Bishop Awards 23 Degrees at College Rites

Twenty-three degrees were awarded in the second annual commencement exercises staged by the San Diego College for Women last Sunday.

The Most Reverend Bishop presided at the exercises, awarded the degrees and delivered the address.

Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, gave the Baccalaureate Sermon at the Mass opening the commencement activities.

Each class held a reunion during the day. It was the start of an annual commencement day tradition.

In his Baccalaureate Sermon, Father Storm said:

"He hath so magnified thy name this day that thy praise shall not depart out of the mouth of men, who shall be mindful of the power of the Lord forever." Judith 13:25

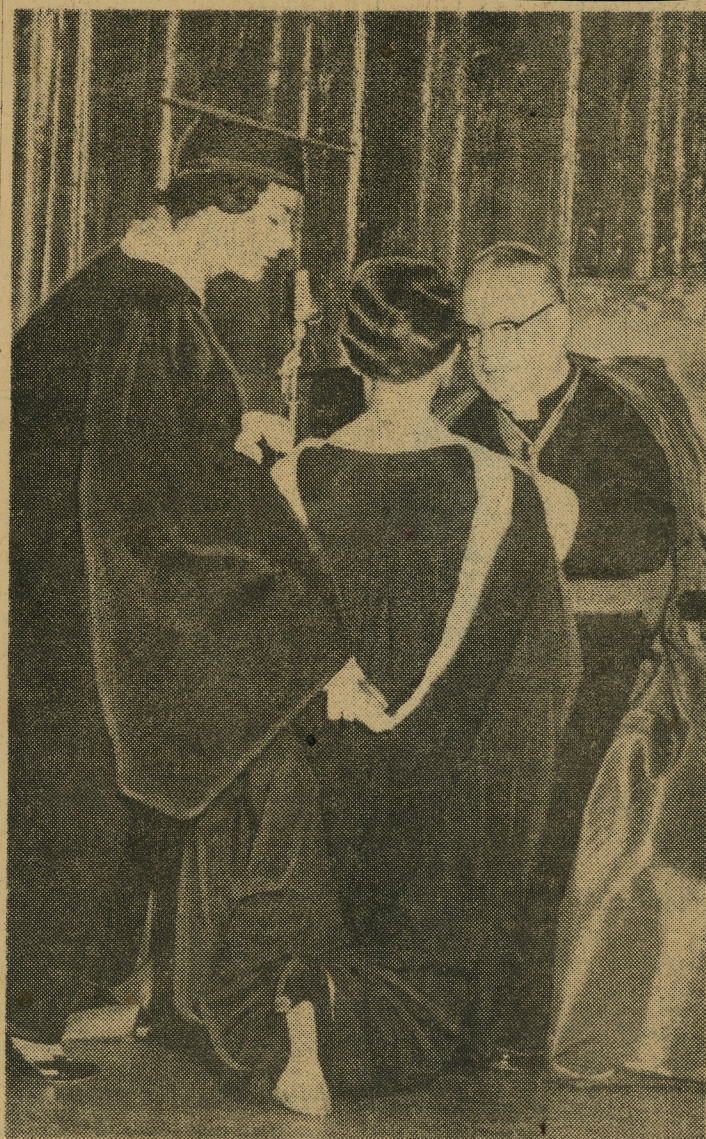

As the pilgrim enters the great, bronzed doorway of St. Peter's in Rome, his gaze naturally veers upward to a niche of honor high to the right. Here in the nave of the world's celebrated basilica stand two quiet figures: a spiritual mother, her right hand pointed to and resting on her heart; her left hand steadying a young lady who looks intently to her. The simplicity of this pallid, marbled scene is the unadorned story of a work of godly education begun in Amiens, France, in 1800 and extended down through these many years.

It is the saga of a courageous woman who elected to serve as the keystone of a religious order that, 155 years later, would be busy training and directing nearly 140,000 women and children. This is a story of Catholic education—a whole chapter of it revealed in carven figures that stand as evidence to worshipper and sightseer. It is the story of St. Madeleine Sophie Barat.

Any one of you graduates of today or all of you collectively could well be the youthful lady upon whose shoulder the hand of a sainted educator is firmly set. For four years you have come under the spell of her influence as it was visited upon you by her able successors in the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

You have learned the Barat way of life. The infusion of that spirit into the arts and sciences

The Catholic high schools and their faculties also will be the guests of the college. The Alcalá Park Players will present their pageant for the public at 3 p.m. Sunday, December 11. Both performances are free of charge.

The pageant will have an American theme.

The continuity dialogue will be spoken by Marilyn Mayer, who portrays a shopgirl selling Christmas cards with the portrayed scenes on them, and by Mary Turner and Barbara Heney, who portray shoppers for cards. Each tableau will be accompanied by appropriate carols sung by the college choral class under the direction of David Nyvall, music director.

At the invitation of the San Diego Women's Club, the choral class of the Women's College will sing a program of Christmas carols for members of the club at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, December 13. The carollers are under the direction of David Nyvall.

The program will include: "I Wonder As I Wander," and Appalachian carol by John Jacobs Niles; "Rocking," a Czech carol; "The Birds," also a Czech carol. From the French, Mr. Nyvall has chosen "Although You Are So Tiny" and "Angels O'er the Fields Were Flying" from the German, "The Kinderlein Kommet," "The Heavenly Alleluia," and "Shepherds at the Cradle." A Huron Indian carol, "Jesos Ahatonhia" and a Galacian carol, "There Was No Room," will conclude the program.

Miss Arlene Glenn, sophomore, will entertain her classmates at a buffet supper in her National City home from 5 to 7 p.m. Sunday, December 11. This will be a post-pageant party and a last reunion of the sophomore class until after the Christmas holidays.

STRAWS IN THE WIND

Navy Daughters Returning

Navy orders are bringing back to Coronado this month two Coronadoans who were schoolmates at the Coronado Beach Club when it flourished on the sands at Hotel del Coronado, and again at Sacred Heart in Menlo Park. They are Mrs. Bernard Roeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fitch Jr. of Coronado, who will arrive today from Washington, D.C., with Captain Roeder, USN, and their four children, Bernie, Franke, Anne and Kathleen, and Mrs. Charles Allen Buchanan, daughter of Mrs. Percival Thompson of Coronado. Mrs. Buchanan, wife of Rear Admiral Buchanan, USN, will reach Coronado from the national capital the end of the month with her three year old daughter, Kathleen.

Capt. and Mrs. Roeder and children, who have been driving west, will visit Mr. and Mrs. Fitch for a few days before establishing their home at 250 I Ave., Coronado.

Mrs. Buchanan and daughter, Kathleen, will be joined here the end of January by Rear Admiral Buchanan, who is head of the Third Flotilla, now in the Far East.

The Buchanans will occupy the home of the late Capt. and Mrs. Allen Buchanan, parents of Admiral Buchanan, at Ninth and Alameda streets, Coronado.

Mrs. Buchanan and Mrs. Roeder are members of civilian families who have been identified with Coronado's social life for two generations. The Roeder wedding reception is memorable to social scribes here, being one of the first large "dancing" receptions across the bay. An orchestra played for dancing in the circular ballroom at Hotel del Coronado, setting for the reception.

The picture of Mrs. Percival Thompson, mother of Mrs. Buchanan, driving her little electric car down Ocean Boulevard in Coronado's "polo playing" days is still vivid to "oldtimers." Mrs. Thompson's health does not permit her to take an active part in social life today.

College Frosh to Hold Mardi Gras Ball Feb. 19

Freshman Virginia Rausch, newest member of the Student Council at the San Diego College for Women, began her new career by announcing a pre-Lenten dance at last week's student-body meeting.

The freshman class which Virginia heads as president, will sponsor the Mardi Gras event this Saturday, February 19, from 8:30 to midnight.

Although a leader in fostering social activities on the campus, Virginia devotes much of her time to study and to the college athletic program. A regular participant in basketball and volleyball games, this honor graduate of Pomona Catholic High also finds time to keep up her interest in biology, especially the laboratory work.

Despite her scientific bent, Virginia plans to major in psychology and minor in education. Currently she is preparing for candidacy in the Children of Mary Sodality and has joined the Blessed Philippine group of aspirants.

Henry L. Nunn Gives Address On Economics

The man who pioneered one of the first annual income system programs was guest speaker at the San Diego College for Women last week.

Mr. Henry Lightfoot Nunn, former president of Nunn-Bush Shoe Co., visited the campus to deliver an address on human relations.

Mr. Nunn initiated the unique Nunn-Bush 52 Paychecks-a-Year Plan and is author of "The Whole Man Goes to Work," a book explaining his labor-management system.

His plan, adopted in 1915, provided for weekly meetings with employee representatives to discuss disputes and grievances with management. So successful was the program that, since its inception, no case has ever been arbitrated.

"The common man," Mr. Nunn told college economic students, "yearns for social status, self-expression and self-respect." If the employer keeps in mind these desires, the labor problem is thereby solved, he said.

The first in a series of experimental cancer education lectures by Dr. Anita Figueredo, was given February 16. The lectures, three in all, will cover Cancer as an entity, as a disease and research in cancer.

In her first lecture, Dr. Figueredo explained that cancer is an abnormal, uncontrolled malignant growth and stressed the necessity for early diagnosis and treatment to stop its spread.

The lecture series, held in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will be extended to schools across the nation if the experimental course here proves satisfactory. In addition to the San Diego College for Women, the testing course is being held at St. Augustine's High School and Rosary High School.

Scholarship Exams Planned at College

College scholarship examinations for students in both Catholic and non-Catholic high schools of the county will be held Saturday, March 19, at the San Diego College for Women.

To prepare interested high school seniors for the examinations college students last month embarked on a series of visits to area high schools. The speaking tour began February 21 when junior Dorothy Wawrzynski addressed girls at her alma mater, La Jolla High School. She was accompanied by Mary Lee Wible, freshman, who gave the underclassman's view of Catholic college life.

On February 28, Margaret Fahlstrom, Mary Jimenez, and Madeleine Carr spoke to the graduating class at Rosary High School, while Diane Sinclair and Rosemarie Ghio visited Point Loma High School.

Last weekend, six girls from Imperial Valley spent a day at the college as guests of Nancy Adams, a freshman from El Centro.

Roll Continues

Others taking part in the program are Patricia Keane, Maryln Walsh and Arlene Glenn who spoke at Cathedral Girls' High; Virginia Rodee, Carol Farrell and Beverly O'Connor who visited Our Lady of Peace; Mary Turner and Leann Mahoney who represented the college at Hoover, and Karolee Kuban and Judy Monahan who spoke at Little Flower Academy, San Luis Rey.

