Book Opens Spiritual Vistas to the Reader

Our Lady of Wisdom by Maurice Zundel is a small book containing only six chapters, with a prologue and epilogue. Nevertheless, from the first sentence of the prologue to the last period of the epilogue, the reader is held in an attitude of prayer by the spiritual vistas the author's profound and moving thoughts open to him. Reading this book is like kneeling all alone before the tabernacle in a great cathedral—and with reason, for the book was created as a shrine dedicated to Mary, the tabernacle who first housed the Bread of Life on earth.

As the book progresses, however, one sees that Mary's mission was more than that of housing the Lord. She was meant to bear Him and show Him to souls. In order to serve as such a Monstrance, she would have to be specially purified. Divine Providence effected the first purification by willing her to be Immaculate from the first moment of her conception. But the remaining purifications were to require the cooperation of Mary's human will, so that all men might follow her example.

As the universal experience of mankind will attest, purification of the human spirit comes through suffering. And that same fund of experience proves that the fruit of such suffering is a wisdom by which one comes to know God and all things else only as they exist in Him.

The suffering which earned for Our Lady the title, "Seat of Wisdom" is usually traced by spiritual writers to the Seven Sorrows that figured most prominently in Our Lady's life. Zundel, however, makes clear to the reader that the fructifying principle in all suffering is self-despoilment. For that reason, every act of spiritual poverty—whether or not suffering is entailed—bears the fruit of a growth in wisdom.

Through Suffering

Having established the above as axiomatic, Zundel proceeds to show Mary's growth in wisdom as proportionate to her "self-yielding." When her role as Mother of the Redeemer was announced to her, Mary knew suffering, for God let her have a glimpse of what the Redemption would entail. When she made her great act of spiritual poverty, however—when she surrendered herself completely in her "Fiat"—then she knew the beginning of wisdom, then she could see the Redeemed, as well as her Son on the Cross.

Congress to Promote Love of Mary in See

To encourage and intensify devotion to Mary in every parish and every Catholic home of the diocese—that's the announced purpose of the five-day Marian Congress to be held at the San Diego College for Women from Monday, August 30 through Friday, September 3.

The Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego will be celebrant of a Solemn Pontifical Mass in the college chapel August 30 to open the Mariological conference. It is scheduled for 9 a.m.

Throughout the five days, the Alcala Park school will offer lectures on theological subjects, literature, art and devotions which have to do with God's Mother.

The sessions, which are open to the public, will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 noon each day followed by recitation of the Rosary and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

During conference sessions themselves, speakers will treat such subjects as "The Divine Maternity," "Mary in Architecture," "Mary in Mexico," "Mary in Sacred Scripture" and others.

Assisting His Excellency at the opening day Mass will be Very Rev. James T. Booth, Rev. William F. Clavin, Rev. Donald R. Kulleck, Rev. John Desmond and Rev. Donald Doxie.

The forthcoming congress is one of the many events planned in the Diocese of San Diego to honor the Blessed Virgin during the Marian Year. Others have been rallies, novenas and pilgrimages.

An international Marian Congress will be held in Rome October 24 to November 1. It is expected to draw leading Marian authorities from all over the world.

Da Vinci's Madonna Rated a Masterpiece

Leonardo was the ideal Italian youth of the period. Born in Vinci, a small town near Florence, where his father was a notary, he grew up as a handsome, well-built youth, thirsting to learn "everything about everything." He studied art under Verrocchio, the Florentine master of the day. By the time he was 20, Leonardo had distinguished himself as an artist of great talent. Lorenzo de Medici, Ludovico of Milan, and Francis I of France were his patrons. For them he produced paintings and works of sculpture and acted as designer, engineer, and decorator.

Essentially-Modeling

To the modern world, however, Leonardo's fame rests entirely upon his paintings which, unfortunately, are far from numerous. But each gives evidence of this artist's theory that painting was essentially modeling — "the task of giving corporeal shape to the three dimensions on a flat surface." The modeling of forms by the subtle flow of light into dark, the scientific analysis of atmospheric effects; the psychology of the emotions and relation of gestures and facial expressions to the deepest feelings — these things possessed him and led him to endless experimentation.

Enchanting Loveliness

In his early thirties, Leonardo painted The Madonna of the Rocks, now in the Louvre. The London version was executed much later with the help of a colleague. Departing from conventional treatment, he placed a young Florentine woman, an angel, and two children in a grotto patterned after the caves of the Arno, which he had examined with the eye of a geologist. According to art critic Thomas Cravan, science, observation, and sentiment are exquisitely blended here, and the conception is therefore devoid of incongruity. The design is flawless, and the faces are refined to the highest degree of enchanting loveliness. The pointing hand of the angel is a gesture taken from an old symbolism in which the presence of God was indicated by the extended finger. The picture has darkened in tone, and time has added a hardness of surface to the once impeccable finish, but it remains, in all the elements which constitute great painting, one of the world's masterpieces.

If Not to Mary?—Cardinal To Whom Shall We Turn

20,000 Hear Cardinal at San Diego Marian Rally

SAN DIEGO—Twenty thousand San Diegans flocked to Alcala Park here last Sunday for a Marian Year rally at which His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles presided and preached.

The twilight demonstration

opened with a 90-minute parade from the east entrance of Alcala Park to the main patio of the San Diego College for Women atop the hill, according to the Southern Cross, diocesan newspaper.

The parade was reviewed from the steps of the University Administration Building by Cardinal McIntyre, Bishop Charles F. Buddy of San Diego and Bishop J. Holmes-Siedle of Karema, Tanganyika, Africa.

Led by a military color guard and the brilliantly garbed band of St. Augustine's Boys High School, the marchers intoned hymns of praise to Mary as they entered the college patio.

Participating in the parade were students, representatives of the parochial organizations, Knights of Columbus, Papal Knights, uniformed military personnel, Sisters and priests.

Cardinal's Sermon

Some 10,000 jammed the patio while thousands more knelt reverently outside the gates to recite the Rosary and assist at Solemn Benediction given by His Eminence.

In his sermon, the Cardinal reviewed briefly the dogmas of Mary and told the crowd that "this Marian Year serves to recall these doctrines and helps us to a more intimate knowledge of Our Lady."

He reminded his audience that "no one knows God so intimately as His mother. Mary also knows us," he continued. "She knows our weaknesses; she knows our needs and the world's needs."

"To whom then shall we go for assistance if not to Mary, the Mother of God and the Mother of Mankind."

CHAPEL TO BE CONSECRATED

This is an inside view of the College for Women's Chapel which will be consecrated Feb. 2 by the Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy, bishop of the San Diego Catholic Diocese. With its 750 seats, the sanctuary is one of the largest here. Bishop Buddy will also dedicate the college, which opened two years ago and which is a part of the 10-million-dollar University of San Diego being built at Alcala Park.

Chapel at S. D. College for Women Completed

One of the most beautiful chapels in the nation was completed this week with the installation of the sanctuary gates in the chapel of the San Diego College for Women at Alcala Park.

It marked the end of three and a half years of patient waiting on the part of the Religious of the Sacred Heart of Jesus who staff the college.

Since the shell of the chapel was completed over two years ago, the nuns have awaited the arrival of the boxes and crates from Mexico and Italy and the various regions of the United States which encased the marbles and bronze and woods of the chapel's installations.

Hand Sculptured

From Italy came the communion table and the magnificent milk-white altar, hand sculptured in Bottechini marble. The altar will be consecrated February 1 by the Most Reverend Bishop.

The next day, February 2, the Bishop will dedicate the 700 capacity chapel itself.

Located in the east wing of the college, the chapel stems from the main quadrangle opening into two other patios.

Lifelike Statues

Aisles laid in Tennessee marble with Verona borders lead to the sanctuary. Lifelike figures in polychromed cedarwood stand out in striking relief on the gold leafed reredos.

The centerpiece shows the crucifixion scene. On either side are smaller groups, one of Melchisedech blessing Abraham, the other of Moses and the Israelites gathering manna. Surrounding the centerpiece and the two side scenes are small figures representing the Apostles, each in its own niche.

The entire reredos and the figures are of cedar hand carved in Mexico and shipped to the college in eight pieces for assembly. Atop the reredos stands a Trinity symbol which resembles a huge monstrosity.

Nave Stalls

Pews of the chapel are of oak. Mahogany stalls line the three walls of the nave. Symbols of the Church, the Sacraments and Our Lady are carved on the stall panels.

The Stations of the Cross are done in mosaic imported from Italy. Above the stations run handwrought grilles. Metal balustrades with torchiere lamps stand before each of the stained glass windows. Frames for the windows and the piers separating them are in cast stone.

Coffered Ceiling

The coffered ceiling also shows cast stone work in a tudor rose theme.

The choir loft, a transept chapel and a sacristy on either side of the sanctuary complete the edifice.

The ceremonies of dedication, which begin at 10 a.m. on February 2, are open to the public. His Excellency will be celebrant of the Solemn Mass of Dedication and will also deliver the sermon for the occasion.

Assisting at the ceremonies will be Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, rector of St. Joseph's Cathedral, as assistant priest; Very Rev. James T. Booth, deacon; Rev. Victor P. Salandini, subdeacon; Revs. Donald R. Kulleck, Vincent Bartuska and John Desmond, masters of ceremonies.

Acting as deacons of honor to the Bishop will be Rev. William A. Bergin and Rev. James R. Anderson.

Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan, president of St. Francis Seminary, El Cajon, will direct a choir of students from the local seminaries.

Preparation for consecration of the altar will begin the evening of January 31 with veneration of the chapel relics. At 9 a.m. the next morning His Excellency will perform the ceremony of consecration and celebrate a Low Mass.

DAVID NYVALL JR.

He taught music

David Nyvall Services Set

Services will be held at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Benbough Mortuary for David Nyvall Jr., 68, professor of music at the University of San Diego's College for Women. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Nyvall, who lived at 4502 Cleveland Ave., died yesterday in a hospital.

Born in Minnesota, he taught music many years. Before coming here seven years ago he taught in De Paul University and Chicago public schools.

He was a member of the American Guild of Organists. Alpha Tau Omega, national music fraternity, and the Browning Society of San Diego, and was a board member of the San Diego Symphony Association.

Survivors are his widow, Thelma; a son, David R., of Chicago; two daughters, Mrs. Thelma Barker, of Chicago, and Mrs. Doris Neal of Palm-dale, and three grandchildren.

Citizens Oppose Trailer Park Plan

The San Diego City Council will hold a public hearing January 21 at 10 a.m. in Room 358, Council Chamber, Civic Center, on the appeal filed against the zoning committee decision denying a request to erect and operate a trailer park of 150 units on a portion of Pueblo Lot 264, bounded by Morena Blvd., Tecolote Creek Channel, and the proposed Tecolote Valley Rd. east of Knoxville St. in zones C and R-1.

An objection against erection of this court, lodged by representatives of the San Diego College for Women at Alcala Park, was previously upheld by the zoning committee.

Upon receipt of notice of the City Council's hearing, a spokesman for the college said this week:

Catholic leaders will oppose the zone variance permitting trailer camps in Tecolote Valley at the hearing January 21 and in the Polo Grounds at the council hearing, January 28.

They believe that it is not only in the best interests of the University of San Diego but of the city itself that the area around Alcala Park should be kept free of any defacement.

Seminaries Will Add Units to University

Administration Building, High School for Boys Get Finishing Touches

As final touches are given to two more units of the University of San Diego at Alcala Park, plans are being whipped into shape for the erection of a third group of buildings there.

The Most Reverend Bishop has announced that blueprints of Immaculate Heart and St. Francis seminaries are being prepared by architect Edgar V. Ullrich for submission to the board of diocesan consultants.

Speaking for Sinner Bros., general contractors, John Sinner said this week that, as soon as the university's Administration Building is "off our hands," his firm will be free to undertake construction of the seminaries.

"The first section of the boys' high school is ready," Mr. Sinner added.

In the meantime, pastors throughout the diocese have turned their attention to the spiritual and financial campaigns for funds to finance the new projects.

Several already have perfected plans for novenas, Masses and other features of the spiritual crusade to be launched on February 14 in preparation for the $2,000,000 drive.

To be held in the four counties of the diocese from March 14 to April 10, the campaign for funds will be directed by the pastors.

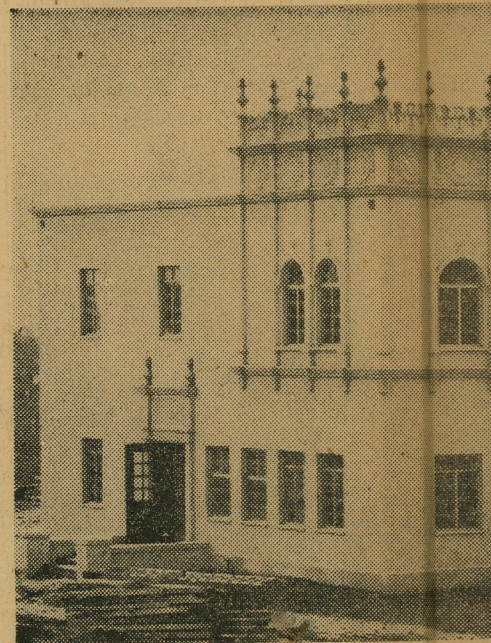

"They will serve instead of professional promoters," His Excellency said. "Thus every penny raised will be used for the construction of the seminaries. A donation of $25,000 recently received will meet all the expenses incident to the campaign."

February 15 is the date tentatively set for occupancy of the Administration Building.

It will house the offices of the university's president as well as the headquarters of the diocesan superintendent of schools.

Its appointments also include the offices of the vicars general, diocesan chancellor and Bishop's secretary; the editorial and advertising departments of The Southern Cross; the offices of the matrimonial tribunal, diocesan cemeteries and the Propagation of the Faith.

S. D. College To Dedicate New Chapel

San Diego College of Women will dedicate its chapel and altar at 10 a.m. Tuesday in colorful ceremonies at the Catholic school.

Most Rev. Charles Francis Buddy, D.D., bishop of the San Diego Diocese, will celebrate a solemn pontifical mass after the dedication, Rev. R. Mother Hill, superior vicar of the Western Vicariate, said.

