Cabinet Member

Dr. Author Hughes  DS257
Mr. Jack Boyce  DS218
Dean Ray Brandes  F106
Dr. Gilbert Brown  DS216
Mr. Thomas Burke  S200
Dean James Burns  SD Annex 1
Dean Ed DeRoche  DS281
Fr. Lawrence Dolan  Founders, Campus Ministry
Sr. Sally Furay  DS212
Dean Sheldon Krantz  LS209
Dean Irene S. Palmer  H204
Dr. William Pickett  DS257
Dean Joseph Pusateri  F114
Mr. Thomas Van Zant  DS126
Dr. Pat Watson  S303
Mr. John Zeterberg  PP103B
Fr. Cahill  Sports Center
Malachi Rafferty  F108
February
1982
DaRoche leads USD to 21-0 rugby win

In Saturday's rugby game of the week, University of San Diego's ruggers trounced the UCSD side 21-0.

Mike DaRoche, a USD senior, was the game's leading man, having played a part in every score. His most brilliant play was a 60-yard run, during which he eluded four tacklers to score a try.

UCSD fought off USD efforts to score through most of the first half, but USD kept the pressure up. Finally, Chris Pasqual broke open from a ruck and scored the first try, worth four points. Points piled up quickly, and the score stood at 12-0 by half-time.

Despite a strong showing by UCSD, turning back a powerful offense several times, the side was never able to score. The game between A teams was played at UCSD's Muir Field early Saturday afternoon.

The schools' B teams then met with a reversed result — UCSD won by a thin margin, 7-6. UCSD's Peter Steinnooth was named most valuable player of that meet.
Two local parishes offer piano recitals

SAN DIEGO — Both the Immaculata and Blessed Sacrament parishes are presenting special piano recitals during March to benefit parish improvement projects.

Father Nicolas Reveles will give a piano recital Friday evening, March 12, beginning at 8 p.m. at the Immaculata on the University of San Diego campus. Father Reveles, who teaches at USD, will play works by Schumann, Beethoven and Liszt. Tickets are $10 and $5.50, and are tax deductible. Information is available at 293-3358.

On Sunday, March 14 at 7:30 p.m., Jared Jacobson will present a piano recital at Blessed Sacrament Church, 4540 El Cerrito Drive. The program is being given to benefit Blessed Sacrament’s organ fund drive (a new Casavant pipe organ will be installed this July).

Mr. Jacobsen, who is civic organist for the City of San Diego and on the USD faculty, will play works of Balakirev, Ravel, Chopin, Beethoven and Strauss, as well as comment on the music and composers.

A donation of $3 will be requested at the door, and children under 15 are free when accompanied by an adult. Further information is available at 459-3421.

Carmelite Father Joe Glynn will conduct a week of Spiritual Renewal through Prayer at St. Agnes Church in Point Loma, Mar. 7-14, weekdays at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Additional information is available from the parish at 223-2200 or 223-9748.

USD Watercolor Exhibit — “Watercolor San Diego” will be on display at the USD Founders Gallery through Feb. 26. 266 De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.
Moriarty addresses Kiwanians

Dr. James Moriarty, an associate professor of anthropology at the University of San Diego, will address the La Jolla Kiwanis Club at its luncheon meeting tomorrow. Moriarty will discuss Early Man in San Diego County.

Moriarty received his doctorate from U.S.I.U. in 1970 and his master's from San Diego State University. He has held a variety of academic positions, including 15 years with Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Introducing Moriarty will be Kiwanian of the Day Don Schutte, D.D.S.

TOREROS BATTLE ST. MARY'S — The University of San Diego Toreros face the St. Mary's Gaels tonight at Moraga, Calif. Tipoff is at 7:30. USD is 2-4 in the West Coast Athletic Conference and 9-9 overall. St. Mary's is 9-10 overall.

The University of San Diego Continuing Education Department will sponsor a forum on the new Christian Right and the First Amendment at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 18 at Salomon Lecture Theater on the campus of the University of San Diego.

Speakers will be John Lorenzen, executive director of Moral Majority of California, and John Stevens, public affairs and religious liberty director for the Seventh-day Adventist's Pacific Union Conference.

Decision-Making Is Discussed

SAN DIEGO — A workshop, "Universal Ethical Principles and Decision Making," will be held at the University of San Diego, Monday, Feb. 8 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the St. Francis Seminary Building on the USD campus.

Co-sponsored by USD's Philip Y. Hahn School of Nursing and Continuing Education and the Catholic Community Services of San Diego, the workshop is designed for health care and social service professionals.

For information and reservations, call 293-4685.

The fee of $35, or $30 with student identification, includes lunch, and workshop participants will be eligible for seven contact hours credit.

Dr. McCulough is senior research scholar, Kennedy Institute of Ethics, and associate director, division of health and humanities, department of community and family medicine, Georgetown University in Washington D.C.
St. Mary's, 1-5, To Play USD Tonight

Not too many 1-5 teams strike fear in the hearts of those opposing them. St. Mary's might be one.

The Gaels are trailing in the West Coast Athletic Conference race. But they lost in double overtime to both WCAC leader Pepperdine and nationally ranked San Francisco (they twice led the Dons by four in the closing seconds) and in single overtime to third-place Gonzaga.

Tonight, St. Mary's plays host to the University of San Diego as both teams close out the first ball of the WCAC season.

USD is 2-4 and 9-9 overall. St. Mary's is 9-10 overall.

St. Mary's is led by three-time all-WCAC guard David Vann (6 feet 5, 17.1 points) and 6-6 forward Peter Thibeaux (18.4 points, 7.0 rebounds). The other three Gael starters are freshmen.

USD will again start with 6-5 Jim Bateman at center, 6-6 Gerald Jones and 6-7 Robby Roberts at the forwards and Rusty Whitmarsh and John Prunty at guard.

SAN DIEGO UNION
FEB 6 1982

VISTA PRESS
FEB 7 1982

St. Mary's 63, USD 59

MORAGA, Calif. (AP) — Senior guard David Vann scored 16 points and three other Gaels were in double figures as St. Mary's defeated the University of San Diego 63-59 in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball game Saturday night.

St. Mary's scored the first six points, pulled out to an early 15-5 lead and led the rest of the contest. San Diego guard Rusty Whitmarsh was the game's high scorer with 18 points.

The other three Gaels in double figures were Paul Pickett with 12, Peter Thibeaux with 11 and David Cooke, also with 11.

The victory gives the Gaels a 10-10 record, 2-5 in conference play. San Diego is 9-10 overall, 2-5 in the conference.

LOS ANGELES TIMES
FEB 7 1982

USD Loses to St. Mary's, 63-59

MORAGA, Calif. (UPI) — David Vann scored 16 points and Paul Pickett 12 Saturday night in lifting St. Mary's to a 63-59 WCAC victory over San Diego.

Peter Thibeau and David Cooke each had 11 points for St. Mary's (10-10 overall and 2-5 in the league). Rusty Whitmarsh scored 18 for San Diego (9-10 and 2-5).
St. Mary's Hands USD 63-59 Loss

MORAGA, Calif. — St. Mary's 1-5 record in the West Coast Athletic Conference was a deceiving figure and the University of San Diego discovered that fact here last night.

The Gaels, who dropped narrow decisions to WCAC leader Pepperdine and San Francisco's nationally ranked Dons, won a battle of turnovers while leading all the way as they saddled USD with a 63-59 WCAC defeat. Both schools are now 2-5 in league play. The Toreros are 9-10 overall, St. Mary's 10-10.

USD was ice cold at the beginning of each half last night, gaining only two points in the first six minutes of the contest and nothing at all in a similar period of the second half.

"Taking advantage of the situation, St. Mary's rushed to a 15-5 early lead and stayed on top the rest of the night. USD was guilty of 11 turnovers in its first 14 possessions but the miscues evened out at 28-27 USD over the entire game."

Rusty Whitmarsh scored 18 points and Mike Ramsey 10 to pace the Toreros' efforts. Three-time all-WCAC guard David Vann led the winners with 16 points with Paul Pickett, Peter Thibeaux and David Cooke adding 12, 11 and 11, respectively.

Free throws greatly aided the Gaels' cause as they got 23 of 28 attempts while USD had only 10 chances and made seven off a 27-16 deficit in the foul department.

USD plays at Santa Clara Thursday and plays a return match with the Dons at San Francisco Saturday in its next outings.

USD LOSES/ Senior guard David Vann scored 16 points and three other Gaels were in double figures as St. Mary's defeated the University of San Diego 63-59 in a West Coast Athletic Conference basketball games Saturday night. St. Mary's scored the first six points, pulled out to an early 15-5 lead and led the rest of the contest. San Diego guard Rusty Whitmarsh was the game's high scorer with 18 points. The victory gives the Gaels a 10-10 record, 2-5 in conference play. San Diego is 9-10 overall, 2-5 in the conference.
OUR TOWN: Times are tough in retailing, but the Sears-Roebuck Foundation has just made grants to Point Loma College and the University of San Diego. The new couches in the doctors' lounge at Scripps Hospital weren't wildly popular, even before the suspicious black pellets were traced to a dead mouse in one of the cushions. Stockbroker Tom Downs watched the parade of customers pecking out stock quotations at the La Jolla office of Merrill Lynch. "That," he said, "is a grown-up's video-game."

NEW ROLES: Unemployment has fostered a startling new business. The cash squeeze is so great in many families that middle-aged, middle-class, and often unskilled women are out seeking jobs to gain a second family income. Many are settling for housekeeping-nanny roles, a slim step above domestic workers. A husband-wife faculty team at UCSD placed a classified ad last weekend to find such a person. "We had 80 calls," they say, "many of them from middle-class women who hadn't held jobs in their lives." One agency handling such placement: Mothers-In-Deed.

TURNAROUND: University of San Diego will reach its student body quota of 5,000 next fall. One reason, Msgr. J. Brent Eagen says, is that it's the host campus for our city's only Naval ROTC unit, and that's drawing heavily. (SDSU is participating; it's all a long way from the 1960s, when campus militants managed to keep ROTC recruiters off the UCSD campus.)
San Diego — No one has drawn tougher assignments than Rusty Whitmarsh since the University of San Diego ascended to Division I in basketball three years ago.

Of the five players named to the West Coast Athletic Conference first team last season, all were guards, and Whitmarsh guarded them all. This season, four are back, headed by All-American Quintin Dudley from the University of San Francisco.

"It's a challenge," Whitmarsh said, "and I like that aspect of it."

"I just try to play the best defense that I can. I work to keep the ball away from them, and although I may not be as quick overall as they are, I stay with them when they do more."

Coach Jim Brovelli calls Whitmarsh his best defender and has even tinkered with the Toreros' zone defense to give Whitmarsh some man-on-man responsibilities.

USC has allowed the fewest points in the league this season.

"You can always play good defense," Whitmarsh said. "On offense, the ball might not always drop, or other things will happen. Whitmarsh also leads the offense, being the only player to average more than 10 points a game (11.9). The attack isn't special, but the way the Toreros adhere to a disciplined and patterned style of play usually is.

Even when point production twice faltered this season and Brovelli inserted four substitutes into a game at the same time, Whitmarsh remained on the court. The 6-3 guard is the only USD player with experience dating back to the Division II days.

"Rusty is the last guy that I would take out because he gives us stability," said Brovelli, a veteran of eight seasons at Alcala Park.

"Without him, we do tend to get out of rhythm."

USD, which won only three games in league play last season, is currently 2-5 in the WCAC and 9-10 overall. The best showing in school history occurred when USD finished at 22-7 in 1988 before moving up to the highest level of college basketball.

"It's a big step, but playing the better teams makes it all worthwhile," Whitmarsh said. "In Division II, we probably could have blown out half of the schools, yet that's not where we're at. We feel better against stronger competition."

While he had an inkling the Toreros would rise to Division I, Whitmarsh based his decision to attend USD more on the chance to stay in pleasant climate and perform in front of his parents and friends.