S.D. High Next

Student Body president Jacqueline Kearns and Lynn Evenson will visit San Diego High today. Marie Mathews and Elayne Langenieux will address Grossmont seniors.

As a result of the program, groups from Rosary, Point Loma, Mission Bay and Kearny High schools already have visited the college. Others are expected to tour the school before the scholarship exams.

College Marks Event-Packed Soph Weekend

Last weekend was "Sophomore Weekend" at the San Diego College for Women. Despite the ominous clouds which hung over the city, the soph caravan began the trip to Warner Hot Springs at 8 a.m.

Greeted by the downpour at the resort, the picnickers with their chaperones, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Teachout of Chula Vista, then headed for the Laguna Mountains where they exchanged swimming plans for snow frolic.

Class president Virginia Rodee's enthusiastic reaction to seeing snow "for the first time in my life" capped the day.

The eventful weekend came to a climax Sunday evening when the second year students gathered at Virginia's home for supper. Heads of the spring formal committee announced that "Bal des Fleurs," the final dance of the term, will be held May 14. The traditional ball is sponsored by the sophomores.

Dr. Anita Figueredo's second lecture in the current cancer education series at the college stressed the fact that science has the knowledge to control cancer today and emphasized the necessity of early examination to allow the application of new treatment techniques.

Dr. Figueredo said that education can minimize the fear of cancer by exposing false beliefs and spreading the truth about the "curability" of cancer. The La Jolla cancer specialist illustrated her talk with a film on research in cancer to explain the newest methods of treatment in the form of X-ray and anti-cancer drugs.

Resident students held their last pre-Lenten party when the residence committee staged a Mardi Gras dinner February 21. Mary Turner was chairman.

Masquerading under song-titles, prizes were awarded to Tanya Finlayson, Diane Sinclair, Mary Schaub, Lillian Jiminez and Barbara Gannon for the cleverest costumes. Elayne Langenieux received a prize for guessing the greatest number of song titles.

End Series On Cancer

The pioneer cancer education series given at the San Diego College for Women by Dr. Anita Figueredo, came to an end March 2 with a lecture on "Cancer in the Individual."

Inspired by the need of practical knowledge on cause, symptoms and treatment of cancer, the lecture series has been tested in Catholic high schools and colleges in San Diego.

Dr. Figueredo said that at present, only two methods of curing cancer are known and approved. They are surgical removal of malignant cells and selective killing of cancerous cells by X-ray or radium radiation.

If the San Diego experiment in cancer education proves successful it will be extended on a nation-wide basis.

Rehearsals Reopen for College Play

Classes reopened at the San Diego College for Women April 13 following Easter Vacation and final rehearsals for "Letters to Lucerne" were called immediately.

The first performance of the war-time drama of a girls' boarding school will be Friday, April 15, at 8 p.m. A second performance will be held Sunday, April 17, at 2:30 p.m. Both will be staged in the college theater.

Beverly O'Connor has the lead role of Erna Schmidt, a German girl in a Swiss boarding school, full of girls from countries with whom her nation is at war. Other principal roles have been taken by Barbara Vidal and Diane Sinclair.

And while the cast rehearses, the behind-the-scenes crew will be busy ironing out the details of its work. Members include Anne Aggeler, Trudy Crampton, Lillian Jimenez, Candace Hosmer, Mary Turner, Judy Monahan, Patricia Friel, Suzanne Tilley, Adrienne Kuhe, Louise Barrett, Jacqueline Kearns, Jacqueline Stein, Elayne Langenieux, Muriel Jackson, Paula Sabbin, Ann Dyer and Virginia Rodde.

Although April 12 still was officially a vacation day, the campus was bustling with activity as 22 seniors from St. Mary's and Catholic Girls' highs in Los Angeles were entertained. They were accompanied by Mmes. James McGowan, Phillip Breen and Herbert Gocke of Los Angeles. After a tour of the campus and a luncheon in the dining hall, the girls were entertained at a dance at which the boys of St. Augustine's High School were guests.

On April 13, 16 seniors of Little Flower Academy, San Luis Rey, were welcomed by Academy graduates Judy Monahan, Barbara Gannon and Florence Ullman. Freshmen Virginia Rausch and Mary Borba will be hostesses to seniors of Pomona High on April 24 while Carol Truxaw will greet 25 girls from Marywood in Anaheim on the following Tuesday.

The Importance of Religious Vocations

Prize-Winning Essays Published

(Last week The Southern Cross released the names of winners in the essay contest conducted in all schools of the diocese as part of the current crusade for vocational guidance of youth. This week we print the prize-winning entries in each division. Subject for all divisions was "The Importance of Religious Vocations."—Ed.)

By MARY LOUISE SCOTT
Senior, San Diego College for Women

That which helps man to achieve his ultimate end is valuable to man; the more powerful the help is, the more valuable it is. The value of things makes them important; thus it is correct to say that the more powerful the help to the achievement of man's ultimate end, the more important that help is.

Now it is by a religious vocation that vast numbers of men are aided in the pursuit of their ultimate goal, since this is the express aim of every religious body within the Church. Therefore religious vocations are important to men. This importance

COLLEGE DIVISION

Judges in the College Division were: Thomas G. Allison, former professor of English, Riverside College; Rev. John B. Cadden, Newman Club chaplain, University of Redlands; Rev. William J. Langman, pastor of St. Ignatius church, Riverside.

is not confined to certain groups of people only, but to all, since the prayers and works of the Religious reach all members of the human race through the workings of the will of God.

But religious vocation is also important to the individual. While it is true that men more easily achieve sanctity in that state of life to which they are called by God; it is also true that, speaking objectively, the religious life provides greater opportunities for union with Christ, and therefore for sainthood.

Religious vocation is a gift. Now, the worth of a gift is objectively determined primarily by the dignity of the giver and secondarily by the value (spiritual or material) of the object given. The value of religious vocation is very great, then, since the giver is God Himself, who cannot be surpassed in dignity. Furthermore, the object itself is of the highest order—the invitation to closest union with God by means of the complete surrender of self in the vows.

Foolish to Ignore

It would, therefore, be foolish to question the importance of religious vocation after examining its value. It would be just as foolish for a man or woman, convinced that the gift of religious vocation had been granted him, to deny or ignore or abuse the gift.

Of late it has been popular belief that material wealth, and physical health, and bigger and better bombs will be the salvation of Western civilization. Several thousands of years ago the Assyrians thought that military might would forge an empire for them, so they trusted in their horses and their men; yet the Jews trusted only in God, and were therefore able to check the budding Assyrian Empire.

Materialistic

In the same spirit as the ancient Assyrians, we Americans are feverishly working to build up personal wealth and public weapons. In the frenzy of our work we are becoming more enamoured of material objects. In so doing, we tend to forget the real importance of the religious vocation which renounces so much of what the world cherishes in order to embrace what all men really seek.

Miss Molina Plans Farewell Tea April 30

The spring calendar says it's party time at the San Diego College for Women. And prominent among these is the farewell tea which Rosa Maria Molina will give for her friends this Saturday, April 30, at the La Jolla Beach and Tennis Club from 3 to 6 p.m.

On May 29, Rosa Maria will receive her Associate of Arts Certificate at graduation ceremonies and then fly the next day to New York where she will meet an aunt and uncle. They sail for home — Cali, Colombia — on the Santa Barbara June 3.

Rosa Maria is one of 24 girls in the present generation of the Molina family who are students or alumnae of the Religious of the Sacred Heart. She is the daughter of Senor Camilo Molina and Senora Otilla Sardi de Molina. Her oldest brother, Miguel Jose, is a student at the University of Michigan. Two younger brother Rafael and Emilio are students at the Jesuit High School in Cali.

Rosa Maria's mother also studied under the Religious of the Sacred Heart as did Senora Molina's five sisters, two of whom are now members of the Order.

"Let your imagination run riot! Create a hat that expresses your personality." These were the instructions given by the Welfare

Committee for their "Mad Hatter's Contest" held last week.

A music box on the top of a picture hat bedecked with flowers earned Virginia Rodee the grand prize. Freshman Nancy Adams received another prize for recognizing the greatest number of "personalities" expressed by the hats.

Hilary Broad entertained several college friends at a dinner and patio dance April 23. Among those present were Anne Aggeler, Trudy Crampton, Ann Dyer, Patricia Friel, Tanya Finlayson, Sandra Jelinek, Terry Quinn, Virginia Rausch, Suzanne Tilley, Patricia Wohlgemuth, Ernie Valley, Jack Babian, Jim Fitzgerald, Jim Doyle, Rick Deneen, Charles Saucer, Edward Brown, Terry Van Orsheven, Paul Suda and Jim Farrell.

The College for Women chapel was the scene of an unusual ceremony April 24. Jeanne Marie Burns, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns, was consecrated to the Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary in the presence of her parents; Wayne Henderson, an uncle; Mrs. Alfred Henderson, maternal grandmother; and Mrs. F. W. Burns, paternal great-grandmother.

The ceremony of consecration is a tradition among alumnae of the Sacred Heart. Mrs. Burns (Gail Henderson) is a graduate of Rosary High and was a student at the college until her marriage.

A surprise shower for five brides-elect was given this week by the entire junior class at the home of Arline Raymond. Guests of honor were Diane Sinclair, Lynn Evenson, Leann Mahoney, Joan Erickson and Dorothy Wawrzynski, all members of the junior class.

Women's College Presents Concert

Joyous music, gay spring colors, a festive spirit! This was the mood of the "Hour of Music," annual spring concert presented last Sunday afternoon in the College for Women's theater.

A 30-voice, four-part chorus was directed by Mr. David Nyvall in a program that included Mendelssohn's Laudate Pueri and a Swedish Dance Carol. Nancy Adams was accompanist for the chorus, and Norma Mansir was the featured pianist. Her selections were Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 2, No. 2, and Greig's "March of the Dwarfs."

May 25, feast of St. Madeleine Sophie, is a special day at the College for Women, for this saint was the foundress of the Society of the Sacred Heart, which staffs the college. In honor of St. Madeleine Sophie, the Most Reverend Bishop celebrated Mass in the college Chapel, and then received four members of the senior class into the Children of Mary. They are Joan Fennell, Ruth Jimenez, Constance Salerno and Mary Scott.

The alumnae of the Sacred Heart held a business meeting at the college Wednesday afternoon, and it was followed by a tea in honor of the graduating seniors. Alumnae officers in charge of the tea were Mrs. Francis J. Burns, president; Mrs. John J. Wells, vice president; Mrs. Martin Johnson, treasurer; Mrs. Ward W. Woods, secretary, and Mrs. Louis Padberg, corresponding secretary.