A processional into the chapel will begin sanctification of the chapel and altar. Seminarians of the Immaculate Heart will provide music, assisted by alumni, students and the Friends and Children of Mary.

Opened in February, 1951, San Diego College of Women is part of the new multimillion-dollar San Diego University in Alcala Park off Linda Vista Road. It is operated by the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

Solemn Mass, Procession Dedicate Women's College to Spiritual Use

The chapel of San Diego College for Women, Alcala Park, was nearly filled to 800-person capacity yesterday for dedication ceremonies and celebration of a Solemn Pontifical Mass.

The Most Rev. Charles Francis Buddy, bishop of the San Diego Catholic Diocese, officiated. He led a procession inside and outside the chapel, blessing the cement and stucco structures to spiritual use.

The chapel has been used by the college for a year, but final details of furnishing were completed only last week. The students wore caps and gowns in the processional and at the Mass following.

Assisting in celebration of the Mass were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, the Rev. James T. Booth, the Rev. Victor T. Salandini, the Rev. James R. Anderson, the Rev. William Bergin, the Rev. Donald Kulleck and the Rev. Vincent Bartuska. The Most Rev. Joseph M. Mueller, bishop of the Sioux City, Iowa, diocese, was a special guest. Others included

Frank Hope, architect who designed the chapel, and his wife, and Dr. Malcolm A. Love, president of San Diego State College, and his wife.

Walls of the chapel, modeled after a Spanish cathedral, are of Philippine mahogany and pews are made of carved oak. The coffered ceiling is decorated with a Tudor theme. Fourteen stained glass windows depict scenes from the life of the Lord.

The altar of cedarwood burnished with gold leaf was carved in Mexico, but all other work was done here.

Mother Rosalie Hill heads the staff of the Religious of the Sacred Heart who operate the school, which opened in February, 1951. Two hundred girls are currently enrolled.

women throughout the world. Especially did the Bishop praise Reverend Mother Rosalie Hill, vicar superior of the Vicariate of San Diego, for the foresight she had shown "in building here so magnificent an educational institution as the San Diego College for Women." All present, especially the distinguished lay and ecclesiastical visitors received the Bishop's words of appreciation for their support of so great an event in the life of the college.

The chapel, which dominates the east wing of the college, was designed by Frank L. Hope, AIA, who was also architect for the other sections of the women's unit.

The Bishop consecrated the altar of the chapel in a private ceremony held Monday, February 1.

Women's College Cornerstone Laid

Another important milestone in the brief history of the San Diego College for Women came January 6 when the Most Reverend Bishop officiated at the laying of the cornerstone at the Alcala Park school, first unit of the University of San Diego.

The commemorative marble plaque is carved with the dates of the foundation of the college and the crest of the Religious of the Sacred Heart who conduct the school.

Box Inserted

The ceremony took place following Mass which was offered in the college chapel. Before sealing the cornerstone, the Bishop, assisted by Rev. Father Francis, OSF, inserted into the opening a small copper box containing the names of all the founders of the college, including the first students and teachers.

Present for the event were members of the faculty, students and Mr. Frank Hope, AIA, who designed the building.

The woman's college was first opened in February, 1952.

Pius XII Proclaims Virgin Mary Feast

All Catholics Will Observe May 31 As Day Honoring Queen Of Church

ROME, Nov. 1 (UP) — Pope Pius XII today proclaimed a new Roman Catholic feast day honoring the Virgin Mary as he placed crowns of gold and jewels on the oldest known painting of the Madonna and Child.

The ceremony celebrated the queenship of Mary and climaxed the Marian year, a year consecrated by the Pope to special devotion to the Madonna. It also marked the fourth anniversary of the Pope's proclamation of the dogma that Mary was assumed bodily into heaven. The new feast day is May 31.

In a speech before 300,000 persons in St. Peter's basilica, the Pope said some of the Free World statesmen today are showing signs of fatigue, submission or inactivity.

This, he said, keeps the world leaders from facing "with firmness and perseverance the arduous problems of the present moment."

"At times they even allow events to go adrift instead of blocking them with healthy and constructive action," the pontiff said.

He was dressed in gold-and-white ceremonial robes and sat upon his golden throne. Following his speech he knelt before the Altar of the Confession and recited a special prayer calling for aid from the Virgin Mary to all mankind and the church in Communist nations.

Then the pontiff placed golden crowns, studded with sapphires and diamonds, on the images of Mary and the Christ Child in the portrait.

Thirty cardinals, 300 archbishops and bishops and 50,000 pilgrims from the Catholic world assembled in the basilica, which was lighted by 4,000 candles.

The Madonna painting is attributed to St. Luke and is believed to have miraculous powers. It is the only known painting of Mary by a man who saw her in his lifetime.

It was carried in procession last night to the basilica of St. Peter's from St. Mary Major, where it is kept. Pius XII recited his first mass as a young priest facing the painting in the Borghese Chapel of St. Mary Major.

Liberal Arts Courses, Night School Planned

As the drive for two more units of the University of San Diego swings into action, the first school for men recently completed on the Alcala Park campus will open its doors to students of the liberal arts.

Scheduled to open on March 15, the San Diego College for Men will offer courses in philosophy, higher mathematics, American history, modern history, the romance languages, English and Latin. Classes in these subjects will be conducted through the first full semester of four and a half months in the school recently completed as University Boys' High School.

Reason for Decision

The decision to use the edifice as a college was taken at a conference of the Most Reverend Bishop, university president, the architects and contractors. As the builders require eight months to erect the University Library which has been planned to include six lecture halls for college students, the Most Reverend Bishop has decided to open for the time being the new school to students of collegiate grades.

Registration of students will take place next week—Monday, March 8, through Friday, March 12—in the Chancery Office, 1528 Fourth Ave. Registration hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on these days.

For acceptance, applicants must present to the registrars letters of recommendation and high school credits,

Registrars

Registrars are Very Rev. James T. Booth, chancellor; Rev. Donald R. Kulleck, vice chancellor; and Miss Amelia Bor-

The college also will conduct night sessions which will include, among other things, school of law, theology and philosophy. Night classes will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, final steps have been taken to launch on March 14 the financial campaign for construction of the major and minor seminaries at Alcala Park.

Already several substantial donations have been made. A San Bernardino County resident who wishes to remain anonymous, has signed a note for $50,000 which he pledges to pay within three years. Francis O'Farrell of San Diego has given $10,000; Edward A. Farrell of San Diego, $10,000; Rose Garrigan of San Diego, $5,000. Three donations of $10,000 each have been made in memory of Peter Bogue, Ellen Bogue and Mary King. Another San Diegan has given $1,365.

Final preparations for the actual solicitation of funds include a personal letter from His Excellency to every Catholic home in the four counties of the diocese; sermons in every church of the diocese; distribution of leaflets at all Masses on Sundays, March 7 and 14; parochial meetings to select, instruct and enthuse teams of solicitors; and a novena to conclude the spiritual crusade from Friday, March 5, to Sunday, March 14.

Sermons and related literature explain the purposes of the campaign, the need for the seminaries and stress the interest every parish in the diocese should have in their construction "because every parish depends on the seminaries for priests."

Burses Invited

The Chancery announced this week that burses will be gladly accepted in the course of the campaign. A gift of $6,000 will found a perpetual burse. Placed in a trust fund, the accrued interest of such a burse will help to educate an aspirant to the priesthood.

A gift of $4,450 will build and equip a room for a seminarian; a contribution of $8,900 will build one of the chapels in the University church. All donors will share in a novena of Masses every month.

Officers of the University of San Diego are Most Reverend Charles F. Buddy, D.D., president; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis C. Ott, vice president; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph V. Clarkin, treasurer; and Very Rev. Msgr. Richard R. Daniels, secretary.

Trustees

The board of trustees includes Frederick A. Wekenman, Peter Lynch, Patrick Dunne, Thomas A. Matthews, Franklin F. Hurd, Jose R. Nunez, Luke Deignan, Francis Dillon, Owen Hannon and David P. McAstocker.

The staff for the new College of Men will be announced in next week's issue of The Southern Cross.

Articles of Incorporation of the University of San Diego, dated October 5, 1949, were certified by the Secretary of State as filed November 22, 1949.

all the Masses last Sunday, each pastor who heads the campaign in his parish, and his assistants supplemented the instruction and solicited the cooperation of parishioners for the task ahead. A second series of sermons is scheduled for this Sunday, March 14.

Essay and poster contests were chief features of the educational campaign conducted among the youth of the diocese. At a date to be announced later, His Excellency will present prizes for the best contributions submitted by students of diocesan secondary and elementary schools. Subjects of the contests, which closed on March 5, were: "Why the Diocesan Seminaries" for essays; "Our Seminary brings the priest to the people; the priest brings the means of grace to the people," for posters.

Novena

A novena from March 5 to March 14 will close the spiritual crusade organized to invoke God's blessing and aid for the success of the financial campaign.

Diocesan director of the drive is His Excellency; deanery chairmen are the Right Reverend and Very Reverend deans; heads of the parochial committees are the pastors. Officers and members of diocesan and parochial organizations compose the committees in parishes.

"Achievement of our goal in this drive will enable us to erect our diocesan seminaries in Alcala Park and this in turn will secure release of the schools near El Cajon for the Rockne Institute of Technical Arts," concluded His Excellency's message to The Southern Cross this week.

First Graduation Held at San Diego Women's College

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1954

First commencement exercises of the San Diego College for Women at Alcalá Park last Monday, June 1 attracted nearly 50 monsignors and priests of the diocese, sisters of several orders, and scores of relatives and friends.

The Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego presided at the historic event which took place in the theater of the college.

Rev. John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, presented seven candidates, first group of graduates in the brief history of the school, for Bachelor of Arts degrees.

They were Mrs. Therese Truitt Hanafin, Miss Mary Christina Binggell, Miss Kathleen Maria McGonigle and, in absentia, two Sisters Servants of the Blessed Sacrament and two School Sisters of Notre Dame.

Nursing Degrees

Degrees of Bachelor of Science in Nursing were awarded to Miss Else Quiroz and Miss Jean C. Rubel.

As the candidates stepped on the stage, one by one, His Excellency placed the hoods over their heads and conferred the diplomas.

Associate of Arts certificates were presented to 19 sophomores who successfully completed undergraduate courses.

Bishop Speaks

In his address, the Bishop extended to the graduates "most cordial congratulations" on behalf of the priests of the diocese.

He compared the procession of students into the theater to "another great procession — the trek of those pioneers, the first Religious of the Sacred Heart," to the West.

Recalling the days when the San Diego College for Women was "but a dream," His Excellency praised the sacrifice and foresight of the Religious who staff the school and the parents of the students for providing the facilities for a truly Christian education.

To the graduates he said:

Consoling Privilege

"It is indeed a consoling privilege to participate in this history making occasion—the first commencement exercises of the San Diego College for Women...

"The Philosophy of Christianity," he continued, "is part and parcel of a well-balanced college education. All branches rest on indestructible and irrefutable truth..."

"You are living witnesses that faith has more force than fear, that prayer is resistless still, that virtue, not just in the abstract but in the concrete, is power and courage and joy and beauty and sympathy and blessedness."

The Immaculate Heart Seminary Choir, under the direction of Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan, presented a musical program at the opening of the exercises.

The procession which also included priests of the diocese, professors of the San Diego College for Men and the faculty of the women's college, was led by a Naval color guard.

Following the ceremonies, the procession moved to the college chapel for Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis C. Ott, pastor of Blessed Sacrament church, was celebrant; Rev. Cornelius Cronin, professor at St. Francis Seminary, El Cajon, deacon; Rev. John Gallagher, pastor of St. Rita's church, subdeacon; and Rev. Donald R. Kulleck, Bishop's secretary and vice chancellor, master of ceremonies.

Also assisting were Revs. Patrick Fox, William L. Shipley and J. Noel Thompson.

The day's events were closed with a reception attended by relatives and friends of the graduates.

Other Priests

Among the other priests present were Rt. Rev. Msgrs. Patrick Dunne, VG, Franklin Hurd, F. A. Wekenman, Francis Dillon, Luke Deignan and Revs. John Desmond, Methodius Cikrit, Alfred Geimer, Jacob DeMoor, Victor Salandini, William Bergin, Wilfred Diamond, Lawrence Geoghan, John C. Church Schools Are Important, President Says

CINCINNATI (NC) — President Dwight D. Eisenhower stressed the "important place" held in the U. S. educational system by church-related colleges and universities, in a message to the president of Xavier University here.

President Eisenhower also praised "their rich contribution to the building of better communities, a finer nation, and a peaceful world."

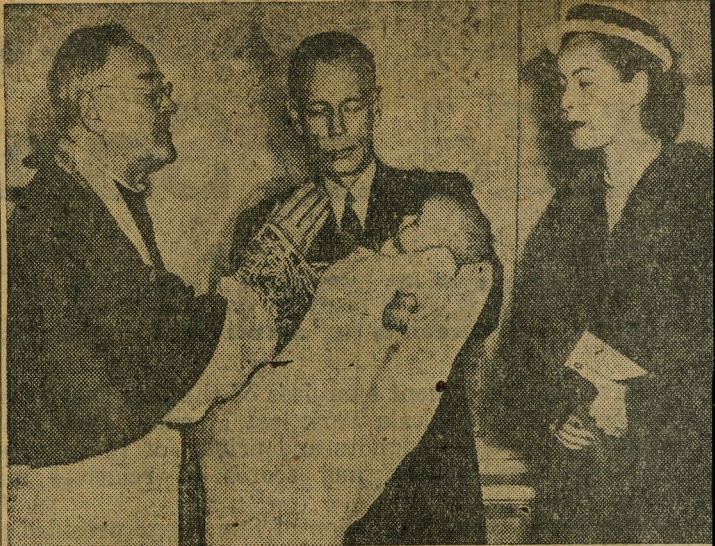

The President's letter extended congratulations to the university on the dedication of its new Thomas J. Logan Chemistry Building.

In the Van

In his personal message to Father James F. Maguire, SJ, Xavier University president, Mr. Eisenhower said that for generations church-related institutions of learning "have been in the van of higher education and now extend their influence throughout our land."

"They have brought advantages of higher education to thousands of our people, many of whom would never have enjoyed college and university training except for such schools," the President said.

