POETRY TEST SET BY COURT

The annual poetry contest will be sponsored by Court St. Rose of Lima, Catholic Daughters of America, Mrs. Margaret Amick, chairman, has announced. The contest again will be judged by Father J. Vincent Sullivan, rector of St. Francis Minor Seminary.

Miss Dorothy Kolenski of Cathedral Girls' High School won state and national honors in the court-sponsored contest last year.

Schools participating in the contest this year are St. Joseph's Grammar School, Cathedral Girls' High School, St. Didacus, St. Martin's Academy, St. Vincent's, Stella Maris Academy, Academy of Our Lady of Peace, and the University of San Diego's College for Women. Contests from these schools will compete in the four divisions.

College Girls Hear Noted Zoo Director

Mrs. Belle Benchley, former director of the San Diego Zoo, addressed the students of the College for Women, Friday, March 9, under the auspices of the Science Club.

Mrs. Benchley spoke of the zoo as "a show" and "as a haven for animals." With regard to training the animals for showing, the lecturer commented that "a young animal learns easily, but by the fifth or sixth year it has lost this capacity." This observation was pointed out as a striking example of the difference between the human and animal young.

Since animals learn very few new tricks after they are more than a half-dozen years old, most of a zoo director's attention is focused on maintaining the well-being of the animals. The San Diego Zoo, Mrs. Benchley stated, is famous for its low death rate and its high birth rate. Moreover, it has one of the largest animal populations among zoos—4,000 in all.

After a recent trip around the world, Mrs. Benchley is now able to answer the question, "Are animals in their natural state happier than those in captivity?" Her answer is, "No." The animals in captivity are better cared for and are more contented and live longer.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY HERE AT 2 P.M.

Pioneers, Falcons Open; High-Scoring Game Seen

By JOHNNY McDONALD

The U.S. Air Force Academy is expected to shoot the works with a wide-open brand of football against newly-formed University of San Diego in an unusual grid opener at Balboa Stadium today at 2 p.m.

The game is considered unusual in that these two teams are beginning their first varsity campaign in an era of football decline and cutbacks throughout the country.

A crowd of 10,000 is expected to watch these two young institutions both of which regard the game as the stepping stone to big time football.

Because of its eight-game freshman campaign last season and the influx of several promising new freshmen, the Air Force Falcons will be at least two-touchdown favorites.

However, neither coach, Buch Shaw of the Falcons or Gil Kuhn of the Pioneers, is predicting victory. Shaw said he looks for a high-scoring game and that his team will throw a lot of passes; Kuhn indicates the Pioneers are capable of doing the job.

The Falcons will pin their hopes on the passing of quarterback Eddie Rosane of Pasco, Wash. Rosane will be at the controls when the Air Academy operates from the spread and T-variation formations.

Playing behind Rosane will be George Pupich of San Fernando and John Kunzel of St. Mary's, Ohio.

Working with Rosane in the first unit will be halfbacks Steve Galios and Mickey Gouyd and fullback Larry Thomson. Galios is a good runner, but may be seen quite

Game Can Start: USD Football Team Has A Monicker—Pioneers

Well, they got the baby named in time for the christening.

It's going to be the University of San Diego Pioneers, and it's hoped that Denver won't sue for violation of trademark.

The student council at USD came up with the name after hours of stormy deliberation yesterday, and just in time, too. USD gets its football baptism Saturday afternoon at Balboa Stadium at the hands of the U.S. Air Force Academy Falcons and everybody knows, of course, that you can't play football without a name.

Buck Shaw

Now the embryo flyers are graduating to varsity competition, this time against the Pioneers of the University of San Diego. It remains to be seen whether the air cadets will be as rough on varsity Pioneers as on freshman Pioneers.

It's doubtful everybody is going to be delighted, but you can't please all the relatives. You've got to call people and football teams something, and no serious objection is voiced here. At least, Pioneers fits nicely in a one-column headline and that's more than can be said for Conquistadores or Missionaries.

The long ones were but two of the 90 or so nominations considered before they locked up the student council yesterday and told 'em to pick a name or stay in there and starve. Pioneers was the result.

Lots Of Advice, But No Takers

This bureau had gotten into the solemn deliberations to an extent last week by inviting suggestions from the public and, I must say, the public is at least as imaginative as the USD student body.

If the mail here is an indication, the most favored names are Friars and Conquistadores. Of the names submitted, my personal choices were Seahawks and Dolphins.

Suggestions included: Skippers, Dukes, Serphs, Romans, Pilots, Bluefins, Missionaries, Alcalans, Hilltoppers, Border Bombers, Missions, Cholla Cats, Javelinas, Rockers, Shamrocks, Celtics, Gaelics, Conquistadores, Seahawks and Dolphins.

Anyway, the deed is done and it's hoped Gil Kuhn has had an easier time putting together USD's football team than did the administration and student body in choosing a school name. Because the newly-named Pioneers probably are going to have all they can handle Saturday afternoon.

This isn't an Air Force team that would frighten Stanford or Oklahoma, but it's quite a challenge to a school which got into the football business only Sept. 5.

The newest of the academies will field an all-sophomore starting lineup, but the situation probably isn't as desperate as it sounds. The Falcons are hand-picked from throughout the country and it's assumed Buck Shaw will have an interesting combination of brain and brawn going for him.

You don't get into the Air Force Academy on brawn alone. Scholastic excellence is the first essential. As one air force officer expressed it, "the fact that a boy is an all-state football player doesn't get his foot even one inch into the door."

What's This? Air Force Grounded

But there is no discrimination against athletes. The Air Force has a high regard for competitive athletics and wasted no time in getting a football team into uniform. Last season the Falcons played an eight-game schedule, four more games than the usual freshman team.

And the flyers made no mistake in hiring Buck Shaw as their first-time head coach. Though sacked by the San Francisco 49ers after nine seasons, Shaw is one of football's most respected men and he'll probably get the baby Falcons out of the nest and into the air in a hurry.

That's speaking literally, as well as figuratively. The white-haired coach, beginning his first full term at the academy, has an idea the Falcons should put the football into the air.

Last year, under interim coach Col. Bob Whitlow, the fledgling pilots completed only 25 passes in eight games. A shocking state of affairs. If the army wants to travel on its stomach, fine. But not the air force, please. This is the jet age.

Shaw hopes to put matters a'right with the help of a young fellow named Eddie Rosane, of Pasco, Wash. Rosane is a six-foot quarterback who, they say, fires a football real pert. Last season he didn't have much chance to display this skill because of a broken wrist sustained before the opening game.

He's fit now, though, and will be firing from the T formation to his pet receivers, halfbacks Steve Galios and Mickey Gouyd, and end Tom Jozwiak. Gouyd, one of five Californians on the Falcon travelling squad, is a mighty mouse of five feet, six inches and 152 pounds who will bear a lot of watching.