Two brides-elect from the sophomore class were to be feted by classmates during the week. Miss Virginia Rodee entertained in honor of Miss Joan Young last Thursday in her Coronado home, and Miss Rosemary Castillo has invited guests to honor Miss Marilyn Walsh Saturday afternoon, May 28.

Crowning Ceremony Held May 2

The traditional crowning ceremony took place May 2 in the chapel patio of the College for Women. Earlier in the week, Mary Turner had been elected to crown the statue of the Blessed Virgin. Jacqueline Kearns was crownbearer while Elayne Langenieux read the act of consecration.

Maids of honor representing each class were Lillian Jimenez and Ruth Jimenez, seniors; Beth Ann Smith and Margaret Fahlstrom, juniors; Virginia Rodee and Rosa Maria Molina, sophomores; Louise Barrett and Adrienne Kuhe, freshmen.

Following the ceremony, Msgr. Michael J. Byrnes gave Benediction in the chapel.

Today and tomorrow are important ones for junior Jane Petty of Laguna Beach. Jane will be baptized at 2 p.m. by the Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego. Immediately following, she will be confirmed along with four other collegians. Then tomorrow morning she receives her First Communion. Others to be confirmed are Candace Hosmer, Donna Kopp, Susan Robinson and Beth Ann Smith.

Noted San Diego astronomer Mr. Rudolph Lippert was guest speaker at the April meeting of the Science Club. Mr. Lippert used colored slides to illustrate his talk and also showed photos of the famous observatories at Mt. Wilson and Mt. Palomar.

Final Fling Slated By College for Men

"The Final Fling," the end-of-the-semester dance for the San Diego College for Men, will be held May 18 from 8 p.m. to midnight at the Kona Kai Club on Shelter Island. Music will be by Peter Newburg and his orchestra.

Chaperons for the "Fling" are Mr. and Mrs. Walter Marty and Mrs. and Mrs. Daniel Redmond.

Campaign for student body election got underway May 10 and climaxes May 18. Names of the new officers will be announced at "The Final Fling."

The College for Women this week is wrapped up in plans for the Spring Prom. Underclassmen are vying with each other in scheduling honors for the seniors.

Sophs have the task of arranging decorations and refreshments for the dance. Juniors will entertain the seniors at a supper party after the dance. Scene will be the Merritt Drive home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Noel (Patricia Alford). Marion Rogers will be hostess to the sophomores at a pre-dance buffet supper. As for the freshmen, they say that dancing from 9 to 1 to Vic Vincent's music is enough party for them.

As graduation day nears, activities centering 'round the seniors increases. On May 9, Mother Catherine C. Parks, president of the college, presented the seniors with their school rings and pins. The seniors in turn gave rings to the juniors.

Lillian Jimenez, senior class president, spoke to the underclassmen on the goals and traditions of Sacred Heart education which, she said, can be summarized in the school motto—"That all may be one."

Ruth Jimenez, senior vice prexy, introduced each junior individually for the bestowal of her ring and cited the talent or characteristic that would best enable her to uphold college traditions as a senior.

Junior Paula Sabin was surprised by her classmates May 9 at a farewell dinner given in Manuel's Spanish Restaurant, Old Town. She is the daughter of Rear Adm. Sherwood Sabin who has been transferred to Washington, D. C. However, Paula will return to the college in September for her final year.

Class Reunions Planned at College

Graduation Day will be a day of reunion for underclassmen as well as for seniors, the Associated Student Body of the San Diego College for Women has decided.

The reunions will take the form of class brunches between the Baccalaureate Mass at 9 a.m. and Commencement Exercises at 3 p.m. Sunday, May 29.

Miss Evelyn Teachout has invited members of the Sophomore class to hold their reunion in her Chula Vista home at 11 that Sunday morning.

The seniors have chosen the El Cortez Sky Room for their rendezvous. Cafe del Rey Moro will be the meeting place for the juniors, and the freshmen will gather at the Del Charro in La Jolla.

Highlight of the week's activities was the tea given by Mrs. Cassin Young in her Coronado home to announce the engagement of her daughter, Joan Ethel to Lt. (jg) Thomas Carroll Warren. Guests included Joan's Coronado friends and her sophomore classmates at the college.

Lieutenant Warren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Warren of Decatur, Ill., is a 1953 graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy. He will return Sunday, May 22, from a 10-month cruise in the Orient. The wedding is scheduled for early July and will be solemnized in Sacred Heart church, Coronado.

Miss Virginia Rodee, Sophomore Class president, will entertain the class at luncheon Friday, May 20, with the bride-elect as guest of honor.

A riot of flowers greeted guests as they gathered in the Palm Court for the annual Spring Prom.

The patrons, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Farrell, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Friel and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Evenson, were at the Rose Patio gates to bid au revoir to departing guests at 1 a.m.

The next afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Salerno and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Burns, patrons, greeted the same couples for a sports festival on the volleyball and tennis courts. The event was sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association of the college. The Associated Student Body served a chicken dinner to climax the gala week-end.

Bishop Presides At Commencement

over which you have labored is the secret of your being this day magnified in the sight of mankind, who in its admiration of your complete learning will "be mindful of the power of the Lord."

make that admission. Few have done it as eloquently as did the poet Dryden, long a foe of Catholicism, later converted to it, and then, soulfully disposed to implore of the Holy Spirit:

Chase from our minds the infernal foe,

And peace, the fruit of love,
bestow . . .

The "Sacred Heart method" carefully includes a juniorate—five years of prayer and teaching or study before a religion is professed. Such is the proving ground out of which can come only the finished woman of letters that each of your professors has shown herself to be.

A hasty appreciation of college study in the Barat way of life, would, if we were to be moved by material merits alone, wondrously impress even those unfamiliar with the educational standards of the Society which St. Madaleine Sophie founded. It would win acclaim to each of you graduates: to the English major, the graduate linguist, the nurse-scientist, the history specialist. The same praise could be accorded the graduate of some other private college or state school that happened, too, to be blessed with a superior teaching staff.

Values Deceiving

Surface values are often deceiving, for they endow the graduates of recognized colleges—state, religious and otherwise—with learning bought at a price equally arduous; with degrees that appear the same, and perhaps have comparable value;

and with advantages in the commercial world that are even more opportune to alumnae of big-name, old-line colleges and universities. Out of an appraisal of the benefits that come to every well-drilled college alumna there is deduced a reason for you who are groomed in the Barat way of life to rejoice as the special elect.

Like thousands of others who this day don the mortar board and hood of achievement, you and they have penetrated the intellectual depths. They may have done so with their frail human reason as a crutch of support; you with an appreciation of God and things divine as your unshakeable staff. They with material motives as an impulse; you with that charity which Mother Barat reminds "never says enough." They with an appeal to instinct or premonition for their guidance; you with the

Secret Found

A soul surrendered to the guidance of the Holy Spirit has found the secret of penetrating hearts . . . she has but one desire, to follow the impulse of the Holy Spirit and to obey Him in everything. Nothing can trouble her or take away her deep peace. As to success or failure, she abandons both to Him."

In a civilization that is riddled with fears, with mistrust, and with every degree of unkindness that fear breeds, you go forth as "the merchant's ship . . . (bringing) . . . bread from afar." Prov. 31:14. The gospel of love that you are equipped to live and thereby to teach denies harbor to suspicion or its foster-child hatred. Having shared your yesterdays with others, the tomorrows should pose no problem. And yet they will.

They—and please God it will be few of those tomorrows—will expose you to the razor-tongue of opposition; to jealousy's venom; to jarring discord from those of your own family hearth; to the "I-told-you-so's" of a hundred dissonant voices. They will visit, upon you disappointments' hollow spirit, temptation's sensuous voice.

All of this is part and parcel of life's reality, cruel to the human eye, that judges on motives just as transitory; acceptable to the believer who would ask to share in the disheartenment of a Paul of Antioch, the cruel fate of Peter of Rome, the misunderstood years of a Bernadette Soubirous.

Comforting

The example of these and a myriad others is alive in your mind. At best they are comforting, but they begin to sustain when you look deeper and catch sight of the reasons that impelled these memorable figures so to love that, as the Apostle would say, for himself and for all of them: " . . . tribulation worketh patience . . . patience trial . . . trial hope . . . because the charity of God is poured forth in our hearts by the Holy Ghost who is given to us."

Rich Legacy

St. Madeleine Sophie left you a rich legacy. She made available to you her religious daughters, followers of the Sacred Heart method of training. You have consequently been schooled by instructors who know neither mediocrity nor incompleteness in their teaching. Their "Sacred Heart method" of preparation, as we shall call it, is a two-fold program whereby the religious is given advantage of the best in college and university study so that she will be a specialist in her chosen art or science and a scholar of wide intellectual range and application. Over this is poured the ennobling preservative of long, detached spiritual discipline.

Give us thyself, that we may see
The Father, and the Son, by Thee.

Could it be that John Dryden harkened to that mighty voice of fraternal love, St. Paul, identifying charity as "the fruit of the (Holy) Spirit"? Gal. 5:22. To Paul the Almighty has given us a Spirit which is not one of fear but of love. 2 Tim. 1:7. Biographers endorse the Apostle Paul's Epistles as one of the principal sources of inspiration to the development of charity in the character of St. Madaleine Sophie. The expanse of loving trust which typified her is best seen in one of her community discourses, itself a summation of what the Spirit of Truth can and ought to mean to you:

for their guidance; you with the constant illumination of the Holy Spirit, Whose Person Mother Barat directly besought to "prepare . . . and lead."

There have been virtues unlimited in your training, but these two — the practice of Christlike charity and a consuming devotion to the Holy Spirit—these made a saint of Madaleine Sophie Barat and they can do the same with you. We speak as if they are separate motives, divided goals, whereas it is one that implies the other. Lay and clerical minds alike are quick to

Rom. 5:5.

The afternoon of academic departure is nearing. In the glitter of its victory for you, in the plaudits of your friends and loved ones you will find stimulus. Commencement has that way of spreading its happy contagion. Underneath its effervescence you will have cause to nurture the kind of joy that lasts beyond the fading applause and the dying recessional. For yours is a treasure of Catholic learning in the Barat way of life. And this no one can take from you.

Bishop Awards 23 Degrees at College Rites

Twenty-three degrees were awarded in the second annual commencement exercises staged by the San Diego College for Women last Sunday.

The Most Reverend Bishop presided at the exercises, awarded the degrees and delivered the address.

Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, gave the Baccalaureate Sermon at the Mass opening the commencement activities.

Each class held a reunion during the day. It was the start of an annual commencement day tradition.