Future Plans For College Considered

Not many moons ago he didn't think it was possible; the goal seemed out of reach; his new mission beyond fulfillment.

Today it is different with Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men.

Steeped in the realities of his new assignment, he is busy with classes in Alcala Park, with the arrangement of courses, assignment of professors and the many other duties of a college president.

Opened last Monday, the four year school of liberal arts and sciences has made a good start, Father Storm told The Southern Cross on Wednesday.

Specialized Courses

"Classes in philosophy, classical and modern languages, religion, mathematics, history and English will be expanded in the fall to include such concentrated fields as studies in the novel and short story in the department of English, in higher mathematics, sociology, education, economics, political science, finance and advanced studies in American and European history."

The first two years of studies serve more or less as an introduction, in the next two, to completion of the requirements for the bachelor's degrees in arts and sciences, which the college is empowered to confer, Father Storm said.

Another important department in the school will be devoted to preliminary studies in the nature and origin of law. This will prepare students for the School of Law, also part of the College for Men.

To provide as many young men as possible with the advantages of a college education, a nominal tuition of $10 for each credit was fixed by the president and approved by the Most Reverend Bishop.

The fee amounts only to $1280 for the complete course or for the 128 credits required for graduation.

Asked about the School of Law, Father Storm said that students with bachelor's degrees are automatically eligible. Also qualified, he added, are students who have completed three years in college.

Professors in the School of Law must be specialists in their respective fields and must, of course, hold the necessary degrees.

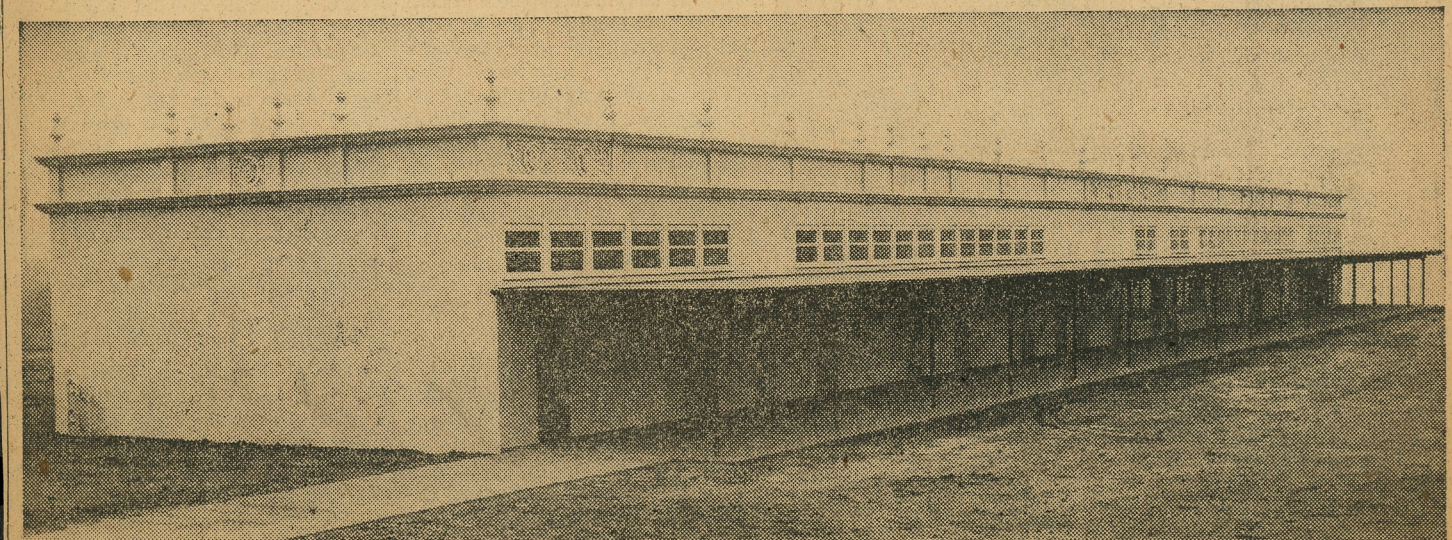

Selection of additional instructors for the Law School, which opens April 5, is now being completed, Father Storm said.

Specific plans for the fall semester are also being made. A catalogue of studies and general information about the new educational institution will be available in the early summer.

While students already registered for this semester are residents of San Diego city and county, it is expected that young men from other sections of Southern California will seek admission in the fall. Arrangements to accommodate them in homes near the school already are being made.

And so with the College for Men underway, the president looks to its future and plans accordingly. "The ideal staff must number at least 20 and this we hope to have as we enter the first full academic year," he concluded.

Chaplain Lauds Navy Family

Air Station's Commander Is Praised

"An outstanding Catholic layman who is also an outstanding Navy officer has helped greatly to make the performance of the duties of chaplain here much easier and much more effective than would otherwise be the case."

Speaking was Father John P. Murphy, CDR (CHC) USN, senior chaplain at the North Island Naval Air Station in San Diego Bay. The layman is Captain Walter F. Rodee, USN, the air station's commanding officer.

"Captain Rodee's frequent attendance at Mass and reception of the Sacraments is an inspiring example to all stationed here with him," Father Murphy said, "and his understanding of and sympathy for the chaplain's work is most helpful."

At Communion Rail

The captain is not the only exemplar in the Rodee family. Every Sunday Mrs. Rodee and their children accompany him to the communion rail. Their two youngest boys usually serve the Mass.

"In spite of the many social demands on their time, the Rodees really live their faith," and "Mrs. Rodee's entire attitude toward life is inspired by it," the chaplain says.

Five of the seven Rodee children live with their parents on the air station. They are: Virginia, a freshman at San Diego College for Women; Caroline, who is employed locally; and Donald, John Joseph and Catherine, students at Sacred Heart School, Coronado.

The Rodees have two other children, Mary Elizabeth, who is married and resides in the East, and Walter, Jr., a student at Villanova Preparatory School, Ojai, Calif.

Class of '26

Captain Rodee, who has commanded the air station since October, 1952, received his commission as a member of the Naval Academy's class of 1926. He served aboard the USS West Virginia and, after flight training, received his pilot's "wings" at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, in April, 1929.

Assignments as a flier and to staff and command positions aboard the USS Lexington, one of the nation's early aircraft carriers, and the carriers Ranger, Hornet, Pybus, Independence, Puget Sound, Valley Forge, Boxer, Bon Homme Richard and Essex were interspersed with tours of duty at the station he now commands, in the office of the Chief of Naval Operations, and as Bureau of Aeronautics representative at Convair's San Diego plant.

He participated in World War II battles at Midway, Guadalcanal and Santa Cruz, took part in the raid on Rabaul and the occupation of Tarawa, and saw action in Korean waters.

Leadership in his professional as well as in his religious life is attested by the numerous decorations which Captain Rodee has received. In addition to the Navy Cross, the nation's second highest award for valor, three Legions of Merit and the Distinguished Flying Cross, he wears the Korean theater ribbon with seven battle stars, and the United Nations, Chinese Area, American Defense Service, American Area, Asiatic Pacific Area, and World War II Victory ribbons.

"It is the exemplary Catholic life led by this man which has done so much to facilitate the performance of my duties here," says Father Murphy.

The chaplain shrugs off mention of his own activities at the air station as "merely routine, the same as those of any other chaplain."

But the Catholic population among the 9,000 to 12,000 men and women assigned to his navy parish provides a very full day's round of activities for the chaplain and his assistants, John Cryan, AA, of Incarnation parish, Glendale, Calif., and Joan Ann Branche, of Utica, N. Y. Mass in the mornings, at 6:45, and some evenings, devotions, convert classes, confessions, and conferences where the navy men's problems are presented and studied occupy his time.

The chaplain paid high tribute to the diocesan Catholic Case-work Bureau in San Diego which, under the direction of Father Thomas Byrnes, gives practical assistance and worthwhile guidance to navy men and women referred to it.

Bronze Star

Ordained in 1933 for the Diocese of Lincoln, Nebr., Father Murphy was pastor of St. Joseph's parish, Harvard, Nebr. prior to joining the Navy Chaplain Corps in 1939. He served aboard the battleship USS Tennessee, the cruiser USS Helena and the carrier USS Philippine Sea, participated with the Marines in the New Georgia and Bougainville campaigns of World War II, and during the Korean conflict served with the Marine Air Wing. His decorations include the Navy unit citation, the Bronze Star, and the presidential unit citation.

At the air station, the chaplain receives outstanding help from his "Catholic Action group" of 12 enlisted men who rig and unrig the altar for daily Mass, serve at devotions and Benediction, and sing in the "excellent" choir of 20 voices directed by Mr. Arthur Sale who also directs the Sacred Heart parochial choir in Coronado.

Members of the group are:

Frank Blood, AT3, of Rapid City, South Dakota; William Flietz, AT1, of Peekskill, New York; Edward Hamerly, AT2, of Quincy, Illinois; John Hayes, SO3, of Memphis, Tennessee; Ernie Klugman, SN, of Olathe, Kansas; Gary O'Byrant, DNSN, of Birmingham, Alabama; Charles O'Neill, AN, of Lake Geneva, Wisconsin; Richard Puglisi, AKAN, of Norwalk, Ohio; Chester Rychlewski, SK3, of Chicago, Illinois; Esley Sarver, AK2, of Indianapolis, Indiana; Francis J. Souza, AK1, of New Bedford, Massachusetts, and Al Verploegen, AT3, of Havere, Montana.

When asked if the end of the Korean conflict had made any appreciable difference in his work at the air station, Father Murphy replied, "Yes, thank God, it has. Now I no longer have to make 'casualty calls' to inform wives, parents or children living near the station that their loved ones have been killed in action."

WITH THE OPENING of a College for Men this week, San Diego University climbed another notch higher on the educational scale.

The growth of this new university has been amazing to the community. During the first few months of its existence, the University's College for Women has won a fine reputation for educational achievement. The men's college gives promise of the same. And the architecture of the structures being completed adds much to community beauty. There is a need for San Diego University. We're happy to see it growing.

Women Students Among 30 Enrolled In 8 Night Classes

With 30 students registered for first classes, San Diego university's School of Law made its bow at Alcala Park last Monday, April 5.

Very Rev. James Booth, regent of the school, told The Southern Cross this week that the enrollment is satisfactory and speaks well for the future of the school. Members of the faculty, he said, are prepared for a very busy Spring quarter.

In eight classes conducted nightly Monday through Friday, four subjects, the first in a law student's course, will be taught.

The subjects are Contracts, Criminal Law, Torts and Property and are considered fundamental in the four years course of studies required for the L.L.B. degree.

Classes will be held Monday and Tuesday from 7 to 8:15 p.m. and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday from 7 to 8:15 p.m. and 8:25 to 9:40 p.m.

Students registered to date are all residents of San Diego city and county, Father Booth said. They are graduates of such schools as Stanford, University of California, USC, UCLA, University of Creighton, San Diego State College and the universities of Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

Cœducational

Father Booth also announced that not only men but women are eligible for the school provided they hold the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Three women are among the first registrants.

Students are required to take at least six and not more than nine units through the first quarter which will end with examinations on June 18. The fee for each unit is $10. A total of 126 units is required for the L.L.B. degree.

There will be a recess for Easter from April 15 to April 20. No classes will be held on the Feast of the Ascension, Thursday, May 27.

The School of Law is a department of the University of San Diego and is located in the Men's College at Alcala Park.

The Alcala Park Players of San Diego College for Women set a high standard for future efforts in their first major production, Maxwell Anderson's "Mary of Scotland," presented yesterday afternoon in the college theater.

The play progressed smoothly under the knowing direction of Mother Susan Campbell of the college's English and drama faculty. Artistic sets and costumes also contributed to the play's success.

will appear as Queen Elizabeth. These leading roles were well played in the opening performance by Diane Sinclair and Kathleen Brophy.

Other actors are Rebecca Radford, Arline Raymond, Ann Phillips, Dorothy Wawrzynski and Valmore Dessert. Among the historic characters showing up in this drama of bitter rivalry are the Earl of Bothwell, John Knox, Lord Darnley, Lord Burghley and the Earl of Moray. Principal scenes are set in Mary Stuart's great hall at Holyrood House and in Queen Elizabeth's study at Whitehall. C.H.

MADONNA OF THE APPLE, by Hans Memling.

An Artist's Mature Portrayal of Mary

Hans Memling, one of the greatest Flemish artists, is noted for the beauty of his portraits, which he painted with great accuracy and detail. He was a craftsman of the first order, refining the hard surfaces of his school with the precise, gentle touch and the bright coloring used by illuminators of manuscripts. As emotionally he was a man of single mood, in design he was an artist of a single pose. Although a German by birth, he spent the greater part of his life in Bruges, and there most of his paintings are still to be found. He imitated Roger Der Weyden, avoiding, however, his harshness and ungraceful drawing.

The Madonna of the Apple or the Nieuwenhoven Madonna is Memling's finest and most mature portrayal of Our Lady, and marks the epitome of his religious spirit. It is a diptych in which the portrait of the donor, Martin Nieuwenhoven, adorns the other wing and gives us the name of the charming painting.

The Madonna is a tender loving young Mother, clothed in grey-blue tunic and crimson mantle. In her hand she holds a bright red apple, for which the Little Jesus reaches out. Her elongated head is bound by a fillet of pearls; the neck of her tunic is inset with rubies and sapphires, interspersed with pearls. And her brown hair hangs loosely around her shoulders. She holds the Christ Child upright on a damask pillow, which is placed on a table covered by a Persian rug.

Artist at Prayer

Virgin Described as The Eternal Feminine

One would expect Father Daniel A. Lord's book Our Lady in the Modern World to be a study of the Mother of God and her influence in the twentieth century. The book does present such a study, but not only that. Father Lord conceives of Our Lady as "The Eternal Feminine" and therefore as the ideal of womanhood throughout all ages.

The reader of this book will be rewarded by new insights into the charm, grace, beauty and fascination of Mary's characteristics and virtues. He will discover how her beauty is the beauty of every age that loves her and calls her Mother. He will recognize that her virtues are contemporaneous with any period of history, and her influence the most powerful that has ever impressed itself on the character of mankind.