But, win or lose, the No. 1 issue of the hour has been settled. The USD football team has a name. The yell-leaders have been spared from a fate worse than laryngitis. Welcome to the family, Pioneers.

USD Brushes Up Defense, Pass Attack

Coach Gil Kuhn said yesterday he plans to work his University of San Diego football squad on defense and pass plays today and tomorrow and will taper off drills Thursday.

The new university at Alcala Park will open its first football season against the U.S. Air Force Academy Saturday afternoon at Balboa Stadium.

After three rough scrimmages last week, USD came out with few injuries. In fact, the only doubtful start appears to be tailback Joe McNamara, who is nursing a knee injury.

If McNamara does not open for USD, Kuhn said it will be a tossup between Clarence Mascari and Hank Zumstein for the spot. Mascari was passing well in the club's scrimmage with Cal Poly of San Dimas last Saturday.

Kuhn's toughening up program last week had the San Diegans scrimmaging Naval Training Center Tuesday, Marine Recruit Depot Thursday and Cal Poly Saturday.

"I don't plan to announce my game lineup until Saturday," Kuhn said, "and in many positions boys are pushing for jobs."

"Joe D'Heilly and Duane Rudinski are battling for the fullback job, Bob Franklin and Tony Procopio are waging a struggle for the quarterback slot and Glen Goss is pushing Joe DiTomaso for a guard post."

Kuhn said he hopes to pass a lot against the Air Cadets but must work with his receivers.

Kuhn indicated Pomona, Cal Poly of Dimas, Flagstaff and Pepperdine want to schedule games with USD next year and he hopes to have the Air Academy again . . .

USD FIRST STEP UP LADDER

Air Force Football Coach Looks To Team's Future

"It's going to be rugged as heck for about five years and it's going to be interesting starting this thing from scratch."

Buck Shaw, former San Francisco 49er coach now in charge of the U.S. Air Force Academy, was doing the talking. His 35-man squad will arrive Friday night to play the equally-young University of San Diego in their season opener at Balboa Stadium Saturday afternoon.

"On the other hand, once we get rolling we're going to be so far ahead of Army and Navy it won't be funny. I'm sure the young men of the country realize the greatest future is with the Air Force," he added.

This year's schedule is predominately against Rocky Mountain Conference teams, with five Skyline teams on the 1957 slate and teams such as Stanford, Tulane, Colorado and Iowa in 1958. The first meeting with Army is scheduled in 1959 and Navy is anticipated no later than 1960.

BUCK SHAW
Hopes history will repeat

Shaw admits that after nine years as a pro coach it seems funny to be working with kids who have had just a year of freshman experience at best.

But Buck is "sold" on the future of the Air Force Academy and makes no bones about the fact he believes it won't be too long before the Air Force makes the Army-Navy game a consolation prize.

And, Saturday, he hopes to see the Falcons take the first step up the ladder in their varsity debut against USD.

When Shaw walks onto the turf at Balboa Stadium he's bound to think back 10 years almost to the day. For it was in this same stadium that he made his professional coaching debut when he unveiled the 49ers in an exhibition game against the old Los Angeles Dons of the defunct All-America Conference.

The 49ers won that one—a close battle — and Shaw is hoping that portion of history will repeat itself.

SIDELIGHTS—Col. Robert Whitlow and Capt. Forrest Cook, athletic director and business athletic director, respectively, of the Academy, will be honored at a luncheon at Admiral Kidd tomorrow at noon . . . Joe DiTomaso, USD guard, is a former junior college all-American . . . George Pupich, 6-1, 195-pounder from San Fernando, is listed at quarterback for the Falcons but may turn up at left half on occasion. He also is one of the better secondary defenders.

Boosters Club Plans Big Kickoff Banquet

The first annual kickoff banquet will be staged by the Boosters Club of the University of San Diego at the Mission Valley Country Club Wednesday evening, September 19.

An outstanding array of talent has been lined up for the event by Charles Rizzo, Mission Valley Country Club golf pro and banquet chairman.

With Murray Goodrich acting as master of ceremonies, guest headliners include Florence Chadwick, San Diego's channel swimming champion; golf star Gene Littler, and Archie Moore, world light heavyweight boxing champion.

The Most Reverend Bishop also will attend this first event of the university's athletic program. The affair is expected to attract 300.

The $10-a-plate dinner also will honor the football squad which opens its first gridiron season against the U. S. Air Force Academy in Balboa Stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday, September 29. Proceeds of the banquet will go to the athletic scholarship fund.

Gen. Joseph McNarney, retired Air Force officer who now is president of Convair, was a featured guest at the Boosters Club luncheon at Mission Valley Inn Monday.

Also on hand to answer questions about the Air Force Academy were Capt. Forrest Cook, public relations officer, and Maj. Frank Merritt, former West Point All-America football star who now is an assistant to Coach Buck at the Colorado school.

General McNarney, who lauded university officials and the booster group on "bringing another school and team into the San Diego fraternity," was presented the first two tickets to the USD-Air Force Academy football game by Father John L. Storm, president of the College for Men.

Johnson Made Athletic Head At San Diego U.

June 1956

Fon Johnson, basketball coach at the University of San Diego, last night was named athletic director.

Announcement of the promotion was made by the Very Reverend John L. Storm, president of the College for Men of the University, after a meeting of the athletic board of control and the school's booster club.

Gil Kuhn, former University of Southern California football star and now a San Diego businessman, was appointed coach of the school's first freshman football team.

A former San Diego State basketball player, Johnson took over coaching duties of the USD cage squad last winter. He previously coached local Amateur Athletic Union teams to third and runner-up positions two consecutive years in the National AAU tournament in Denver. His 1954-55 team helped represent the United States at the Pan-American games.

He will continue duties as varsity basketball coach and has made arrangements to have his local kennel operation put under outside supervision.

