OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

Graduate Dean Search Committee:

As Newsnotes readers are aware from the April 6, 1990 edition, Dr. Ray Brandes, Dean of Graduate and Continuing Education, is stepping down from his deanship to return to his tenured position in History, effective at the end of the summer session 1991. I have established a Search Committee for his replacement. Advertisements will be published towards the end of the summer or beginning of the fall semester. The following faculty and administrators have agreed to serve on the Search Committee:

Arts and Sciences: Dr. Iris Engstrand
Dr. Gary Macy

Business Administration: Dr. Mario Picconi
Dr. Robert O'Neil

Education: Dr. William Foster

Nursing: Dr. Janet Harrison

Administration: Mr. Mal Rafferty, Director, Continuing Education
Sister Sally Furay, Vice President and Provost

Student: A graduate student to be named in early fall

I will appoint a Search Committee Chair later this summer.

OFFICE OF THE PROVOST

Search Committee, Grants and Contracts Officer:

Many faculty members are aware that a position was budgeted and a search has been underway during the current year for a Grants and Contracts Officer to assist faculty and Deans to research funding interests and needs; track proposals, grants, renewals, and resubmissions; write or help faculty prepare fund-raising proposals; research funding opportunities and communicate such possibilities to interested faculty members; and the like. This past spring, at the request of the academic deans, it was determined that the position should report to Academic Affairs rather than to the University Relations side - though of course there must be close coordination with University Relations.

Because of the shift of the position to Academic Affairs, the Search Committee has been reconstituted, and the position re-advertised, with a deadline of June 27, 1990. Members of the Search Committee, many of whom also served on the earlier committee, are:

Education: Dr. Mary Scherr
 Law: Professor Nancy Carter
 Business: Dr. Greg Gazda
 Nursing: Dr. Mary Quayhagen
 Arts and Sciences: Dr. Mike Wagner
 Dr. Mitch Malachowski
 University Relations: Dr. Jack Adams
 Academic Affairs: Sister Sally Furay
 Dr. Don McGraw

Interdisciplinary Travel Committee:

Last October, the five academic deans and I requested of the Budget Committee funds for university-wide purposes to assist those faculty members needing funds for interdisciplinary travel. As many faculty know, there has been a problem in the past because departments/Schools had insufficient funds to allocate for areas which are not specifically related to the discipline in question. The new fund, which was approved in the amount of $7000, should help to resolve those difficulties.

Even though, for convenience because all five academic units may be involved, the funds will be held in the Provost's budget, I do not want to be arbiter of the funds. Hence, the academic deans and I have established a committee composed largely of faculty members. Expenses approved by the committee will be distributed by Assistant Provost Debbie Gough. Members of the Interdisciplinary Travel Committee are:

Arts and Sciences: Dr. Mary Quinn
 Dr. Pat Drinan, Chair
 Business: Dr. Denise Dimon
 Education: Dr. Mary Scherr
 Law: Professor Paul Wohlmuth
 Nursing: Dr. Mary Quayhagen

The five academic deans agreed to some simple parameters. Anything not covered by these parameters is at the discretion of the committee.

- Establish a review committee of one faculty member from each professional school and two from Arts and Sciences because of its size; the second person from Arts and Sciences would be an administrator with faculty rank;

- Publicize the availability of funds for travel to interdisciplinary/experiential education or similar types of conferences which do not fit the usual departmental or School categories;
- Give preference to those making presentations, but, as funds allow, encourage participation as well;
- Receive funding requests from faculty members or faculty-type administrators;
- Give authority to the committee to approve or reject requests.

Faculty who wish to request money for the 1990-1991 fiscal year from the Interdisciplinary Travel Fund should forward the request, with appropriate explanation, to the Committee Chair, Dr. Patrick Drinan, Dean, Arts and Sciences. Be sure the request is clearly marked for the Interdisciplinary Travel Fund, and that it includes a rationale for seeking funding from this source.

Even though the new fund is not operative until September 1, 1990, requests may be made and authorization granted before that time, if desired, so plans can be made.

VARIA

The Dynamic Decision-maker, a book by Michael Driver, Kenneth Brousseau, and Dr. Phillip Hunsaker of USD's School of Business, was published recently by Harper & Row.