Her Divine Son was, of course, the greatest inspiration of all time. Yet, amazingly enough, as Father Lord points out, Mary was the inspiration of Christ. His growth in human wisdom depended upon His Mother who taught Him.

This same teaching is available to any Christian who calls upon her today. And the essence of her teaching is concentrated in the virtue most needed by the present age—the virtue of love.

She is the teacher par excellence of the knowledge of love because she herself is the essence of love in its human perfection. Mary achieved this perfection through her gift of rejecting evil and singling out the good. And it is also because of this unique gift that she was able to set the standards of conversation and conduct for all Christian peoples. —Felicia Flynn.

Mary Pictured As Florentine

The Italian artist Fra Filippo Lippi was born in Florence in 1406 and died in Spoleto, October 9, 1469. Orphaned in childhood, he entered the Carmelite monastery in Florence in 1421 at the age of 15.

His early style was developed by studying Masaccio's frescos in the Brancacci Chapel but later was influenced by Masolino and Angelico of Fiesole.

In 1442 he was appointed rector of the parish of San Quirico at Legnaia, near Florence. In 1453 he began his work at Prato where, three years later, he was appointed chaplain to the nuns of Santa Margherita. Later they commissioned him to paint a panel for the high altar of their church.

Of his easel pictures, Lippi's masterpiece is the "Virgin Adoring the Child," which is now in the Kaiser Friedrich Museum in Berlin. Here, for the first time in Italian art, we have the Madonna in the form of a young and attractive Florentine woman.

She is dressed in a clear blue garment and her eyes are cast downward upon the Child who has a chubby body and a head of curly blond hair. Her hands are folded with grace and poise. The background is of dark green and the landscape has a depth and a close observation which cannot be found again in painting until the time of Coreggio some 50 years later. —Patricia Friel.

Methodist Club Hears College Girls

"Know when to speak, how to speak and what to say to others." That's the aim of the recently-organized Speakers' Club at the San Diego College for Women.

The group launched its activities May 12 when sophomores Jacqueline Kearns and Elayne Langenieux accepted an invitation to address the Wesley Club of the Orland Methodist church.

The girls explained the main tenets of the Catholic Faith, gave a brief history of the Church and outlined her contribution to culture throughout the ages.

Following their talks, the girls answered questions of the audience which, they report, were "intelligent and well-meant." They concerned, for the most part, the Transubstantiation, confirmation, laws of fast and abstinence and the Church's position on politics.

20,000 Hear Cardinal at San Diego Marian Rally

SAN DIEGO—Twenty thousand San Diegans flocked to Alcala Park here last Sunday for a Marian Year rally at which His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles presided and preached.

The twilight demonstration

opened with a 90-minute parade from the east entrance of Alcala Park to the main patio of the San Diego College for Women atop the hill, according to the Southern Cross, diocesan newspaper.

The parade was reviewed from the steps of the University Administration Building by Cardinal McIntyre, Bishop Charles F. Buddy of San Diego and Bishop J. Holmes-Siedle of Karema, Tanganyika, Africa.

Led by a military color guard and the brilliantly garbed band of St. Augustine's Boys High School, the marchers intoned hymns of praise to Mary as they entered the college patio.

Participating in the parade were students, representatives of the parochial organizations, Knights of Columbus, Papal Knights, uniformed military personnel, Sisters and priests.

Cardinal's Sermon

Some 10,000 jammed the patio while thousands more knelt reverently outside the gates to recite the Rosary and assist at Solemn Benediction given by His Eminence.

In his sermon, the Cardinal reviewed briefly the dogmas of Mary and told the crowd that "this Marian Year serves to recall these doctrines and helps us to a more intimate knowledge of Our Lady."

He reminded his audience that "no one knows God so intimately as His mother. Mary also knows us," he continued. "She knows our weaknesses; she knows our needs and the world's needs."

"To whom then shall we go for assistance if not to Mary, the Mother of God and the Mother of Mankind."

Thousands Expected For Colorful Events Of the Marian Year

Catholics of the San Diego diocese will make a public profession of their faith in God and His Blessed Mother in a great Marian celebration at Alcala Park this Sunday, May 9.

The main event of the Marian Year in this diocese will also be our centennial celebration of the Dogma of Mary's Immaculate Conception and will consist of prayerful appeals to God's Mother to seek her Son's pardon for the sins of mankind and His blessed peace for our troubled world.

His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, Archbishop of Los Angeles and Metropolitan of the Province, will preside at the exercises, preach the sermon and celebrate Solemn Pontifical Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Societies of men and women from every parish in the city and county of San Diego, students of the parochial schools and colleges, servicemen from the many military installations in San Diego, Papal Knights, Knights of Columbus and the clergy will participate in the solemn ceremonies.

At 4:30 p.m. the throng will form a procession at the east entrance to the University of San Diego off Linda Vista Road and, chanting hymns of praise to the Blessed Mother, will move along university road to the scene of the celebration atop the hill.

To Whom Shall We Turn If Not to Mary?—Cardinal

Hour and Half Procession Of San Diego Catholics Marks Local Observance

A crowd of 20,000 persons from the parishes of San Diego flocked to Alcala Park last Sunday for the regional rally in honor of the Mother of God.

Led by the brilliantly garbed St. Augustine Boys Band, a parade of uniformed students from the schools and colleges of the area, parochial societies of men and women, military personnel, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus and Papal Knights in the colorful regalia of their rank, seminarians in cassocks and surplices, Sisters of several congregations and clergy vested in copes and chasubles passed in review along University Road to the main patio of the College for Women where the spiritual exercises of the celebration were held.

The procession was dotted with uniformed bearers of the American and Papal flags as well as the banners of the parishes and organizations represented.

Reviewed by Prelates

From the steps of the Administration Building, the 90-minute parade of Mary's devotees was reviewed by a Cardinal and two Bishops, flanked to the left by chaplains from local Naval installations and to the right by domestic prelates.

His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, Metropolitan of the Province, Most Reverend J. Holmes-Siedle of Karema, Tanganyika, Africa, and the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego, who organized the celebration, joined the marchers as they moved into the patio.

Largest Ever

It was the largest religious demonstration ever held in San Diego.

Thousands who failed to gain entrance to the patio, which accommodates some 10,000, knelt reverently outside the gates to pay tribute to the Mother of God.

The Rosary, the prayer which the Blessed Mother herself repeatedly requested in her every appearance at Fatima in 1917, brought forth a chorus of 20,000 voices in praise of Our Lady.

It was led by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, rector of St. Joseph's Cathedral.

Choirs Sing

The choir of Immaculate Heart Seminary, El Cajon, led by Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan, and St. Joseph's choir under the direction of Mrs. Lawrence Weir chanted traditional hymns of praise of God and His Mother — "Holy God We Praise Thy Name," "To Jesus Heart All Burning," "Ave Maria" as well as the national anthem and the "Song of Peace".

The statue of Our Lady of Fatima, borne in the procession by marines, was crowned in the patio by students of the college.

The vast congregation listened with rapt attention to Cardinal McIntyre's brief review of the dogmas of Mary and the study given to them by theologians throughout the centuries.

And in a day, His Eminence said, when the world's confusion results from man's separation from God, this Marian Year serves to recall these doctrines and helps us to a better knowledge of Our Lady.

"But there is a general trend among people," the Cardinal con-cry for help, to our pleas for the world's peace.

"Let us thank God for His Blessed Mother.

"O Mary conceived without sin," His Eminence concluded, "pray for us who have recourse to thee."

Cardinal McIntyre celebrated Solemn Benediction assisted by Rev. Michael O'Connor, pastor of Our Lady of Angels, San Diego, as deacon, and Rev. Patrick Kenny, pastor of St. Rose of Lima, Chula Vista, as subdeacon.

Masters of Ceremonies

Masters of ceremonies were Rev. Benjamin Hawks, Cardinal's secretary, and Rev. Donald Kulleck, vice chancellor and secretary of the Bishop of San Diego.

This was San Diego's special observance of the Marian Year which was instituted by His Holiness Pope Pius XII. In his encyclical "Fulgens Corona Glorise," the Holy Father urged public demonstrations and prayers for Mary's aid in promoting the world's peace.

The San Diego rally was the second of four planned for the diocese. The Sunday previous, a Living Rosary pageant was held in San Bernardino. Similar events are scheduled for Riverside and Imperial counties.

As hundreds of Catholic schoolchildren and members of adult orders passed before the reviewing clergy, chaplains from 11th Naval District formed a flanking contingent for the cardinal.

IN REVIEWING GROUP

Reviewing the procession were Bishop Buddy, the Most Rev. J. Holmes-Siedle, W. F. (White Fathers) from East Africa; the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Patrick Dunne, V.G., and the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, rector of St. Joseph's Cathedral. They served as Cardinal McIntyre's deacons.

A simple ceremony in the archway was the crowning of Our Lady of Fatima by Miss Mary Lou Turner of the college. Cardinal McIntyre followed his sermon with solemn pontifical benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Knights of St. Gregory were honor guard for the cardinal. The Marian Year observance marked the centenary of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception.

Very Rev. James T. Booth, diocese chancellor, was general chairman of the rally.

tinued, "to recognize the need for the providence of God. There is a reaction against the philosophy which has been growing in educational circles to exclude God; to take Him out of education, law, art, politics and almost everything. That reaction has come from the common people."

Cardinal McIntyre reminded his congregation that "no one knows God as intimately as His Mother. She was the closest person in the world to the God-man Himself.

"Mary also knows us," he added. "She knows our weaknesses; she knows our needs and the world's needs.

Writer 'Discovers' Mary of Nazareth

It is paradoxical that such a work as Mary of Nazareth should emerge as a result of the worst war that man has ever known. Yet, perhaps there is no paradox. All through the ages, when humanity has seemed to be hurrying towards destruction, Our Lady has drawn the attention of men to herself. What, then, is more natural than that Mary should again draw all hearts to her, showing men that she is their heavenly Mother, who wants to teach her earthly children to find peace?

Igino Giordani, a teacher, journalist, and writer has "discovered" Our Lady and, consequently, has fallen in love with her. Like most lovers, this author felt compelled to sing the praises of his beloved. Mary of Nazareth is for that reason a hymn of praise, an epic which vividly recounts the life of Our Lady and the Church's devotion to her.

Simple, Gentle

Readers will not find in this translation from the Italian the modern style of writing. Rather, they will find a prose-poem reminiscent of the Middle Ages in its simplicity, gentleness, and rich imagery. The free use of imaginary elements to fill in details will be disturbing to the realist, but the deep reality of the book's subject-matter should compensate for the romantic in its style.

Throughout the book the author stresses the place of the Virgin Mary in art and poetry. He is particularly fond of St. Bernard's lyric-like treatment of any and all things pertaining to his Queen.

—Mary Louise Scott.

Tiny Wood Cut Pictures Mary And Her Child

In 1901 the Royal Museum, Brussels, received into its collection of art treasures the "Virgin With Porridge" by Gerard David.

Less than one foot square, the tiny wood cut has two almost identical reproductions. They are to be found in the private galleries of von Pannwitz, Pannenhuis in the Belgian Low Country and in the collection of Robert W. de Forest of New York.

A color print of this masterpiece being unavailable at the present time, one can only conclude that the tones of this picture parallel those of David's other productions.

Heart Stirring

During the fifteenth century the Madonna was commonly arrayed in a robe and mantle of blue, representing fidelity. Her gown was usually a rosy-red and appeared below the hem of her mantle and at the sleeves. Add to these colors David's favorite soft blue in the landscape background, the pleasant green of a grassy meadow, and the subtle shades of red he used so effectively, and you have a painting that has stirred the hearts of many for centuries.

A master with the light-dark effects of a typical Flemish afternoon, Gerard David has reflected in the face of the Virgin and Christ Child the tenderness, content, and calm characteristic of an artist who rose from humble beginnings to universal renown.

Washington Letter

Worldwide Conflict Is Material vs. Spiritual

By J. J. GILBERT

WASHINGTON—In the midst of a great deal of turmoil here in the National Capital, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles slipped down to Williamsburg, Va., and emphasized a fact which everyone should ponder.

"Basically, the present conflict between freedom and despotism," he said, "is a conflict between a spiritual and material view of the universe and of the nature of man."

This is an elemental, crystal-clear appraisal of the world situation. It spotlights the source of the fight, and it helps to explain why it has spread into all parts of the world. Communism is not merely a political and economic theory. It is a philosophy that many have embraced as a religion.

Difficult to Combat

Secretary Dulles touched upon the effects of this when he said: "If one does not believe in a spiritual order, if one does not accept the fact of moral law and what the Virginia Bill of Rights referred to as 'the duty which we owe to our Creator,' then it is, indeed, difficult to combat the thesis that men should be the servants of the state; that one state should be the master over all other states."

It is easy to conclude, as the communists do, that the greatest harmony and greatest productivity comes from organizing a society of conformity, where diversity is treated as grit in the gears of a delicate machine."

These and other passages help one to understand why some people become communists. And they help, too, to bring home that fact that "freedom faces a most formidable challenge," and that, "the survival of freedom depends not merely on the number of the free but even more upon the intensity of their faith."

the preservation of peace. Falling in these objectives, the police must apprehend offenders so that they may be subjected to treatment intended to diminish the likelihood of future violations by these offenders or others so inclined.

There has never been any disagreement about the fact that life and property are jeopardized where a traffic violation results in a collision. However, one point in question has been—"Is not the traffic problem inevitable—a growing part in our way of life; whereby, the true 'criminal' act is needless and more worthy of police attention?"

The real criminal acts—homicides, robberies, mayhem, etc.—are definitely acts that, by themselves, are shocking experiences to the victims. They are vicious crimes, easily recognizable, and hardly acceptable in our civilized existence.

No Less Horrible

The tragedy of a mother or child left mangled or dead beside the roadway, caused by a driver's careless handling of his vehicle in traffic, is no less horrible than if it had been caused by the criminal actions of some crazed fiend. It might be a quicker or more acceptable form of death, but can it be honestly justified for that reason? In the final

Work Begins On College's Yule Play

No sooner had the Drama Club of the San Diego College for Women closed the books on its "Song of Bernadette" production when the members solicited the help of the entire college in planning and producing a Christmas pageant to be given December 5. All the pageantry will feature the Mother of the Infant Jesus in honor of the Marian Year.