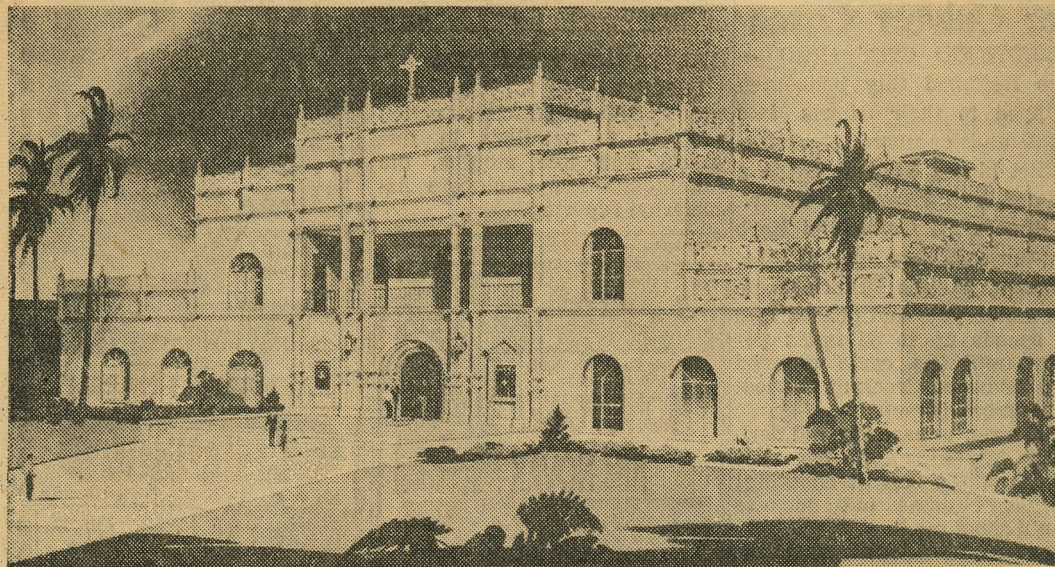

Kuhn, a local shrimp-packing executive, was a center on the late Howard Jones' Trojan teams in 1934, 1935 and 1936. He was head football coach at Glendale Junior College in 1938-39. During World War II, he was a pilot in the Air Force and in 1942 was picked on General Bob Neyland's All-Army football team.

LATEST ADDITION—Ground breaking for this new Arts and Sciences building at the University of San Diego has been scheduled for October. It will provide facilities for engineering, science, pre-medical and pre-dental students.

PROJECT SET—Construction of a new law building at the University of San Diego is expected to begin Sept. 1. The estimated cost of the university's two buildings is three million dollars. They are expected to be finished in 1958.

University Set To Start Work On 2 Buildings

Plans for a law building and arts and science building were announced today by the University of San Diego.

Cost of the two three-story units will be three million dollars.

They will be the university's sixth and seventh permanent buildings constructed in Alcala Park north of Mission Valley. Construction costs since the university's establishment in 1949 now are estimated at 15 million dollars.

Plans Approved

Plans were approved by the Most Rev. Charles Francis Buddy, bishop of the San Diego diocese.

Edgar V. Ullrich, architect, and Stanley Burne, structural engineer, submitted the blueprints.

The buildings will provide facilities for engineering and science majors, premedical and pre dental curricula and a school of law.

Sept. 1 Start Set

Construction on the law building will begin around Sept. 1. Ground breaking for the arts and science building is slated for early October. Both are expected to be completed in the spring of 1958.

The structures will follow the Renaissance style of architecture, which has been established as the architecture of the university. Both the Administration Building and the School of Theology, which is near completion, are the same type.

Falcons Employ Pro-Style Attack

By JOHNNY McDONALD

"Spreads, split-T formation with flankers and all the tricks Buck Shaw fashioned with the San Francisco 49ers will be used by the Air Force Academy when it meets the University of San Diego," Col. Robert Whitlow, Air Force athletic director, told the Falcon Boosters Club here yesterday.

The Air Force Academy will play USD, now known as the Pioneers, in Balboa Stadium tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

"Coach Shaw likes a passing game and also a high scoring contest," Whitlow added.

Eddie Rosane, a 6-foot, 170-pound quarterback from Pasco, Wash., seems to be the key to the attack. A broken wrist kept him out of action most of last year's freshman season but this year he's fully recovered and is throwing the ball well, according to Whitlow.

Other boys who may stimulate some excitement will be Mickey Gouyd, a 5-9, 152-pound halfback, a good breakaway runner, and George Pupich, a 6-3, 196-pound reserve quarterback who can serve in triple capacity.

Pupich played end in high school, is listed at quarterback but is one of the better defensive halfbacks on the squad. He also will be counted on to carry the ball from a halfback position.

Meanwhile, Pioneer coach Gil Kuhn said he was still undecided as to his starting lineup. Kuhn worked his squad yesterday on timing and passing drills.

Clarence Mascari, a standout at quarterback for the San Diego County in the recent high school all-star game, may get the starting call at tailback in the Pioneer single wing operation. This move may be necessitated by a leg injury to Joe McNamara, a veteran Junior College performer.

Undoubtedly a point that still clouds Kuhn's mind is the fact that his first stringers were outplayed by the second team in their last scrimmage with Cal Poly of San Dimas.

Although scheduled to play, Bill Banaga, USD guard, may see only limited service because of a sprained knee.

Yesterday, D. D. Williams, vice mayor of San Diego, presented a proclamation to Col. Whitlow listing tomorrow as "Air Force Academy Day" in honor of the Air Force Reserves, Civil Air Patrol, Ground Observer Corps, Reserve Officers Association and the Air Force Association.

The Air Force team is expected to arrive at Lindbergh Airport tomorrow night at 8:30 and a car caravan and rally has been arranged by the Air Force Reserves.

USD-Pepperdine Game Cancelled, Kuhn Says

Gil Kuhn, coach of the University of San Diego football team, announced last night that the Pioneers' game with Pepperdine College Oct. 20 has been cancelled.

Kuhn said the schools were unable to get a stadium in either Inglewood or Long Beach for the game. This leaves USD with a six-game schedule.

A few weeks ago a very beautiful new series of commemorative stamps was issued by Vatican City. The occasion was the centenary of the BIRTH, 700 years ago, of Dante Alighieri. It was the year 1265. He is the everlasting glory of his fatherland and one of the world's greatest poets. "Suave gentis imperitura gloria - Populorum dives poeta." It is fitting that we observe the anniversary of his birth. He sang of Heaven; he wrote divinely; He had a genius for putting words together.

But it is still more fitting that we keep the anniversary of the DEATH of Mother Barat. She does not sing of Heaven; she occupies it. She does not write of divine things; she enjoys them in the Beatific Vision. Hers was a genius for putting souls together. For this reason, she is attending the graduation exercises this afternoon. Her spirit will pervade every graduation ever to be held on a campus of her own Religious. Seven hundred years ago Dante Alighieri was born to this world and left it a better one. One hundred years ago Madeleine Sophie Barat died to this world. Her spirit, her example, her inspiration, her intercession in Heaven will always make this a better world in which to live.

I am sure you have heard it said, "The Sisters are always a couple of steps ahead of you" - no matter what you are trying to say or do. This afternoon I offer a stirring proof of this, and it applies not only to those of us who are gathered here, not only to the Diocese of San Diego or to the United States, but to the entire Catholic Church and, in a sense, to the entire world. Long before the Ecumenical Council spoke of ecumenism, long before anyone heard of the ecumenical movement, the good Sisters had chosen a motto which places them away ahead of all of us: UT OMNES UNUM SINT!

