer and can get you the big basket when you need it. I think he is just a great player and will become a great guard in the NBA."

Much of Dailey's success on the basketball court can be attributed to his maturity, which was speeded up by a personal tragedy that saw both his parents die within a month when he was 15 years old and a sophomore at Cardinal Gibbons High in Baltimore, Md.

"I was brought up by my aunt for one year and then, after we had some problems, I went to stay at my girlfriend's mother's house," said Dailey, who holds the Maryland prep career-scoring record of 2,884 points. "I stayed there until I went to college."

"I learned a lot in a little bit of time during those years. I got wiser and learned there's more to life than meets the eye. I think I'm a step ahead of most players my age. If I make a turnover, that's a turnover. You got to handle it and go the next step instead of dwelling on it."

"It's this kind of attitude that enabled Dailey to quickly put aside his disappointment at being ignored by the All-America selectors last season after leading USF to a 24-7 record and being voted the most valuable player in the WCAC."

"We'd love to have Quintin play his senior year," Barry was recently quoted as saying, "but the money is in the NBA and it would be unrealistic to think he'd stay. Whatever happens, I know he'll do the right thing. Quintin knows how to handle all situations. He's a very mature young man."

"I looked at my stats and looked at other people's stats and they weren't half as good as mine. But, as a player, you just accept it and go out and play hard every game and hope you get the recognition."

The recognition may be a little overdue, but it is coming fast now. Dailey is a cinch to become a unanimous All-America choice this season and says he has not ruled out the idea of leaving school early to turn pro.

"I want to come back and coach basketball one day at USF," said Dailey last night after he and 7-foot center Wallace Bryant led the Dons to a 72-53 victory over the University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference encounter before an overflow crowd of 2,600 at USD's Sports Center.

"That's my real dream. Basketball is something you play when you're young. But when it is time to give it up, I'm going to come back and coach. Coach (Pete) Barry has told me there will be a job waiting for me (at USF) for the next 10 years."

UP AND IN — Guard Quintin Dailey puts up a jump shot for two points in University of San Francisco's 72-53 win here last night over University of San Diego. The Dons' All-America candidate scored 20 points. — Photo by John Gibbins
By Jerry Tribune Sporo

At an worrying tomorrow
he wants

The 21-y
ca candid guard in cc out in his h
He can s career in what lies t
that he visu

"I want t
USF," said
Wallace Bry

University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference encounter before an overflow crowd of 2,650 at USD's Sports Center.

"That's my real dream. Basketball is something you play when you're young. But when it is time to give it up, I'm going to come back and coach. Coach (Pete) Barry has told me there will be a job waiting for me (at USF) for the next 10 years."

Dailey is already a coach of sorts. The 6-3 junior, with the picture-perfect jumper and ability to play inside as well as outside, is the leader on the court for the high-powered Dons, who are ranked ninth or 12th in the nation, depending on which poll you follow.

He scored 20 points (slightly below his seasonal average of 24.2), and Bryant led all scorers with 23 as USF overcame a scrappy, but outmanned bunch of Toreros.

Ciera tomorrow night at 7:35 at USD. "We seemed to lose our poise and started turning the ball over."

The Dons upped their record to 4-1 in conference play and 18-2 overall, while the Toreros, who were led by Gerald Jones with 12 points and Rusty Whitmarsh and Jim Bateman with 10 apiece, slipped to 1-4 and 8-9.

Although disappointed by his own team's efforts, Brovelli wasn't surprised by the play of Dailey. He knows all about Dailey from previous conference games and offered these impressions of the USF standout.

"To me, Quintin Dailey is a bona fide All-American," said Brovelli. "The guy is quick, handles the ball well, is a great passer and can get you the big basket when you need it. I think he is just a great player and will become a great guard in the NBA."

Much of Dailey's success on the basketball court can be attributed to his maturity, which was speeded up by a personal tragedy that saw both his parents die within a month when he was 15 years old and a sophomore at Cardinal Gibbons High in Baltimore, Md.