"It was a nightmare," he said. "I could have a solid, consistent performer," Brovelli said. "He's such an intelligent player that he waits for the right shots, and consequently, he has had a high shooting percentage for four years. I'm sure that he'll be right back up there before the season ends."

The Toreros seemed to snap out of the slump together when they connected on 62% of their attempts from the field in their latest game, a 75-68 verdict over Santa Clara.

Whitmarsh set his sights on reaching the 60% level before the season started, but mostly wanted to help USD act as a spoiler in the league race. Any predictions about the WCAC generally called for the Toreros to finish in seventh or eighth place in the eight-team conference.

"I have a strong feeling that things are going to get a lot better here," said Whitmarsh. "Ten years from now, it will be nice to look back and say that I was there when it started."
WHITMARSH: Defense

Continued from First Page

As it happened, USD employs a system nearly identical to the one used by Monte Vista High School during Whitmarsh's three varsity years there.

"He was a very positive player, well-liked by his teammates," Monte Vista Coach Pete Colonelli recalled. "He set an example by what he did—Rusty didn't verbalize much, but he sure worked hard."

Whitmarsh played football for two years and some tennis before electing to concentrate on basketball.

"It's important to pick one sport in order to improve," he said. "Then, too, I always favored basketball, and it ended up being my ticket to college."

Monte Vista won at least 20 games in each of his seasons. His senior year, the Monarchs went 21-6 and advanced to the quarterfinals of the CIF playoffs before falling to Morse. Along with defense, Whitmarsh also made significant contributions in scoring and passing, Colonelli noted.

"I really felt he had unlimited potential, going to college," Colonelli said. "You can watch him play and see how quick he is on the first two steps. I knew he could help a school looking for a big, strong guard."

No argument came from Brovelli, then establishing a trend of tapping prospects from the San Diego area. He landed Whitmarsh and Don Capener of Torrey Pines from the class of '78 after luring Mike Stockaip of Marian and Bob Bartholomew of Kearny the previous year.

The list continued to grow heading into this season as John Bateman of Bonita Vista and Anthony Reuss of Christian opted for USD.

"I've heard the rap that you have to go outside the area for talent," said Brovelli, "but we've had great success with San Diego players."

Academic standards are considered high at USD. Among the first things Whitmarsh learned was that players take their books on road trips and actually use them. He has majored in business administration and over four years has gotten to know most everyone in his classes.

Other students are quite acquainted with the basketball team. When the Toreros attracted a capacity crowd of around 2,500, as they did for this year's game with USD, more than half the student body is represented.

"Then, the size of the season had limited playing time during his freshman season as he adjusted to college competition. He appeared at forward the next season to fill a void created by injuries before setting into his current position and averaging 11 points a game a year ago."

This season has been something of a puzzle since he, like the rest of the team, opened the WCAC campaign in a shooting slump evidenced over five games. Never could Whitmarsh remember such an extended spell of outings. His shooting percentage dipped to 49%, not bad for most guards but down from his 57% last season.

"First, Rusty was primarily a defensive player here, but he has developed into a solid, consistent performer," Brovelli said. "He's such an intelligent player that he waits for the right shot, and consequently, has had a high shooting percentage for four years. I'm sure that he'll be right back up there before the season ends."

The Toreros seemed to snap out of the slump together when they connected on 6% of their attempts from the field in their latest game, a 78-68 verdict over Santa Clara.

Whitmarsh set his sights on reaching the 80% level before the season started, but mostly wanted to help USD act as a spoiler in the league race. Any predictions about the WCAC generally called for the Toreros to finish in seventh or eighth place in the eight-team conference.

"I have a strong feeling that things are going to get a lot better here," said Whitmarsh. "Ten years from now, it will be nice to look back and say that I was there when it started."
USD scientists, Chinese to study anchor samples

By Bob Corbett

Core samples from giant stone anchors found off the coast of California may soon be going back to China in search of a home.

Scientists at the University of San Diego and officials of the Chinese government want to see whether they can match the cores with ancient quarries along the Chinese coast.

They hope they can come up with a date that will attest to an ancient contact between the people of Asia and those of America, a date some have suggested might go back 2,000 years or more, long before Columbus discovered America in 1492 and even before Leif Ericsson was supposed to have done the job in about 1000 A.D.

The stones possess minerals that are foreign to the North American coast but common in China.

The presence of the anchors and other stone objects came to light about 1975 and stirred speculation about an Asian-North American connection. Enthusiasm for the suggestion has waned in recent years, however, despite more such finds.

Archaeologists Larry Pierson and Dr. James R. Moriarity III of USD hope that collaboration with the Chinese will kindle new interest in a connection.

The breakthrough came here last year when a Chinese historian, Professor Luo Rong ju, visited USD and became acquainted with the question. The visit gave the USD scientists the opportunity they wanted.

What is planned, Pierson said in an interview yesterday, is to take three core samples from each of the 11 stones that have been raised so far of the 40 stones discovered.

One sample from each stone will be sent to China, where their mineral content will be compared with that of known ancient quarries having records.

A match anywhere along the line could provide the researchers the site of origin and a date.

Although there have been several finds, the central one, the scientists said, is what they describe as “a large, very old shipwreck” found off Palos Verdes in 1975.

The stone equipment is all there in what they call an “assemblage.” The wood has long since deteriorated. That gives the scientists a problem. Wood is easy to date through carbon-14 techniques. Dating stone is more difficult.

The assemblage, however, helps. There are the stone anchors, the boom-hoist counterweights used to raise the anchors, some rolling mill stones used to crush grain.

The stones and sailing techniques seem to jibe, Pierson said, with the Great Han era that prevailed some 1,500 years ago.

“It was a high period in Chinese history,” he said.

The anchors and other stones are composed of an unusual kind of sandstone, Pierson said, and weigh 450 to 1,200 pounds. This suggests a rather large ship, perhaps a Chinese junk, he said.

Pierson, however, was making no promises. The study is continuing. All that can be said is that the Palos Verdes wreck looks very old and Asian, more Chinese than anything else.
New sister-city bond with Alcala, Spain, proposed

By Frank Stone
Tribune Staff Writer

A new sister-city relationship between San Diego and Alcala, Spain, was proposed today to the municipal International Affairs Board.

The board, made up of volunteers, will study the proposal and make a recommendation to Mayor Wilson and the City Council.

Alcala, an old city of about 200,000 people, is about 30 miles from the Spanish capital, Madrid.

San Diego has sister-city relationships with Yokohama, Japan; Leon, Mexico; Cavite City, the Philippines; Tema, Ghana; and Edinburgh, Scotland.

Alfonso de Bourbon of La Jolla, chairman of the San Diego-Alcala Sister City Committee, said that Spanish explorer Sebastian Viscaino "named this place after Alcala 380 years ago" and noted that Mission San Diego de Alcala also bears the name of the Spanish city.

De Bourbon, who described himself as a goodwill ambassador and political and social scientist, said other members of his committee include Rep. Bill Lowery, R-San Diego; Horacio Rivero of Coronado, a former U.S. ambassador to Spain; Dr. Author Hughes, president of the University of San Diego; and Dr. Jonas Salk.

"This will be a real people-to-people exchange program between students, professionals and scientists," De Bourbon said. "This is an action long overdue."

TOREROS LOSE A PAIR — The University of San Diego baseball team dropped a double-header to the Arizona Wildcats yesterday in Tucson 11-6 and 16-6, but a former San Diegan — Jack Daugherty — playing first base for Arizona, extended his school record, consecutive-game hitting streak to 28 games carrying over from last season. Daugherty is a former Kearny High and Mesa College product. He had two hits in the first game and one in the second. In the first game, Arizona jumped out to a 5-0 lead. San Diego came back to within three (9-6) in the seventh inning behind left fielder Martin Harris, who had two hits and three RBI in the game. In the second game, the Wildcats had a nine-run fifth inning. The two wins raised Arizona's season record to 5-0 while San Diego's mark fell to 2-3.
Success is fickle for USD women

The University of San Diego looks for its 10th victory of the season this week as they take on cross-town rival San Diego State tonight and Pepperdine on Thursday in women's basketball action. Both games start at 7:30 p.m. in the USD Sports Center Gymnasium.

This past week, the Lady Toreras split their contests with Biola University (84-55 loss) and Cal State Northridge (71-66 win). The win over CSUN upped USD's record to 9-16 for the season.

Led by Young Ran Cho (34 points, 10 rebounds and 7 assists), Biola University had four players hit for double figures compared to USD's one.

USD netmen victorious, 5-4

Following their home match against Grossmont College yesterday, the USD men's tennis team will travel to Los Angeles to play powerhouses, USC tomorrow and UCLA on Friday.

The University of San Diego women's swim team will be looking for its seventh victory of the season when they host cross-town San Diego State University at 2:30 p.m. Friday in the USD Sports Center Pool.

USD upped its record to 6-4 last Friday when they defeated UCSD by the score of 62-49. Leading the way for the Toreras was the trio of Mary Lightfoot, Diane Sims and Janet Gaunt.

Mary took firsts in the 200 Back (2:14.9) and the 100 Back (1:02.9). Her time in the 200 Back was under the qualifying time for Nationals while her time in the 100 Back bettered her previous qualifying time she clocked earlier in the season. Diane Sims brought home firsts in both the 100 Free (56.4) and 200 Free (2:02.40), along with a second place in the 50 Free.

Janet Gaunt had a successful day as she took third firsts in the 100 Breast (1:11.2), 200 Breast (2:35.3) and 200 I.M. (2:24.10).

After losing to San Diego State last Wednesday, USD bounced back with victories over Cal State Los Angeles (9-0) and UC Irvine (5-4). In their match with UC Irvine, the doubles team of Eric Steinbroner and Ian McLaughlin was the deciding factor for USD as they defeated UCI's tandem of Wittenberg-Kapp (4-6, 6-1, 7-6). The win boosted USD's early season record to 5-1.

Janet missed the qualifying time for the 200 Breast by .40 seconds and should achieve that goal in one of the two remaining meets.

Following the SDSU meet, USD will travel to the UN Las Vegas Invitational (Feb. 25-27) and then to Moscow, Idaho (March 11-13) for the AIAW Division II Nationals.

USD's women's netters picked up two victories last week against USJU and UCSD before losing a tough match to 17th ranked UC Santa Barbara (5-4).

"It was just a great match! We played them even throughout the whole match and they pulled it off in the 3rd set of the last doubles match," said Coach Scott McCarthy.

The Lady Toreros travel to San Diego State today before returning home to host Loyola-Marymount Thursday and SMU Saturday morning on the USD West Courts. Following their two home matches this week, USD will travel to Cal State Fullerton on Feb. 16 and the Univ. of Arizona Tournament (Feb. 18-20).
Chris Miller on honors list at U of S.D.

Christopher Miller, son of Capt. (USN) and Mrs. James E. Miller and a freshman at the University of San Diego, has been notified that he has the "distinction of first honors" for the fall semester. A 1981 graduate of Fallbrook High, Miller is majoring in Chemistry and Biology.

USD Watercolor Exhibit — "Watercolor San Diego" will be on display at the USD Founders Gallery through Feb. 26. 266 De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.

The University of San Diego will sponsor a talk on the "New Christian Right and the First Amendment" on Feb. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in Salomon Lecture Hall. The speakers will be John Lorenzen, Moral Majority of California's executive director, and John Stevens, public affairs director for the Seventh-day Adventist Pacific Union Conference.

Modern stained-glass techniques will be taught by Bill Hall at the University of San Diego on eight Thursday evenings, Feb. 18 through April 8. The class will meet from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Camino Hall 139. For information and reservations, call 293-4585. Fees for the course are $35 with an estimated additional $30 for materials. "Stained Glass" is sponsored by USD's Office of Continuing Education.
ALL WIND: The story behind that sudden forest of windmills built among our foothills is not so pastoral as it seems. Shut down now on a safety order, they still serve their owners well, even without producing a kilowatt. The major impetus behind their construction was wind of a different kind: windfall tax credits to their owners.