As you young ladies leave the College for Women this afternoon, you must be conscious of a bond of unity among all of you. Physically you may never again be together as the Class of 1965. (Class reunions of college graduates are notorious for absenteeism!) But morally you will always be united under the mantle of your newly acquired MOTHER - your ALMA MATER. You already have three ALMAE MATRES: your loving mothers who gave you birth; your Holy Mother, the Church; your Queenly Mother in Heaven. You are graduating on the Eve of her great new Feast, The Queenship of Mary.

Today you become children of another Alma Mater: Your College. During your undergraduate days you have pursued different studies. You have learned different things. Some will be retained, others forgotten. These are the frills of education. But your education itself does not depend on memory. It is part of you. It is your very person. This is why you will always refer to the College for Women as your Mater, because, like all mothers, she has given of herself to you; you have become part of her...Let us put it this way: Much has happened in the world since 1820 when Mother Barat held her educational council. You know more about the physical sciences, about chemistry, biology, medicine, social welfare, than your counterparts of 145 years ago. But, you know, the same God is in His Heaven and the same frail human beings are on earth now, as then. And for this reason, I am convinced that Mother Barat, if she were doing it today, would not change her blueprint for the well-educated woman: You are stamped and sealed with strong Religious principles and devotion to the Sacred Heart. This is the unique quality of your education... You have a true sense of values..... Many years ago there was a cultured, refined, well-educated young man in the University of Alcala' - Alcala' in Spain, not San Diego. He belonged to a very prominent Italian family - the Gonzagas. Aloysius was also very pious and holy. In fact, as you know, he is now a canonized Saint of the Catholic Church. He had developed a perfect sense of balance, a sense of true values, which might be summed up in a sentence that became his rule, norm, standard for living. It was "Quid hoc ad aeternitatem?" Used to play checkers and chess... Aloysius was only 23 when he died.

In Louisville, Kentucky, there is a famous monument. It is the likeness of a race horse, MAN O'WAR, erected by the people of Louisville to perpetuate the legendary performances of this fine animal. The inscription on the monument reads: THE FASTEST HORSE THIS WORLD EVER SAW. After a night of what might, euphemistically, be called fun, a group of college students changed the inscription to read: THE FASTEST WORLD THIS HORSE EVER SAW.---The world may have become faster (in more ways than one) since 1820, but I am sure you girls will always keep your sense of values... This is my wish, my prayer, as I congratulate you, your parents, other members of your family, the Religious and all the Faculty of the College on this, the twelfth graduation exercise. May God's blessing be with you and all you do during a long and happy lifetime!

San Diego College For Women Receives Sanction From Association's Membership

Dr. Malcolm A. Love, president of San Diego State College, yesterday was elected president of the Western College Association. The Association completed its two-day spring meeting in the U. S. Grant Hotel.

San Diego College for Women, two other four-year California colleges and one junior college were accredited by the association.

Love succeeds the Rev. Herman J. Hauck, S. J., president of the University of Santa Clara. The organization is one of six in the nation supervising the accrediting of higher institutions. Love had been one of two vice presidents for the past year.

NELSON ELECTED

Prof. Lawrence Nelson, University of Redlands, was elected to replace Love as a vice president. Robert Burns, president of the College of the Pacific, was reelected a vice president.

Dr. Stanley B. Freeborn, provost at Davis campus, University of California, and Dr. H. Donald Winbigler, dean of students at Stanford University, were elected to three-year terms on the association's executive committee.

They replace Nelson and Peter Odegard of the University of California at Berkeley.

PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

Delegates accepted without dissenting votes recommendations by the committee on memberships and standards to accredit and allow memberships by San Diego College for Women, the University of California at Riverside and Chapman College at Orange.

Deep Springs Junior College at Deep Springs was the only junior college receiving accreditation for the first time at the association meeting. Eight regular and two specialized institutions received re-accreditation.

John J. Wells as vice-president, Mrs. Daley Buckley as recording secretary, Mrs. H. Stephen King as public relations representative, and Dr. Anita Figueredo and Mrs. Fulton Monsees on the board of directors . . . San Diego College for Women is headed by the Rev. Mother Hill, who is Vicar Superior of the Western Vicarite of the Society of the Sacred Heart, including all academies and colleges from Chicago to the west coast. Mrs. Casey's mother, Mrs. Delphine Seabold, was one of the Rev. Mother's first pupils at Kenwood, Albany, New York, and Mrs. Casey was one of the first part-time students at the San Diego college . . . The architectural style of the college is Spanish Renaissance, with arches and delicate spires of Moorish influence. The chapel holds wood carvings done in Italy, covered in six layers of gold leaf, reburnished, and the center scene set in the triptych in the reredos is of the crucifixion. Ways of the Cross, in mosaic style, are also from Italy. The lovely theatre will seat around 1,000 people, and is complete with orchestra pit, cut velvet draperies, and ornamental balconies at each side which give off a soft glow through peach colored silk curtains. The library of the school takes one's breath away, for it is so huge that it will hold a quarter of a million books, and the main reading room will seat almost 300 pupils. Furniture throughout the building in deference to the size of the rooms, is of Gargantuan proportions, many pieces lavishly inlaid in Mother-of pearl and contrasting woods, or intricately carved . . . Mrs. Casey says that students represent almost every state in this country, and that a few come from abroad to attend the new San Diego institution.

Air Academy Team Gets Red Carpet

Maj. Gen. James E. Briggs, superintendent of the Air Force Academy, and the academy football team last night were welcomed to San Diego by an enthusiastic crowd at Lindbergh Field.

The Air Force Falcons will meet the University of San Diego Pioneers in Balboa Stadium at 2 p.m. today. It will be the first varsity football game for each team.

A dinner in the Cotillion Room of El Cortez Hotel for the visitors will be held at 7 tonight, sponsored by the newly-organized Air Force Booster Club here.

Briggs and Brig. Gen. Robert M. Stillman, commandant of cadets at the academy, were greeted by Lt. Col. William B. Adams, commander of the Air Force Reserve Center at Ft. Rosecrans, Maj. E. M. Johnson, his assistant, and Gay Cowie, Miss San Diego.

The plane carrying Coach Buck Shaw and the football team came in 20 minutes later. Vice Mayor Williams officially welcomed Shaw and the team and a motorcade of convertibles drove the party up Broadway to the Lafayette Hotel, where the team is quartered.

Briggs, who became academy superintendent Aug. 1, said the football team helps build tradition at the young school, now housed at Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, but scheduled to move to Colorado Springs late in 1958.

This is the first year the academy has scheduled varsity opponents in football. Briggs said the team hopes to schedule games with Army or Navy in a few years.