The music department is rehearsing overtime on Vittoria's "Ave Maria," a "Magnificat" and, finally, "Glory to God in the Highest" from Handel's "Messiah." The latter has been especially arranged by David Nyvall, Jr., professor of music at the college.

The art department staged an all-day pageant party November 13 to erect scenery and manufacture angel wings in record time. The Sewing Club is making costumes from parachute silk.

The words "fruiting body," "holdfast" and "blade" are flying thick and fast in the college science laboratories these days. The reason? A seaweed collection has been presented to the department by Ceil Sutton and her family. The collection, made personally by Mrs. Sutton, includes more than 130 species found in San Diego waters this summer. Mrs. Sutton says that she "knew nothing about the subject" when she began the collection in July.

Collin Hough of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography is helping the department with identification. One rare specimen, donated by Mr. Hough, was discovered recently by Dr. E. Yale Dawson, also of Scripps.

Pink Champagne Toasts

One of the more glamorous events of the weekend was the pink champagne dinner dance given by Mr. and Mrs. Justin Evenson in their stately home in honor of the 21st birthday of their daughter, Lynn, Saturday night. Following the eight o'clock dinner, guests proposed birthday toasts with champagne as decorative Miss Evenson cut her birthday cake.

It was a pink-perfection party from the champagne to the table decor. The individual tables were covered with pink cloths and centered with pink candles in clusters of white stock. The buffet table, covered with a handsome

Former Superior To Teach in SD

(SPECIAL) — Mother Mary Downey, RSCJ, has been appointed to teach in the summer school at the San Diego College for Women at Alcala Park.

The new president of the Duchesne College is Mother Jeanette Kimball who has been a member of the faculty there since 1945.

Fr. J. Storm Tells Plans For College

Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting held by the San Diego Chapter of Creighton University Alumni in Lemon Grove last Sunday, June 27. The dinner honored three Creighton University officials, Rev. Henry W. Linn, SJ, executive assistant to the president, Rev. John J. Foley, SJ, regent of the Medical School, and Dr. F. J. Gillick, dean of the Medical School.

Makes for Optimism

"The worthy struggle that Creighton University has waged for a place of note in the academic world and the university's subsequent attainment of it, makes for optimism among us whose same advance has begun," Father Storm told the group.

The college president explained what the University of San Diego is and outlined some of the plans for its future.

Invited to Return

Noting that the Creighton officials were soon leaving for alumni meetings in neighboring states, Father Storm invited them to visit the Alcala Park campus on their 1955 trip to San Diego. "By that time," he continued, "the University of San Diego can put even a better foot forward. The foundation will then have been firmly set so as to welcome your appraisal and your thoughts for our betterment."

Another speaker, Dr. S. J. McClendon, past president of the California Medical Society, paid tribute to private colleges as the backbone of American education.

The local chapter's membership of over 100 alumni was well represented at the dinner. Robert Lindley of Lemon Grove, chapter president, served as chairman.

"STELLA MATUTINA" by Fra Angelico, pictured above, is an altarpiece in the monastery of San Marco. According to Patricia Keane, student at San Diego College for Women, "the upturned face of the Child suggests that He is about to whisper something in His Mother's ear. The somewhat sad expression on the Madonna's face seems to indicate that the artist wished to show her habitual contemplation of the sorrows she and her Son would experience together."

Chaplains to the new monsignor were Rev. John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, and Rev. George Rice, diocesan superintendent of schools.

Rev. Donald R. Kulleck, Bishop's secretary and vice chancellor, Rev. John Desmond, registrar of the men's college, and Father Gilfillan were masters of ceremonies.

Papal Knights present included Sir Joseph Scott, KSG, of Los Angeles, Sir William P. Mahedy, KSG, of San Diego, Sir Marius Biane, KSG, of Ontario, and Sir Martin Smith, KSG, of Upland.

Work Commended

"We of the San Diego jurisdiction have reason to be grateful to the Divine Benefactor for our editor-in-chief. His brilliant editorials reflect scholarship, meditation and, indeed, prayer.

"His logical writings appeal to the mind. Both priests and people agree that he edits an excellent publication that is worthy of the diocese and abreast of its rapid growth.

"No wonder," the Bishop continued, "because he never spares himself. Late at night you may see the lights in his study.

Not Vitriolic

"He has never agitated nor tried to startle with the sensational. Even though fearless and dynamic, his pen is never dipped in vitriol. He realizes the tremendous opportunity and corresponding responsibility of his position to form an alert, intelligent public opinion."

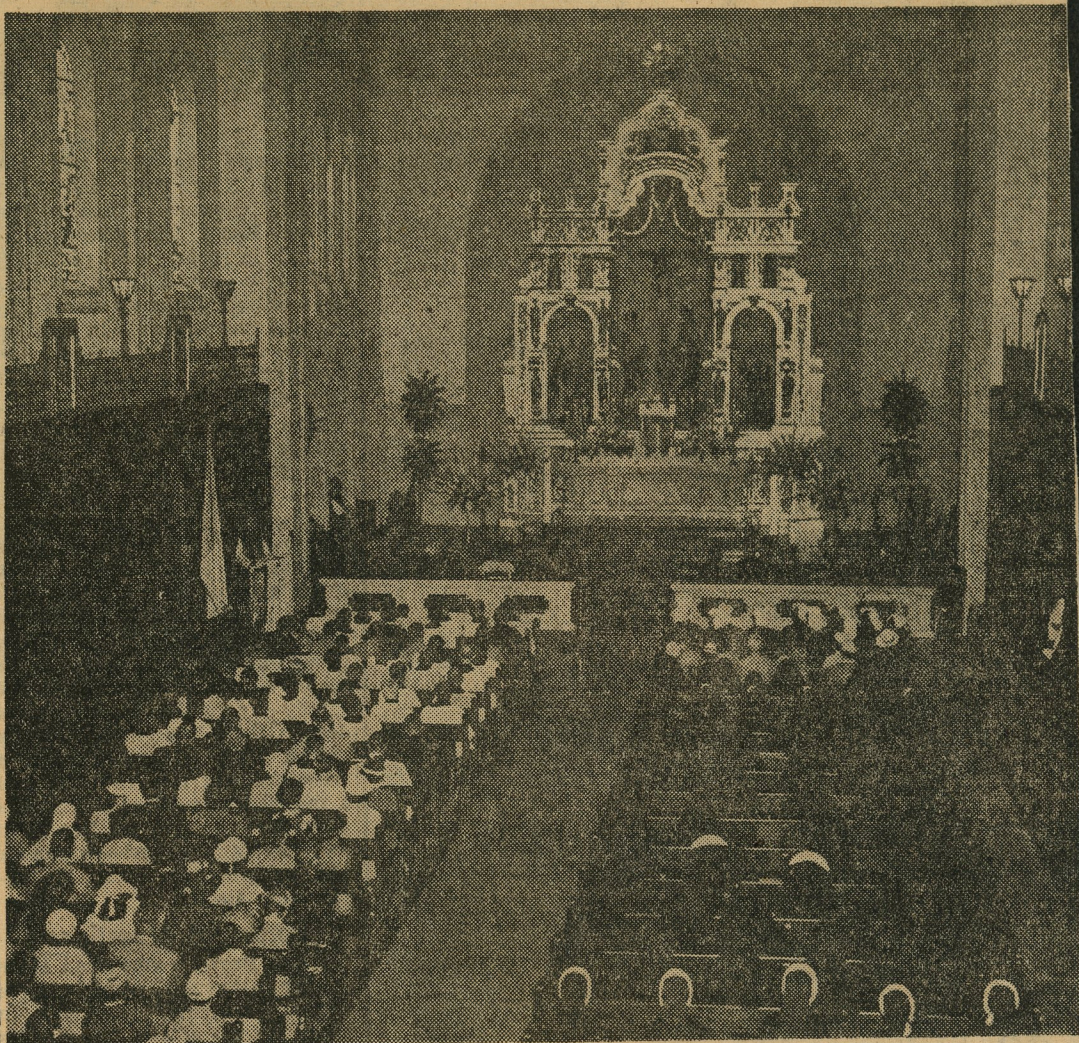

His Excellency also praised the fortitude of Msgr. O'Shea's native Ireland. "In the great international shuffle of four and a half centuries ago," he said, "England and Germany tried to cast off their clergy. Look at them today.

"By contrast behold how Ireland clung to her priests—even when everything else seemed shattered . . . As long as the priest remained with his people, they were invincible. No wonder then that today the Irish race is the most indestructible and courageous in the world."

Touching Greeting

Concluding, His Excellency remarked that "were Christ to come among us today and visit the offices of The Southern Cross, He might greet Msgr. O'Shea with the words: 'I've heard My mother speak of you'."

New Experience

admiration of all men of goodwill.

No question of our time, no problem that today vexes the human mind, no fear that today grips the human heart has escaped his notice. He has given his paternal attention to them all.

Encyclical has followed encyclical, allocution has followed allocution in an anxious effort to explain, to solve, to counsel and to direct.

A Friend to All

To statesmen, soldiers and scholars alike Pius has been a guide, to a dark world a light, to the afflicted, the homeless, the weak a comforter, to the Church a leader, to all a friend.

I cherish now this token of his paternal benevolence and to him pledge anew the allegiance of a dutiful son.

If this function were impossible without Rome's authorization, Rome's authorization were eliminated and pain alleviated.

You may not have raised the dead to life. But you have sent from the diocesan seminaries you erected into every corner of your jurisdiction priests to raise to the life of grace those buried in the grave of sin.

And in the College for Men over which you have placed able educators and in this magnificent institution, the College for Women, which reflects the blessed influence of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, you have made provision for an enlightened Catholic laity—so essential to our time.

Great apostle of the age, you have been a father to me. I pledge once again filial reverence, affection and obedience.

To my colleagues on The Southern Cross I owe a deep debt of gratitude. By their loyal cooperation, their devotion to the Apostolate of the Press and their tireless efforts to advance it in the Diocese of San Diego

Bishop Lauds Catholic Press At Investiture

The enemies of religion suppress the Catholic Press wherever they can because they fear its wholesome influence.

This point highlighted the Most Reverend Bishop's sermon at the solemn investiture of Rt. Rev. Msgr. James P. O'Shea, editor of The Southern Cross, in the chapel of the San Diego College for Women at Alcala Park last Sunday.

More than 200 priests and nuns, representatives of the secular press, of civic and fraternal organizations, military installations and scores of relatives and friends filled the spacious chapel for the colorful function.

Solemn Procession

The event was opened with a solemn procession of monsignors and priests led by a Marine color guard and an honor guard of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus. Accompanying His Excellency were his clerical chaplains and Knights of St. Gregory.

Thanking God for the freedom of the press which we enjoy in our country and the right to teach the truth in its relation to the Gospel of Jesus Christ, His Excellency said:

"The record shows that whenever the agents of Moscow conspire to enslave a country, one of their first violations of human rights is to suppress Catholic publications.

Air of Respectability

"Their cunning technique veils them with an air of respectability," he continued. "First come the censors. As a result of their interference, articles have to be so revised and distorted that they become unprintable because they contradict Catholic truth.

"Total suppression or possession of the publication follows. Thus in countries where the Catholic Press wields a wide and wholesome influence, the people are deprived of their diocesan paper.

"Regimes and ideologies do not suppress what they do not fear," the Bishop declared. "The Catholic editors, resolute and fearless in their convictions, write courageously."

Read by Chancellor

The Papal Brief which raised The Southern Cross editor to the rank of domestic prelate was read in Latin and English by Very Rev. James T. Booth, chancellor of the Diocese of San Diego.

Chaplains to His Excellency

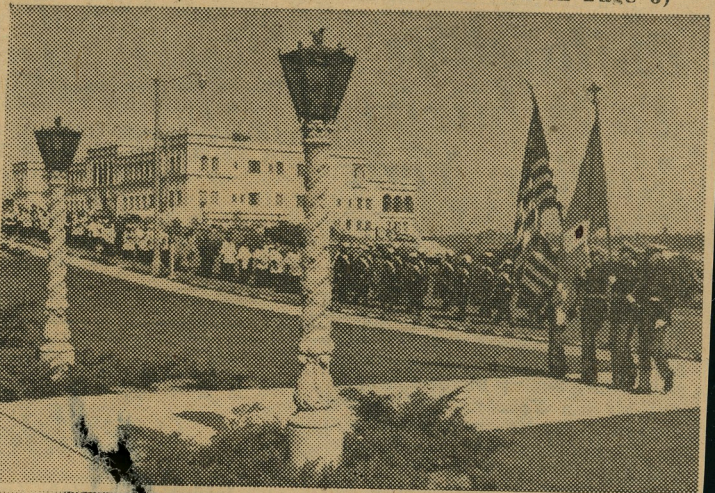

But today, in view of modern developments, "we need conscientious writers schooled in scholastic philosophy to teach and defend the truths of religion and give authentic news through the medium of the Catholic Press."

Zealous Missionaries

"Our Catholic publications are in reality and importance zealous missionaries that supplement the work of the Church and reach starving souls in outposts where we priests cannot penetrate," the Bishop said.

The ceremonies were opened with the Rosary and Litany of the Blessed Virgin led by Rev.

Medical Profession Lauded at Function Honoring Doctor

The physician spends himself and is spent to prolong human life. He relieves suffering and does a vast amount of unrecorded charity.

This fact was stressed in the sermon preached by the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego at ceremonies in the San Diego College for Women last Sunday, August 8, when Dr. Anita Figueredo Doyle was presented with the papal decoration of the Holy Cross.

Priests, nuns and lay friends of the internationally renowned cancer specialist occupied every available seat in the spacious college chapel for the brilliant function.

"In honoring her we honor one cited for special recognition by Christ's Vicar on earth; in honoring her we honor the medical profession and call to mind its deservedly high standing in this area," His Excellency said.

Outstanding Laywoman

Very Reverend James T. Booth, chancellor of the Diocese of San Diego, read the papal document commending Dr. Figueredo for "her example, work and life as an outstanding Catholic laywoman" and awarding the Pontifical medal Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice.