TRANSFER: More than 2,000 employees of Harcourt Brace Jovanovich — many more than first reported — are expected to move from New York to San Diego as a result of this week’s decision by the maverick publisher Bill Jovanovich. There was so much concern among those employees yesterday that HBJ’s Jill Jacobsen called the ConVis Bureau here for brochures and moral support. Housing, of course, is a prime worry.

NEWSBEAT: Frontier Airlines, one of the profitable regional carriers, plans to begin San Diego service on May 1 with two flights daily between here and Denver. . . . Correction: USD won’t reach its 5,000 student enrollment ceiling next fall; Sara Finn says it’ll be closer to 4,800. Cuts in federal aid to students may close 300 colleges in the next 12 months, she reports. But USD, a strong school, is in the black — though 83 percent of its students receive financial aid.

TOREROS TOPPLED/Santa Clara center Nick Vanos scored 16 points to pace the Broncos to a 65-48 romp over visiting University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference game Thursday night. Michael Norman added 12 points for Santa Clara. USD’s Gerald Jones and Jim Bateman each scored 13 points. Torero Rusty Whitmarsh was held to a season-low three points. Santa Clara extended its record to 13-8 overall and 4-4 in WCAC play. USD dropped to 9-11 overall and 2-6 in league play. USD visits the University of San Francisco Saturday night.

Santa Clara Beats USD

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (UPI) — Center Rick Vanos came off the bench to hit a season-high 16 points Thursday night and pace Santa Clara to a 65-48 victory over the University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference game.

San Diego, which hit only 29% from the floor, was led by Gerald Jones with 13 points. He fouled out with eight minutes remaining.

Santa Clara is 13-8 for the season and 4-4 in the WCAC. San Diego is 9-11 and 2-6.
Winning strategy loser this time

Sometimes history does repeat itself. One of those times was not last night as the University of San Diego dropped a basketball game to the Santa Clara Broncos 65-58.

Earlier in the season, the Toreros took the measure of the Broncos by switching 6-5 reserve forward Jim Bateman to center and he came up with 16 points in the second half to lead the Toreros to a 10-point win.

Last night, USD put Bateman in the pivot, but the old theory of lightning never striking twice proved true. At first, the play appeared as if it would work. Bateman's jumper gave the Toreros lead at 41-31 with about 10 minutes left in the first half. That's when Santa Clara Coach Carroll Williams went to his bench and selected 7-footer Nick Vanos to throw at Bateman. Suddenly, Santa Clara had a 34-17 lead. From that point, USD was playing catchup. Santa Clara ran its season mark to 13-8. Bateman did wind up with 15 points for the game, tied with Gerald Jones for Torero high-point honors. Vanos scored 16 for the Broncos.

Santa Clara rolls past USD; USIU loses to Eastern Illinois

The Associated Press

Santa Clara center Nick Vanos scored 16 points to pace the Broncos to a home court 65-58 romp over USD in a West Coast Athletic Conference game Thursday night.

USD trailed by only a point, 12-11, early in the game, but the hosts spurted to a 30-14 advantage before settling for a 34-17 halftime lead.

Vanos, who has averaged just four points a game in his career at Santa Clara, added seven rebounds to his point total in 25 minutes of playing time.

"We couldn't handle him," USD Coach Jim Brovel II said. "That was the turning point of the game, when Vanos came off the bench. He has the potential to become a great player in this conference."

Michael Norman added 12 points for Santa Clara while Harold Keeling had 10 points.

USD's Gerald Jones and Jim Bateman each scored 18 points. They also topped the Toreros in rebounds with seven apiece. Jones, who picked up three fouls in the space of one minute, fouled out with 11 minutes to play.

Santa Clara, which held a 34-17 lead at halftime in the one-sided game, extended its record to 15-8 overall and 4-4 in WCAC play.

USD dropped to 9-11 overall and 2-6 in league play.

At Charleston, Ill., Vincent Smelter's 18 points led five Eastern Illinois double-figure scorers as the Panthers downed U.S. International, 88-77, Thursday night.

It was the fourth straight win for Eastern Illinois, which upped its record to 10-11. USIU, which was led by Charlie Smith's 20 points, dropped to 6-17.

Eastern shot 80 percent in the second half to break a 41-41 tie at the intermission. Eastern Illinois' Kevin Jones converted a three-point play with 1:17 left to give the Panthers a comfortable 78-73 lead. Eastern Illinois scored the rest of its points on free throws to ice the victory.
Sub Sparks Santa Clara Past USD 65-48

By BILL CENTER

SANTA CLARA — When first the University of San Diego played the University of Santa Clara, the Toreros took the Broncos apart with an unconventional idea: Think small.

In that game, USD turned 6-foot-5 reserve forward Jim Bateman into its starting center. Bateman responded with 16 points in the second half to lead the Toreros to a 10-point victory.

In last night’s rematch, the Toreros went to the well once too often and it cost them a 65-48 decision.

USD again opened with Bateman at center and for 10 minutes the strategy worked to perfection. It was Bateman’s jumper with 8:54 left in the first half that pulled USD to within a point at 10-11.

Time out, Santa Clara. At this point, Broncos Coach Carroll Williams looked up his bench and summoned 7-foot freshman Nick Vanos.

“The next time I looked up, it was 30-14,” said USD Coach Jim Bruevich later. “They sparked us right there and ... and that was that.

“We’re not an explosive team. We can’t allow ourselves to get that far behind.”

Santa Clara doubled the score in the first half 34-17 and then swapped baskets en route to its West Coast Athletic Conference victory.

And the key was a player who could become a force in years to come, an 18-year-old whose 230 pounds are nearly last on his frame. Vanos, a four-point-per-game scorer until last night, hit a career high 16 and pulled down seven rebounds in 25 minutes.

“We couldn’t handle him,” said Bruevich. “That was the turning point of the game, when Vanos came off the bench. He has a very soft touch. If we fronted him, they’d lob the ball over the top. If we played behind him, he’d get the ball, turn, and use his soft touch.

“He has the potential to become a great player in this conference.”

Vanos was instrumental as Santa Clara broke the game open midway through the first half. He answered Bateman’s jumper by scoring a layin over the beleaguered Torero at the other end to ignite a run of eight straight Bronco points.

USD forward Gerald Jones temporarily slowed Santa Clara with a three-point play off a slam. But the Broncos ran off another 10 straight points, the last four coming on two Vanos baskets from elbow range.

“We couldn’t stop them from scoring,” said Bruevich, whose Toreros fell to 3-4 in WCAC play and 9-11 overall and must travel to 18th ranked San Francisco tomorrow night.

(Continued on C-7, Col. 1)

Broncos Ride Herd On Toreros

“Once that spurt happened, we broke down a little bit. I thought we played on even terms in the second half, but we didn’t make a run at them.”

Throughout the game, Santa Clara took advantage of shots inside the Toreros’ zone defense. Only seven of Santa Clara’s 34 shots were taken beyond the range of a free throw. For the game, the Broncos shot 53 percent from the floor to USD’s 39 percent.

The first half was an absolute disaster for USD. The Toreros hit just six field goals, were outrebounded 17-9 and got points from only three players — Jones (10), Bateman (4) and Don Capener (3).

Jones and Bateman led USD with 12 points and seven rebounds apiece. The other three players in USD’s starting lineup scored four points between them. Jones might have had more had he not drawn three fouls in one minute to foul out with 11 minutes to play.

Center-forward Michael Norman (6-7) backed Vanos with a dozen points while guard Harold Keeling had 10 points, all coming in the first half.

Santa Clara, which last week defeated USF in overtime, is 4-4 and 13-8.

(Continued from C-1)
TOREROS TACKLE DONS — The University of San Diego Toreros, fresh from a beating at the hands of the Santa Clara Broncos Thursday night, must take on an even tougher foe tonight in the nationally ranked University of San Francisco Dons.

What’s more, the Toreros must venture to San Francisco to take part in this encounter and that’s probably bitting off more than they can chew. The Toreros were dunked a couple of weeks ago by the Dons and their All-America candidate Quintin Dailey, 72-53, and although the Toreros played a tough first half (38-34), they were no match for the 12th-ranked team from San Francisco. Dailey scored 20 points.

Talented, Erratic USF Road Foe For Toreros

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

SAN FRANCISCO — It is a name association that bothers rival coaches — the first thing that comes to mind with mention of the West Coast Athletic Conference is the University of San Francisco.

It does not work the other way around.

"To many people throughout the nation, WCAC basketball is still USF," says University of San Diego Coach Jim Brovelli, whose Toreros visit the 17th-ranked Dons tonight.

There is tradition behind the Dons’ position of respect. USF was the nation’s first power when college basketball emerged from the scandal-ridden early 1950s. This is the university of Bill Russell, 60 straight wins and back-to-back NCAA titles.

And USF never dropped the ball. The program has endured at the top of the WCAC forever — with 15 WCAC titles including the last five. In the WCAC, USF wins 75 percent of the time and is a perennial visitor to post-season playoffs.

Outside of UCLA, USF is the west’s ranking basketball power. It has produced 17 All-Americans. It has already clinched a seventh straight 20-win season.

For one of the few times in recent memory, however, the strength of USF is being questioned in number of circles.

Going into the stretch, USF finds itself two games off Pepperdine’s WCAC-leading pace. The Dons have twice beaten the league’s last-place club by a total of three points, once going two overtimes to do it.

Part of the problem is intensity. USF might be one of the most talented teams in the nation. But it doesn’t often show. Even USF Coach Pete Barry admits as much.

San Francisco now sports a 20-4 record. But half the losses have come in WCAC play. Unbeaten Pepperdine fired a warning shot when conference play opened by running USF into a 102-91 loss. Last week USF lost to Santa Clara 77-75 after dropping a non-conference, 76-68 decision to undermanned Notre Dame.

The really discouraging part of this is that, on paper, USF might have one of its best teams ever.

Guard Quintin Dailey is an All-American. The 6-foot-3 junior is the nation’s fifth-leading scorer at 24.2 points a game and is a 53 percent shooter from the floor. "He is one of the best I’ve ever seen," says Brovelli. Dailey ranks No. 3 on USF’s all-time list of scorers and still has a season to go — if he chooses to pass up the NBA.

And there is a tower in the middle in 7-foot, 245-pound Wallace Bryant, who is averaging 15.6 points and 11.2 rebounds a game. The supporting cast led by John Hegwood (13 points, 7 rebounds) and Ken McAlister (11.6, 5.0) is strong.

"The sum of USF is not as good as its parts," said one WCAC coach. "They could be great. But if you take a close look at what they do... well, it’s not tournament basketball."

Tournament basketball has been the downfall of USF in recent seasons. The Dons haven’t gotten beyond the second round in four years.

"Great teams," says Brovelli. "But a puzzle."
CHRUCH ROUND-UP

Christian right forum set

A forum on the new Christian right will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in De Sales Hall at the University of San Diego by Americans United for Separation of Church and State and USD. The speakers will be John Lorenzen, executive director of the Moral Majority of California, and John V. Stevens of Westlake Village, president of the Church-State Council of the Pacific Union Conference of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

SAN DIEGO UNION

FEB 14 1982

Founders Gallery: Paintings by honorary members and past presidents of the San Diego Watercolor Society. Through Feb. 26. University of San Diego. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Wednesdays to 9 p.m.

VISTA PRESS

FEB 14 1982

USF 75, USD 69

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The 17th-ranked San Francisco Dons made all eight of their foul shots, the last four by Eric Slaymaker, in the second overtime and pulled out a 75-69 West Coast Athletic Conference victory over San Diego Saturday night.

USF improved to 21-4 for the season and 7-2 in the conference but remained two games behind unbeaten Pepperdine, 9-0, in the WCAC. San Diego dropped to 2-7 in the WCAC and 9-12 overall.
USF Beats USD In 2 Overtimes

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

SAN FRANCISCO — For the University of San Diego, it goes into the books as another loss — No. 12 of a sub-.500 season.

But the Toreros last night came so close — six inches — from scoring the biggest upset victory of the school's history — possibly one of the biggest in college basketball this season.