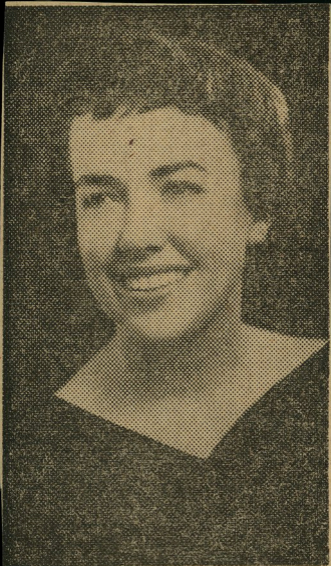

At the dinner tonight, Lt. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, USAF, ret., of Los Angeles will be a guest. Maj. Gen. Robert B. Landry, commander of the 4th Air Force, is also expected. A dance will follow.

CHEMISTRY MAJOR

City Girl Graduates From College

MICROFILMED

Among the graduates at San Diego College for Women this year was Miss Carol Margaret Riddell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley W. Riddell of San Bernardino.

Miss Riddell was a chemistry major with a minor in mathematics. She plans to do graduate work in Chemistry next year. The Most Rev. Charles Francis Buddy, bishop of San Diego Diocese, conferred the degrees upon the graduating seniors; and seated on the stage in the auditorium were distinguished members of the faculty and honored guests.

Miss Riddell is a graduate of St. Bernardine's High School.

Sophomores receiving their A. A. degrees at the same ceremony included Miss Jean Ellen Featherstone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Featherstone of San Bernardino.

Bishop Receives Nun's First Vows

Jan 12/1956

Celebrating the Mass of the Epiphany in the Chapel of the College for Women Friday morning, January 6, the Most Reverend Bishop also received the First Vows of Sister Carmen Parrilla.

In the same impressive rites, His Excellency bestowed the habit of the Religious of the Sacred Heart on the Misses Cristina Arroyo and Ana Rodriguez.

Commenting on the beauty and simplicity of the ceremony, His Excellency called the occasion "almost too solemn for words," but also too moving to refrain from expressing some of the felicitation experienced in the knowledge that these consecrated Sisters "somewhere, somehow in the past heard the call, 'Be Mine,' and they left aside wordly ambitions and expectations to follow that Divine Lover.

"Love is the desire to possess and to be possessed," he said. "They were not content with a human lover; they wanted, they aspired to the very highest, a Divine bridegroom.

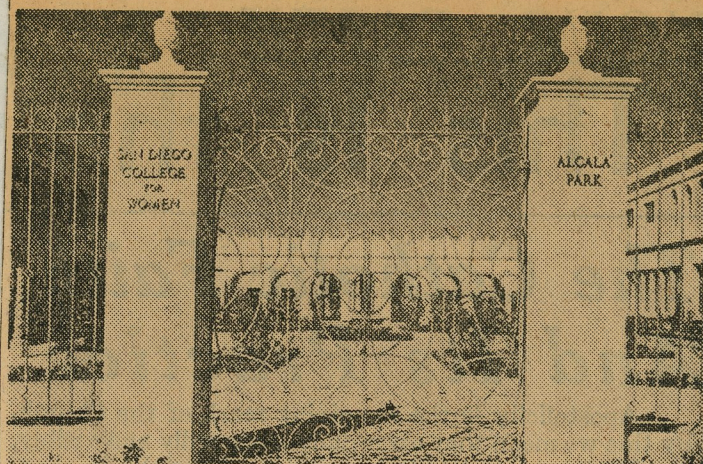

"We congratulate them on this choice. When other loves are shattered, broken into bits about our feet, there is one love that remains for those who have chosen Him—that of Jesus Christ.

"Can a thorn-crowned lover choose a bride? Yes, and He does. These elect of His have chosen the better part, which shall not be taken from them. He may come with a cross upon His shoulder, but He comes as a Lover."

Attending the Most Reverend Bishop were Father John L. Storm, president of the College for Men, and Father Donald F. Doxie, Bishop's secretary.

College students attended the ceremony in academic dress.

Trip 'Home' Thrill For Young Pianist

The Christmas holidays are over, and as at all other schools, the pupils at St. Martin's Academy in La Mesa are back in school struggling with readin', 'riting and 'rithmetic.

That includes 10-year-old Donald Read, who is being kept busy with the problems of a sixth-grade youth.

But the holiday season was an exciting one for Donald, the talented pianist who gave his first concert at the age of six. He flew back to his native North Carolina, had lunch with Gov. Luther H. Hodges and played for him in the executive mansion. He also performed on the Carolina Hour television program and played three concerts in Vanceboro, N. C.

Donald was born at Camp Lejeune, N. C., and came to San Diego with his mother, Mrs. Amelie Read, before he was a year old. This was his first visit to the state of his birth.

State Honor

The youthful pianist brought back with him an impressive framed certificate signed by Gov. Hodges appointing him "ambassador of good will for his native state."

And the appointment went on to state that the governor does "hereby confer upon you all the right, privileges and powers useful and necessary to the just and proper discharge of the duties of your appointment."

On his first return to North Carolina, Donald was taken on a tour of Camp Lejeune, saw the room where he was born, then played for family friends and acquaintances in Vanceboro where he was taken from the hospital nine days after his birth.

On his return trip to San Diego, Donald again met the North Carolina governor at the Durham airport, where Gov. Hodges delayed his take-off on a trip to again shake hands with the young musician.

Sponsored by Gov. Hodges, arrangements already have been made to bring Donald back to North Carolina next summer, at which time he expects to play Beethoven's Concerto No. 1.

En route home, Donald and his mother stopped in New Orleans where he visited the Mesdames of the Sacred Heart and gave a concert for the community. He also made three TV appearances in New Orleans.

Donald gave a concert at the San Diego College for Women when he was seven years old and made his first symphony appearance at Mt. St. Mary's College, Los Angeles, when he was eight.

He refuses to give a concert unless he attends Mass that same morning and receives Holy Communion, his mother says.

With one exciting trip a memory, Donald Read, the talented young pianist, is very much engrossed in his sixth-grade studies—and looking forward to another exciting trip to his home state of North Carolina next summer.

Drama Club Maps Spring Play Plans

The Alcala Park Players announced the first day of the new semester that Shakespeare's "Midsummer Night's Dream" is the choice for this year's spring production. A three-act version of this romantic Renaissance comedy will be directed by B. R. Van Vleck, professor of speech at the San Diego College for Men.

The first American performance of "A Midsummer-Night's Dream" was given at The Park Theater, New York, November 9, 1826. The most notable professional revival of recent years was given at Daly's Theater, New York, January 31, 1888. Still later Tyrone Power appeared as the character Egeus and John Craig as Lysander. During all these years, however, the play has been a favorite on college stages.

The dates for tryouts will be announced soon, and the dates of performances will be announced after the play is in rehearsal.

Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors of the College for Women are all aglow in anticipation of the Mardi Gras dance scheduled by the Freshmen for 9 p.m. Saturday, February 11, in the college social rooms. According to the Freshman Class president, it is to be "the dance of the year!"