In his Baccalaureate Sermon, Father Storm said:

"He hath so magnified thy name this day that thy praise shall not depart out of the mouth of men, who shall be mindful of the power of the Lord forever." Judith 13:25

As the pilgrim enters the great, bronzed doorway of St. Peter's in Rome, his gaze naturally veers upward to a niche of honor high to the right. Here in the nave of the world's celebrated basilica stand two quiet figures: a spiritual mother, her right hand pointed to and resting on her heart; her left hand steadying a young lady who looks intently to her. The simplicity of this pallid, marbled scene is the unadorned story of a work of godly education begun in Amiens, France, in 1800 and extended down through these many years.

It is the saga of a courageous woman who elected to serve as the keystone of a religious order that, 155 years later, would be busy training and directing nearly 140,000 women and children. This is a story of Catholic education—a whole chapter of it revealed in carven figures that stand as evidence to worshipper and sightseer. It is the story of St. Madeleine Sophie Barat.

Any one of you graduates of today or all of you collectively could well be the youthful lady upon whose shoulder the hand of a sainted educator is firmly set. For four years you have come under the spell of her influence as it was visited upon you by her able successors in the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

You have learned the Barat way of life. The infusion of that spirit into the arts and sciences

over which you have labored is the secret of your being this day magnified in the sight of mankind, who in its admiration of your complete learning will "be mindful of the power of the Lord."

Rich Legacy

St. Madeleine Sophie left you a rich legacy. She made available to you her religious daughters, followers of the Sacred Heart method of training. You have consequently been schooled by instructors who know neither mediocrity nor incompleteness in their teaching. Their "Sacred Heart method" of preparation, as we shall call it, is a two-fold program whereby the religious is given advantage of the best in college and university study so that she will be a specialist in her chosen art or science and a scholar of wide intellectual range and application. Over this is poured the ennobling preservative of long, detached spiritual discipline.

The "Sacred Heart method" carefully includes a juniorate—five years of prayer and teaching or study before a religious is professed. Such is the proving ground out of which can come only the finished woman of letters that each of your professors has shown herself to be.

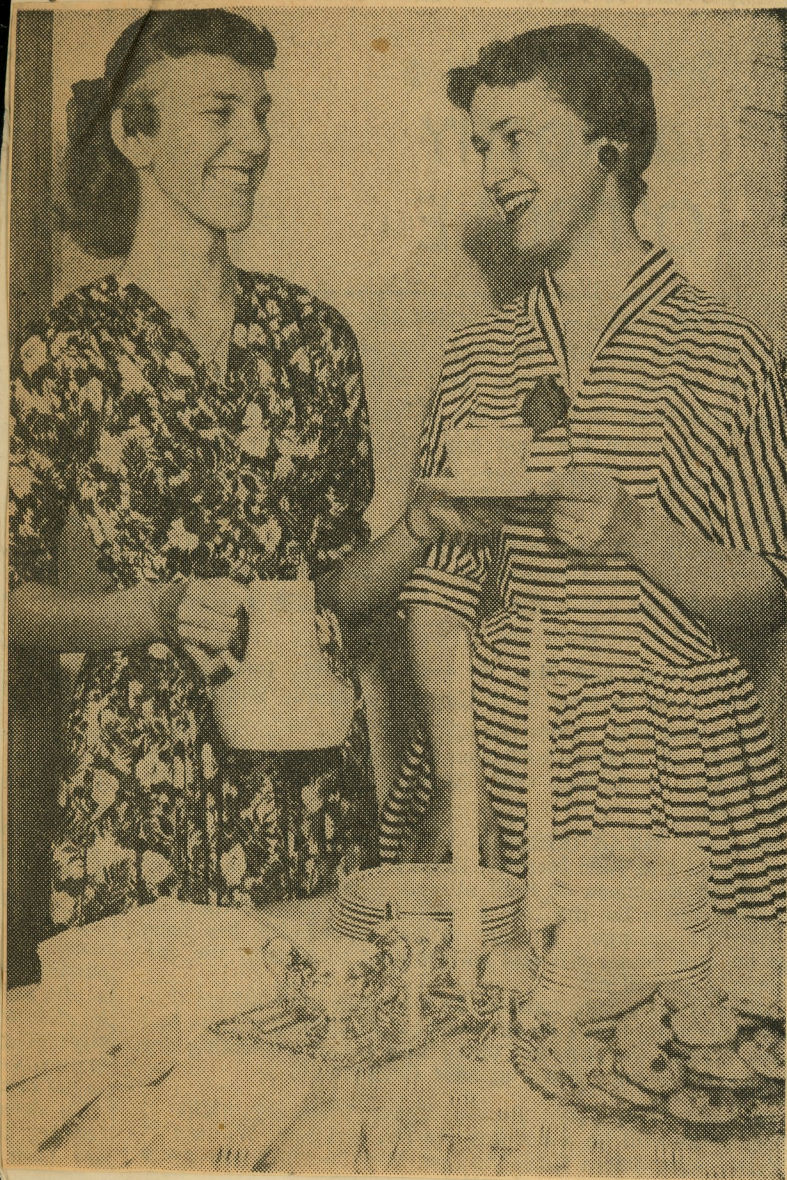

A hasty appreciation of college study in the Barat way of life, would, if we were to be moved by material merits alone, wondrously impress even those unfamiliar with the educational standards of the Society which St. Madeleine Sophie founded. It would win acclaim to each of you graduates: to the English major, the graduate linguist, the nurse-scientist, the history specialist. The same praise could be accorded the graduate of some other private college or state school that happened, too, to be blessed with a superior teaching staff.

Values Deceiving

Surface values are often deceiving, for they endow the graduates of recognized colleges—state, religious and otherwise—with learning bought at a price equally arduous; with degrees that appear the same, and perhaps have comparable value; and with advantages in the commercial world that are even more opportune to alumnae of big-name, old-line colleges and universities. Out of an appraisal of the benefits that come to every well-drilled college alumna there is deduced a reason for you who are groomed in the Barat way of life to rejoice as the special elect.

Bishop Awards 23 Degrees at College Rites

Twenty-three degrees were awarded in the second annual commencement exercises staged by the San Diego College for Women last Sunday.

The Most Reverend Bishop presided at the exercises, awarded the degrees and delivered the address.

Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, gave the Baccalaureate Sermon at the Mass opening the commencement activities.

Each class held a reunion during the day. It was the start of an annual commencement day tradition.

In his Baccalaureate Sermon, Father Storm said:

"He hath so magnified thy name this day that thy praise shall not depart out of the mouth of men, who shall be mindful of the power of the Lord forever." Judith 13:25

As the pilgrim enters the great, bronzed doorway of St. Peter's in Rome, his gaze naturally veers upward to a niche of honor high to the right. Here in the nave of the world's celebrated basilica stand two quiet figures: a spiritual mother, her right hand pointed to and resting on her heart; her left hand steadying a young lady who looks intently to her. The simplicity of this pallid, marbled scene is the unadorned story of a work of godly education begun in Amiens, France, in 1800 and extended down through these many years.

It is the saga of a courageous woman who elected to serve as the keystone of a religious order that, 155 years later, would be busy training and directing nearly 140,000 women and children. This is a story of Catholic education—a whole chapter of it revealed in carven figures that stand as evidence to worshipper and sightseer. It is the story of St. Madeleine Sophie Barat.

Any one of you graduates of today or all of you collectively could well be the youthful lady upon whose shoulder the hand of a sainted educator is firmly set. For four years you have come under the spell of her influence as it was visited upon you by her able successors in the Religion of the Sacred Heart.

MRS. KING

Mrs. King Named To Chest Post

Mrs. H. Stephen King, La Jolla, has been named chairman of the Women's Cabinet for the United Success Drive, succeeding Mrs. Neville E. Waite, it was announced yesterday.

In her new post, Mrs. King will aid in mobilizing efforts of women on behalf of health and welfare activities. First step, said Mrs. King, will be to secure Community Chest representatives from each women's group in the San Diego area to serve as liaison.