Seventeenth-ranked University of San Francisco finally defeated USD in two overtimes 75-69.

It was, however, a game that USD controlled with five seconds to go in regulation time.

With 14 seconds left, All-American Don guard Quintin Dailey missed a 10-footer under heavy pressure from Torero defender Rusty Whitmarsh.

Six-foot-six USD forward Gerald Jones out-leaped 7-foot USF center Wallace Bryant for the rebound. USD hurried the ball into the frontcourt and called "time" with five seconds to play. The score was 61-61.

"I thought we had the game," USD Coach Jim Brovelli said. "They could match up everywhere on defense, but one place. I thought if we got the ball there, it would go in."

The one place where USF didn't match up throughout the game was at center, where USD's tandem of 6-5 walk-on Jim Bateman (24 points, 6 rebounds) and 6-8 Dave Heppell (14 points) were taking Bryant (12 points, 10 rebounds) to task. In all, Bateman and Heppell tossed in 15 of 21 shots.

Although spotting Bryant seven inches, Bateman continually drove the middle on him and out-battled him for anything within his reach.

Heppell, meantime, bombed over Bryant from outside.

That is what USD had over USF with five seconds to go. Bryant plays defense like a cheating hide-and-seek player. He never wanders far from home. USD quickly put the ball into Heppell. The plan was for him to pot a 20-footer from the top of the key. It would be uncontested. It almost worked.

The only hitch was the timing. Heppell shot from 25 feet instead of 20 — and with three seconds to play instead of at the gun. The ball sailed six inches wide to the left.

"It was there, and I couldn't put it down," Heppell said.

"It wasn't all that easy a shot," said Brovelli, who again came so close to coaching his first victory over his alma mater. "Dave couldn't see the clock (it was above his head and behind him). He could have taken another dribble, pulled up from about 18. From 18 feet he buries that shot."

(Continued on H-6, Col.3)

USF Needs 2 Overtimes To Escape Toreros

(Continued from H-1)

And he would have buried USF. Instead, the Dons survived — like they have so often this 21-4 season. This was the third time in West Coast Athletic Conference play that USF has gone into overtime, the second time into double overtime. USD was supposed to run away with this title. Instead, it is two games behind Pepperdine with five to play.

"This would have sealed it for us," said USF Coach Peter Barry, whose team is playing more as though it's avoiding losses than going after victories.

"Got to give USD credit. They played a great game. Maybe the best game I've seen. None of those kids could have done anymore than they did."

As he left the court, Barry caught Brovelli from behind and said, "Nice job Jim; outstanding job."

In the first overtime, USF quickly raced to a four-point lead at 65-61.

But Bateman single-handedly brought USD back with two free throws, a defensive play at the other end, a rebound and a lay-in basket with 10 seconds to go to force the second overtime.

The Dons again scored off the tip to start the second half as Bryant wheeled inside over Bateman. They were ahead 69-65 when Heppell hit a 20-footer with 2:19 to play. But when USD fouled to get the ball back in the final 45 seconds, the Dons downed six straight free throws.

"We should have won," Brovelli said. "The way we played, we should have won."

USD fell behind by 10 at 43-33 with 15 minutes to go.

USD is 9-12 overall and 2-7 in WCAC play.

"You're not over the hurdle until you clear it," Brovelli said.
Top teams vie in tennis meet here

The top-three ranked men's tennis teams in the nation will be among 16 collegiate tennis teams participating in the San Diego Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament which gets under way tomorrow morning at the University of San Diego and San Diego State.

Teams involved include No. 1 UCLA, No. 2 USC, No. 3 Pepperdine along with UCSD, SDSU, USIU, USD, Arizona State, Long Beach State, Redlands, UC-Santa Barbara, UC-Irvine, Brigham Young, Bakersfield State, Louisiana State and Arizona.

Some of the finest collegiate tennis players, including Peter Herrmann, top player in the county, will be on hand to take part in this prestigious tournament sponsored by USD and The San Diego Union.

USD LOSES/ The 17th-ranked San Francisco Dons made all eight of their foul shots, the last four by Eric Slaymaker, in the second overtime and pulled out a 75-69 West Coast Athletic Conference victory over San Diego Saturday night in San Francisco. It was the Dons' second double-overtime victory of the season. The score was 61-61 at the end of regulation and the Dons had a 65-61 lead with 3:30 left in the first overtime. But San Diego's Jim Bateman, who had a game-high 24 points, hit two free throws and a driving layup to tie the score at 65-all, creating the second overtime. The layup came with 10 seconds left. San Diego dropped to 2-7 in the WCAC and 9-12 overall. USF improved to 21-4 for the season and 7-2 in the WCAC.
USD Watercolor Exhibit — "Watercolor San Diego" will be on display at the USD Founders Gallery through Feb. 26. 266 De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.

LOS ANGELES TIMES

FEB 1 8 1982

USD Plays Host to Pepperdine
From a Times Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—The University of San Diego plays host to West Coast Athletic Conference leader Pepperdine (9-0) tonight at 7:35. The Toreros, coming off a 75-69 double-overtime loss to San Francisco, are 2-7.

Dave Heppell of USD, a senior accounting major, received honors Wednesday when he was named to the NCAA District 8 All-Academic team.

EVENING TRIBUNE

FEB 1 8 1982

"A Touch of Green" is the theme of a luncheon and musicale being given March 16 at the Sheraton Harbor Island Hotel by the University of San Diego Auxiliary to benefit USD's financial aid program. Mrs. Thomas Bowes is chairman and Mrs. Alexander Denniston is co-chairman.

There will be a fashion show as well as music programmed by Mrs. Fred Moradi.

BLADE TRIBUNE

FEB 1 8 1982

CONCERT
USD continues its free noontime concert series with performances each Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in French Hall. This week features the Brasswinds Quartet in a recital of contemporary music for brass. For more information call 291-6480 ext. 4296.

A concert featuring This Kids, The Neat, Passagere and Clue will be presented at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 20 in Palomar College's Student Union. Tickets are $4.50 at the door.
USD Finds Pepperdine Is Wave Of Present

One of the best kept secrets in college basketball, Pepperdine University, pays a visit to Alcala Park tonight to face the University of San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference game at 7:35 in the USD Sports Center.

It is Pepperdine and not nationally ranked University of San Francisco that is the runaway leader in the WCAC with a 9-0 record. It is Pepperdine that has all but one starter hitting in double figures, that has team shooting percentages of 54 percent from the floor and 70 percent from the foul line.

Pacing the Waves, who are 16-6 overall, are 6-foot-3 guards Boot Bond (18.0 points) and Dane Suttle (16.4) and forwards Orlando Phillips (6-foot-7, 15.0 points, 8.0 rebounds) and Bill Sadler (6-6, 12.4 points, 6.4 rebounds).

"I don't think Pepperdine has gotten the recognition it deserves," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli. "This might be the most underrated team in the nation. The Waves did get off to a slow start, but since the beginning of WCAC play they have been playing excellent basketball in every game."

Pepperdine beat the Toreros 80-69 in the teams' first meeting in Malibu last month. Last week, USD took San Francisco into two overtimes before losing 75-69.

Brovelli plans to start the same lineup that started against USF with 6-3 Rusty Whitmarsh (10.5 points) and 6-0 John Prunty (4.0) at the guards, 6-6 Gerald Jones (8.9, 4.5 rebounds) and 6-7 Robby Roberts (4.9, 5.7 rebounds) at the forwards and 6-5 Jim Bateman (7.0, 4.0 rebounds) at center. Bateman scored a career-high 24 points against USF.

BLADE TRIBUNE
FEB 1 9 1982

Pepperdine Edges USD

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Reserve Mark Wilson scored the final seven points for Pepperdine, including a 19-foot jumper with one second remaining in the game Thursday night to lift the Waves to a 63-61 victory over San Diego in a West Coast Athletic Conference game.

Wilson's seven points was his only scoring in 24 minutes of action.

EVENING TRIBUNE
FEB 1 8 1982

"A Touch of Green" is the theme of a luncheon and musicale being given March 16 at the Sheraton Harbor Island Hotel by the University of San Diego Auxiliary to benefit USD's financial aid program. Mrs. Thomas Bowes is chairman and Mrs. Alexander Denniston is co-chairman.

There will be a fashion show as well as music programed by Mrs. Fred Moradi.
UP FOR THE GAME — University of San Diego's Rusty Whitmarsh (22) goes high in the air in an all-out attempt to block shot of Pepperdine's Boot Bond during last night's game. USD lost on last-second shot, 63-61. Story, F-3. — Tribune photo by John Gibbins

TIMES-ADVOCATE
FEB 19, 1982

Toreros lose at buzzer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Reserve guard Mark Wilson scored Pepperdine's final seven points, including a 19-foot jump shot from the top of the key with one second remaining Thursday night, giving the Waves a 63-61 West Coast Athletic Conference basketball victory over USD.

The triumph boosted the Waves' perfect WCAC record to 10-0 and their overall mark to 17-6.

Wilson, a sophomore from Compton, hadn't scored until he got hot near the end of the game. He had three long jumpers and a free throw in the final five minutes.

Wilson had tied the game at 61 when he hit a jumper with 2:50 to go. USD turned the ball over shortly after that and Pepperdine ran down the clock until Wilson connected on his game-winner.

Forward Bill Sadler led the Waves with 16 points. Orlando Phillips, Boot Bond and Dane Suttle added 12 points apiece for Pepperdine. Phillips led his team in rebounding with five.
Pepperdine Holds Off USD

 Substitute Saves It for First-Place Waves, 63-61

By GLAE THIEN, Times Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—Pepperdine Coach Jim Harrick put sophomore Mark Wilson into Thursday night's basketball game with seven minutes remaining, expecting him to shake things up. And that's just what the reserve did.

From a seven-point deficit, the Waves recovered to post a 63-61 victory over the University of San Diego and avoid their first loss in the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Wilson scored the game's last seven points, and his final shot, from the top of the key, went through the nets as time expired.

Wilson's exploits, capping a string of consecutive points started by a basket by Boot Bond, occurred while USD went scoreless over the last 6½ minutes.

The Waves, who improved their league record to 10-0, are a team in search of national respect—while they lead the conference, second-place University of San Francisco has the national rankings. Yet, before a crowd of 1,322 at the USD Sports Center, they were just glad to come away with a victory against a team that dropped to 2-8.

"We were lucky," Harrick said. "USD played well. If what they did at the end had worked, they'd be heroes. But this is the kind of game that we have to have if we are going to win the league."

The game reminded the Pepperdine coach of a night last season when Wilson hit a final shot to send a game into overtime against USF.

"We weren't planning to go to him. We were looking for the open shot," said Harrick, who plotted the play during Pepperdine's last timeout, called with 20 seconds remaining.

"There's a cardinal rule of coaching, though. You must get that final shot no matter what."

Pepperdine obtained the ball and never let go for the last 2:20 after the USD was called for a five-second violation that had the Toreros yelling foul. They had just brought the ball in play following a time out and made a pair of passes before being trapped near the midcourt line.

"I tell you, to me, that wasn't a violation," USD coach Jim Brovelli said. "First, I question how tight it was, and secondly, I don't think it was five seconds."

"We had two called like that in a game with Gonzaga, and I questioned those," Harrick observed. "Maybe we got the breaks back our way tonight. I was too involved to know whether it was a good call or not."

It was the second turnover in a row for the Toreros, and those came on top of a missed free throw when the ball went out of bounds to Pepperdine.

That USD ever had led in the second half was a credit to its reserves. The Toreros faced a 44-40 deficit five minutes into the half and had starters Gerald Jones and Don Capener on the bench with four fouls, but USD actually began its surge then. In relief roles, Don Capener scored six points and Robby Roberts four during stints lasting about 10 minutes.

Hot shooting didn't hurt either as the Toreros hit a 63% chip (12 for 19) following halftime, Rusty Whitmarsh first put USD ahead in the second half, 46-45, with 11:46 to play.