Dr. James Otte, History, was invited to present a paper, "Eastern Medical Sources: Greek, Jewish, and Arabic, in the Writings of Alfred of Sareshel", at the Medieval Academy of America conference held at the University of British Columbia on April 5, 1990.

Dr. Daniel Sheehan, Physics, received a $600 USD mini-grant for the construction of a wind tunnel for sports physics research. Three students with whom he collaborates have received Associated Students grants: Peter Pattergill for wind tunnel construction and physics of bicycle research; Donna Laughrin and Cassie Paulson for research into hydrodynamic drag on swimmers.

Dr. Elizabeth Cobbs, History, recently published an article in Business History Review on "Entrepreneurship as Diplomacy: Nelson Rockefeller and the Development of the Brazilian Capital Market" (Spring, 1989, Vol. 63, No. 1), 88-121.

Dr. Judith Liu, Sociology, participated in the Seventh National Conference of the Association for Asian American Studies held at the University of California, Santa Barbara, May 18-20, 1990. She was re-elected Membership Chair for 1990-1991.

Maria Martinez-Cosio, Director of Community Programs, has been appointed to a one-year term on the Commission on State Relations of the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities.

Dr. Mary Scherr, School of Education, was guest speaker at the YWCA's Tribute to Women and Industry (TWIN) Awards Luncheon.

Georgia Briscoe, Head of Technical Services at the Law Library, has had a commentary entitled "Looking in Our Backyards" published in 82 Law Library Journal 393 (1990). The article deals with the ecological impact of paper consumption in libraries and proposes how law libraries can responsibly deal with the issue.

Dr. Dennis Clausen, English, was one of several consultants who participated in a re-evaluation of the Cuyamaca College Writing Program during the spring semester, 1990. Major changes are expected to be made in Cuyamaca's Writing Program as a result of this project.

INTERNATIONAL SUPPLEMENT

Dr. Daniel Hamilton, Senior Associate of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and former Deputy Director of the Aspen Institute, Berlin, addressed the spring meeting of the SOCCIS (Southern California Consortium on International Studies) Steering Committee on May 23, 1990. Dr. Hamilton has been named the Acting Director of the Villa Aurora California Institute of European-American Relations, to be established in Pacific Palisades, California, in 1991.

Dr. Hamilton received his Ph.D. and M.A. in International Relations from the Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies. For the past ten summers he has directed the Waldsee German Language Village, which is the oldest and largest "total immersion" program in German language and culture for young Americans, sponsored by Concordia College in Minnesota.

At Carnegie, Dr. Hamilton is focusing his research and speaking on the implications of German unification and reform in Eastern Europe; on U.S., Soviet, and Western policies; the future roles and relationships of the two German states; and U.S., European, and Soviet approaches to the "common European house."

The Villa Aurora Institute for European-American Relations is an independent, nonpartisan institute, intended to be a major West Coast center for the study and advancement of ideas related to the contemporary and future European-American relationship. The focus will be on the major issues outstanding between the United States and Europe, including cultural, political, environmental, and economic issues. The program will include readings, seminars, conferences, lectures, policy research, a variety of publications, and selected professional exchanges. The program would seek to stimulate original scholarly and policy-oriented research on current and future challenges to the transatlantic relationship.

The California Institute for European-American Relations at the Villa Aurora is being registered as a 501(c)(3) organization under U.S. law. It has received generous funding or pledges of funding from the Government of the Federal Republic of Germany, the Tagesspiegel Press Foundation in Berlin, and the Berlin Lotto Foundation, as well as private donations. Plans call for the establishment of a Board of Counselors, composed of outstanding individuals from the United States and Europe committed to the transatlantic relationship, matching funding from America, and cooperative affiliations with a variety of California educational organizations.

The Villa Aurora, a 22-room, Mediterranean-style mansion built in 1924, requires extensive renovation, but it is expected that the California Institute for European-American Relations will be open in 1991.