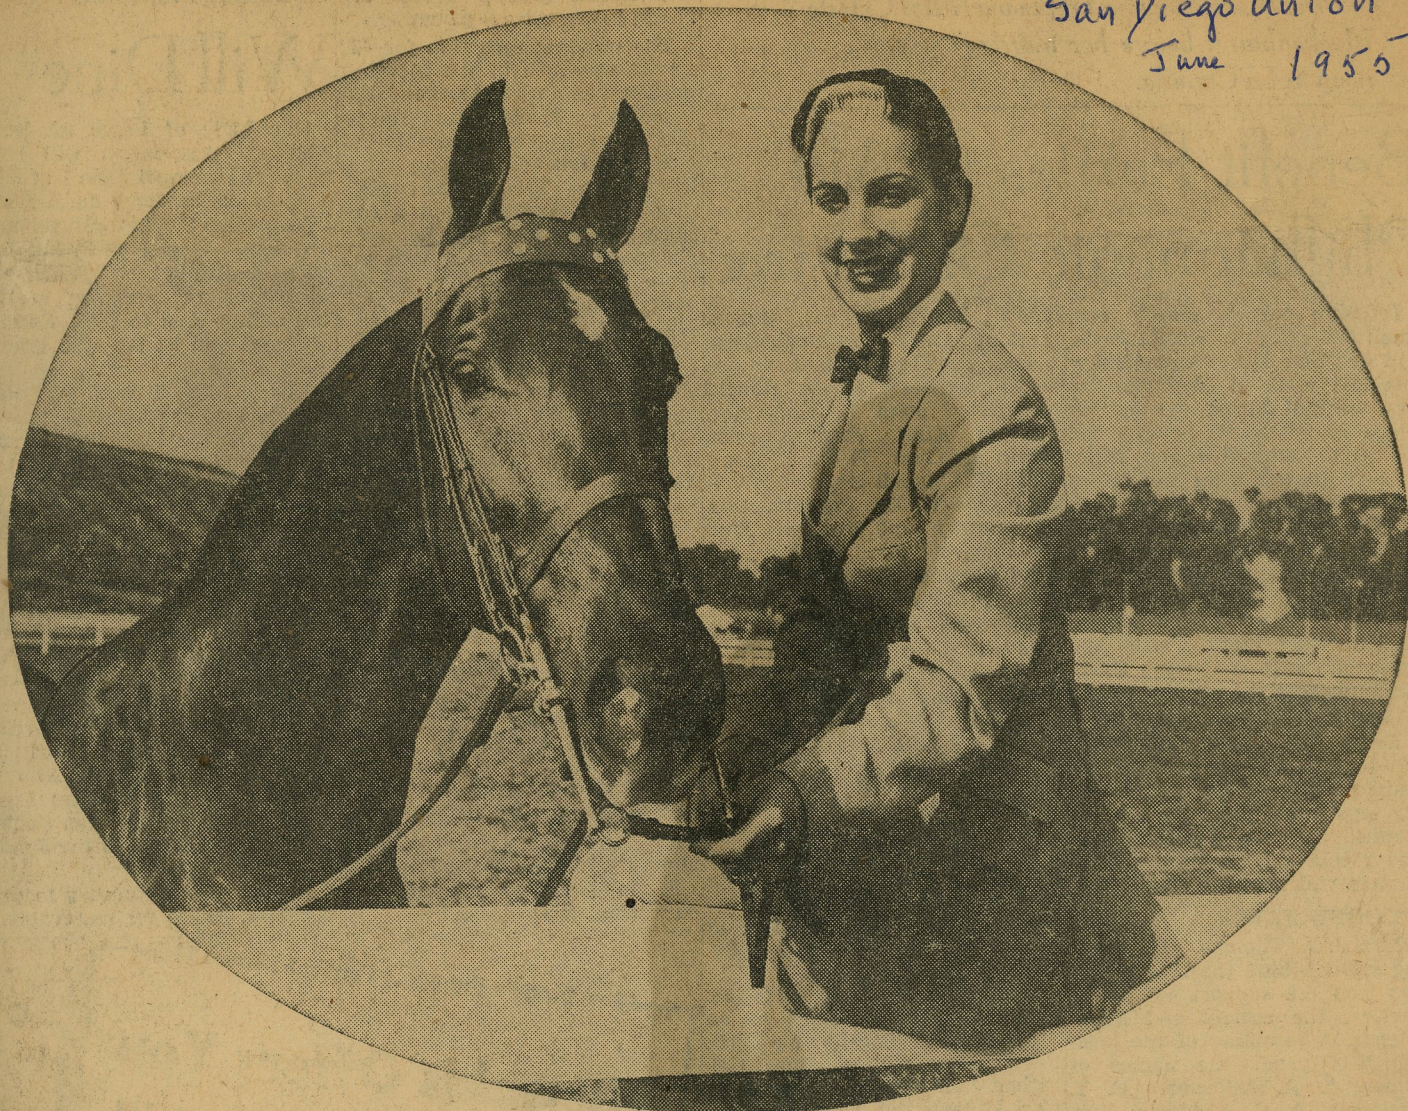

Mrs. King has been a member of the cabinet's executive committee since its formation two years ago. She is a member of the board of directors and the Regional Commission of the Girl Scout Council, a Red Feather service, and has been active on other agency boards.

Mother of three children, she is a trustee of the La Jolla Town Council, president of the La Jolla Deanery Council and an active member of Junior League and Las Patronas.

Plans are being formulated, said Mrs. King, for an early meeting of Chest representatives to discuss activities for the year.

"Women have played an increasingly important role in health and welfare during the last two years," she said. "The intelligence and enthusiasm which women bring to their jobs in this field is recognized. We hope to provide a channel through which more and more women can become informed about the health and welfare services of the community, and thus aid in building a community that is good for all of us."

Women's College Ruling Upheld By High Court

An arbitration panel's denial of a $260,429.95 claim by the Griffith Company against the San Diego College for Women has been upheld by the California Supreme Court, it was learned this week.

The Griffith Company agreed to construct the College for Women buildings at a cost not to exceed $2,995,000, and the construction was to be substantially completed by September 1, 1951. The project was not completed until October, 1952, about 14 months beyond the contractual termination date.

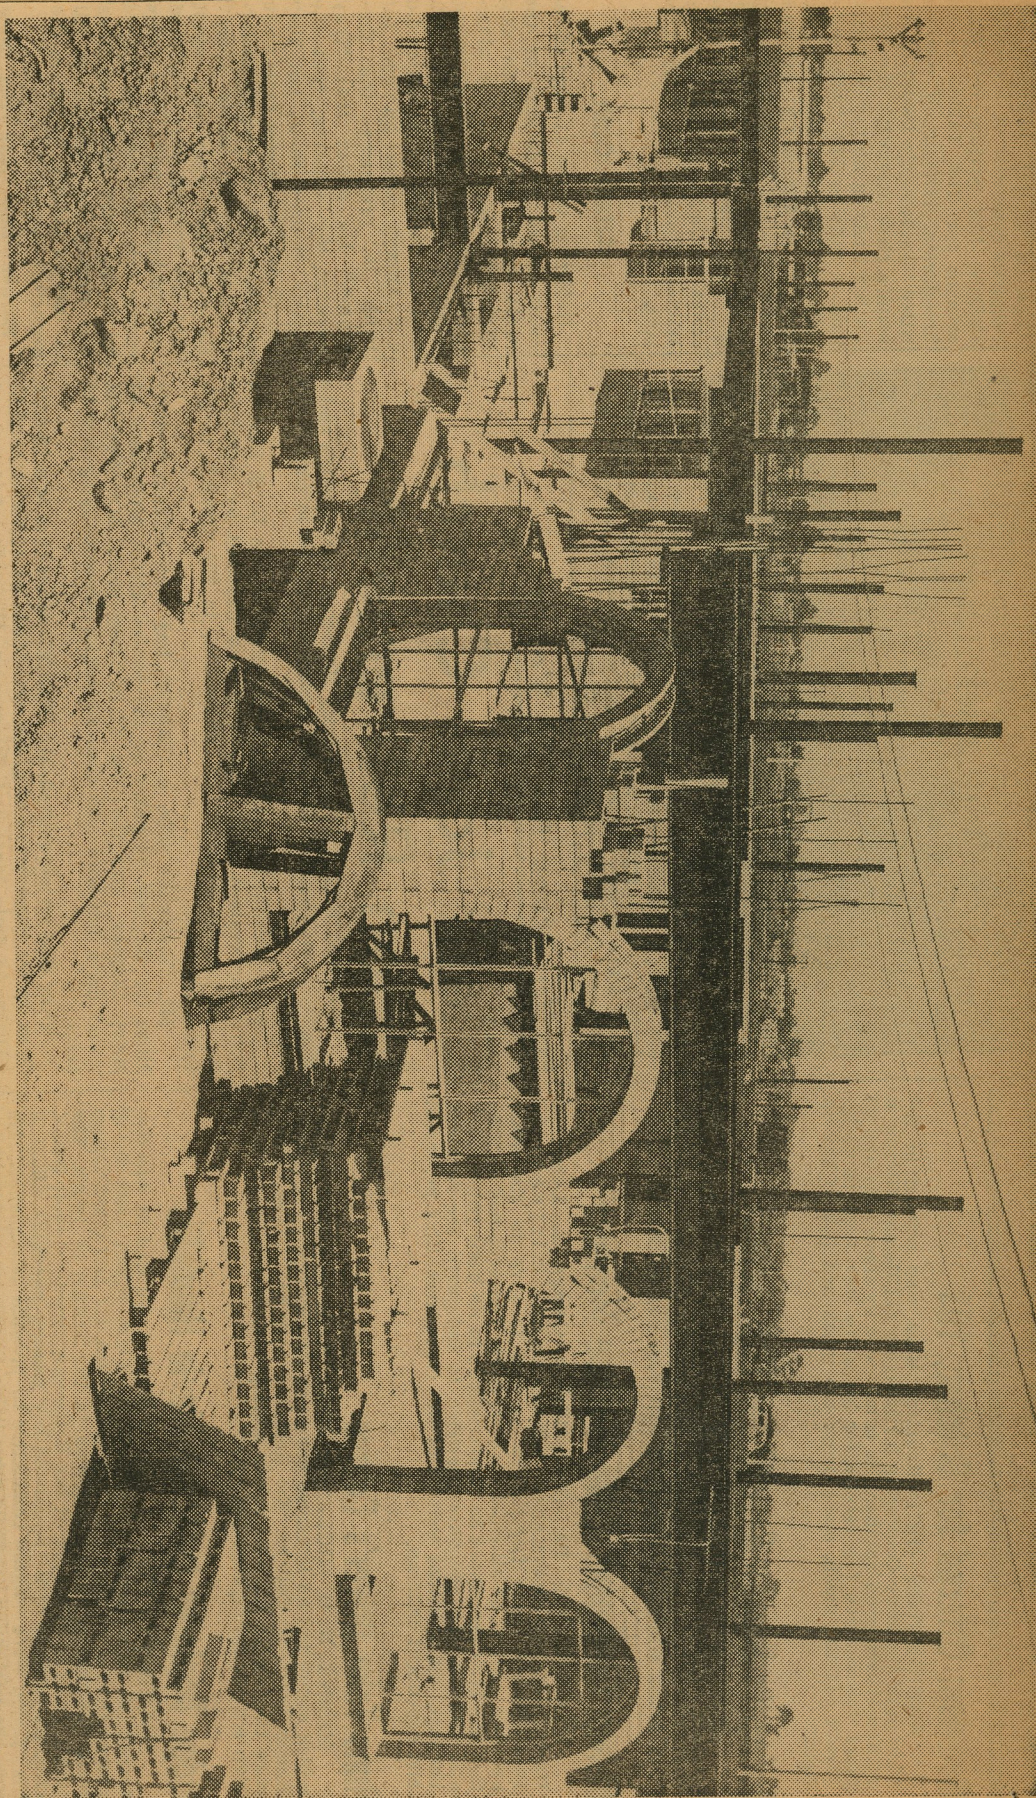

The Griffith Company claimed costs exceeded the contract price by $152,239.58. The contractor also claimed delay in furnishing detailed drawings was the sole cause for the over-all delay in completing the job and resulted in damage to the contractor in the excess amount expended plus a profit of 108,190.37.

An arbitration panel was named and after several hearings denied the Griffith Company claim. The case eventually was appealed to the California Supreme Court, with the resultant judgment upholding the ruling in favor of the San Diego College for Women.

Attorneys who presented the case for the college were William P. Mahedy, O'Neill P. Martin and Henry G. Bodkin.

Niagara Bestows Honor on Fr. Storm

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y.—Father John L. Storm, president of the San Diego College for Men, was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws degree at Niagara University's 98th Commencement Exercises attended by 3,000 here Sunday, June 5.

Two other men, Father John W. Lynch, pastor of St. Anne's parish, Manlius, N. Y., and Ross

Hare of Niagara Falls, were awarded honorary degrees during the exercises that saw 207 seniors receive bachelor degrees.

The Most Rev. John A. O'Shea, CM, Bishop of Kanchow, China, presided.

The citation read by the Very Rev. Francis L. Meade, CM, president of Niagara University, upon the presentation of the honorary degree to Father Storm follows:

"Niagara University today greets a priest of the Holy Roman Catholic Church, a successful teacher at three levels of education, a recently appointed college administrator. Into his short full life, he has poured the successful activities generally reserved for much longer spans of living.

"Only a little more than 12 years after ordination, we find this priest, this teacher, this administrator, already known literally from coast to coast.