Pepperdine finished with four starters in double figures, but all-league guard Bond had an off showing with 12 points. Bill Sadler had 16 to lead the team.

Whitmarsh was high for USD with 13. Jones finished with a game-high six rebounds as the Toreros stayed even on the boards, 28-28, although Pepperdine averages a nine-rebound edge over opponents this season.

"I told the team that sooner or later we're going to win of these," said Brovelli. "This can't happen to us all the time."

In their previous outing, the Toreros lost to USF in double overtime.
Pepperdine's Wilson Sinks USD 63-61

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

In basketball, close is worth nothing. Last night, for the second straight game, the University of San Diego came within seconds of defeating one of the West Coast Athletic Conference's ranking powers. For the second straight game, it did not.

Last Saturday, nationally ranked University of San Francisco escaped an upset in two overtimes 75-69. Last night, at the USD Sports Center, undefeated WCAC leader Pepperdine downed the Toreros 63-61 on reserve guard Mark Wilson's 15-foot off-balance jumper with two seconds to play.

"We were fortunate," said Pepperdine Coach Jim Harrick. "If USD's strategy works at the end, we lose. And it was a good plan. We're lucky. There are going to be games like this. USD did a great job ... they deserved to win."

And it appeared that USD was on its way to victory with 7:02 to play when guard Rusty Whitmarsh - flying home on a long feed by John Prunty - scored a three-point play to put USD ahead 59-52.

Prunty hit two free throws 32 seconds later to keep the Toreros on top by seven, and after Boot Bond cut it back to 61-56 with a long jumper, USD went into its halfcourt weave.

The USD weave is not a stall. "We're looking for the basket, or to kick the ball out for more motion ... we're not trying to kill off the entire clock," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli.

The weave, while not often used in this 9-13 season, had been a weapon that had not failed USD - until last night.

The Toreros immediately drove in for a basket. But Jim Bateman traveled before getting the layin off his hands. The next time down floor the Toreros drew a foul. But Gerald Jones missed the front end of the I-and-1. The next two times they turned the ball over.

(Continued on C-5, Col. 1)
Pepperdine's Wilson Sinks USD 63-61

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

In basketball, close is worth nothing. Back to 61-56 with a long jumper, USD went into its halfcourt weave. The USD weave is not a stall. "We're looking for the basket, or to kick the ball out for more motion ... we're not trying to kill off the entire clock," said USD Coach Jim Brovelli.

The weave, while not often used in this 9-13 season, had been a weapon that had not failed USD — until last night.

The Toreros immediately drove in for a basket. But Jim Bateman traveled before getting the layin off his hands. The next time down floor the Toreros drew a foul. But Gerald Jones missed the front end of the 1-and-1. The next two times they turned the ball over.

(Continued on C-5, Col. 1)

Pepperdine Nips USD At Wire

(Continued from C-1)

Meantime, Wilson was taking charge of Pepperdine's sputtering offense. He scored the Waves' (10-0, 17-6) last seven points, tying the game at 61-61 on a short jumper inside the lane with 2:50 to go.

Then came the most pivotal play of the game. With 2½ minutes to go, Prunty was called for a five-second violation at midcourt — only 10 seconds after USD had inbounded the ball after a time out. The alternating possession rule gave the ball to Pepperdine, which worked the clock down to Wilson's game-winning shot.

"That's not a call that you see at that point of a game, not that it was a call at all on two points," said Brovelli. "One, Pepperdine was not in a defensive position to force a five seconds and, two, he did not have the ball five seconds when it was called."

Brovelli was convinced that had USD retained possession there, the Toreros would have won.

"You could see by Pepperdine's strategy at the end that they did not want to give us back the ball," he said. "We were shooting great (63 percent in the second half)."

"It is frustrating. Sooner or later it's going to be our turn. Things will balance out. We deserve to win a couple of these."
College tennis humbling test on way to pros

By Elson Irwin
Tribe Sportswriter

The transition from junior player to the collegiate level and then on to the professional ranks is a difficult path. Most never make it.

"As good as most of these players here are," said Ed Collins, tennis coach at the University of San Diego for the past three years and director of the fourth annual Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament, "there may be three or four, if that many, who will have any success on the pro circuit."

And while Collins was talking, his star pupil, Peter Herrmann, named college player of the year by the San Diego District Tennis Association, and who plans to turn professional at the completion of this, his senior year, was going down to defeat in the second round at the hands of little known Eric Quade of UC-Irvine.

Earlier, Herrmann sat in the bleachers awaiting his first-round match with Antony Emerson, son of the famed Australian champion, Roy Emerson, and nervously contemplated his future.

"It's not easy making the jump from juniors to the collegiate level," he said, removing a set of lightweight earphones from his ears. He had been listening to his pocket-sized stereo to relax.

"In the juniors, it's a matter of the better players — the seeded players — psyching the other players out. There is a lot more fear, maybe it's awe, of the known players. Most of them are beaten before the match begins."

"In collegiate play, everyone is pretty much on a par. Anybody can win. There is no fear. It is a lot like the professional tour. Somebody you never heard of can come along and beat you."

That's pretty much what happened yesterday to Herrmann, who has reaped all sorts of laurels in his junior and collegiate career here in San Diego County. But Herrmann wasn't the only seeded player in this tournament to taste the bitterness of defeat yesterday.

Andy Gordon, a Coronado product in his senior year at the University of Arizona, was knocked off a round earlier by an equally unknown in Jim Snyder, another "sleeper" from UC-Irvine.

Gordon was seeded No. 1 in 1-2 singles bracket (best four). Herrmann was the No. 4 seed in that same bracket.

In this unusual tournament (actually three tournaments in one), the two top rated players for each of the 16 colleges are all in one draw, then the three- and four-notch players are in another draw, and the fivees and sixes in still another tournament.

Points are given for each win down the line. The University of Texas won this tournament last year, with Arizona and Pepperdine tied for second and third, while USD came in fourth. Other schools in this year's event are Long Beach State, Louisiana State, Redlands, UC-Santa Barbara, UCSD, Arizona State, U.S. International University, San Diego State, UC-Irvine, Bakersfield State and of course, the two top rated collegiate teams in the nation, UCLA and USC.

Herrmann, who began playing at age 6 and who had won his first national title at 12, got by Emerson in the first round before losing to Quade.

The atmosphere in this event, which continues tomorrow and row with the finals at Morley Field in Balboa Park, is one of a pro tournament, albeit the minor league, perhaps. There is a fierceness of competition.

"It's tougher in college than in the juniors," said Collins, who has been Herrmann's coach since he was 14. "Each player is not only playing for himself but for his school. If he loses, he lets his school down somewhat. That is tougher on the player."

Collins said the collegiate ranks is where to test whether or not it would be feasible for a player to try the professional tour. "It is tough. Some players never make it. And yet, there are players who never showed much in the juniors who suddenly burst forth and become top-notch players in college. This is rare, though."

Collins' No. 2 player, Terry Ward, is an example. He was never rated very high in the Missouri Valley section where he played as a teen-ager. He is now regarded very high in the collegiate ranks. He won the Tribune Metropolitan Tournament in 1980 here. He, like his teammate Herrmann, stumbled yesterday, losing to Arizona State's Gary Donnelly, the No. 1 seed, in the second round.

Meanwhile, surprising Troy Collins of San Diego State plowed through both of his opponents yesterday, beating UCLA's Jeff Elsperd and Arizona State's Todd Nelson.

Collins got his start on the courts in South Central Los Angeles when he joined the California Tennis Association for Underprivileged Youths. He too, is a product of junior tennis. Nelson was a standout at Grossmont before transferring to ASU. Collins had to struggle to beat Nelson yesterday 7-4, 7-6.

So, with all the upsets, Collins became the Aztecs' hope of a titlist here, but still there were many matches to go and many mental obstacles to overcome.

For Herrmann, there is that decision of whether he thinks he's good enough to tackle the pro ranks.

"I am and I will," he said. "You have to expect the losses."

It's true, no one can win all the time. Not even No. 1 player in the world John McEnroe, who played this level of tennis for a year at Stanford before jumping into professional tennis with both feet.

"He's a rarity, of course," said Collins. "But I think Peter Herrmann is, too. He has the courage and the determination to do it. He is also a very strong, well conditioned athlete. He usually wins when he wants to win."

Herrmann is a product of junior tennis. He played as a member of the fourth annual San Diego Junior Tennis Circuit to taste the bitterness of defeat yesterday.

Herrmann, who has reaped all sorts of laurels in his junior and collegiate career here in San Diego County, is now regarded very high in the collegiate ranks. He won the Tribune Metro-Tribune Tennis Tournament to taste the bitterness of defeat yesterday.

Herrmann, who has reaped all sorts of laurels in his junior and collegiate career here in San Diego County, is now regarded very high in the collegiate ranks. He won the Tribune Metro-Tribune Tennis Tournament to taste the bitterness of defeat yesterday.
professional tour. Somebody you never heard of can come along and beat you.”

That’s pretty much what happened yesterday to Herrmann, who has reaped all sorts of laurels in his junior and collegiate career here in San Diego County. But Herrmann wasn’t the only seeded player in this tournament to taste the bitterness of defeat yesterday.

Andy Gordon, a Coronado product in his senior year at the University of Arizona, was knocked out of a round earlier by an equally unknown in Jim Snyder, another “sleeper” from UC-Irvine.

Gordon was seeded No. 1 in 1-3 singles bracket (best players). Herrmann was the No. 4 seed in that same bracket.

In this unusual tournament (actually three tournaments in one), the two top rated players for each of the 16 colleges are all in one draw, then the three- and four-ranked players are in another draw, and the fives and sixes in another tournament.

Points are given for each win down the line. The University of Texas won this tournament last year, with Arizona and Pepperdine tied for second and third, while USD came in fourth. Other schools in this year’s event are Long Beach State, Louisiana State, Redlands, UC-Santa Barbara, USD, Arizona State, U.S. International University, San Diego State, UC-Irvine, Bakersfield State and of course, the two top rated collegiate teams in the nation, UCLA and USC.

Herrmann, who began playing at age 12 and who had won his first national title at 12, got by Emerson in the first round before losing to Quade.

The atmosphere in this event, which continues tomorrow with the finals at Morley Field in Balboa Park, is one of a pro tournament, albeit the minor leagues, perhaps. There is a fierceness of competition.

“It’s tougher in college than in the juniors,” said Collins, who has been Herrmann’s coach since he was 14. “Each player is not only playing for himself but for his school. If he loses, he lets his school down somewhat. That is tougher on the player.”

Collins said the collegiate ranks is where to test whether or not it would be feasible for a player to try the professional tour. “It is tough. Some players never make it. And yet, there are players who never showed much in the juniors who suddenly burst forth and become top-notch players in college. This is rare, though.”

Collins’ No. 2 player, Terry Ward, is an example. He was never rated very high in the Missouri Valley section where he played as a teen-ager. He is now regarded very high in the collegiate ranks. He won the Tribune Metropolitan Tournament in 1980 here. He, like his teammate Herrmann, stumbled yesterday, losing to Arizona State’s Gary Donnelly, the No. 3 seed, in the second round.

Meanwhile, surprising Troy Collins of San Diego State plowed through both his opponents yesterday, beating UCLA’s Jeff Klaparda and Arizona State’s Todd Nelson.

Collins got his start on the courts in South Central Los Angeles when he joined the California Tennis Association for Underprivileged Youth. He too, is a product of junior tennis. Nelson was a standout at Grossmont before transferring to ASU. Collins had to struggle to beat Nelson yesterday 7-5, 7-4.

So, with all the upsets, Collins became the Aztecs’ hope of a titlist here, but still there were many matches to go and many mental obstacles to overcome.

For Herrmann, there is that decision of whether he thinks he’s good enough to tackle the pro ranks.

“I am and I will,” he said. “You have to expect the losses.”

It’s true, no one can win all the time. Not even No. 1 player in the world John McEnroe, who played this level of tennis for a year at Stanford before jumping into professional tennis with both feet.

“He a rarity, of course,” said Collins. “But I think Peter (Herrmann) is, too. He has the courage and the determination and he will certainly continue to improve.