"I was brought up by my aunt for one year and then, after we had some problems, I went to stay at my girlfriend's mother's house," said Dailey, who holds the Mary-

UP AND IN — Guard Quintin Dailey puts up a jump shot for two points in University of San Francisco's 72-53 win here last night over University of San Diego. The Dons' All-America candidate scored 20 points. — Photo by John Gibbins
Prep Notes

Warren's tenure at Orange Glen post was awfully short

By Terry Monahan
The Times-Advocate

Art Warren, it turns out, is NOT the new baseball coach at Orange Glen High School after all. Instead, Jerry Meyer, who was scheduled to guide the Patriots for one more year before turning over the reins to Warren, has the program all to himself, again.

Warren, who is a teacher at Hidden Valley Middle School, was a successful varsity basketball coach at San Pasqual before stepping down at the end of last season. Part of Warren's dilemma centers around "I just couldn't give coaching my fullest concentra tion because of school," Warren said. "Coaching is not my No. 1 priority at the moment. There are just too many roadblocks."

Warren also has about 30 weeks to go before he has the degree. "That seems like such a long way to go," Warren said. "I'll put me in the average grouping when the teachers here at Hidden Valley get a new contract."

The thinking behind hiring Warren as the new Orange Glen coach for two years hence was that he was already an above average baseball coach. Additionally, Meyer was unsure he wanted to coach past this season.

Orange Glen's administration, however, moved too quickly on the appointment and failed to find suitable funding for a new coach.

Trent Annicharico

Gives up football for classes to find out if Sean Salisbury was actually on the campus at Brigham Young over the weekend.

"Is he transferring to BYU?" Harmon asked.

Yes, Salisbury was on campus, not for football but for a dance. His older brother, Curtis, got married Saturday in Provo and the family attended the ceremony.

Then Sean went back to classes at USC where he was ser viced at the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Word has it that the only stumbling block is Hall. Bell wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

It didn't take long for someone to step forward and sponsor the contract. Bell still wants it. But if Don't Bell, then Hall wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Football will take a back seat to academics

from now on for former Ramona quarterback Trent Annicharico.

The 6-foot-1 Annicharico has received a partial scholarship for school work after spending the past football season as a reserve at the University of Pacific.

"He knows his future is not in football and just wants to put all of his emphasis where it will count," said Annicharico's former Ramona coach Jack Menotti.

Dick Harmon, a wire writer for the Daily Herald in Provo, Utah, died frantically Monday trying to get word out of USC that "I guess they didn't really want me," said Warren. "I never heard word one from Orange Glen and I'm only two blocks away."

Coaching, even at Orange Glen, is not out of the question for Warren, though. It's just out for now. In place of not coaching Orange Glen this spring, Warren will spend his Friday afternoons umpiring around the North County. College coaches in San Diego consider Warren as one of the best umps in San Diego.

Football will take a back seat to academics

Football will take a back seat to academics from now on for former Ramona quarterback Trent Annicharico.

The 6-foot-1 Annicharico has received a partial scholar ship for school work after spending the past football season as a reserve at the University of Pacific.

"He knows his future is not in football and just wants to put all of his emphasis where it will count," said Annicharico's former Ramona coach Jack Menotti.

Dick Harmon, a wire writer for the Daily Herald in Provo, Utah, died frantically Monday trying to find out if Sean Salisbury was actually on the campus at Brigham Young over the weekend.

"Is he transferring to BYU?" Harmon asked.

Yes, Salisbury was on campus, not for football but for a dance. His older brother, Curtis, got married Saturday in Provo and the family attended the ceremony.

Then Sean went back to classes at USC where one rumor has it he will be handed the No. 1 quarterback job from incumbent John Mazur by Coach John Robinson and another has Robinson pondering alternating quarterbacks next year.

Upd ating the recruiting chase, four performers from Mt. Carmel are being pursued. Wade Lindenberger, a bit undersized in the offensive line at 5-10, 185-pounds, is enrolled at the University of San Diego for next season and another Sundevils blocker, Butch Bold, a 6-1, 212-pounder, is awaiting word from USD.

If USD doesn't come through, Bold will enroll at Palomar College.