The Sabins Entertain In Their New Quarters

Historic Quarters Two at the Naval Gun Factory, believed to be one of the city's oldest residences, was shown to another appreciative group yesterday as Rear Admiral and Mrs. L. Sherwood Sabin gave the second of a series of receptions at the newly-redecorated house.

The admiral, who took over this spring as Commandant of the Potomac River Naval Command, gave the two parties for the officers who serve under him in that capacity.

He will, in a sense, put on his other hat—he also serves as superintendent of the Naval Gun Factory—for the next two parties, to be held within the next few weeks for Gun Factory officers and their wives.

The Sabins' youngest daughter, Paula, received with them yesterday. Attractive, red-headed Mrs. Sabin was in gray lace, with an orchid corsage.

Paula, who is taking summer courses at George Washington University, will return to California in September to graduate from San Diego College for Women, which is run by the Madams of the Sacred Heart. The two older Sabin daughters are married, respectively, to a paratrooper and a jet pilot.

Mrs. Arleigh Burke, wife of the incoming Chief of Naval Operations, arrived without her husband, whom she said called her at the last minute and said he was tied up and could not make it.

"Waiting at the Dock"

A petite, sweet-faced woman, Mrs. Burke protested, as she was leaving, when Admiral Sabin said he would have his aide escort her to her car.

"No really," she said with a merry twinkle, "I'm very used to taking care of myself. I've spent lots of time waiting at the dock."

Capt. Thomas R. Kurtz, chief of the Navy Security installation on Nebraska avenue, proved the hero of the party. The house is laid out with a drawing room, which leads into a second larger drawing room, to the right of the entrance hall. The Sabins formed a receiving line in the first drawing room, which of course funneled all the guests in that direction. The crowd in the two drawing rooms and on an adjoining porch was getting more tightly packed by the minute, while a spacious dining room to the left of the entrance hall, laden with food and potables, was deserted.

Capt. and Mrs. Kurtz somehow found their way there, and Mrs. Kurtz thought it a shame to see the mounds of shrimp and sliced ham and biscuits uneaten.

She sent the captain to round up other guests, and he was a smashing success. The room soon was filled to overflowing.

It was an almost-completely Navy party, with summer dress white the order of the day. One of the few non-Navy couples present were General John E. Hull, Army Vice Chief of Staff, and Mrs. Hull.

Navy Secretary and Mrs. Thomas were there, as were Vice Admiral and Mrs. Robert P. Briscoe, who live practically next door to the Sabins in the big Quarters A.

Others were Undersecretary of the Navy and Mrs. Thomas Gates, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. William B. Franke, and Vice Admiral and Mrs. Roscoe F. Good.

A brand-new rear admiral, who was wearing his rear admiral's shoulder boards for the first time, was receiving congratulations all around. He was Rear Admiral William H. Leahy, commanding officer of the David Taylor model basin and son of the World War II Fleet Admiral and Naval Aide to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Another guest was Capt. Kyu Sup Chung, Naval Attache at the Korean Embassy, who knew Admiral Sabin when both were stationed in Tokyo in 1953, the former as liaison officer to the United Nations Command, the latter as Assistant Chief of Staff for Logistics.

Mass, Breakfast Mark Opening Of Men's College

A Mass of the Holy Spirit, which the Most Reverend Bishop offered, marked the opening of the school year at the University of San Diego's College for Men Monday.

Assisting His Excellency at the Mass, which was offered in the chapel of the College for Women on the Alcala Park campus, were Father John L. Storm, college president; Father John C. Desmond, dean, and priest faculty members.

After the Mass, the College for Women, under the direction of the Religious of the Sacred Heart, honored the Men's College student body, administration and faculty, with an on-campus breakfast,

Plans Rushed

Speaking at the breakfast, the Most Reverend Bishop and Father Storm wished the students the greatest success during the scholastic year.

Expressing great satisfaction with this year's enrollment, Father Storm said:

"If enrollment continues as it has—beyond our fondest hopes—we intend to step up our expansion program immeasurably. Already plans for our Knights of Columbus Memorial Library and Liberal Arts Building are being hurried."

Father Storm also voiced sincerest thanks to the community of San Diego for displaying such high interest in the university.

Collegians End Busy First Week Of School Year

The first week of school was a busy one on the Alcala Park campus. There were activities aplenty to inaugurate college life for the record numbers of freshmen in both the College for Women and the College for Men.

On September 17, the Bishop, assisted by Rev. John L. Storm, men's college president, and Rev. Donald F. Doxie, Bishop's secretary, celebrated the annual Mass of the Holy Spirit to formally open the academic year for the College of Women.

Earlier in the week, Reverend Mother Rosalie Hill, honorary president, had welcomed the new students to the Alcala Park campus. The girls also heard a talk by Mother Catherine Parks, president, who explained the traditions of Sacred Heart education.

On September 16, freshmen and new students were invested in academic dress by Mother Hill. Student body president Jacqueline Kearns opened the ceremony by reading a short history of the cap and gown. Mother Parks then introduced each new student to the faculty and student body.

Assisting in the ceremonies were Mary Turner, ASB vice prexy, and Karolee Kuban, president of the senior class. Others helping were Leann Mahoney, corresponding secretary; Virginia Rodee, recording secretary; and Carol Farrell, junior class president.

The social whirl started when the new students were invited to "swim with the sophomores" at the Town and Country Club on Tuesday, September 3. On Thursday, College for Men students joined the girls for mixed sports events, including golf and tennis. The same day, freshmen "jumped with the juniors" at Balboa Park and on Friday, the student council entertained at a beach party.

WHAT'S IN A NAME? — Answering a call to "Swing with the Seniors," students converged on the College for Women's library patio last Saturday night for a dance "which climaxed the first week of the new school year. And, just to be sure everyone knew everyone else,

The opening day of school were designated Freshman Week. A campus fashion show on September 11 kicked off the activities with a "Swing with the Seniors" September 17 as the wind-up.

Modelling campus clothes for class wear were Barbara Heney, Beverly O'Connor, Mary Lee Wible and Dorothy Wawrzynski. In the dinner wear division were Mary Lou Spalding, Suzanne Tilley, Virginia Rausch and Judy Monahan. Sports outfits were shown by Jacqueline Kearns, Ann Dyer, Jean Featherstone and Jane Lauerman while Anne Aggeler, Marie Mathew, Karolee Kuban and Rosanne Biane displayed formal and informal attire. Occasional wear was modelled by Virginia Rodee, Elayne Langenieux, Trudy Crampton and Marilynn Mayer.

Mary Turner, chairman of the social affairs committee, read the style commentary. Leann Mahoney, Arline Raymond, Evelyn Krail and Georgia King were hostesses.

Mr. David Nyvall, Jr., professor of music at the college, addressed the Music Club on the subject of "The Language of Music." This lecture is the first of a series of musical events the Music Club will offer to the college this year.

Introduced by Evelyn Krall, music major, Mr. Nyvall explained that the purpose of the lecture was to remove "the fear of the classics." Symphonies and concerts are like football games, he said, in that one derives nothing from them without some knowledge of the descriptive language used in connection with them.

The next guest artist of the Music Club will be nine-year-old Donald Reed, who will demonstrate his Chopin technique in a piano recital.

New Catholic University Is Mixture Of Sacred Ancient, Modern Liberal

BY JOHN BRYAN

Nine days ago the cornerstone of a white steel and concrete paradox was laid.

Above the stone a five-story, million-dollar Catholic seminary will be built for the hilltop university campus called Alcala Park, which lies south of Clairemont and Bay Park, north of the San Diego River and overlooking the southern end of Mission Bay.

Six hundred years ago a Spanish monk named Diego lived in the mediaeval university town of Alcala.

And more than 400 years later priests came to the knoll now called Presidio Hill and settled a place they called San Diego in honor of that sainted monk. From Alcala Park students look across the San Diego River bottom to the old town of San Diego.

The paradox of the seminary to be completed next year, and of the entire University of San Diego, is that it is neither as new as its steel girders nor as old as the tradition of Diego and his university town of Alcala.

It is both.

Buildings were begun in 1949. The first were completed in 1952. When the university is finished it will contain a law school, hall of liberal arts, seminary, chapel, 250,000-volume library and science hall as well as the already completed administration building, lecture hall and school for women.

It will be expensively modern, worth more than five million dollars, well equipped, carefully staffed.

It will be architecturally ancient, of Spanish Renaissance style with many rooms full of Renaissance and medieval furniture. Soft-footed nuns of the Society of the Sacred Heart will move through its stately halls as women of the veil have done for centuries before them.

In one of the buildings soon to be built, both clerics and laymen will go into "retreat from the world" for short periods and mediate as men have done in such places for centuries.

Classic-Liberal Traditions

The school's traditions are those of classic liberal education.

Scholars come to the white-stuccoed campus buildings to major in the Greek and Latin which humanists have studied as long as there has been a Western culture.

But more than 500 young men and women are preparing in what seems a classical bastion for the complexities of an atomic world. They are studying business administration, modern law, teaching techniques, nursing, art, chemistry, journalism, political science, psychology and social studies.

The students are of all denominations. They come mostly from the San Diego area but some have travelled from Los Angeles, Denver, Guam, Guatemala, Mexico, Venezuela, the Philippines and Minnesota.

Eventually 5,000 students will be accommodated and the University of San Diego will be the largest Catholic university in the West.

The instructors in the College for Men come from all over the world. Thirteen of them are priests and 17 are laymen.

"It's fascinating to sit at lunch and listen to the talk of study in Switzerland and Germany, Mexico and Rome," said Fr. James Booth, chancellor of the San Diego Diocese and reagent of the Law School.

"Most of them are American born, but, as is common in most Catholic universities, our instructors have studied all over the world.

"And like the other Catholic schools, our first concern is with the immediate area we serve," Fr. Booth said. "Although we're happy to train young people from all over the world, most of them will continue to come from San Diego."

Evelyn Krail, narrator, dedicated the presentation to the faculty, "Little Sisters," and students. She then explained that the skits had been inspired and derived from Education III, "Child Growth and Development."

¿SEÑORITA "CLUB COLOMBIA"?

Presentamos hoy tres bellísimas damitas de nuestra sociedad. La primera de ellas es Rosa María M. Sardi, una nueva y bella silueta femenina, quien después de varios años de ausencia regresó hace días a la ciudad. Ella es hija de don Camilo Molina y su señora doña Otilia Sardi de Molina, y acabó de terminar sus estudios en el "San Diego College for Women", donde recibió el "Associate in Arst Certificate" con las mejores calificaciones. Todos la admiraremos en la suntuosa fiesta que el Club Colombia dará el próximo nueve de julio y en la cual se hará la elección de "Señorita Club Colombia". Las dos encantadoras damitas son Anita y Poli Mallarino Ospina, hijas de don Antonio Mallarino Pardo (fallecido) y de doña Isabel Ospina de Mallarino, residentes actualmente en la capital de la república, quienes seguramente aceptarán la gentil e insistente invitación que el Club les ha hecho para tomar parte en la celebración de sus bodas de plata, ya que el mencionado centro social no quiere que ninguna de las hijas de sus socios deje de asistir a esta suntuosa fiesta.