“The one thing we didn’t mention,” Collins added, “is the fact that these players must not only practice tennis, they also have to hit the books. Pros don’t have to do that.”
"WATERCOLOR SAN DIEGO" (Founder's Gallery, University of San Diego): Exhibition of paintings by the honorary members and past presidents of the San Diego Watercolor Society, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays, Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesdays, through Thursday.

SAN DIEGO UNION
FEB 9 1982

Tennis Foes At USD Discover Emerson Genes Still In Style

By RICH FEUERSTEIN
Special To The San Diego Union

His style is familiar. His feet churn constantly. His racket is set before the ball gets there. Strokes smooth as silk. Superb doubles partner because he knows where to be. A gentleman on the court.

It's no surprise that Antony Emerson resembles tennis great Roy Emerson. Roy is Antony's father, friend and coach.

Unlike many sons of athletic greats who feel burdened by the pressure to excel, Antony Emerson sees only advantages being the only son of Roy.

"I have Dad as a coach and there's always someone to play around the house," said Antony, listing Vijay Amritraj and Ross Case as frequent visitors to the Emerson home in Newport Beach.

Antony, an 18-year-old freshman at USC, and partner Todd Witsken face Brigham Young's Ola Hallgrain and Mike Codiga in a doubles semifinal today in the 1982 San Diego Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament at Morley Field.

Pepperdine's John Van Nostrand and UC-Irvine's Jim Snyder meet in the first division singles finals at 11:00. Semifinals and finals in doubles follow.

Van Nostrand defeated Eric Quade (UC-Irvine) 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 and Snyder beat Gary Donnelly (ASU) 4-6, 6-3, 6-3 in semifinal matches yesterday at USD.

Emerson and Witsen frustrated UCLA's Jeff Klaparda and Bobby Berger in a quarterfinal 6-1, 6-3.

"I'm really impressed with Emerson's agility and fluidness," said USD coach and tournament director Ed Collins. "His mannerisms — not on purpose — are very similar to his father. He's fair and honest. He calls all close balls good where others are apt to consider the opposite."

"I think it's ridiculous to carry on," said Emerson, who was born in Australia and moved to California when he was five. "It destroys concentration. If you keep cool, you do better. If your opponent gets ticked off, you know you have him. (John) McEnroe sets a bad example. My dad agrees."

Roy Emerson was a two-time Wimbledon and two-time U.S. Open singles' champion. Antony has only vague memories of his father's prime.

"I traveled with him when I was very small but he never forced me into tennis," said Antony. "It was my own decision."

Antony plays No. 4 singles at USC. Ranked eighth nationally in the 18-year-old age group last year, he hopes to improve with Pac 10 competition. Good genes don't hurt.
USD heroics go for naught in loss to Waves

By Jerry Froide
Tribune Sportswriter

As Al McGuire, the renowned TV college basketball analyst, is wont to say, close only counts in horseshoes and hand grenades.

It certainly doesn't matter in basketball. The result is the same whether you get beat by one point or get blown out by 30. It's just another big fat loss on a team's record.

Still, University of San Diego Coach Jim Brovelli has to feel proud of the way his team has played in its past two games, though both turned out to be losing efforts.

The Toreros dropped a double overtime game Saturday against nationally ranked University of San Francisco and last night they took Pepperdine, the leader of the West Coast Athletic Conference, right down to the wire before losing on a shot at the buzzer.

Reserve guard Mark Wilson swished an off-balance jumper from the top of the key as time ran out to give the Waves a 63-61 victory over the Toreros at the USD Sports Center.

Afterward Brovelli could only shake his head and wonder when his club is going to catch a break. It outplayed Pepperdine much of the night and certainly deserved a better fate.

"It's frustrating," said Brovelli. "We had opportunities to win both our last two games. I told the kids it's going to be our turn sooner or later. It just can't happen this way all the time."

"Our kids play as hard as they can. They've been playing well lately and, darn it, we deserve to win a couple of those close ones. We're just not getting them, but our turn will come."

Six-foot-five center Jim Bateman, who scored 14 points, and guard Rusty Whitmarsh (13) and forward David Heppell (16) have to be feeling just as frustrated as their coach.

They, along with Don Capener, who supplied eight points off the bench, were the key contributors as the Toreros wiped out a 33-31 halftime deficit and appeared headed for a big victory.

They led 61-54 with a little over five minutes to play. But a traveling call, two turnovers and a missed free throw allowed Pepperdine to knot things at 61-all on a jumper by Wilson with 2:50 left.

USD still appeared to be in control of things when it had possession of the ball with 2:30 to go and the score the same. But a five-second call on Torero guard John Frutney gave the ball to the Waves.

"I don't think the call was right for two reasons," said Brovelli. "First, Pepperdine was not in defensive position to force a five-second call and, second, he did not have the ball five seconds when it was called."

The Waves held the ball for the remainder of the game before Wilson, who scored his team's last seven points, fired up his game-winning shot to keep his club unbeaten (16-0) in WCAC play.

"We were supposed to take the shot with six seconds left in the game," said Wilson. "I just took it. I knew once it left my hand that it was going in. I felt pretty good about it because earlier in the year I had the same situation and the shot didn't fall. Fortunately, this time it did."

It was, indeed, fortunate for the Waves, who seemed ripe for an upset. Several of their players had cold shooting nights, including standout guard Boot Bond, who scored 13 points — six below his season average.

"I'm fully convinced to win the league you've got win games like this," said Jim Harrick, whose club is 17-6 overall. "When the ball won't go in, you can't get a call and nothing will happen right for you and you still win... well, sometimes I would rather be lucky than good."

However, the Waves' problems were not all self-imposed. The Toreros outfought them for many loose balls, played them tough on the boards and generally played
USD Sets Back Loyola, 80-68

By GLAE THIEN, Times Staff Writer

SAN DIEGO—For the record, the University of San Diego matched its most wins ever in West Coast Athletic Conference basketball play by downing Loyola Marymount, 80-68, Saturday night.

Three more games remain, but Torero Coach Jim Brovelli doesn't need any more evidence to believe that this year's team is more than equal to past editions.

"I think the people directly involved know that," he said. "They can see how much we've progressed. Outsiders can only look at the total record, but we've been very pleased with the program. We've certainly been disappointed at times, but never discouraged."

USD's total of three victories does appear modest against its eight losses in the league, but some of the losses indicated more about the Toreros' strength than an outing against cellar-dwelling Loyola.

In the previous two games, USD nearly upset both of the WCAC's leading teams—the University of San Francisco and Pepperdine—but came up short each time. The question Saturday was how the Toreros would recoup from those efforts.

"We were down, and we talked about it at practice," Brovelli said before the game, "It was just something that we had to accept and then look ahead. I expect the guys to come out well-prepared tonight."

That they did, taking control from the beginning. The Toreros broke loose on a 10-1 scoring spree that gave them a 20-7 lead with 8:34 left in the first half. This surge took 4½ minutes, and during that time, the Lions obliged USD by missing all six of their shots from the field.

Loyola ended up scoring more points (11) in the last five minutes of the half than it did in the first part. Yet, despite the awakening of their offense, the Lions couldn't gain on USD and trailed at halftime, 39-21.

Jim Bateman, a 6-5 center sometimes matched against Loyola's 6-10 Leonard Agee, sparked the Toreros with 13 points before retiring to the bench over the last 3½ minutes of the half. His points, like most for USD, came on inside shots.

Into the second half, forward Gerald Jones took over as the Toreros' leader, scoring 16 of his 24 points. He finished as the team's high scorer, followed by Bateman with 16 points and Dave Heppell with 14.

USD twice built its advantage to 23 points—the last time at 57-34 with 12½ minutes remaining—before the Lions mounted a comeback attempt. They cut the margin to 63-52 with a binge that forced the Toreros to call timeout with 6:52 to play.

After that, the Toreros scored 11 straight points, including five by Rich Davis, and they were on their way to their highest point production of the WCAC campaign.

Agee, a sophomore pivotman playing his first season of college basketball, scored 25 points for Loyola, now 1-10.

USD will continue league action Thursday with it visit to the University of Portland.
Jones Helps USD Halt Skid 80-68

By BILL CENTER
Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

Forward Gerald Jones scored a season-high 24 points and pulled down 11 rebounds last night as the University of San Diego snapped a four-game losing streak with a wire-to-wire, 80-68 victory over Loyola-Marymount University at the USD Sports Center.

After back-to-back, last-minute losses to West Coast Athletic Conference front-runners San Francisco and Pepperdine in their last two outings, the Toreros showed no signs of a possible letdown as they jumped out to leads of 27-10 after 15 minutes and 38-21 at the half.

The hapless Lions fought back to within 11 at 63-52 with seven minutes to play. But USD returned starters. Jim Bateman and Rusty Whitmarsh to the lineup, regrouped, ran off 11 straight points and pulled away to its 10th victory in 23 decisions.

The Toreros' WCAC record improved to 3-8 with their second straight victory over Loyola-Marymount. The Lions fell to 1-10 and 3-21 despite a 25-point effort by 6-11 sophomore center Leonard Agee.

Jones was not alone in hurting Loyola-Marymount inside. Center Jim Bateman scored 16 points and pulled down five rebounds while forward Dave Heppell scored 14 points and had six boards.

Guards Rich Davis and Rusty Whitmarsh chipped in 13 and 10, respectively.

"The last three games were the first in a long time that this club has played like it can," Heppell said after another round of bombing away from the corner.

"I'm on target. Jimmy's playing well and Gerald has been going to work with his quickness inside. We've been helping each other out and everyone's been the better for it."

"I got a lot of help," said Jones, who scored 10 of his points from the foul line after getting hammered en route to the basket.

"We had a lot of movement and they were always jumping in on top of us. That's what movement will do."

Movement is one quality the Toreros might have been concerned with last night. Teams experiencing a letdown tend to stand around and wait for things to happen. That was not the Toreros' case.

"I didn't expect a letdown," said Torero Coach Jim Brovelli. "We talked about the possibility at practice Fri..."
Second straight victory over Loyola-Marymount. The Lions fell to 1-10 and 3-21 despite a 25-point effort by 6-11 sophomore center Leonard Agee.

Jones was not alone in hurting Loyola-Marymount inside. Center Jim Bateman scored 16 points and pulled down five rebounds while forward Dave Heppell scored 14 points and had six boards.

Guards Rich Davis and Rusty Whitmarsh chipped in 13 and 10, respectively.

"The last three games were the first in a long time that this club has played like it can," Heppell said after another round of bombing away from the corner.

"I'm on target, Jimmy's playing well and Gerald has been going to work with his quickness inside. We've been helping each other out and everyone's been the better for it.

"I got a lot of help," said Jones, who scored 10 of his points from the foul line after getting hammered en route to the basket.

"We had a lot of movement and they were always jumping in on top of us. That's what movement will do."

Movement is one quality the Toreros might have been concerned with last night. Teams experiencing a letdown tend to stand around and wait for things to happen. That was not the Toreros' case.

"I didn't expect a letdown," said Torero Coach Jim Brovelli. "We talked about the possibility at practice Friday after losing the lead and the game to Pepperdine.

"We've played hard all year. And we came out tonight and played hard again."

Only during Loyola-Marymount's second-half surge did USD seem threatened.

"We lost a little concentration," said Brovelli. "We took a couple of poor shots, got a little lax on defense at the other end . . . the game is over only once."

So he took a timeout, raised his voice on the bench — "I just wanted everyone's attention focused in the same direction" — and sent his starting five back to work. In the span of 91 seconds, USD scored 11 points.

Davis canned a baseline jumper. Ditto Heppell. Davis stole the ball at midcourt and raced in for a layin plus a free throw. Jones stole a pass and went the distance for a slam. And Whitmarsh closed the rush with a layin.

Earlier, the Toreros had broken the game open in the first half by forcing the tempo on both ends of the floor.

"We really played well in the first half," said Brovelli. "We got the ball inside for some easy baskets and forced some fouls. Defensively we shut them down."