"The Holy Spirit of Wisdom," continued His Excellency, "exhorts us to honor the physician. (Ecclus. 38:1) Why? Because physicians spend themselves and are spent in heroic efforts to prolong human life. They relieve suffering and do a vast amount of unrecorded charity.

Close To God

"The physician and surgeon are very close to God. They study life's poetry as written in flesh and blood; they study it in the play of sinews and the throb of nerves.

"In the field of medical science, Dr. Figueredo has one aim; she lives a steadfast philosophy. While in her humility she gives credit to the high standards in hospitals, we know you must have competent doctors to reach and maintain these standards.

"Hope, not hopelessness! What can be done for the patient? Cure, by all means cure, but if cure is impossible, then relieve and comfort the patient. This has been the keynote of her success.

"In the life of this dynamic woman scientist you will look in vain for any conflict between faith and science.

"Dr. Figueredo's chosen pro-

O'Donoghue, pastor of the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Clairemont.

Self-Discipline

"How could one young and tenderhearted matron," His Excellency continued, "rear a large family of seven and maintain emotional equilibrium amid incurable and heart-rending cases? She did it by strict self-discipline, by the grace of God who enlarged her life with the inspiration of a noble-minded husband, a companion and helpmate.

"She did it by a collegiate foundation at Manhattan College in New York where she learned what students trained by the Religious of the Sacred Heart (Continued on Page 3) throughout the world learn, namely, the supreme importance of the human person.

"She learned that a young, helpless infant in its mother's arms rates higher in reality than the constellations of stars that move about the sky and all material things put together because these will pass while the child primarily belongs to God and its soul is destined to live with God forever.

"These convictions realized can make one great.

"In the seven immortal monuments Dr. and Mrs. Doyle have reared around them we cannot help but exclaim in the language of Holy Writ: thy children may come from afar, rise up this day and call their parents blessed.

Beloved of God

"Not just countless cases relieved or cured, not just civic-minded interest in affairs of state, not even her devotion to Mother Church but the love and self effacement that characterizes this noble-minded, talented scientist has made her beloved of God and man.

"Manhattan College in New York, her alma mater, and this great dominant unit of San Diego University, join hands today and thank God for a faithful and distinguished daughter whose good works have shed lustre on the church and the community," the Bishop concluded.

Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan directed the choir of Mary, Star of the Sea Church, La Jolla, in the program of sacred music which included Ecce Sacerdos Magnus, the Ave Maria by Gounod, Come Holy Ghost, the National Anthem, the Song of Peace and the hymns of Benediction.

Benedictine

The ceremonies were closed with Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. Rev. James Creaton, pastor of St. Mary's of the Wayside, was celebrant, Rev. Charles Young, assistant pastor at St. Mary's, El Centro, deacon, and Rev. Patrick Fox, assistant pastor at Mary, Star of the Sea, La Jolla, subdeacon.

Revs. Donald R. Kulleck and Donald Doxie were masters of ceremonies.

Conferences Deal With Mary's Place In Life of Mankind

Illustrious scholars of the ages humbly acknowledged all God's Mother meant to them in their studies, the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego said at the Solemn Pontifical Mass opening the Marian Congress in San Diego last Monday.

Scene of the Mass, celebrated by His Excellency, and the sessions of the congress held Monday through Friday of this week is the San Diego College for Women.

The Bishop told the hundreds of priests, nuns and lay persons present that the congress is a "token of our child-like, clinging love of Mary."

"All that she has meant to saints and to us sinners we cherish in this day of her triumph."

"We learn from the Seat of Wisdom the inner treasures of the Sacred Heart and trust that she will guide us in her affectionate maternal understanding to Jesus," His Excellency said.

Rev. John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, is chairman of the various conferences which deal with such Mariological subjects as: "The Divine Maternity" by Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan; "Mary in Ireland," Rev. Michael O'Day; "Privilege of the Immaculate Conception," Rev. Stanley A. Derwinski; "Mary in Architecture," Mr. Joseph K. Doliva; "Mary's Perpetual Virginity," Rev. Vincent Bartuska; "Mary in Literature" by Rev. John L. Storm; "The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin," Rev. Theodore Twarog; "Mary in Mexico," Rev. Manuel Elizalde, SJ; "Mary's Universal Mediation," Rev. Adolph Tymczak; and "Mary in Sacred Scripture" by Rev. Anthony Rubsys.

Ministers of Mass

Assisting the Bishop at the Mass were Rev. Wilfred J. Diamond, assistant pastor of Holy Spirit, San Diego, deacon; Rev. William Cooney, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo, Loma Portal, subdeacon. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, pastor of Sacred Heart, Ocean Beach, was archpriest.

Masters of ceremonies were Rev. John Desmond and Rev. Lawrence E. Geoghan.

Very Rev. James T. Booth, Chancellor, and Rev. William F. Clavin, pastor of Our Lady of the Lake, Lake Arrowhead, were chaplains to His Excellency.

Pays Tribute

Continuing his sermon, the Bishop paid tribute to Reverend Mother Hill and "her brilliant educators of the San Diego College for Women" who conceived and planned the Marian Congress, one of many tributes paid by the diocese to the Blessed Mother this year.

"How appropriate, how distinctive, and indeed significant that the first great congress in the University of San Diego

REV. JOHN STORM
College President

In the footprints of the illustrious missionaries who sowed the seeds of civilization and culture in Southern California, another Catholic institution of higher learning, the San Diego College for Men at Alcala Park, will formally open September 13 for its first full academic year.

It will vigorously cultivate moral virtues and intellectual stability so vital to counteract the materialistic world of today.

The college is another fulfillment of Father Junipero Serra's vision of the future. The Cross he reared in this southwest gateway of civilization in 1769 not only Christianized the Indian but planted the seeds of a mighty faith.

One of Three

The new seat of advanced education is one of the three units of the University of San Diego, the other two being the Graduate School of Law and the College for Women. All occupy the same campus. The university is empowered to grant degrees upon those who complete the prescribed course of study.

A center of learning Catholic in tradition and in doctrine, the university provides facilities for those who wish to pursue higher studies to fit themselves for professional careers. A four-year curriculum embracing philosophy, science and the arts is open to eligible students irrespective of color or creed.

This same policy is exemplified in the teaching staff, not all of whom are Catholics, but all of whom have been chosen because of outstanding educational preparation, ability and moral character. Four of the instructors are of Protestant denomination and one of the Jewish faith.

In fact, Protestants as well as Catholics have already aligned themselves behind the new educational venture and are evincing great interest in its "premiere." Their ardent scholastic ambitions will be prudently directed and fulfilled.

Impressive degrees, earned from colleges of national and international repute, are held by the 41 instructors comprising the staff. Seventeen of this number

WORLD CRAVES LEADERSHIP

A Well Educated Laity Necessary

By REV. JOHN C. DESMOND

(In the following article, Father Desmond describes the aims and purposes of the San Diego College for Men of which he is registrar. Father Desmond was educated in schools here and in Minnesota. He is a graduate of St. John's College, Collegeville, Minn.—Ed.)

An alert, well-informed laity, prepared to assert the leadership which the world craves and has the right to expect of Catholic college graduates is the purpose of the University of San Diego.

A great personal sacrifice, the faithful of this diocese have worked with their Bishop and pastors to build and maintain the primary and secondary schools which are the basis of the Catholic way of life.

Why this venture in higher education just when we might hope for a moment's rest from our labors? The soil is prepared, the seed planted. Dare we leave it to others to harvest the crop?

The world has come near destruction at the hands of ill-educated men, whose natures have been unbalanced by an imperfect maturing of their intellectual, spiritual and moral powers. The very energies of youth are dangerous if they are not disciplined towards worthy ambitions.

Order of Values

Our Catholic Faith gives us a vision of an order of values which must not be lost sight of as a young man prepares for a happy, personal life and responsible citizenship.

Philosophy, science and the arts are only different aspects of one reality, of one truth. They

Fr. Desmond

of that education is not only to risk all we have ventured, but to incur the grave responsibility of failing entirely.

Our young men leave the high schools of this diocese with the form of Catholic culture upon their still-developing faculties. To expose them to a higher education which will ignore this formation, to thrust them into the contest for the minds of men which divides the world before their minds and wills have matured under the influence of Christian philosophy and religion, to assure that some will fall the way, defeated before life fairly begun.

Rightful Place

The College of Men takes a rightful place in this community. The equal of all in the arts and sciences which it teaches, it is the rival of none.

In the tradition of the Catholic universities of Europe and America, the college aims at a distinctive kind of education: the primacy of the spiritual is maintained without prejudice to the integrity of the humanities.

Welcoming students without respect to their religious background, the San Diego College of Men is a Catholic foundation in the full sense of the word—embracing all that is good and true, whatever its source.

Plans Are Completed For Marian Congress

Final plans have been made for the five-day Marian Congress to open next Monday, August 30, at the San Diego College for Women, Alcala Park.

Marian Congress

Conferences Deal With Mary's Place In Life of Mankind

Underway at Alcala Park

Illustrious scholars of the ages humbly acknowledged all God's Mother meant to them in their studies, the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego said at the Solemn Pontifical Mass opening the Marian Congress in San Diego last Monday.

Scene of the Mass, celebrated by His Excellency, and the sessions of the congress held Monday through Friday of this week is the San Diego College for Women.

The Bishop told the hundreds of priests, nuns and lay persons present that the congress is a "token of our child-like, clinging love of Mary."

"All that she has meant to saints and to us sinners we cherish in this day of her triumph.

"We learn from the Seat of Wisdom the inner treasures of the Sacred Heart and trust that she will guide us in her affectionate maternal understanding to Jesus," His Excellency said.

Rev. John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, is chairman of the various conferences which deal with such Mariological subjects as: "The Divine Maternity" by Very Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan; "Mary in Ireland," Rev. Michael O'Day; "Privilege of the Immaculate Conception," Rev. Stanley A. Derwinski; "Mary in Architecture," Mr. Joseph K. Doliva; "Mary's Perpetual Virginity," Rev. Vincent Bartuska; "Mary in Literature" by Rev. John L. Storm; "The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin," Rev. Theodore Twarog; "Mary in Mexico," Rev. Manuel Elizalde, SJ; "Mary's Universal Mediation," Rev. Adolph Tymczak; and "Mary in Sacred Scripture" by Rev. Anthony Rubys.

Ministers of Mass

Assisting the Bishop at the Mass were Rev. Wilfred J. Diamond, assistant pastor of Holy Spirit, San Diego, deacon; Rev. William Cooney, pastor of St. Charles Borromeo, Loma Portal, subdeacon. Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Dillon, pastor of Sacred Heart, Ocean Beach, was archpriest.

Masters of ceremonies were Rev. John Desmond and Rev. Lawrence E. Geoghan.

Very Rev. James T. Booth, Chancellor, and Rev. William F. Clavin, pastor of Our Lady of the Lake, Lake Arrowhead, were chaplains to His Excellency.

The music of the Mass was rendered by a priests' choir under the direction of Father Sullivan.

At the close of Mass, His Excellency imparted the Apostolic Blessing to the congressists.

Each day's session is closed with recitation of the Rosary and Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Final conferences will be held Friday.

Pays Tribute

Continuing his sermon, the Bishop paid tribute to Reverend Mother Hill and "her brilliant educators of the San Diego College for Women" who conceived and planned the Marian Congress, one of many tributes paid by the diocese to the Blessed Mother this year.

"How appropriate, how distinctive, and indeed significant that the first great congress in the University of San Diego should honor the Blessed Mother of God and should be inspired by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, and take place in their own center of learning—the San Diego College for Women," His Excellency added.

"For Our Lady draws praise and honor not only from her Divine Son, His choirs of angels and saints, but from illustrious scholars throughout the centuries. These great men were honest and humble enough to acknowledge the help Mary gave them in their studies.

"You know that thirteenth century St. Albertus Magnus of the Dominican Order attributed all his learning to her. His genius and the scope of his knowledge were so extraordinary that he became known as "Doctor Universalis." He did vast research and, with the possible exception of Roger Bacon, surpassed all his contemporaries in the knowledge of nature. Under him the Angelic Doctor, St. Thomas of Acquin, studied. No wonder the Angel of the Schools loved so intensely Our Blessed Lady."

Illustrates Marian Influence

"Rev. Francis Suarez of the Society of Jesus failed so utterly as a novice that he asked to continue as a lay brother and do manual labor. . . His superior bade him seek help from the Blessed Virgin Mary. He became the greatest theologian of modern times—wrote 24 volumes in folio on Philosophy and Theology. He has the title of "Doctor Eximius." And other paragons of learning—such as Cardinal Toletus, Justus Lipsius, St. Edmund of Canterbury, St. Robert Bellarmine, St. Peter Canisius and, in our own day, the Servite Cardinal Maria Lepicier who wrote many classics in honor of this Heavenly Queen," were devotees of Mary.

"Not only saint and scholars—but prince and pauper—the heavily burdened have never appealed to her in vain. What a divine assurance to have confidence in her, to approach her throne of grace."

Consecrates Youth

"Well may the mother worried about her wayward son get help from Mary. We consecrate to the Immaculate our youth—especially our college students that they may be faithful unto death and carry the torchlight of Faith to generations yet unborn."

Other Marian events held in the Diocese of San Diego this year include two rallies, one in San Bernardino and one in San Diego, a diocesan pilgrimage to Rome and one to the shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe in Mexico City, and numerous parochial and other tributes to the Mother of God.

This area's growing reputation as an educational center gets another boost tomorrow when the new San Diego College for Men begins its first full academic year.