La suntuosa fiesta blanca de los esposos Navia-Tejada que se sucedió en la noche del viernes en su elegante residencia para presentar a sus bellas hijas Bertha Leonor, Gloria y Olga reunió a lo más granado de nuestra sociedad quienes aplaudieron no solamente las toilettes de las niñas Navia, sino al grupo de muchachas que con ellas participaron en el alborozo de esta recepción.

El grupo juvenil que entra ahora a participar del ambiente chicle de nuestros salones, se prepara para las fiestas de fin de año, cuando con su aureola de belleza, simpatía y distinción formen el coro de la alegría que todos los años es tradicional en los clubes sociales. Fueron diez mujeres hermosas y con trajes de fino acabado, quienes hicieron demostración de su gusto exquisito, en la noche del viernes en la casa de los Navia-Tejada. Por eso detallamos, a continuación quienes en un derroche de lujo, pusieron la nota culminante en esta grata recepción, como acontecimiento social del mes de Octubre.

Las tres lindas muchachas Navia Tejada estaban muy lucidas, con trajes propios para debutantes, y todos en el mismo tipo, de encaje bordado con brillantes y amplias faldas de tul; se veía especialmente lindo el de Bertha Leonor, en color melocotón con un bordado muy rico en el corpiño. Este vestido le fue diseñado por la Casa Rose Laiken de New York. Otro taraje muy bonito lució María Angelita López Fajardo, de la Casa de modas "Tulia María", presentaba también amplitud y riqueza en la falda de tul blanco, pero se destacó por la blusa en satén rosa muy pálido. Muy bonita estaba Yolanda Zamorano de Lemos con vestido americano en dicho tipo.

Entre el grupo femenino de las damas hubo mucha toilette elegante. Recordamos a doña Otilia Sardi de Molina, con vestido negro, americano, de línea "trompeta", el bolerón en tela pesada beige con aplicaciones en negro en forma de hojas de parra; a doña María Luisa Tejada de Navia, con vestido confeccionado por las señoritas Paz Muñoz, en encaje negro sobre fondo azul pálido; a doña Olga de Lemos de Zamorano, también con vestido importado, severo, negro, con adorno imprimé en blanco y negro; doña Cilia de Lemos de Rodríguez, llevaba vestido en encaje gris; a doña Soledad Fajardo de López, quien llevó con la elegancia que le es peculiar un lindísimo vestido en terciopelo negro, en línea "trompeta" con bolerón amplísimo de encaje negro de Chantilly montado sobre tul y clamisatén aguamarina, creado especialmente para ella por el Almacén "La Mariposa".

2 College Officials Attend Conventions

Mother Catherine Parks, president of the San Diego College for Women, and Mother Aimee Rossi, dean, attended the California Council on Teacher Education in Fresno, November 4 and 5. They also will participate in the meeting of the Western College Association, November 11 and 12 in San Francisco.

Between the two conventions Mother Parks and Mother Rossi will visit the San Francisco College for Women and the Academies of the Sacred Heart in San Francisco and Menlo Park.

Before her departure for educational meetings in Northern California, Mother Parks addressed the student body on the subject of Blessed Rose Philippine Duchesne, whose feast is November 17.

Mother Parks explained that Blessed Philippine was the one who brought the Society of the Sacred Heart to North America in 1818. After founding the first schools of the Society in the New Orleans and St. Louis areas, this pioneer died in 1852.

Through her untiring labor, devotion to the Sacred Heart was spread from North America to South America, New Zealand, and Australia. The Jesuit mission in Missouri survived through her kindly help, the system of education which she introduced into this country now numbers 30 institutions of learning.

May 12, 1940, Pope Pius XII beatified this pioneer religious for her life of prayer, poverty, and sacrifice. On this occasion the late Archbishop John J. Glennon celebrated a Pontifical Mass in honor of the Beata for 12,000 people.

The same day 3,500 Knights of Columbus went in solemn procession to the tiny garden shrine in St. Charles, Missouri, where the body has been removed to a beautiful memorial basilica which has been erected on the same grounds.

The canonization of the Beata in the near future is eagerly anticipated by the Religious and students of the Sacred Heart. And it will be the special intention of the public novena from November 8 to 17.

At the invitation of the Men's Art Institute, senior Patricia Perdue is showing five of her oil paintings at the Cafe Del Ray Moro in Balboa Park. Miss Perdue is a member of the Auxiliary.

Seniors Evelyn Krall and Marie Mathew will entertain at a bridge-shower for their classmate, Dorothy Wawrzyski, at the Mathew home on Merritt Blvd., Sunday, November 13, from 2 to 4 p.m. Miss Wawrzyski is to become the bride of Mr. Charles Allen Tex at a noon ceremony in St. Brigid's Church, November 19.

Sophomore Georgia King entertained at a surprise birthday party for James Russell in her La Jolla home. Other guests were Virginia Rausch, Patricia Wohlbenmuth, Cecile Rainier, Suzanne Tilley, Terry Van Orsheven, James Farrell, Joseph Ehring, Paul Suda and Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Eugene Buckley.

Present-day banking practices were explained by Mr. Louis Lundborg, a vice president of the Bank of America. The Dean was especially impressed by the general agreement that "The best preparation for a business career is a liberal education—and then economics." The theme of these talks can be summarized in the slogan, "We give you a job, but you carve your career."

To celebrate the completion of mid-term examinations many college girls spent last weekend out of town. On the train for Los Angeles Friday afternoon were Kathleen Wollstein, Angel Kraemer, Elayne Langenieux, Patricia Crowe, Mary Lou Spalding, Anne Aggeler, and Mary Earley.

Miss Wollstein was the guest of Amparo Vallejo, a former student of the College for Women. This was a farewell visit as Miss Vallejo will return to her home in Colombia next month.

Miss Aggeler spent two days with her parents who were vacationing in Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Aggeler returned to their home in Denver, Sunday.

Miss Earley visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Moffat in San Francisco.

As Human Destiny was a best-seller, it is not surprising that The Road to Human Destiny (Longmans, $5) by Lecomte du Noy, offers a biography of the great scientist. Now his widow, Mary, when he did not practice the Church after a long period reconciled to the Catholic faith. After his book appeared, Lecomte du Noy died shortly.

Athletic Program Takes Form As College Teams Face Action

With a 12-man basketball squad in action, a golf team ready to begin play in January and a 12-man Judo class in training, the University of San Diego's College for Men's athletic program gradually is moving into the sports picture.

Plans for a baseball team also are being mapped by Father Eugene Lechowski, athletic director.

"These sports are an athletic must at any university," Father Lechowski said. "We intend to field good teams in all sports ready to play tough competition as a part of a balanced program. Naturally, we intend to develop an attractive intra-mural program as soon as the enrollment warrants."

The basketball team, now making a modest debut on the sports scene, is coached by Joseph W. Scott, former Eastern Carolina Teachers College player and former coach of Navy teams. The cage schedule lists games mostly with local Navy quintets.

Members of the squad are George Sempel, Richard Deneen, David Oppenheimer, George Hardy, Joseph Lourito, Richard Shea, Vincent Maher, Dennis Schmidt, Harold Mitrovich, Robert Lewis, Roger Faubel, and Joseph Ehring, manager.

"Naturally our team is young and inexperienced," Scott said, "but the boys are hustling and improving. Our hopes are high for the balance of the year—and next season."

golf team, coached by Rizzo, Mission Valley pro, has been practicing for six weeks. Rizzo plans to send the team into action in January for the first time. Matches are planned with Southern California schools and local teams such as Naval Hospital and the Marine Base.

"The boys are developing rapidly as individuals," Rizzo said. "Once they get that 'team feeling' we should do all right."

Members of the squad are Leon Dempsey, Dick Hodgkins, Nino Misuraca, Ron Taylor, Pancho Preciado, Roger Faubel, Lonnie Springer and Nick Santiago.

"Judo is one of Southern California's up-and-coming sports," Father Lechowski said, "with more emphasis going into college Judo classes. This form of interest usually centered in boxing or wrestling."

Exhibitions are planned with Oceanside-Carlsbad Junior College and San Diego State.

Training under the direction of Coach Al Holtman are Tom Dubois, Terry Van Orshoven, George Hardy, Fred Hodge, Lee Lacy, Joe Lourito, Vince Maher, Dave Oppenheimer, Roger Ralston, Jim Russell, John Steward and Scott Starke.

"The possibilities of fielding a football team within the next few years now are being explored," Father Lechowski said. "In a sport which encompasses such time, expense and personnel, it is only natural that budget and material problems be ironed out thoroughly before making a schedule or departmental commitments."

To assist in the immediate development of sports plans and to assist in the general support of campus athletics, Father John L. Storm, president of the College for Men, is creating an athletic board of control. The board will consist of local businessmen, a representative of both faculty and student body and the college's athletic director.

Men's College Athletic Board Members Named

Appointment of an Athletic Board of Control, which will act as the governing body for the University of San Diego's College for Men athletic program now being developed, was announced this week by Father John L. Storm, college president.

Named to the board are Gil Kuhn, local business executive;

Frank A. Lauerman, W. M. Cordtz, outdoor advertising executive; Father Eugene Lechowski, athletic director; Charles Rizzo, golf professional; Pancho Preciado, president of the College for Men student body.

Kuhn Chairman

Father Storm will be an ex officio member of the board, with Kuhn acting as chairman.

"This athletic board is in keeping with large university tradition," Father Storm said. "Under the leadership of Mr. Gil Kuhn, we feel the board of controls will guide the athletic destiny of our new college."

"It is our sincerest hope that the conduct of our players and the caliber of the teams we present will reflect great credit to our university and add to the already splendid athletic reputation of our community."

At the same time, Kuhn announced plans for a Booster Dinner to be staged at the Mission Valley Country Club at 7 p.m. Monday, December 12.

Dyer to Speak

Braven Dyer, Los Angeles Times sports columnist, will be the guest speaker.

Purpose of the dinner, Kuhn said, is to organize a local athletic round table composed of in-

College Plans Set For Christmas Ball

The College for Women's fourth annual Christmas Ball Saturday, December 3, in the college lounge will be sponsored by the Class of '56. President Karolee Kuban announced that Marie Mathew, vice president, is acting as general chairman of the dance. Working with her are Patricia Perdue and Felicia Flynn as co-chairmen of the decorations committee. Kathleen Wollstein will assist as chairman of the refreshments committee.