"We had a lot of movement and they were always jumping in on top of us. That's what movement will do."

Movement is one quality the Toreros might have been concerned with last night. Teams experiencing a letdown tend to stand around and wait for things to happen. That was not the Toreros' case.

"I didn't expect a letdown," said Torero Coach Jim Brovelli. "We talked about the possibility at practice Friday after losing the lead and the game to Pepperdine.

"We've played hard all year. And we came out tonight and played hard again."

Only during Loyola-Marymount's second-half surge did USD seem threatened.

"We lost a little concentration," said Brovelli. "We took a couple of poor shots, got a little lax on defense at the other end . . . the game is over only once."

So he took a timeout, raised his voice on the bench — "I just wanted everyone's attention focused in the same direction" — and sent his starting five back to work. In the span of 91 seconds, USD scored 11 points.

Davis canned a baseline jumper. Ditto Heppell. Davis stole the ball at midcourt and raced in for a layin plus a free throw. Jones stole a pass and went the distance for a slam. And Whitmarsh closed the rush with a layin.

Earlier, the Toreros had broken the game open in the first half by forcing the tempo on both ends of the floor.

"We really played well in the first half," said Brovelli. "We got the ball inside for some easy baskets and forced some fouls. Defensively we shut them down."
DAILY CALIFORNIAN
FEB 2 2 1982

LOCAL NEWS

TOREROS WIN/ Forward Gerald Jones scored 24 points and grabbed 11 rebounds Saturday night, leading the University of San Diego to a 80-68 victory over visiting Loyola Marymount. Four other players scored in double figures for the Toreros. Jim Bateman had 16. Dave Heppell added 14 and former Monte Vista High star Rusty Whitmarsh canned 10. San Diego raised its WCAC record to 3-8 and its overall mark 10-13. Loyola fell to 1-10 in conference action and 3-21 overall. USD travels to Portland Thursday.

TIMES-ADVOCATE
FEB 2 3 1982

At the University of San Diego, they're still buzzing about the two major basketball upsets that almost were.
First, the Toreros suffered a shattering, 75-69, West Coast Athletic Conference loss to highly rated USF in double overtime. A few nights later, it took a shot at the buzzer by reserve guard Mark Wilson to give unbeaten and conference-leading Pepperdine (10-0) a 68-61 victory over USD.
Wins in those two games could have made the season for the unlucky Toreros.

EVENING TRIBUNE
FEB 2 3 1982

ALL-ACADEMIC BASKETBALL HONORS - David Heppell, a senior center at University of San Diego, had the top grade-point average among the 10 players selected to the 1982 District 8 All-Academic basketball team with a 3.93 in accounting.

EVENING TRIBUNE
FEB 2 4 1982

TOREROS FACE PORTLAND — The USD men's basketball team is down to its remaining three games, two on the road and the finale at home. Tomorrow night, the Toreros travel to Portland for a game with the University of Portland. On Saturday, the Toreros play Gonzaga University in Spokane, Wash., then they come home against St. Mary's University at USD.
USD Being Led To 'Slaughter'

Stopping the hottest player in the West Coast Athletic conference will be the task of University of San Diego's zone defenses tonight as the Toreros open a two-game tour of the Pacific Northwest with a 7:30 encounter at the University of Portland.

Portland guard Jose Slaughter scored 42 points in two games last week to move into third on the WCAC's list of career scorers and will take over the top spot from former San Francisco center Bill Cartwright with 72 points in his final three games. Slaughter is averaging 19.5 points a game this season.

Portland is tied for third with Santa Clara in the WCAC with a 6-5 record. The Pilots are 14-10 overall. USD, coming off a wire-to-wire 80-68 victory over Loyola-Marymount, is 3-8 in the conference and 10-13 overall.

USD forwards Gerald Jones and Jim Bateman both hit for 30 points in two games last week. Jones had 17 rebounds and Bateman 12. Rusty Whitmarsh continues to lead USD over the season with a 10.8 average.

EVENING TRIBUNE
FEB 25 1982

TOREROS TACKLE PORTLAND — The University of San Diego faces Portland University in a basketball game tonight in Portland. USD is coming off a 80-68 win over Loyola-Marymount. The Toreros will be led by Gerald Jones and Jim Bateman, who both hit for 30 points in games last week.

TORERO BASEBALLERS WIN — The USD Torero baseball team ripped UCSD's Tritons yesterday 11-1 as center fielder Doug Paul collected three hits, scored twice and drove in four runs on the UCSD diamond. USD had 16 hits in all against four Triton pitchers.

LA JOLLA LIGHT
FEB 25 1982

USD Watercolor Exhibit — “Watercolor San Diego” will be on display at the USD Founders Gallery through Feb. 26. 266 De Sales Hall, Alcala Park, S.D. 291-6480.

SAN DIEGO UNION
FEB 25 1982

Toreros Rip UCSD 11-1

University of San Diego center fielder Doug Paul had three hits, scored twice and drove in four runs to lead the Toreros to an 11-1 rout of UCSD yesterday on the losers' diamond.

The Toreros pounded out 16 hits against four UCSD pitchers while three USD pitchers scattered seven Triton hits. USD starter Glen Godwin got the victory, although he allowed UCSD's lone run on a hit by Triton catcher Mike Brown.

UCSD is now 3-5 for the season. The Tritons take on Pomona-Pitzer tomorrow in Pomona.
Luncheon to honor St. Patrick

St. Patrick's Day will be the inspiration for "A Touch of Green," the luncheon and musicale planned for Tuesday, March 16, by the Auxiliary of the University of San Diego.

Joan Bowes is chairman of the event which will begin with cocktails at 11:30 a.m. at the Sheraton-Harbor Island Hotel. Proceeds of the day will benefit the university.

The program, a musical interlude designed and directed by Ermen Moradi, professional associate of music at the United States International University, will feature singer Reba Brophy of La Jolla in her first San Diego performance. Brophy will be accompanied by Mary Barranger at the piano and fellow-students Janette Johnson, Kathy Kluska, Mary Jane Staats, Jennifer Weiser and Robbie Waddell. All are students under Moradi.

Informal modeling will feature spring and summer fashions from Nell Harrison, The Fashion Quarter.

Reservations are $13 and may be placed with Bowes, 459-7677, or co-chairman Barbara Dennis, 270-6485.
CONCERT
USD continues its free noontime concert series with performances each Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in French Parlor, Founders Hall. This week features the Brasswinds Quartet in a recital of Contemporary music for brass. For more information call 291-6480 ext. 4296.

Pianists Emile Hughes and Les Taylor will be guest performers with the MiraCosta College Jazz Band at its Feb. 26 concert. The performance will begin at 3 p.m. in room C-7 on the main campus in Oceanside. Admission will be donations taken at the door. For more information, call 757-2121 or 755-5155.

USD led to Slaughter; UCSD loses in playoffs

The Associated Press

Jose Slaughter and Dave Flint combined for 24 points Thursday night to lead Portland to a 84-52 West Coast Athletic Conference basketball victory over the University of San Diego.

Slaughter's 14 points put him second in career scoring in the conference with 1,007. Bill Cartwright is the leader after finishing his career in the conference with 1,065 points in 1980 while playing for San Francisco. Rick Raivio, who graduated from Portland in 1980, had been second at 1,001. Slaughter, a senior, has two games left.

Bateman led all scorers with 18 points.

Flint was the game's leading rebounder with eight.

San Diego has a 3-9 conference record and is 10-14 in all games. Portland is 7-5 in the league and 15-10 overall.

Guard Rich Cundall scored 12 points to lead a balanced Biola attack as the Eagles defeated UC San Diego, 61-43, in an NAIA, District III first-round basketball playoff game.

Forwards Mark Sontoski and Wade Kirchmeyer added 11 and 10 points, respectively, for Biola, the NAIA's top-ranked team. The Eagles now have a 33-0 record.

Guard Tom Wight led UC San Diego, which fell to 10-16, with 18 points.

Fresno State is the regular-season basketball champion of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, but if the 14th-ranked Bulldogs want a guaranteed spot in the NCAA playoffs, they'll have to win the conference tournament next week.

Coach Boyd Grant's Bulldogs raised their PCAA record to 12-1 and their overall mark to 23-2 Thursday night with a 51-43 victory over host Pacific.

Donald Mason's 12 points led a balanced Fresno State attack. Matt Weldon had 20 points and seven rebounds for the Tigers, who fell to 8-10 in conference play and 7-18 overall.

In other PCAA action Thursday night, Fullerton State outlasted visiting UC Irvine, 68-62, in three overtimes; visiting Long Beach State topped UC Santa Barbara, 79-76, in overtime, and visiting San Jose State downed Utah State, 55-47.

In the Western Athletic Conference, host Brigham Young toppled Hawaii, 75-66.
Toreros Grounded By Portland Contest

PORTLAND, Ore. — University of Portland guard Jose Slaughter scored 14 points, one of his baskets moving the Pilots in front to stay late in the first half, as Portland defeated the University of San Diego 64-52 in a West Coast Athletic Conference game here last night.

The Toreros had taken a 13-9 lead with eight minutes elapsed but the Pilots began to find the range and moved in front all two games to overtake former San Francisco center Bill Cartwright career scoring leader.

USD, trailing by three at the further behind in the second half, bided back to within five points at 37-41-36 before the Pilots pulled away.

Center Jim Bateman was the only final two contests to overtake points and seven rebounds as the.

EVENING TRIBUNE

RUGBY MATCH — The second rugby match of the Michelob San Diego College Cup will be played tomorrow in Aztec Bowl at 1 p.m. as San Diego State University meets the University of San Diego. The Aztecs are 2-1 in the Southern California University Division and USD is 3-0 in the College South Division. The Aztecs are responding well to coaches Brian Smith, a visitor from Australia, and Conrad Moulen, from South Africa. The Aztec forwards are led by hooker Scott Christie, lock Don Donahue and flankers Joe Oliver and Mike Zietsman. The greatest area of improvement with the Aztecs is their freshman scrum-half, fly-half combination Colin Cole and Mark Fuller. The Toreros are coached by Tu Wylie, a visitor from New Zealand. The Toreros strength is their backbone where fly-half John Purcell and winger Mike DeRoche are the major threats. The forwards are quick and aggressive with back Chris Pascale, and flankers Greg Harald and Bob McDonell providing the leadership. For further data, call 453-4963.

EVENING TRIBUNE

TOREROS DEFEATED — Jose Slaughter scored 14 points to become the West Coast Athletic Conference's second-leading all-time scorer last night and lead Portland to a 64-52 victory over the University of San Diego. Slaughter moved past former Portland star Rick Raivio into No. 2 spot behind New York Knicks center Bill Cartwright, who played at the University of San Francisco. Slaughter has 1,008 points, 57 behind Cartwright, with two games remaining in his collegiate career. Jim Bateman scored 18 to lead USD, which dropped to 10-14 overall and 3-9 in the league. USD still has two games left in the season against Gonzaga University tomorrow night in Spokane, Wash., and Thursday at 7:35 p.m. against St. Mary's at Alcala Park.

LOS ANGELES TIMES

Portland, Slaughter Beat USD

PORTLAND, Ore (UPI) — Jose Slaughter scored 14 points, becoming the West Coast Athletic Conference second-leading all-time scorer, as he led Portland to a 64-52 victory over the University of San Diego.

Slaughter moved past former Portland star Rick Raivio into the No. 2 spot with 1,008 points, 57 behind ex-San Francisco standout Bill Cartwright.

The win gave Portland a 15-10 record, 7-5 in conference. USD, whose John Bateman scored 18 points, is 10-14 and 3-9.
Toreros Lose To Gonzaga 63-53

Special To The San Diego Union

SPOKANE, Wash. — The University of San Diego, hobbled by an outbreak of the flu, dropped a 63-53 decision last night at Gonzaga University.

Forwards Gerald Jones and Robby Roberts and guard Rich Davis missed the game with the flu and guards John Prunty and Mike Ramsey played despite being ill.