Two of the Sundevils' wide receivers are joining Dave Moore and Dan Frahm on the exclusive prep list, which numbers just 64 performers at the moment.

Three other North County shooters are closing in on 1,000 points, but they'll have to finish with a rush and include some extra games in the CIF playoffs to make it.

Fallbrook's Domonque Johnson has 814, El Camino's James Wilson is at 764 and Orange Glen's Jim Daily has 739.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Word has it that the only stumbling block is Hall. Bell wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

It didn't take long for someone to step forward and sponsor the contract. Bell still wants it. But if Don't Bell, then Hall wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Word has it that the only stumbling block is Hall. Bell wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

It didn't take long for someone to step forward and sponsor the contract. Bell still wants it. But if Don't Bell, then Hall wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Word has it that the only stumbling block is Hall. Bell wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

It didn't take long for someone to step forward and sponsor the contract. Bell still wants it. But if Don't Bell, then Hall wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.

Word has it that the only stumbling block is Hall. Bell wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

It didn't take long for someone to step forward and sponsor the contract. Bell still wants it. But if Don't Bell, then Hall wouldn't be allowed to bring any of his San Diego assistant coaches with him.

The rumor from the coast is that Craig Bell, the head football coach at San Diego, can have the Oceanide post vacated by Chuck Hall if he wants it.
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Center Wallace Bryant and guard Quintin Dailey combined for 43 points Thursday night, leading ninth-ranked San Francisco to a convincing 72-53 West Coast Athletic Conference basketball victory over the University of San Diego.

Bryant scored 23 points and Dailey added 20 for the Dons, who raised their WCAC record to 4-1 and their overall mark to 16-2.

Forward Gerald Jones paced San Diego with 12 points and a game-high nine rebounds. Guard Rusty Whitmarsh and reserve forward Jim Bateman added 10 points each for the Toreros, who fell to 1-4 in league action and 8-8 on the season.

San Diego led, 6-4, early in the game, but the Dons rattled off 11 straight points to go ahead 15-6 and stay ahead the rest of the way.

The Toreros narrowed the gap to 39-36 at halftime and was 44-36 early in the second half, however San Diego went scoreless for six straight minutes while the Dons tallied 11 unanswered points during that span, making it 55-36.

San Francisco connected on 53.0 percent of its field goal attempts to only 38.0 percent for San Diego. The Toreros outrebounded the Dons 33-32, but had 18 turnovers to only six for USF.
A Big Half by Bateman Paces Toreros, 78-68

By GLAETHIEN, Times Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—Being slightly worn out worked to Jim Bateman’s advantage as he helped the University of San Diego secure a comeback victory, 78-68, over Santa Clara in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game Saturday night.

Bateman scored all of his 16 points in the second half, including an 8-for-14 showing from the free-throw line that surprised even him. “Those were the most free throws that I’ve taken in my two years here,” said Bateman, a 6-5 forward who entered the game with a .500 accuracy average from the line. “I really thought I did worse than the totals show tonight. But, I wasn’t nervous because I was too tired. I just tried to think the ball into the basket.”

Bateman’s most important shot came with 2:01 remaining when he hit the first attempt in the bonus situation. A miss on the second try even worked to the Toreros’ advantage after Rusty Whitmarsh pulled in the rebound and then sank a basket to put USD ahead, 70-62.

It represented a twist in fortunes for Santa Clara since Michael Norman had just previously failed on two free-throw attempts.

The Broncos had held their biggest margin of the game, 46-37, with 14:24 to play, but USD overcame them with 17-for-26 shooting from the field (65%) during the second half.

“Since we’ve been playing in the conference, we’ve been getting about the same type of shots,” USD Coach Jim Brovelli said. “The difference was that they started going in tonight. I thought the second half as fine as we’ve played all season. The defense was particularly good, plus we got those shots to go and the free throws when we needed them.”

USD improved its record to 2-4 in the WCAC and 9-9 overall, while Santa Clara dropped to 3-3 and 11-8.

Brovelli used a different starting lineup for the third time in the league season. This one was the shortest unit of the year for the Toreros as Bateman inherited the center spot at the outset.