Janet Berardinelli, chairman of the Music Committee, promises music to suit every taste. Cordelia Curley, who is in charge of decorations, says they will be "different." And Irma Serrano, chairman of the Refreshments Committee, knows her department will not go unpatronized.

Aglow with another kind of excitement are Juniors Rosanne Biane, Carol Farrell, and Patricia Keane—all of whom were received into the Children of Mary Sodality by the Most Reverend Bishop, the first Friday of February. They are now the proud wearers of the large silver medal indicative of this sodality.

Members of the Guard of Honor were Judy Monahan, Margaret Fahlstrom, Paula Sabin, and Carol Riddell, representing the Senior Class; Rosanne Biane and Rosemary Castillo, representing the Juniors; Barbara Vidal, Mary Lee Wible, Sandra Jelinek, and Jane Lauerman, representing the Sophomores; Marjorie Arce, Kate Basile, Irma Serrano, and Margo Lester, representing the freshmen.

The day, already auspicious for a select few, became memorable for both faculty and students that evening when they attended an impromptu harp concert in the college theater. The guest performer was Mrs. Arthur Schwarzman of San Francisco.

Mrs. Schwarzman is the mother of Sandra Schwarzman, president of the Freshman Class. She is famous as the first woman ever to play with the San Francisco Symphony.

Mrs. Schwarzman's professional name is Barbara Merkley and she currently appears on Albert White's "Masters of Melody" over NBC. This program recently received an award for being the best loved program on the air in Northern California.

Choosing at random from her extensive repertoire, the gracious harpist played for His Excellency and assembled professors and students "Priere," "Dance of the Marionettes," "Fountain," "Last Rose of Summer," "Mighty Like

Other new elections and appointments for second semester include Margaret Fahlstrom, who was elected secretary-treasurer of the Senior Class to replace Jane Petty, who will not be able to continue her schooling until the fall term.

True Humanism Stressed by Lecturer

JAN 23, 1956

"Christian Humanism is a redundancy," declared Fenton Moran, executive secretary of the William J. Kerby Foundation of the Catholic University of America, in his lecture at the San Diego College for Women, last Monday on "Christian Humanism and Its Enemies."

To the assembled faculty and students of the College for Men and the College for Women, Mr. Moran explained that humanism is "the system of thought which sees man, the whole man, as the measure of the universe in which he is."

The lecturer described the two forms it has taken in the past—that of the Renaissance, which was a revolt against exaggerated "other-worldliness" and that of the early part of the present century, which was a rebellion against pure materialism. He added that only Christian humanism is true humanism for "Christ is the achetype of the true humanist," and Christian humanism is always concerned with the whole man.

In a discussion of the enemies of true humanism, Mr. Moran showed how materialism and communism, which he defined as the "militant expression of materialism," were the antithesis of true humanism, whereas democracy, whose two chief thesis are human equality and human worth, has the truly humanistic view of life.

A final comparison of these two ideologies, he said, revealed that communism places no value on man as he is but only what he may evolve to be, whereas democracy "tells man that he is valuable as he is, that he is capable of great good . . . and that there is in every man a spirit of dignity."

Mr. Moran was introduced by Father John L. Storm, president of the College for Men, who presided. Accompanying Mr. Moran and also introduced by Father Storm, were Dr. Mary Stanton, program chairman of the Conference of Christians and Jews, and member of the executive board of the National Kerby Foundation, and Mr. Daniel J. Donohue, member of the board of directors for the new St. John Bosco Institute and close friend of Mr. Moran.

Featured dancers were Josephine Amezcua, Cecilia Merino, Maria Elena Palma and Susan Jimenez.

To climax the day's festivities, Elayne Langenieux addressed Mother Hill in the name of the student body, and representatives of each class presented her with gifts. In return the Honorary President declared the following day a holiday for both students and faculty.

The Drama Club of the college presented Mr. B. R. Van Vleck to the student body Tuesday, February 7. Mr. Van Vleck, speech instructor at the San Diego College for Men, will direct the women's spring play, "Midsummer's Night Dream."

Mr. Van Vleck gave an interesting summary of production plans. He explained that there will be many opportunities for girls interested in gaining experience as directors and producers.

'Chain of Visits' To College Started

"The chain of visitors to the college has begun," Mother Aimee Rossi told members of the Speakers' Bureau last week.

The first link in the chain was made by a delegation from Rosary High School. This group spent an entire day at the College for Women, visiting classes and talking to faculty members and students.

The weekend of February 11, Marjorie Cannon, Henrietta Dean, R'Deen McDaniel, and Sharon Poole of the Academy of the Little Flower in San Luis Rey were guests of the freshmen resident students and attended the annual Mardi Gras dance.

In answer to the request of the senior counselor of Helix High School, Mary Earley and Carol Reilly spoke to 30 interested seniors February 16 concerning the benefits of an education at the San Diego College for Women. Some of these seniors visited the college, Tuesday, February 21.

Sunday, February 19, girls from Pomona Catholic High School visited the college. They were Cathie Beck, Irma Beck, Cecile Gagne, Mary Louise Kolbert, Louise Licato, Maureen McCarthy, Marsha Loubet, Patricia Crawford. Mrs. Gagne accompanied the group.

At the request of the San Diego Deanery, three English majors from the College for Women spoke at the monthly meeting of the Deanery, February 20 in St. John of the Cross Parish Hall, Lemon Grove.

Senior Leann Mahoney spoke on "Catholic Poetry Today," with special reference to the Trappist poet, Thomas Merton. Arline Raymond, spoke on "Catholic Short Story Writers" in general and on J. F. "If you can survive the first two weeks of adjustment necessary in changing from high school to college, you have a wonderful chance of lasting through four years," counsels Margaret Farrell '55, now attending the San Diego College for Women.

Margaret, class president and valedictorian of last year's graduates, won a scholarship to the newly established Catholic college from which she hopes to receive her BA in sociology.

Opened in 1952, the college now has a student body of 200, staffed by the religious of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

"They're just wonderful!" Margaret says of her teachers, "always so willing to go out of their way to help and so very patient with us."

Academic, social life

Academic life at the college is varied with many possible majors, including English, science, and education. Campus lab facilities are considered outstanding, and the reference library contains over 34,000 volumes.

Because of the proximity to the SD University for Men, social life is not lacking. Each class sponsors several dances a year, besides the frequent mixers given by the school. With a snack bar and lounges on campus, there is no need for "all work and no play."

"Clubs of all kinds are popular on campus," Margaret continued "from the social as well as the intellectual side. And with our own Little Theater right here, our drama department is unusually active, producing several plays a year."