Six-foot-10 center Duane Bergeson scored 19 points and pulled down 16 rebounds for the Bulldogs. Six-nine forward Bill Dunlap scored 11 points and guard Tim Wagoner had 16 points for Gonzaga.

Forward Paul Appleby, little used until last night, Prunty and Ramsey all scored 10 for the Toreros, who are now 3-10 in West Coast Athletic Conference play and 10-15 overall. USD trailed 31-20 at intermission despite scoring the last six points in the first half and was down 59-42 with 3:42 to play.

Gonzaga is now 7-6 and 15-11. USD closes its season at home Thursday night against Cal State Fullerton.

Founders Gallery: University of San Diego. Monday-Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Wednesdays to 9 p.m.

USD Wins Double-header

University of San Diego southpaw Glenn Godwin hurled a seven-inning one-hitter and struck out 12, while Doug Paul drove in both winning runs with a sacrifice fly and squeeze bunt as USD defeated Southern California College 2-0 and 3-2 in a double-header at Costa Mesa yesterday.
Runnin' On Empty

... Colleges Prepare For Pinch Of Federal Belt-Tightening

By MICHAEL SCOTT-BLAIR
Education Writer, The San Diego Union

Thousands of San Diego college students see the next few years as the bleakest financial picture in two decades because of the federal government's proposals for cuts in student financial aid.

If anyone benefits from the federal proposals for the next two years, and that is considered doubtful, it is the nation's banks. For everyone else — students, universities and taxpayers — it is a disaster, agreed the financial aid experts of the University of California at San Diego, San Diego State University and the University of San Diego.

"That is a horrifying picture," said UCSD's financial aid director, Thomas M. Rutter, as he surveyed a wall chart of the Reagan administration's proposals.

It showed longstanding programs completely drying up in 24 months, and others suffering massive reductions.

"By the fall of 1983, more than half of the total federal money going out under the heading of student financial aid will be going into the banks to pay interest on federally guaranteed loans. We are talking of well over $2 billion. It's the best thing that ever happened for the banks," Rutter said.

As a result, the 3,000 students at UCSD receiving some type of federal aid will, for the first time, be advised this year that they should take out a loan to meet expenses.

"The average student will be $1,000 short this year, and up to $2,500 a year short by the fall of 1983 if Congress goes along with the federal administration's proposals," he said.

At San Diego State, Thomas R. Pearson, director of the financial aid office, said that up to one-half of the roughly 11,600 students now on some form of aid could be cut out if all the federal budget reductions are made.

And at USD, 59 percent of the 1,584 grants being received by students would be lost by 1983, said Herbert S. Whyte, director of financial aids.

Engineering junior Frank Benton of San Diego State summed up his feelings with a feeble appeal for "help."

"I am carrying a full load and work almost 30 hours a week on top of that. I applied for a loan and did..." not get one. My mother makes $20,000 a year, she is going to community college and my sister is here at State as well, yet I could not get help," he said.

"I have one more year to go and I will make it through, but I pity many of the students with years of study ahead of them."

Diane Dwyer is less than a year away from graduating, but if she had not managed to save part of an earlier loan, she would have been forced to drop out under the tightening regulations.

"It's gotten tougher and tougher every year for the vast majority of students. I know we keep hearing about the abuses, but I know that most of the students with grants and loans on this campus need that money to survive," she said.

Benton said that too many people incorrectly believe students party around, drink beer and whoop it up all the time.

"I am not gifted enough to just sail through the classes with relative ease. I have to do a couple of hours additional work at home at night, in addition to working at my job," he said. "My girlfriend and I don't spend all our time at parties."

Rutter pointed to the Reagan administration's proposals for the next two years.

The National Direct Student Loan program would be cut from $186 million last fall to $179 million in fall 1982, and to nothing the following year.

Similarly, the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant program would go from $370 million to $278 million, and then to nothing. And the State Student Incentive Grant Program would scale down from $77 million to $68 million and then zero.

(Continued on B-8, Col. 1)
Colleges Will Feel Pinch From Belt-Tightening

(Continued from B-1)

The College Work-Study Program would be reduced from $656 million to $484 million and the Pell grants (the former Basic Educational Opportunity Grants) will be reduced from $2.147 billion last fall to $2.127 billion this fall, and $1.4 billion the following year.

"That is nothing short of a disaster," said Rutter.

And in speaking to the University of California Board of Regents last week, UC President David S. Saxson said, "Such a decline can fairly be described as catastrophic."

Then there is the proposed overhaul of the Guaranteed Student Loan program — the largest and most controversial student aid program ever introduced.

Last fall, $2.53 billion went into the program. That will climb to $2.753 billion this coming fall and then fall back to $2.450 billion in the fall of 1983.

"But more than 80 percent of that does not go to the students, it goes to the banks to supplement the interest on loans that students take out. Of the $2.5 billion for last fall, only about $500 million was available to students to get new loans. The other $2 billion was the government's guaranteed subsidy to the banks," said Rutter.

Under the GSL program, students take out bank loans to help meet expenses. The government pays the bank the current market interest rate on the loan while the student is in school. After graduation, the student pays 9 percent interest, the government continuing to pay the balance up to the going market rate, and the student starts to repay the loan. Should the student fail to repay the loan amount, the government guarantees payment to the bank.

The government, however, cannot put a cap on the cost of the GSL program, because it is an entitlement — any family who qualifies can get a loan — rather than an appropriated program whose cost can be controlled by congressional appropriation.

In an effort to bring in some controls, the Reagan administration has proposed first that all graduate students be disqualified from the program — a move described as being against the nation's interests by university authorities — removal of a portion of the government's payment of subsidy on the loan interest after graduation, and introduction of student interest charges while in school.

In addition, students give 5 percent of their present loans back to the government before they even see the money to help offset the cost of the interest during their school years. It is now proposed that this be increased to 19 percent each year.

The financial aid officers expressed horror at the proposal to deny GSLs to graduate students.

"That is incredibly shortsighted," said Whyte.

Whyte stressed that contrary to general public belief, more students at the private universities will suffer from cuts in federal aid than those at public schools.

While about 30 percent of the students at San Diego State and USCD have loans and grants, more than 65 percent of USD students receive aid.

Whyte said student aid helped a broader range of students to enter the private institutions and warned that the cuts "could destroy the exciting diversity of students that has been developed here and on other private campuses over the years."

Nate Rowsey came to USD from Florida, and Craig Beaver is from Chula Vista.

"I'm here on loans from the GSL and the NSDL, but I can't get one for my final year," said Beaver.

"I'll make it one way or another for my final year," said Beaver, a junior. "But if this had happened to me earlier, it would probably have been all over for me at USD and I would have been forced to transfer to (San Diego) State," he said.

Rowsey said he looked at his financial statement for the year and "I came up $1,300 short. I am taking some classes at Mesa College this year to help cut back on expenses because I want to graduate from USD," he said.

Whyte warned that if large numbers of private university students were forced into the public campuses, the taxpayer might not find it a bargain.

"Remember that the taxpayer provides $4,400 for every student attending the 'free' public campuses," he said.

The loans and grants taken out by public campus students are used mainly for living expenses, plus books, travel and relatively minimal university fees of less than $500 at the state college system and $1,000 at the UC system.

In the private universities, the families usually bear all the living, travel and other costs, and take out the loans and grants to meet additional tuition costs, which at USD for example, total almost $4,000 a year.

"Private universities are a good deal for the general taxpayer, saving enormous amounts of public cost. Sometimes that is forgotten," said Whyte.

If Congress goes along with the Reagan administration proposals, it will unravel more than 30 years of attempting to bring some equality of opportunity into higher education, said Pearse.

If the federal government steps back from its financial involvement and tries to make the states fill the void, each state will react in a different way, reintroducing the old conditions under which the quality of higher education available to people depended on where they live, he said.

"I don't think anyone will argue that the GSL program got completely out of hand, but that is as much the fault of Congress as anyone," said Whyte.

The inequity of it all is that all the other loans and grant programs are now being cut to pay for the GSL problems despite the fact that these other programs are based on a student's family proving their need through a process that is even more demanding than a tax return," he said.

To Rutter, the picture, which is confusing to financial aid experts, "must look horrendous to the student and his or her family.

"There is a great danger that as they look at the tremendously uncertain future evident in the next few years, they may decide to turn to the job market, further aggravating the already acute unemployment problems," Rutter said.

"And," added Whyte, "they will have been forced to settle for less in life because these opportunities for development are being taken away."

"What makes you want to cry," said a student. "is that many of the people who now a want to cut these programs are where they are today because they took advantage of the programs they now want to cut."
Campus bookstores' open-door policy adds up to marketplace of knowledge

By Lois Horowitz

Do Fuzzy Sets Tickle your fancy? Did you ever want to get to the bottom of the catastrophe theory?

Do you have a yen to learn locksmithing, the principles of arc welding, air conditioning, theatrical makeup, hotel-motel management?

Are you curious about escrow procedures, the workings of a travel agency, fingerprint fundamentals, reading a blueprint or TV studio operations?

Or do your interests lie on other planes: the psychology of thinking, plasma physics, computer programming, nursing practice, aerelasticity or creep analysis?

All of the above represent subjects covered in local two- and four-year colleges, but you do not have to enroll to learn about them.

College bookstores, most of which are nonprofit operations, are open to the public and have texts covering these subjects and a multitude of others.

And the price is generally right. Bookstores try to steer clear of red ink just as other retail businesses do, but their primary function is to provide students with supplies necessary for their studies, not to make money. Generally, textbooks have half the mark-up of trade books.

Many people don't seem to realize the selection available through bookstores.

"Since the technical bookstore in downtown San Diego closed, many people panicked and started going to Los Angeles for their books in engineering, computers, physics, chemistry, and other technical subjects," said Charles Korkegian, trade book buyer for the Aztec Bookstore at San Diego State University. "They don't have to."

Checking a college's catalog, which tells what courses are taught, will also give you an idea of the books stocked on local campuses.

Besides the conventional biology, geology, anthropology and other ologies at the Aztec bookstore, there are texts in industrial electronics, woodworking, nutrition for athletes, family income management, restaurant management and photography, to name a few.

Korkegian says some of the subjects are so exotic "I don't even know what they are."

Catastrophe and fuzzy set theories, perhaps?

Books on computers comprise the Aztec store's largest single category of sales, followed by educational books and aids.

pleasure reading along with sundries, school supplies, greeting cards, gifts, snacks or clothing provided for convenience.

"Eighty-five percent of our students live on campus," said Martha Neal, bookstore manager at Point Loma College. "We are not near any large shopping center."

LeRoy Weber, bookstore manager for USJ, which has a school of law, frankly admits that "We do sell to law-oriented people in the community but we don't have as good a selection as the law bookstore downtown."

Each college bookstore is unique. For example, the UCSD bookstore claims to have the most extensive psychology and philosophy selections in the county. About community cooperation, Diana Car, manager of the general book department, says, "We work well with HBJ, Wahrenbrock's and the chain referring people back and forth."

The two-year community colleges offer an incredibly rich array of courses, ranging from cosmetology and hairdressing for beautician training to electrical contracting. A require texts that are sold in the bookstores.

Sheila Mortin, bookstore manager at San Diego City College, said the community colleges are partly arts and sciences to prepare students for entry into the state colleges and universities — and partly vocational.

Grossmont, Mesa and Southwestern community colleges offer interesting courses (or books) in electric codes, construction estimating for architects, marine (shipboard) wiring, American sign language, motorcycle service and repair and dental assisting, among other subjects.

If you're going to shop campus bookstores, remember many are hard to reach and keep widely divergent hours that change with the term, term break and rush periods. Stay away the first two weeks of school unless you've been known to move like crowds.

Check the course catalogs at any library to see what's taught. Each school emphasizes different specialties, with some overlap. It's a good idea to call college bookstores for information about their hours at location on campus before a shopping trip, check with general bookstores is also a good idea because used texts sometimes float in the second-hand stores and some text books can be found in a trade edition in the chains.

Horowitz is a free-lance writer.