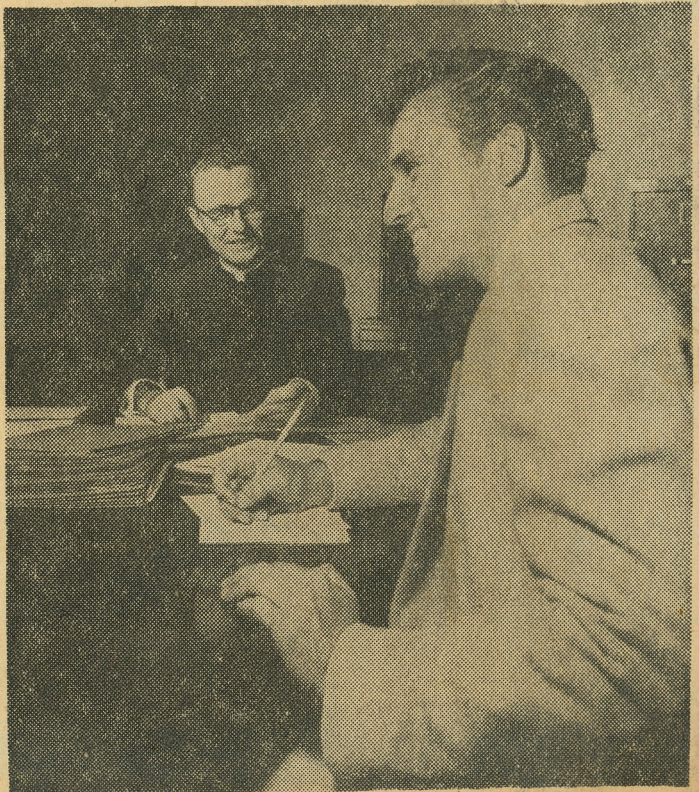

Overlooking San Diego Bay and Point Loma from Alcala Park mesa, the million-dollar college installation includes a six classroom building and administration building.

The latter also is the hub for the multi-million dollar University of San Diego, of which the new college is only one unit. Other university buildings now in operation include the impressive College for Women, which tops another mesa of Alcala Park.

President Storm said yesterday that many of the instructors will teach on a parttime basis. Proud of his staff, which includes Protestants as well as Catholics, he said its members have degrees from colleges and universities famous in both North American and Europe.

One of the college's courses in religion will be taught by the Most Rev. Charles F. Buddy, bishop of San Diego Diocese. The bishop, whose diocese covers four Southern California Counties, has doctorates in philosophy, theology and law from the University of Rome and Loyola University of Los Angeles.

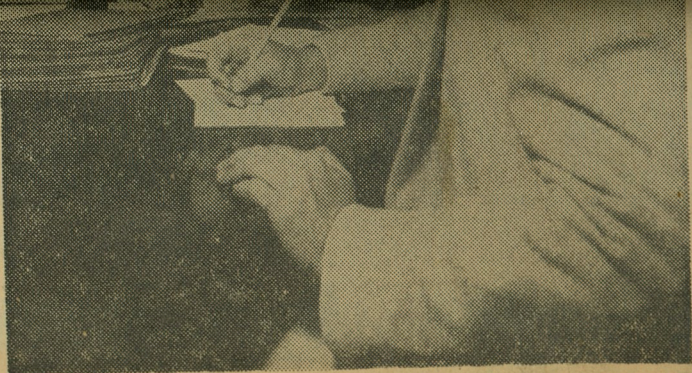

MORE COURSES

San Diego College for Men opened in March. But for students beginning school this fall, there will be many additional courses.

A graduate School of Law, operated with the college, also opened last spring. The school's fall quarter begins Oct. 10, with the Very Rev. James T. Booth as regent.

Evening sessions will be offered both men and women and will begin tonight, Father Storm announced. He said these courses will be the same as the day classes and that night students can work for additional credits, if they wish.

nomics, education, English, French, German, Greek, history, journalism, Latin, mathematics, philosophy, political science, psychology, religion, science, sociology, Spanish and speech.

Students of all denominations are enrolled, Father Storm said. Most of them are from the San Diego area, with several from Northern California and a few from out of the state.

The most popular courses, according to the president, are business administration and law.

The infant college and its facilities are an important but modest beginning to the University's future plans, Father Storm said.

Eventually, the college building will house a University Boys' High School and a permanent college structure will be built in Alcalá Park's 163 acres.

Of those 163 acres, 100 will be for the Men's College.

Now under way at the Administration Building, where Father Storm and the Rev. John Desmond, college registrar, have their offices, is landscaping of the grounds. Landscaping will start during the school year, when construction of a college library also is to get under way on the main campus. The library will be near the administration building, Father Storm said.

Bishop Buddy, president of the trustees of the University Corp., is college chancellor.

Faculty members and subjects they will teach are: The Rev. Thomas E. Byrnes, sociology; Rev. John P. Cadden, history; Rev. Methodius F. Cikrit, science; Father Desmond, religion; Rev. Wilfred J. Diamond, philosophy; Benjamin B. Faguet, psychology.

The Rev. Alfred Geimer, classical languages; Maurice F. Jackson Jr., business administration; Rev. William A. Kraft, religion; Robert J. McCarty, economics; Rev. Francis McKeown, history; Rev. Harold F. Mayer, English; Rev. John C. Meckes, modern languages; John X. Mulvey, mathematics; Eileen M. O'Connor, journalism; Rev. Francis J. Rigney, history and modern languages.

William J. Sachs, political science; Rev. Francis S. Spadaro, English; Irving R. Stone, education, psychology; Father Storm, English, B. R. Van Fleck, speech, education; Irving W. Parker, English; Rev. Walter P. Buetzler, classical languages; Jesus Almendarez, Spanish; Joseph Rodriguez and William McCann, English, and Roger Conway, history.

Administrative officers of the law school are Bishop Buddy, Father Booth, Thomas J. Fanning, dean pro tempore, and Father Desmond.

Other faculty members will be Raymond P. Coady, Howard S. Dattan, Thomas J. Fanning, George R. McClenahan, William P. Mahedy, O'Neill P. Martin, John O'Laughlin, Bruce Leeger and Philip Martin.

The sure and steady growth of the San Diego College for Women is seen in the large class of freshmen enrolled this year. Sixty girls have so far registered for the freshman class as the Alcala Park school begins its third full academic year.

Total enrollment of the school is expected to exceed 300 — an increase of some 200 over the first full term registration in 1952.

Of the 60 new freshmen, 30 come from outside the San Diego area. Most of these are resident students at the college.

Their homes are in such places at El Centro, San Mateo, Anaheim, San Bernardino, San Francisco, Oxnard, Pasadena, Glendale, Brawley, Madera, Laguna Beach, Palm Springs, Sierra Madre, Corona, Pomona, Sausalito, Los Angeles, Huntington Park, Seattle, Phoenix, Hawaii, Rome, Ga., Minneapolis and even the countries of Venezuela and Colombia in South America.

This June, the college will graduate from 20 to 25 seniors as compared to nine at the first commencement last June.

The newest of the eight U. S. colleges conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, the San Diego College for Women occupies the largest campus. It can accommodate 1,000 students and has facilities for 350 residents.

In all, the Religious operate some 35 houses in the United States. These include nurseries, grade and secondary schools as well as colleges.

The Society was founded by St. Madeleine Sophie Barat in Paris on November 21, 1800. The young Frenchwoman became its superior general in 1806 at the age of 27. Her confidant and guide during the formative days of the new Society was Father Joseph Varin, superior general of the Fathers of the Sacred Heart.

St. Madeleine Sophie personally directed the establishment of nearly 80 foundations in more than a dozen countries, including the United States, and governed the Society until her death in 1865 at the age of 86.

She was declared Venerable in 1879 and in 1925 was raised to the honors of the Altar.

It was at the direction of St. Madeleine Sophie Barat that Blessed Mother Philippine Duchesne, one of the first companions of the foundress, came to the United States, just 18 years after the Society was organized to establish it here.

Duchesne College in Omaha, Neb., is named in her honor. She was beatified in 1940.

Before St. Madeleine Sophie Barat died houses were also established in Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Austria, Germany, England, Ireland, Spain, Poland and the West Indies.

Other Houses

The colleges, schools and institutions of the Religious of the Sacred Heart now circle the globe.

Besides the motherhouse in Rome and houses in the countries mentioned above, the Society is established in France, Scotland, Japan, India, Egypt and the Belgian Congo.

There are several houses in Canada, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Mexico, Colombia, Chile, Peru, Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay, Australia and New Zealand.

Week Greet College Frosh

September 12 to 18 was "Welcome Freshmen Week" at the San Diego College for Women, with a "Big Sister" dinner kicking off the week's round of activities. Following the dinner, a bridge party and fashion show was held for the entire student body.

As an added antidote to study, a "dose of Parties" was prescribed for the freshmen. The sophomore class entertained them September 13, at a swimming party at La Jolla Country Club. The whirl continued on Wednesday with the Juniors as hostesses at a riding party in Balboa Park.

Climax to an exciting week for the collegians was the "Cotton Cotillion" held in the library patio September 18. A background of late summer flowers provided colorful decor as the students danced to the music of Jim Cusak.

Campus routine returned following the student body elections on September 20. Jacqueline Kearns of Madera won the nod for student body president in a close race. Margaret Fahlstrom was elected to a second term as president of the San Diego College for Women Science Club at the annual voting October 8. Beth Ann Smith was elected vice president and Carol Riddell, secretary-treasurer.

Two freshmen representatives were chosen also. They are Sharon Smith, a graduate of Rosary high school, and Patricia Gonzalez, a Regina Coeli graduate.

Field Trips

The group has planned field trips to such places as the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla and the Natural History Museum.

The college student body heard a talk October 6 by Mother Catharin Parks, president of the college. The college president urged the girls to recite the Rosary daily as a cure for specific social evils. Mother Parks' address was based on Pope Leo XII's encyclical on the Rosary and the Social Question.

First Reception

The first reception of Children of Mary medals for members of the college student body will take place October 20, it was announced at a meeting last week. The group has agreed to take as their aim for 1954-55 the Holy Father's appeal for a renewal of spiritual life in religious organizations.

Freshmen aspirants to the organization have been placed under the special patronage of Blessed Philippine Duchesne and the sophomores under St. Madeleine Sophie, foundress of the Religious of the Sacred Heart. Another group of aspirants will be received into the student organization on May 25, feast of the foundress.

Slate Student Marian Event For Oct. 26

A one-day students' Marian Congress has been planned by the San Diego College for Women. It will be held Tuesday, October 26, from 1 to 4 p.m. under the auspices of the college Speakers' Bureau.

Theme of the college congress is "Mary in Our Life." Mother Aimee Rossi, dean, is directing preparations. College students and seniors of Catholic high schools in the area have been invited.

Principal subjects to be discussed are the feast of Mary with special emphasis on "Mater Admirabilis," October 20. Other topics will be the Rosary and Mary in doctrine. Recitation of the Rosary and Benediction in the college chapel will close the congress.

San Diego College for Women freshmen made their "debut" with a special program in honor of Upperclassmen's Welcome Week.

At the curtain's rise, 58 newcomers stepped out of the six-foot package tied in green to do a soft-shoe routine.

Joan Wilson, in old-fashioned dress and pantalettes, portrayed a bewildered first year student who appealed to the audience in song that "I Can't Do the Sum."

Climax of the production came with a Lolli-Pop Dance. At the end, a Lolli-Pop tree was presented to the freshmen's "Big Sisters."

And, just like opening nights on Broadway, sophomore and juniors showered the frosh with congratulatory telegrams, trophies and flowers.

Marian Way Name Given To Roadway

"Marian Way" is now the name of the hitherto unnamed roadway through the campus of the University of San Diego.

In dedicatory ceremonies performed December 8, the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego officially named the roadway. Prior to the rites he offered a Pontifical Low Mass in the Women's college chapel.

The semi-circular drive runs west to east off Linda Vista road.

The ceremony included a motorized procession of representatives from the San Diego College for Men and Women as well as the Religious of the Sacred Heart who staff the women's unit of the University.

Assisting the Bishop as chaplains were Rev. John L. Storm, president of the Men's College, and Rev. John Desmond, registrar.

The open car procession followed the Bishop as he toured both sides of the divided drive, blessing it as he went.

The designation was another diocesan tribute to the Mother of God as the Marian Year ended.

A blue and white sign at each entrance of the drive calls attention to "Marian Way."

BISHOP PAYS TRIBUTE

'The Song Of Bernadette' Called Well Presented

"The Song of Bernadette," a play by Jean and Walter Kerr based on Franz Werfel's mystical novel, was well presented yesterday afternoon by the Alcala Park Players in the theater at the San Diego College for Women. At the close of this performance, His Excellency, Bishop Charles F. Buddy, voiced the sentiments of the large audience in a tribute of praise to the talented cast and the directors of the college's drama faculty.

The story of the play goes back a century in time to tell of the visions seen in Lourdes, France, by Bernadette, and the miracles of healing that followed these visions. The role of the 14-year-old girl who receives the heavenly communications was played with admirable simplicity and sincerity by Paula Sabin.

Other outstanding actors in a large cast were Sharon Smith as the village priest, Ellen Monsees as Bernadette's assertive aunt, Evelyn Krail as the mayor and Marie Mathew as the doctor. Others cast as the heroine's relatives and neighbors were Diane Sinclair, Arline Raymond, Miriam Stieler, Leann Mahoney, Tanya Finlayson, Noelle Onorato, Barbara Vidal, Trudy Crampton, Sandra Jelinek, Madeleine Carr and Terry Quinn.

The reverent spirit of "The Song of Bernadette" was movingly expressed by all concerned in this student production.

Well contrived sets showed the girl's humble home, the grotto of the visions, the mayor's office and the priest's garden.—C.H.

Catholic Students In 'Mary Pageant'

The Marian Year was recently celebrated yesterday afternoon in "A Mary Pageant" presented by the Alcala Park Players of the San Diego College for Women in the college theater.

His Excellency, Bishop Charles F. Buddy, who attended this performance with other dignitaries of the Catholic Church, praised the participating actors and musicians in his Christmas greetings to the audience at the close of this beautiful pageant.

The four scenes depicted were "The Espousals," "The Annunciation," "The Visitation of St. Elizabeth" and "The Nativity." Staging, costuming, and color schemes in these scenes were a pleasure to see. Relating texts from the Bible were read before the scenes by Mary Louise Scott, the "Voice of the Gospels."

Incidental music for the pageant was sung by a choir of 35 voices well directed by David Nyvall. Choral numbers of special interest were an "Ave Maria" by the old Italian composer, Vittoria; a Gregorian "Magnificat," "Hail, Bright Star" by Freiburg, and "Christmas Candle Song" by Georg Schumann. The "Pastorale" and the "Glory to God" from Handel's "The Messiah" were heard in the Nativity scene. The "Gloria" was sung in Nyvall's arrangement for women's voices.