Spiritual benefits

"Spiritual life is not overlooked, but is an integral part of student life," Margaret disclosed. "All of our classes are presented in the light of Christian principles, and we frequently have Mass for the student body. Our very active Children of Mary group is similar to the OLP Sodality."

In conclusion, Margaret urges every senior, and underclassman as well, to consider SDCW before deciding where to pursue her higher education.

"You won't be sorry," she promised, "if you come to the San Diego College for Women."

Senior Plans Talk At Delphian Club

Senior Paula Sabin will speak to the Delphian Club at the Wednesday Club House at 10 a.m., March 2, on "The Literature of the Hudson River." This subject is one aspect of the club's general subject for the year—the "Romance of the North American Rivers."

Among those enjoying her hospitality were Beverle Bell, Ann Dyer, Virginia Rausch, Anne Aggeler, Betty Bell and Suzanne Tilley. Representatives of the Men's College were Paul Suda, Terry Van Orshoven and members of the basketball team. Jim Suda of St. Augustine's was also numbered among the guests.

Lecturer Praises Famed Musician

Miss May Clarke, reference librarian at the College for Women, spoke to the student body Tuesday, March 1, on the remarkable career of Dr. Harold Becket Gibbs, an authority on Gregorian Chant and a benefactor of the college library.

Born in Surrey, England, in 1868, of a family which dated back to the 10th Century, Dr. Gibbs decided at the age of 10 to devote his life to music. He began his musical education at St. Nicholas Choir School but was later tutored. During the time of his private education, he made the acquaintance of Mrs. Charles Armstrong, the famous Madame Melba.

At 19 Dr. Gibbs played the organ at Vespers for the celebration of the Silver Anniversary of the Prince and Princess of Wales. By the time he was 26 he was organist and choir master at St. Mark's Cathedral.

After his conversion from Anglicanism to Catholicism, he came to the United States to be choir master in Covington, Ky., and then in Cincinnati. Later Dr. Gibbs received a doctor's degree from the School of Liturgical Music in Rome and another was presented to him by Pope Pius X.

The last appointments of Dr. Gibbs were at the Pius X School of Music at Manhattanville College, New York, and at the Juilliard School. After his retirement, the San Diego College for women became the grateful recipient of a very generous donation of his books on liturgical services, Gregorian Chant, and music in general.

In recent years, Dr. Gibbs has been deprived of sight, but he has kept the undying spirit of his work. As Miss Clarke said of him, "Very few are both good and great among us, but among those who are both good and great is Dr. Harold Becket Gibbs."

Junior Virginia Rodee last week was presented in a piano recital by her instructor, Mr. Havard Brubeck, at his studio in the Thearle Music building.

Miss Rodee's selections were "From a Wondering Iceberg" by MacDowell; a "Prelude" and "Fugue" by Bach; "Le Petit Berger" by Debussy, and Chopin's "Polonaise."

High on Alcalá Park mesa overlooking Mission Bay and the west end of Mission Valley, the University of San Diego grows bigger every day.

Nearing completion is the university's $1,750,000 Major Seminary or School of Theology. It will be ready for students this fall.

By the time the seminary opens, work will be well under way on an additional $6,800,000 building program.

This will include the Arts and Science Building costing two million dollars, a two-million-dollar school of Law and Library, the $1,500,000 Girls' Preparatory School, the $500,000 Minor Seminary and a $300,000 science and library building for the future University Boys' High School.

Still later, an auditorium and clubhouse will be constructed.

When the university's master plan is completed, it will give San Diego the West Coast's largest privately owned university and an educational installation worth $20,000,000.

That figure was the estimate made yesterday by the Most Rev. Charles Francis Buddy, bishop of the four-county Diocese of San Diego. The bishop is chancellor of the university and began planning for the university long ago.

Ground already has been broken for the university church, The Immaculata. Construction will begin next week. The church, costing approximately $500,000, will be the largest Catholic church in the San Diego diocese, the bishop said.

Construction of the $300,000 science and library building will begin May 1 and be completed by September. The building will be adjacent to the present College for Men, which is east of the Linda Vista Road.

The college, which will become the University Boys High School, has a $150,000 lecture hall. It also houses the university's School of Law. Offices for the College for Men and the School of Law are in the million dollar Administration Building on the main campus.

Work on the Arts and Science Building and the Library Building will begin in September. A "conservative guess" on the completion date for both buildings is September 1958, according to Dr. John L. Storm. He is president of the College for Men and also heads the law school.

Dr. Storm said the buildings will be three stories high. They will have classroom facilities for the College for Men and the School of Law. They will provide library facilities for the Major Seminary. Their architecture will be Spanish Renaissance.

This will match all other buildings on the university's 167-acre campus, including the imposing College for Women.

The women's college is a $5,000,000 installation which was completed in 1952. The college, housed in the first building constructed on the campus, is operated by the Religious of the Sacred Heart.

Mother Catherine Parks is president. She said work on the new girls' school will be started as soon as finances permit.

for Women, will be operated by the Religious of the Sacred Heart. It will include a separate chapel.

This, Mother Parks said, will "drop over the edge of the hill as does Serra Museum." The museum, immediately across the wide valley from the university site, is in hilly Presidio Park.

The new girls' school will accommodate approximately 500 students, Mother Parks said.

Looking from windows of his offices in the Administration Building, Bishop Buddy said yesterday, "I used to come out here years ago and dream that some day there would be a fine school here. Now, the dream comes true."

Educators To Confer At College

The College for Women will entertain many Catholic delegates to the meeting of the Western College Association Thursday and Friday, March 15 and 16, at the U. S. Grant Hotel and San Diego State College.

Following the meetings, representatives from the California Catholic colleges for women will hold conferences at the San Diego College for Women Friday and Saturday, March 16 and 17.

The theme of the general meetings will be "The Role of the Faculty in the Development of Higher Education." Questions that will be considered by representatives of the Catholic women's colleges will concern "Academic Problems in Catholic Women's Colleges," "Student Welfare Problems," and "Alumnae Support for Catholic Women's College."

Among the weekend guests of the College for Women will be Mother M. Aquinas, president of Marymount College; Sister Rosemary, president of Mount St. Mary's College; Sister Imelda Marie, president of College of Holy Name; Sister M. Thecla, president, Immaculate Heart College; Sister Teresa Augustine, president, College of Notre Dame; Sister M. Patrick, president, and Sister M. Richard, Dominican College; Rev. Mother Teegarden, Mother Kent, president of the San Francisco College for Women, and Mother White, dean.

College Day Attracts 350 To Campus

Some 350 seniors of high schools in San Diego County learned about the university student's life, work and program during "College Day" this week at Alcala Park.

At a general assembly in the theater of the College for Women, Dr. John L. Storm, president of the College for Men, welcomed the seniors. Separate sessions for boys and girls followed.

Mother Catherine Parks, president of the College for Women, presided over the girls' session and addressed the students. Rev. John C. Desmond, assistant to Father Storm, spoke at the boys' session.