“It was the shortest, but also the most mobile,” said the coach.

Dave Heppell, who usually opens in the middle, provided the team with a lift when he entered the game and hit on three straight shots, twice from long range. His third basket marked the beginning of a 7-of-8 spurt over the last 7½ minutes of the first half.

After trailing, 16-10, margin at the start of the spree, USD came back to tie the score, 23-23, before settling for a 33-29 deficit at halftime.

Early success with outside shooting during the second half eventually opened the Torero inside game and Bateman, especially, went to work.

“I think we wanted it more than they did,” he said. “Once we got the lead, we weren’t going to let go.”

Bateman put USD on top to stay, 51-50, on a basket off a pass by Whitmarsh with 9:33 remaining.

Guard Rich Davis, in a reserve role, also sparked the USD attack with 17 points. Darryl Williams led the Broncos with 24.
Bateman Moves To Center, Sparks 78-68 USD Victory

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

At 6-foot-5, Jim Bateman looked a bit haggard last night as he started his first game at center for the University of San Diego.

Things didn't quickly improve, either, as he drew three quick fouls and sat down without scoring a point in the first half.

By the time the game was over, however, the one-time walkon from Saddleback College had turned in his best game ever.

Bateman scored 16 points in the second half and USD snapped out of a prolonged shooting slump to rally for a 78-68 victory over the University of Santa Clara at the USD Sports Center.

"Bateman gave us an absolutely great effort," Coach Jim Brovelli said after his Toreros had come back from deficits of 10 (in the first half) and nine (in the second) points.

"Overall, that second half was our best basketball of the season."

"Since we started the conference games we have not been shooting well. Tonight the shots fell."

They rained in the second half as the Toreros, spearheaded by Bateman, hit from all sectors while running up 49 points.

They even broke out for a trio of fast-break baskets, a rare commodity in USD's always disciplined attack.

And leading the charge was Bateman, who was not even a starter in junior college.

"I was loose and I decided to go," he said. "We played a lot of tough defense. Once the shots started falling, we were okay."

Bateman and point guard Rich Davis — who scored 12 of his season-high 17 in the second half — hit the baskets that got USD moving after the Toreros had fallen back by a 42-33 count in the second half's opening minutes.

And it was Bateman who put USD up to stay at 51-50 with a power move inside with 9:59 to go. That shot, however, was sandwiched between two Don Capener baskets that brought the partisans to their feet and forced Santa Clara to call the first of three quick timeouts that failed to stem the USD rally. Capener's first basket was a slam. The second was a 15-foot line drive that put USD ahead by three.

The lead grew as Santa Clara took to fouling. Bateman hit 8-of-14 foul shots down the stretch, Davis four in a row.

"You can go right down the line and credit everyone," said Brovelli, meaning players like Davis ("his best game yet") and 6-8 Dave Heppell.

A 50 percent-plus shooter throughout his career from distances that give most centers nosebleed, Heppell had gone 7-for-27 in USD's 1-4 West Coast Athletic Association start. Last night he buried six of his seven shots and scored 13 points.

Likewise guard Rusty Whitmarsh, whose 59 percent pre-WCAC percentage had melted in a 10-for-42 run, downed 4-of-8 tries and finished with 10 points.

USD shot 62 percent from the floor, cut its turnovers down to seven and improved to 9-9 overall and 2-4 in the WCAC. Santa Clara, which got 24 from swingman Derryl Williams and 18 from forward Michael Norman in the absence of leading scorer Billy Duffy (broken thumb) slipped 11-8 and 2-4.

"We got baskets off a lot of things we weren't getting baskets off of before," said Whitmarsh.

"We got good shots before but nothing was falling," said Davis. "Tonight we had it under control. And the shots were falling."
But baseball club returns good nucleus

USD Toreros must endure loss of key personnel

Last season the University of San Diego finished 30-25-1, and with its best Southern California Baseball Association record to date, 15-21-1. The Toreros have never finished below .500 in their three years in the SCBA, but will have to overcome the loss of several key personnel if they are to repeat.