Canadian Studies Grants Programs 1990-91

The Canadian Embassy's grant programs are designed to promote teaching and research in Canadian Studies. Awards are announced about two months after application deadlines. All projects must be completed within a one-year period. Information is available from Offices of Grants and Sponsored Research at universities, the nearest Canadian Consulate General, or the Academic Relations Office, Canadian Embassy.

Canadian Studies Program Development Grant: Designed to encourage the expansion of Canadian Studies Programs at Universities. Among activities included for grant consideration are professional travel, symposia, lecture and film series, visiting lectureships, and scholarly liaison between U.S. and Canadian academics. Deadline: June 15, 1990.

Canadian Studies Outreach Grant Program: Designed to assist institutions of higher education to provide instructional and curriculum support to teachers and schools involved in learning about Canada. Deadline: June 15, 1990.

Canadian Studies Conference Grant Program: Has as its purposes the support of major conferences addressing important and timely Canadian or Canada-U.S. issues and the publication of the resultant papers and proceedings in a scholarly fashion. Deadline: June 15, 1990.

Canadian Studies Faculty Research Program: Designed to assist scholars in writing article-length manuscripts of publishable quality about Canada, and reporting their findings in scholarly publications. Deadline: September 30, 1990.

Canadian Studies Institutional Research Program: Promotes major research projects about Canada by groups of scholars and the publication of results in scholarly journals or books. Deadline: September 30, 1990.

Canadian Studies Faculty Enrichment Program: Provides faculty with an opportunity to develop courses that will be offered as part of their regular teaching load. Deadline: October 31, 1990.

Canadian Studies Senior Fellowship Award: Provides senior scholars with an opportunity to complete and publish a major study. A very limited number of fellowships is awarded and only to academics having a lengthy track record in teaching, researching, and publishing on Canada.

Canadian Studies Graduate Student Fellowship Program: Offers graduate students an opportunity to conduct part of their doctoral research in Canada. Deadline: October 31, 1990.

Canadian Studies Matching Grant Program: Designed to provide matching grant support for Canadian Studies Programs and projects funded by a major foundation or funding institution. This grant is not available to individuals. No specific deadline.

United States Institute of Peace
Jennings Randolph Program for International Peace

FELLOWSHIPS 1991-92

Opportunities for Professionals and Scholars to Increase Understanding About International Peace and Conflict Management

The United States Institute of Peace invites qualified men and women to compete for three types of fellowships offered by the Institute's Jennings Randolph Program for International Peace. These fellowships enable outstanding professionals and scholars to undertake research and education projects that will increase knowledge and spread awareness among the public and policymakers on topics that concern the sources and nature of violent international conflict and the full range of ways to end or prevent conflict and to sustain peace. Individuals from a broad spectrum of backgrounds — government, diplomacy, higher education, international affairs, law, military service, the media, business, labor, religion, humanitarian affairs, and others — are encouraged to propose innovative, carefully conceived fellowship projects reflecting diverse interests, project approaches, and communication media. Stipends and other support will be provided normally for a one-year period beginning in September 1991. The program honors former United States Senator Jennings Randolph, who was instrumental in establishing the Institute.

The United States Institute of Peace is an independent, nonpartisan, national institution created by the United States Congress in 1984 to strengthen scholarship, education, training, and information dissemination concerning international peace and conflict management. The Institute is governed by a fifteen-member Board of Directors appointed by the President of the United States with the advice and consent of the United States Senate. It does not take positions on political candidates or policy issues pending before Congress or other domestic or international legislative bodies and does not mediate international disputes.

Types of Awards

- Distinguished Fellows are eminent statesmen, scholars, or other professionals who have achieved national or international stature by virtue of extraordinary practical or scholarly accomplishments in international peace and conflict management or other relevant endeavors. These fellowships challenge and enable recipients to draw on their wealth of learning and experience to produce unique, potentially influential contributions to better understanding of international peace and conflict.

- Peace Fellows are professionals or scholars who have demonstrated substantial accomplishment or promise of exceptional leadership in their careers. These awards provide an opportunity to apply the fellow's existing knowledge and skills to problems of significance for international peace and conflict management and to enhance the fellow's ability to bring the perspectives of this field into his or her career. A small number of Peace Fellow awards may be made to outstanding candidates who have completed doctoral degrees in recent years.