Among the students seen in leading pageant roles were Barbara Heney as Our Lady; Virginia Rausch as the Angel Gabriel; Georgia King as St. Elizabeth, Evelyn Teachout as St. Joseph and Florence Ullman as a regal High Priest.

Recipients of medals were the Misses Margaret Fahlstrom, Paula Sabin, Lillian Jimenez, Jacqueline Kearns, Elayne Langenieux, Diane Sinclair and Mary Turner.

As each aspirant received her medal at the communion rail, after Mass celebrated by His Excellency, she pledged fealty to God and Church as a true Child of Mary.

His Excellency congratulated the newly-invested students, reminding them that they were now members of a world-wide organization of outstanding Catholic laywomen.

The Bishop was assisted by Rev. John Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men; and Rev. William Bergin, rector of St. Joseph's Cathedral.

11/54

An audience of nearly 1,000 persons attended the third annual Christmas play given last Sunday by the Alcala Park Players of the San Diego College for Women.

In addition to continuing the tradition begun in 1952, the production also marked the Players' final theatrical performance in honor of the Blessed Mother during the Marian Year.

In a series of tableaux, the cast which is drawn from college drama students, depicted the significant events of Mary's life which precede the Birth of Christ including the Espousals, the Annunciation, the Visitation and, finally, the Nativity.

Selections from Handel's "Messiah" featured the background vocal music. The college choir was directed by David Nyvall, Jr., professor of music at the Alcala Park school.

One of the guests present was the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego. Following the production, His Excellency addressed the audience, commending the players and the choir for their work and citing the rapid progress made by the college in the three years since it was opened.

Takes Part In Pageant

Miss Jean Featherstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Featherstone of 1010 E St., San Bernardino, has had a great deal to do with a presentation, scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 5, in San Diego. With other students of the art classes, she has helped to construct the stage settings for the annual Christmas pageant.

Miss Featherstone is a student at San Diego College for Women, a unit of the University of San Diego, and has just completed her term as fortnightly president of the freshman class. During her tenure of office she also directed plans for the "Mid-term Mixer," an informal dance attended by about 80 couples.

The Thanksgiving holidays were spent by the student in San Bernardino with her family.

Work Begins On College's Yule Play 12/54

No sooner had the Drama Club of the San Diego College for Women closed the books on its "Song of Bernadette" production when the members solicited the help of the entire college in planning and producing a Christmas pageant to be given December 5. All the pageantry will feature the Mother of the Infant Jesus in honor of the Marian Year.

The music department is rehearsing overtime on Vittoria's "Ave Maria," a "Magnificat" and, finally, "Glory to God in the Highest" from Handel's "Messiah." The latter has been especially arranged by David Nyvall, Jr., professor of music at the college.

The art department staged an all-day pageant party November 13 to erect scenery and manufacture angel wings in record time. The Sewing Club is making costumes from parachute silk.

The words "fruiting body," "holdfast" and "blade" are flying thick and fast in the college science laboratories these days. The reason? A seaweed collection has been presented to the department by Ceil Sutton and her family. The collection, made personally by Mrs. Sutton, includes more than 130 species found in San Diego waters this summer. Mrs. Sutton says that she "knew nothing about the subject" when she began the collection in July.

Collin Hough of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography is helping the department with identification. One rare specimen, donated by Mr. Hough, was discovered recently by Dr. E. Yale Dawson, also of Scripps.

San Franciscans Find Thanksgiving Pleasant in S. D.

Instead of going "home for the holidays" freshman Adrienne Kuhe decided to invite her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Kuhe of San Francisco and her brother Carl to spend the Thanksgiving week-end in San Diego.

Perhaps Adrienne was unduly influenced by a prophecy recently discovered by one of the collegiate bookworms.

In 1850, Rev. Walter Colton, USN, wrote of San Diego in his "Three Years in California":

"San Diego is another spot to which the tide of immigration must turn. It stands on the borderline of Alta California and opens on a land-locked bay of surpassing beauty. . . The sea-breeze cools the heat of summer, and the great ocean herself modulates into the same temperature the rough airs of winter. The seasons roll round, varied only by the fresh fruits and flowers that follow in their train. I would rather have a willow hut at San Diego. . . than the whole peninsula of San Francisco. . . The lust of gold will people the one, but all that is lovely in the human heart spreads its charm over the other. . ."

Thanksgiving week also marked the end of freshman fortnightly elections. The last temporary officers are Beverly O'Connor, president; Gail Owens, vice president; Barbara Heney, secretary; Ellen Monsees, treasurer. After these officers have served their two-week term, permanent officers will be elected.

Upperclassmen have forgotten Thanksgiving already in their feverish preparations for the "Mary Christmas Pageant" this Sunday and their winter formal scheduled for Saturday, December 11.

1954 SEES BIG GAINS IN UNIVERSITY GROWTH

The University of San Diego observes its third Christmas with gratitude for the encouraging progress of the past 12 months.

February of this year saw the completion of a new lecture hall;

March, the opening of the evening school of the College for Men;

April, the beginning of the first quarter of the School of Law;

June, the first formal commencement exercises of the College for Women;

September, the enrollment of more than 300 men and women in the University's colleges;

November, the breaking of ground on the campus for the Diocesan Seminary, with its graduate school of Theology to be part of the University Foundation;

December, the breaking of ground for the University Chapel and the library of the College for Men.

Month by month, with the generous cooperation of all, there matures in Alcala Park the fruit of 16 years of careful and patient planning by the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego, and the Religious of the Sacred Heart, who built and administer the College for Women.

Since the appointment of the Rev. John Lewis Storm as President of the College for Men, there has assembled a distinguished staff of lay and clerical instructors who have attracted outstanding young men from private and public high schools in Southern California.

Already the student body of the University represents 13 states and six foreign countries, bringing to the campus the cosmopolitan atmosphere which is distinctive of Catholic education, the widest possible viewpoint within the unity of faith.

Interest Reassured

The interest of non-Catholics in the educational advantages of a private Christian college has been reassured by the consistent policy of engaging instructors from among only qualified leaders in their fields. As a result, the faculty and student body include the best elements of the American tradition of firm convictions tempered by mutual respect.

Sixteen years of planning, two years of reality, unnumbered years of labor, an eternity of reward, is the plan and prospect of the University of San Diego. The coming year offers the promise of continued growth and encouragement. The administration and staff of the University of San Diego, its college and student body join in offering thanks to God in this Christmas issue of the Southern Cross.

CITES UNIVERSITY GROWTH—Rev. John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, is shown in front of the college lecture halls on the Alcalá Park campus. The opening of the men's college during the past year marked another milestone in the brief but highly successful history of the University of San Diego.

Soph Entertain Frosh on Carrier

Want to know all about those big aircraft carriers that ride at anchor in San Diego Bay? Just ask the freshmen and sophomores at San Diego College for Women. They have the first-hand information—straight from the big flattop Princeton.

It all began when the sophomores decided to hold something new in the line of parties for their "Little Sisters," the frosh. The girls spent an afternoon touring the ship which is flagship of Rear Adm. Walter F. Rodee.

After a tour conducted by ship's officers, the girls enjoyed refreshments in the admiral's quarters. Hostess for the afternoon was Virginia Rodee, sophomore class president and daughter of Adm. Rodee. Assisting were Rosanne Biane, Carol Farrell, Patricia Friel, Tanya Finlayson, Patricia Keane, Rosa Maria Molina, Evelyn Teachout, Suzanne Tilley and Joan Young.

Evelyn Krail is new president of the college Drama Club. Serving with her will be Marie Mathew, vice president, and Arline Raymond, secretary-treasurer. Standing committees for lighting, costuming, staging and make-up were also appointed.

Sandra Jelinek of North Hollywood, Gertrude Crampton of San Mateo, and Adrienne Kuhe of San Francisco were elected October 13 to serve as president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the freshman class. Until they become accustomed to college life, the frosh will choose new officers every two weeks. First to serve were Patricia Gonzales of San Diego, and Joan Willson of Huntington Park. In addition to her new office, Adrienne Kuhe will represent the freshmen on the student council.

Alcala Park Colleges Form Social Council

A proposed unification of social activities between San Diego College for Men and College for Women took a big step forward with the formation of a Social Council to coordinate the various events planned by the schools.

Women's College representatives are Jacqueline Kearns, student body president; Elayne Langenieux, president of the Children of Mary; Kathleen Brophy, vice president of the student body and social chairman; Diane Sinclair, W.A.A. prexy.

Representing the College for Men are Richard Deneen, G. T. Preciado, Jack Fabian and Joseph Ehring.

Despite mid-term exams, the freshmen have managed to plan another dance. This one is to be called "Mid-Term Mixer" says Jean Featherstone, fortnightly president of the frosh. Ann Dyer, vice president, and Virginia Rausch, secretary-treasurer are assisting with arrangements for the November 19 affair.

The Women's Athletic Association has laid plans for a series of inter-class volleyball games beginning November 21 as well as for group attendance of "Ice Cycles" scheduled for November 18 at Glacier Gardens. This extra-curricular activity will serve two purposes—enjoyment and point-gaining. W.A.A. points accumulated during the year will serve as a basis for athletic awards at the end of second semester.

The absence of Mother Almee Rossi, dean of the college for Women, and Mother Mariella Bremner, registrar, from the campus last week aroused the curiosity of the students. The girls learned that they were attending the Southwestern Regional Unit of the National Catholic Education Association at Loyola University. His Eminence James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles was principal speaker.

The weekend of Nov. 12 will find Mother Catherine Parks, president, accompanying the dean to the Western College Association meeting at the University of California at Berkeley.

Law School to Open

The School of Law of the University of San Diego will open for its first full academic year on Monday, Oct. 11.

The school's first quarter was opened on April 5, 1954. It completed its second quarter early in September. Its first quarter of the first full year becomes the third quarter for students admitted on April 5, Very Rev. James T. Booth, Regent, said this week.

Chartered by the State of California, it is empowered to grant the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

To be eligible for admission as a candidate for the LL.B. degree, a minimum of three years of college work in an approved college or university is required. But the scholastic average of three-year students must be equal to the requirements for graduation in the institution attended and, therefore, must qualify the student as a candidate for the law school, Father Booth said.

Advanced Students

Applicants who have completed at least one year of study in an approved law school may be admitted to the USD law school at the discretion of the faculty. Students who contemplate transfer must submit to the regent a transcript of their law work for evaluation and credits.

Also required from all students are letters of recommendation, application for admission, and complete official transcripts of undergraduate college work.

Fees

Fees include $10 for evaluation and matriculation; $10 per quarter for tuition, payable in full at the beginning of each quarter; $2 for late registration, $15 for graduation and $2 for special examinations.

Registration is now under way and will continue next week.

The faculty includes the Most Reverend Bishop as chancellor; Fr. Booth as regent; Thomas J. Fanning, B.A., LL.B., as dean pro tempore; Rev. John C. Desmond, B.A., as registrar; and

Course Offered

"The course offered to competent students by the Law School of the University of San Diego is designed to prepare them for the practice of law wherever the Anglo-American system of law prevails," Fr. Booth said.

Under the supervision of the Diocese of San Diego, the school is coeducational and non-sectarian.

College Library Director Named

The Most Reverend Bishop has named as library director of the College for Men Rev. Harold F. Mayer, B.A., M.A., English lecturer at the college. His work as librarian will entail the organization of the library for the men's college and the School of Law of the University of San Diego.

Fr. J. Storm Tells Plans For College

Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, was guest speaker at a dinner meeting held by the San Diego Chapter of Creighton University Alumni in Lemon Grove last Sunday, June 27. The dinner honored three Creighton University officials, Rev. Henry W. Linn, SJ, executive assistant to the president, Rev. John J. Foley, SJ, regent of the Medical School, and Dr. F. J. Gillick, dean of the Medical School.

Makes for Optimism

"The worthy struggle that Creighton University has waged for a place of note in the academic world and the university's subsequent attainment of it, makes for optimism among us whose same advance has begun," Father Storm told the group.

The college president explained what the University of San Diego is and outlined some of the plans for its future.

Invited to Return

Noting that the Creighton officials were soon leaving for alumni meetings in neighboring states, Father Storm invited them to visit the Alcala Park campus on their 1955 trip to San Diego. "By that time," he continued, "the University of San Diego can put even a better foot forward. The foundation will then have been firmly set so as to welcome your appraisal and your thoughts for our betterment."

Another speaker, Dr. S. J. McClendon, past president of the California Medical Society, paid tribute to private colleges as the backbone of American education.

The local chapter's membership of over 100 alumni was well represented at the dinner. Robert Lindley of Lemon Grove, chapter president, served as chairman.

Bishop Mueller

Deacons of honor to Bishop Mueller were Rev. James Gilfillan and Donald Doxie.

In his sermon, the Most Reverend Bishop commended the Religious of the Sacred Heart as noted educators of Christian women throughout the world. Especially did the Bishop praise Reverend Mother Rosalie Hill, vicar superior of the Vicariate of San Diego, for the foresight she had shown "in building here so magnificent an educational institution as the San Diego College for Women." All present, especially the distinguished lay and ecclesiastical visitors received the Bishop's words of appreciation for their support of so great an event in the life of the college.

The chapel, which dominates the east wing of the college, was designed by Frank L. Hope, AIA, who was also architect for the other sections of the women's unit.

The Bishop consecrated the altar of the chapel in a private ceremony held Monday, February 1.

Women's College Has 8-Day Retreat for Nuns

Nuns whose rule does not require a retreat of eight days' duration may join the retreatants for four, five or six days in accordance with the custom of their order, Mother Hill said.

Consecration of Altar

The magnificent High Altar in the chapel of the San Diego College for Women will be consecrated in ceremonies scheduled to begin Sunday evening, January 31, with veneration of the chapel relics.

Italian Marble

Made of Italian marble, the altar is surmounted by a reredos in Mexican cedar carved and ornamented with gold leaf in Mexico. Centerpiece of the reredos shows the crucifixion scene in statues carved in Italy. Two groups, one to the right and the other to the left of the centerpiece, consist of figures from the Old Testament. One represents Melchisedech blessing Abraham, the other Moses and the Israelites gathering the manna.