Gone are all-league catcher Bill Pinkham (drafted in the second round by Toronto), all-league outfielder Bart Brainard (drafted by Milwaukee), and jack-of-all-trades Jamie McDonald.

A good nucleus returns for Coach John Cunningham, including fifteen lettermen, four starters, and two starting pitchers. Starters returning include all-league second baseman Bruce Tomlinson (.323), first baseman Andy Asaro (.300), rightfielder John Mullen (.335), and centerfielder Doug Paul (.205). Pitchers Tom Tereschuk (9-6) and Al Brehm (6-3) return to the starting rotation.

Infielders Andre Jacas (.250) and Martin Harris (.300), who broke his leg on third of the way into the 1981 season, will be moving to the outfield to take advantage of their speed. Also returning from last year will be catcher Paul Lofgren (.333), outfielder Mark Chapman and infielder Vince Anthony (.277).

Joining Lofgren at catcher will be junior college transfers Steve Sciacca (Fullerton) and Luke Maiberger (Foothill). Freshmen Paul Van Stone and Lacy Nagypal, a Serra High graduate, look like probably starters at shortstop and third base respectively.

Pitching was not one of the strengths last year, but Eric Gaylord, Kevin Cannam, Glen Godwin and Chris Ciampa return along with ex-outfielder Scott Williams to add experience to the squad. Three freshmen will also join the staff, including Joe Boyd, John Rule and Bob Cannady.

Cunningham on his 1982 squad:

"Although we haven't had any "game" experience to date (and the bad weather may prevent any pre-season scrimmage) I have a good feeling about our 1982 version of the Toreros. They have worked hard in the early practice sessions and everybody seems to get along well with each other.

"We have some key positions being filled by new people but I have been most pleased with the work of several of our vets, especially Andy Asaro and Doug Paul. Andy has been hitting well in practice and will hopefully regain his freshman form when he was one of the SCBA's best hitters. Doug Paul also struggled at the plate last year but he has been hitting some 'frozen ropes' in practice. Both seniors, Andy and Doug are among the best in the league defensively at their respective positions and if their hitting holds up it could give us a tremendous boost.

"All-league selection Bruce Tomlinson is returning at second base and looks very good again. John Mullen, one of our best hitters, has been slowed by shin splints but should be ready in another week or so.

"Two 'rookies', Lacy Nagypal and Paul Van Stone loom very large in our plans since they will probably start at third and short. We may be gambling a bit because of their inexperience, but right now they are the best we have. Both of them can run and switch hit.

"Our pitching staff really hasn't been tested yet but we are counting on them to improve on last year's performance. Tom Tereschuk, Glenn Godwin, Al Brehm, and Eric Gaylord are expected to be in the starting rotation. Scott Williams, an outfielder last year, is also looking very good on the mound may eventually move into a starting role.

"Steve Sciacca, a transfer from Fullerton J.C., has looked good behind the plate and will also add some batting punch to our line-up.

"I am looking forward to the season, but until we get a few games under our belts, I really can't say how well we will do. I do know one thing, we will be competitive."
USD Hoopsters Off to Loyola

After a 5-game homestand the U. of S.D. hoopsters will go on the road for 2 West Coast Athletic Conference contests at Loyola Marymount on Friday, and league leading Pepperdine on Saturday, January 23 at Firestone Fieldhouse.

Both contests will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Loyola is presently 2-13 on the season and 0-2 in WCAC action.

The Lions have played 12 of their last 15 games on the road, but their last 2 games were at home when they opened Gersten Pavilion in their WCAC debut against Santa Clara and USF.

LMU holds a 4-14 lead in their series and last year split in Conference action with Loyola winning the first contest 72-69 and USD winning the second 78-66.

6'11" sophomore center Leonard Agee leads the Lions in scoring with 13.4 ppg and 4.5 rpg, while 6-7 freshman forward Forrest McKenzie leads the team in rebounding with 5.4 rpg and is second in scoring with 12.1 ppg.

Guard Casper Ware, who has been hurt most of the season, is seeing some action off the bench and is averaging 2.5 ppg.