- Peace Scholars are outstanding students in recognized American university doctoral programs who have demonstrated a clear interest in issues of international peace and conflict management and have completed all required work toward their doctoral degrees except their dissertations. The award is intended to inspire and enable such students to devote their dissertation work to topics that advance the state of knowledge about international peace and conflict management and to provide the students with a strong intellectual base for their future careers as scholars or practitioners.

The Institute expects to make approximately 12 Distinguished Fellow and Peace Fellow awards and 10 Peace Scholar awards for 1991-92.

Eligibility

The competition for all fellowships is open to persons from any country who have specific interest or experience in international peace and conflict management. Typically, candidates have at minimum an undergraduate degree from a recognized university. The program does not support fellowship work that involves partisan political and policy advocacy or policymaking for any government or private organization.

Terms

Distinguished Fellows and Peace Fellows work in residence at the United States Institute of Peace in Washington, D.C.. In addition to conducting their individual projects, the fellows participate in the Institute's educational outreach activities and intellectual life. Books, monographs, or other written products of the fellows are reviewed for possible publication by the Institute. Stipends are keyed to the recipient's earned income in the year preceding the fellowship but will not exceed the federal pay rate established for the GS-18, Step 1 level (which is currently capped at $78,200) for Distinguished Fellows, or GS-15, Step 1 (currently set at $59,216) for Peace Fellows. Peace Scholars do their work at their universities or other appropriate research sites. Stipends are set at $12,000.

Application Procedures and Deadlines

Distinguished Fellow candidates must be nominated on an official form by a person well acquainted with the nominee's career and achievements. The Institute will send detailed information forms to those nominees it wishes to consider further. Peace Fellow candidates must submit an official application form, which includes a detailed project proposal and requires three letters of reference. Peace Scholar candidates must submit an official application form, which includes a research plan, graduate transcripts, three letters of reference, and a letter of endorsement from the dissertation supervisor.

Completed nomination and application forms including required letters and other materials must arrive at the U.S. Institute of Peace no later than the following dates:

Distinguished Fellow	October 15, 1990
Peace Fellow	October 15, 1990
Peace Scholar	November 15, 1990

Please note: These deadlines are different from previous Institute fellowship competitions.

All awards will be announced in early April 1991.

Course on Multiracial Identity Offered at UCLA

The course "Betwixt and Between: Multiracial Identity in Global Perspective," which was offered for the first time in Spring 1989, will be offered again in Fall 1990 at UCLA by Dr. G. Reginald Daniel, Lecturer in Latin American Studies. The course presents an interdisciplinary examination of the historical, genetic, cultural, social, political, and economic factors that have given rise to multiracial individuals by focusing on various representative areas in Africa, Asia and the Pacific Rim, Europe, and the New World (Canada, the U.S., Latin America and the Circum-Caribbean). The course fills a need that has existed at the university level for material specifically relevant to the experience of individuals who identify with more than one racial/cultural background. It examines identity issues and considers effects of the newly emerging multiracial/multicultural consciousness in the U.S.

The Fall 1990 course is sponsored by the Latin American Center, the Center for Afro-American Studies, and the Council on Education Development, and is available at no additional cost to students enrolled at SOCCIS institutions. For further information about the course, please call G. Reginald Daniel at (213) 825-4571.

As a scholar in the forefront of this relatively new but growing field, Dr. Daniel has often participated in television and radio discussions of issues related to multiracial identity. The increasing awareness of multiracial/multiethnic populations has had some impact, for example, on the data gathering practices of public school systems and of the federal Census Bureau. Daniel will be a guest on the TV program "Signs of the Times" on KTTV, channel 11, on Sunday, June 10, 1990, at 11:30 AM until 12:00 noon. The program will address identity issues as they relate to individuals from more than one ethnic background.

Dr. Daniel is a member of the Advisory Board of the Association of Multiethnic Americans (AMEA), Education Committee Chair of Multiracial Americans of Southern California (MASC), and Coordinator of MASC's Forum on Multiethnic Identity and Intergroup Relations. His own multiethnic background includes ancestors of African, French, Native American, Irish, Jewish, and East Indian origins.