Music will be by Duane Van Steele, and the Christmas decor will be in blue and silver. Chap-erones include Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Mathew, 4330 Merritt Blvd., La Mesa; Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Redmond, 4104 Coutts, San Diego.

Freshman Betty Bell of Denver will take up the gavel for the Freshman Class the first week of December. She is the fortnightly president to function before the final elections of this class.

Assisting her as vice president is Margaret Farrell, a graduate of Academy of Our Lady of Peace. Terry Falk, a graduate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Menlo Park, Calif., will act as secretary-treasurer.

The Alcala Park Players announced at their meeting November 28 that work on the Christmas Pageant must begin in earnest. President Evelyn Krail appointed chairmen for each of the scenes to be represented. They are Judith Monahan and Mary Turner for "Christmas of the Huron Indian;" Marie Mathew for "Christmas of the Germans in Pennsylvania and the Middle West;" Suzanne Tilley, "Spanish California;" Dorothy Tex, "The Southern Appalachian Mountains;" Evelyn Krail, "The Creoles of Louisiana;" Kathleen Wollstein, "Philadelphia;" Trudy Crampton, "Boston: Annual Nativity Pageant;" Candace Hosmer, "St. Louis: Carolling."

The choral class under the direction of David Nyvall is rehearsing unusual Christmas carols appropriate to each scene. The music program includes, "Jesus Ahatonhia," a 17th century Huron Indian carol; "The Heavenly Alleluia," a favorite of the Vienna choir boys; "O Come, Little Children," in the original German, a Spanish carol of California mission days; "I Wonder As I Wander" from the John Jacob Niles collection of songs of the Appalachian mountains; "Angels We Have Heard on High" in the original French; and an old French carol, "Although You Are So Tiny." There will also be many American favorites interspersed, such as the American-composed "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

All the friends of the college are invited to its fourth annual Christmas Pageant, Sunday, December 11, at 3 p.m. A private showing of the pageant will be given to all Catholic high school students and faculty, Friday, December 9, at 2 p.m. The Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego will be guest of honor at this performance.

When Dr. Francis X. Williams, eminent biologist, spoke to the Science Club, Thursday, November 17, on the Achatina snail, he showed great interest in a specimen which had recently been contributed to the science department. This specimen was a good-sized bat with very large ears and peculiar spotted coloration but up to that time unidentified. Dr. Williams has since consulted the Natural History Museum, however, and found the bat to be a very rare specimen of the Euderma maculata type.

The Natural History Museum has made the science department some handsome offers of exchange in the hope of acquiring this bat for its collection, but Mother Bernice Farrens, assistant professor of Biological Science, is not willing to part with the department's rarest specimen—at any price.

At the invitation of the Education Department, Rev. Joseph N. Stadler, superintendent of Catholic Schools in the Diocese of San Diego, will speak to the college and its guests on the White House Education Conference, December 12, at 3 p.m.

The college invites all the Sisters of the parochial schools to be its guests that Monday afternoon.

Festive Plans Set For Yule Vacation

The Christmas spirit knew no bounds at the College for Women after its presentation of "American Christmas" Friday, December 9, and Sunday, December 11. The entire student-body enjoyed an evening of caroling at Mercy Hospital and the Chancery, Tuesday, December 13. Today, the faculty was to join the students in another evening of caroling and exchanging of gifts in the college lounge.

Friday, December 16, was set as the embarking day for Christmas celebrations in all parts of the United States. Both day students and residents were full of festive holiday plans as they prepared to bid the college goodbye for two weeks.

Prominent in the plans of senior day students is the open house planned by Mrs. James Otis for her classmates on Christmas day. Mrs. Charles Allan Tex is the only senior day student who will spend Christmas out of town. Mrs. Tex and her husband will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Wawrzynski Jr., of Long Beach, that weekend.

Many resident students, however, are taking trips in order to be home for Christmas. Miss Paula Sabin will spend the holidays with her sister Mrs. George Myer of Monterey, Calif. Miss Terry Quinn will be with her family in Minneapolis, and Miss Muriel Jackson will visit her aunt, Mrs. Julius Jackson, in Phoenix. A supper party is planned by Karolee Kuban and Patricia Hallahan, both of Laguna Beach, while Elayne Langenieux of Pasadena will have Jacqueline Kearns as houseguest the weekend of the Rose Bowl game.

Junior Ruth Collins will leave December 16 for Christmas in Des Moines, Iowa, while Oklahoma City is the destination of Patricia Hays and her husband. They will visit Mr. Hays' parents. Donna Kopp, on the other hand, looks forward to New Year's in Nevada, where she will visit her grandfather, Mr. Marshall Reed of Elko.

Patricia Crowe of Pasadena will be presented at a coming-out ball December 21 at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles, while Kathryn Seabrook will be presented December 28 in Chula Vista. Madelyn Lo Piccolo will attend many such parties while she is at home in St. Louis, and Margo Bowman, while at home in Winnetka, Ill.

Colorado-bound are Betty Bell and Bernadette Borelli of Denver, while San Francisco is the destination of Kate Basile, Sandra Schwarzman, and Teresa Falk. Teresa will attend the San Francisco Cotillion Ball, December 26. Connie Wilson of Laguna will spend part of her vacation time with her classmate Jean Hicks, of Palm Springs. Moire Mahoney has accepted an invitation to a party given by the staff of Camp Maria Stella in Los Angeles. Carole Knudsen will be at home in Oceanside except for mountain-climbing on the weekends. And Michalene Flaherty will have the privilege of becoming acquainted with a foreign culture these holidays, as she is to accompany her roommate Martha Lopez to Mexico City.

A few days in Long Beach are planned by Mary Jimenez and her sister Ruth, a June graduate of the college. Skiing in Sun Valley will take Marion Hale away from San Diego for a few days, and Rosemary Castillo will be at home in Albuquerque, N.M. Rosanne Biane and Diane Tucker also will spend Christmas at their home in Ontario and Riverside.

Virginia Rodee, a junior resident, will spend half of her vacation with Valmere Dessert in El Centro and the other half with her sister Mrs. R. P. Metzger of San Francisco. Her roommate, Mary Early, will travel to Denver for two weeks with her family.

Sophomore Barbara Vidal is another who has planned an excursion to San Francisco, while Patricia Welch hopes to visit Nancy Adams in El Centro. Georgia King of La Jolla will fly to St. Louis to attend a round of debut parties, while Arlene Glenn and Barbara McGowan have many local parties and dances on their holiday agenda.

Among sophomore residents, Mary Beth McGurk will travel the longest distance for Christmas. She will make a cross-country journey to Hartford, Conn., to be with her parents, who will entertain at a supper dance in her honor sometime during the holidays.

Jane Lauerman will go almost as far for her brother's wedding in Youngstown, Ohio. Her brother, David, will marry Kathleen Hanna of that city and Jane will be maid of honor. Anne Aggeler will spend most of her time in Denver, but two days of her vacation will be spent skiing in Aspen Colo. Trudy Crampton, Ann Dyer, and Gall Derry are all San Francisco-bound for holidays at home. Barbara Heney will be with her mother in Seattle, Wash.

The freshmen will not be outdone by upperclassmen, as Margaret Farrell is giving a New Year's party in honor of her brother, Jerry, who returns soon from Notre Dame. Patricia Mulcahy, Dorothy Tato, and Carlene Allen will entertain at a pre-Christmas dinner for college friends. Margo Lester will have Miss Kathryn Pyles of Milwaukee as a houseguest during these festivities, while Mary Rosa will visit friends in Ontario.

Debut parties loom large on the calendars of freshman resi-

Collegians to Host High School Games

The San Diego College for Women will play host to students from the four Catholic girls' highs of San Diego on March 26. W. A. A. president Diane Sinclair and her committees have planned a day of basketball, volleyball, tennis and ping-pong, with emphasis on good sportsmanship rather than competition.

Committee heads in charge of events are Arline Raymond, volleyball games; Patricia Friel and Adrienne Kuhe, basketball; Joan Fennell, tennis; and Lillian Jimenez, ping-pong.

Other high school guests for the week of March 21-25 are the senior girls of Oceanside and Carlsbad, March 22; and those of San Bernardino and Riverside, March 27.

While the girls are touring the College for Women, San Bernardino and Riverside boys will visit the College for Men and the seminaries at El Cajon.

Joan Willson of Huntington Park, a former student at the women's college, was featured as guest soloist at the March 17 St. Patrick's Day program. Her selections included "A Little Bit of Heaven" and "The Lilac Tree."

Additional contributions to the program, sponsored by the religious affairs committee, were made by the music education class. Junior Leann Mahoney led the rhythm band. Then the whole class entertained with an Irish dance.

While the students are busy with their mid-term exams, Mother Catherine Parks, president, and Mother Aimee Rossi, dean, will attend the spring meeting of the Western College Association in Los Angeles.

President's Day Program Slated By Collegiates

Friday, February 11, is President's Day at the San Diego College for Women. To honor the president, Mother Catherine Parks, the student body will present for her and the members of the faculty an Epilogue to the Marian Year.

Junior Beth Ann Smith will star in the production as Our Lady. She will be supported by the Old Testament types of Our Lady with Alice Anne Amick playing the part of Eve; Mary Jimenez as Mother of Moses; Kathleen Wollstein as Anna; Rosanne Biane as Judith; and Felicia Flynn as Esther. Patricia McNair will portray the patriarch Abraham; Sharon Flaherty, the prophet Isaiah; Jacqueline Kearns as John the apostle; Barbara Rogers as St. Bernard the confessor; Mary Turner as St. Agnes; and Elayne Langenieux as St. Madeleine Sophie. Angels will be played by Patricia Wohlge-muth, Ann Dyer, Virginia Rausch, Barbara Heney, Patricia Keating, Cecile Rainier and Diane Johnson.

The Speakers Bureau held its first spring semester meeting and received four probationary members—Sharon Flaherty, Barbara Rogers, Mary Lee Wible and Ellen Monsees. Mother Aimee Rossi, dean and faculty advisor of the bureau, reviewed the aims of the organization which are to promote outstanding contributions to class discussions and form articulate leaders for the school.

The bureau will launch an "Interschool Relations Program" to acquaint all high schools in the county with the College for Women and what it has to offer to girls graduating from high school.

Current Science Club meetings are being devoted to preparation for a trip to the Palomar observatory.

Highlight of the past weekend for many of the students was the evening spent at the Old Globe Theatre where Craig Noel's "Affairs of State" has been entertaining San Diego audiences. Not so cultural but just as enjoyable was the freshmen's Sunday hike to Palm Canyon and a wiener-roast.