USD Faces SE Louisiana

The University of San Diego tonight begins a final week of pre-West Coast Athletic Association tuneups when it plays host to leading southern independent Southeastern Louisiana at 7:35 in the USD Sports Center.

Above .500 again at 5-4 after last Saturday’s 69-64 victory at Northern Arizona, the Toreros will be home to Fresno-Pacific Wednesday and close its non-conference slate Saturday when Nebraska Wesleyan visits Alcala Park.

Coached by Ken Fortenberry, the Lions are led by forwards Wayne Booker and Jerry Kelly.

Rusty Whitmarsh continues to pace USD’s scoring charts, although reserve forward Don Capener has averaged 12 points a game during the last four contests.

At the University of San Diego, things were looking pretty good for Coach Jim Brovell as he guided his players into West Coast Athletic Conference play with a 7-5 record. The Toreros had the momentum, coming off a big victory over Nebraska Wesleyan, 91-65, and the home court advantage, but suffered back-to-back setbacks at the hands of Gonzaga, 70-61, and the University of Portland, 44-41, and face an uphill battle in the WCAC the rest of the way.

UNIVERSITY OF SAN DIEGO — The Toreros will be attempting to break a two-game losing streak against Northern Arizona University tonight in Flagstaff, Ariz.

USD, with a 4-4 record, dropped its most recent basketball games against UC-Santa Barbara and the University of California. Northern Arizona is 4-5.
San Diego Baseball/ The University of San Diego baseball team opens its 1982 season Saturday against the USD Alumni. Game time is 1 p.m. on the Torero field. USD returns 15 lettermen, including four starters, from last year's 30-25-1 team. Former Vahalla High standout John Mullen returns as the Torero right fielder. He posted the club's third-highest batting average (.335) in 1981. He's been hampered by shinplints lately and is expected to miss Saturday's opener.

USD To Battle Lumberjacks

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. — University of San Diego Coach Jim Brovelli might be making some changes tonight as the Toreros try to snap a two-game losing streak at Northern Arizona University.

Reserve forwards Don Capener and Jim Bateman, who supplied most of the front-line offense in losses to UC Santa Barbara and California, are expected to see more action as the 4-4 Toreros tackle the taller 4-5 Lumberjacks.

Guard Rusty Whitmarsh continues to lead USD scorers at 12 points a game. While the totals of center Dave Heppell (9.6), forwards Gerald Jones (8.9) and Robby Roberts (5.6) and guards Rich Davis (6.8) and John Prunty (5.6) have slipped, Capener and Bateman have come on.

USD Downs N. Arizona

USD, boosted by a strong contribution from its bench, defeated Northern Arizona, 69-64, last night in Scottsdale.

The Toreros led the entire second half, although Northern Arizona closed to within 48-47 with 7:50 to go. Rusty Whitmarsh led USD with 18, but the bench trio of Don Capener, Steve Rocha and Jim Bateman, combining for 27 points, sparked the Toreros to their fifth win in nine games.

Capener, a sophomore out of Torrey Pines, scored 16. The highly physical contest was marred by a total of 47 fouls, 25 by Northern Arizona, which was hit with two technicals — one against the bench.

The Toreros play Southeast Louisiana tomorrow at the USD Sports Center.

Hello, Reggie

So Reggie Jackson has agreed to play his home games in the Orange County Horror House. Does he realize that he is doomed to bat no higher than .209, miss at least a month and a half due to injuries, hit no more than 12 home runs and be on a team whose winning percentage ends up in the high .400s?

RANDY SHERMAN
Newport Beach
CROSSTOWN: On the USD campus, a husky footballer stopped to comfort an injured cat, and slipped his notebook under its head. A proud crayon sketch by a Mount Vernon School (Lemon Grove) second-grader is tacked to a bulletin board at North Island. Its caption: "My mom is in the Navy!"

DOWNTOWN

The University of San Diego, sometimes overshadowed by its rival up the freeway, made its presence known in 1981 by fielding one of the top Division III football teams in the country on the way to a 9-1 record. Who says bigger is better?