Questions Answered

In departmental sessions in 22 classrooms over which faculty members of the university presided, the students' questions about the university's varied program were answered. Major and minor subjects were discussed.

Schools represented were Academy of Our Lady of Peace, Cathedral Girls High School, Regina Coeli Academy, Rosary High School, St. Augustine High School and Academy of the Little Flower, San Luis Rey.

Tours were conducted to the library, chapel and other sections of the university. Refreshments served in the patio and entertainment brought the day's activities to a close.

Seminar Set Next Week

Clergy and laity in San Diego County will join in a seminar on the Sacred Heart of Jesus at 2 p.m. March 21, 22 and 23 at the College for Women on the Alcala Park campus.

Featured at the seminar, which will take the place of the spring theological conference, will be a paper at each session on the doctrinal, liturgical and devotional significance of the Apostleship of Prayer and the League of the Sacred Heart.

Papers will be read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. Franklin F. Hurd, Rt. Rev. Msgr. James P. O'Shea and Rev. Methodius Cikrit.

PREPS ENJOY 'COLLEGE DAY': Some of the 350 high school seniors joining in the University of San Diego's College Day program on the Alcala Park campus are shown enjoying refreshments in the patio of the College for Women. It was the first College Day held on the campus for high school seniors and will be an annual event.

College Girls Hear Noted Zoo Director

Mrs. Belle Benchley, former director of the San Diego Zoo addressed the students of the College for Women, Friday, March 9, under the auspices of the Science Club.

Mrs. Benchley spoke of the zoo as "a show" and "as a haven for animals." With regard to training the animals for showing, the lecturer commented that "a young animal learns easily, but by the fifth or sixth year it has lost this capacity." This observation was pointed out as a striking example of the difference between the human and animal young.

Since animals learn very few new tricks after they are more than a half-dozen years old, most of a zoo director's attention is focused on maintaining the well-being of the animals. The San Diego Zoo, Mrs. Benchley stated, is famous for its low death rate and its high birth rate. Moreover, it has one of the largest animal populations among zoos—4,000 in all.

After a recent trip around the world, Mrs. Benchley is now able to answer the question, "Are animals in their natural state happier than those in captivity?" Her answer is, "No." The animals in captivity are better cared for and are more contented and live longer.

Students Honor Holy Father at College Forum

The 17th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XII, Monday, March 12, was the occasion of a stirring forum in honor of the Pontiff in the College for Women theater on the Alcala Park campus.

Elayne Langenieux, chairman of Religious Affairs, briefly reviewed the brilliant career of the Holy Father and pointed out the highlights that would be covered in the speeches of the day.

The first tribute paid to the Pope was that of Junior Carol Farrell who praised him as a "true humanist" for his insistence on the importance of man's soul as well as his body. Donna Kopp, also a Junior, spoke warmly of the Holy Father's influence through his personality, of his gracious interest in GI's as well as diplomats.

Sophomore Sandra Jelinek outlined the extent of the Pontiff's apostolic influence by citing his speeches to groups as diverse as petroleum workers and motorcyclists. Barbara Heney brought to the minds of her listeners vivid pictures of World War II, as she recalled the swiftness with which the Holy Father organized relief. Trudy Crampton hailed the Vicar of Christ as "Peacemaker," the title by which he long will be remembered.

A unique feature of the program was Patricia Sheehan's opening of a panel discussion by explaining the Pope's Five-Point Peace Program and an exhortation to the students to apply to campus life the Holy Father's antidotes for the evils of war. Her conviction is that Peace, as well as charity, begins at home.

Under the leadership of panelists Beverly O'Connor, Marion Hale, Mary Earley, Virginia Rodde, and Ann Dyer, student response to the challenge was enthusiastic and practical. What was meant to be a day in honor of the Pope was suddenly transformed into a 365-day program for conquering "cold egoism," for "triumphing over hate and mistrust," for overcoming "strident differences in world economy" by living within one's budget, for changing "might makes right" into RIGHT MAKES MIGHT.

San Diego College For Women Receives Sanction From Association's Membership

Dr. Malcolm A. Love, president of San Diego State College, yesterday was elected president of the Western College Association. The Association completed its two-day spring meeting in the U. S. Grant Hotel.

San Diego College for Women, two other four-year California colleges and one junior college were accredited by the association.

Love succeeds the Rev. Herman J. Hauck, S. J., president of the University of Santa Clara. The organization is one of six in the nation supervising the accrediting of higher institutions. Love had been one of two vice presidents for the past year.

NELSON ELECTED

Prof. Lawrence Nelson, University of Redlands, was elected to replace Love as a vice president. Robert Burns, president of the College of the Pacific, was reelected a vice president.

Dr. Stanley B. Freeborn, provost at Davis campus, University of California, and Dr. H. Donald Winbigler, dean of students at Stanford University, were elected to three-year terms on the association's executive committee.

They replace Nelson and Peter Odegard of the University of California at Berkeley.

PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

Delegates accepted without dissenting votes recommendations by the committee on memberships and standards to accredit and allow memberships by San Diego College for Women, the University of California at Riverside and Chapman College at Orange.

Deep Springs Junior College at Deep Springs was the only junior college receiving accreditation for the first time at the association meeting. Eight regular and two specialized institutions received re-accreditation.

SCHOOLS LISTED

The association's fall meeting will be Nov. 8 and 9 at Sacramento.

Regular four-year institutions re-accredited by the association were California Polytechnic Institute at San Luis Obispo, College of the Pacific at Stockton, Immaculate Heart College at Los Angeles, Mills College at Oakland, Pacific Union College at Angwin, Sacramento State College, University of California at Santa Barbara and University of Southern California at Los Angeles.

S. D. College for Women Wins New Recognition

3/22/56

Full Accreditation Received From Education Group

The University of San Diego won new recognition when the Western College Association met for its spring meeting in San Diego last week.

At the association's final session it was announced that the University's College for Women has received "full accreditation."

Mother Catherine Parks, president of the women's college, said that such recognition guarantees acceptance of the work done at the college by all universities across the nation.

This in turn means that its graduates are eligible students for higher degrees in all colleges and universities. And credits of students who desire to transfer will be honored everywhere.

Completes Series of Acts

Accreditation by the Western College Association completes a series of acts whereby the high scholastic standards of the Alcala Park school have been recognized by educational agencies.

As early as 1953 the Department of Health, Education and Welfare approved the women's college for foreign students, Mother Parks said. And in the same year the State Department of Education, Bureau of Adjustment, recognized it for veterans of the Korean War and World War II.

Further recognition came when the Credentials' Office of the Department of Teachers at Sacramento approved the school's work in elementary education. As a result, Mother Parks said, a number of its graduates now teach in the public and parochial schools of San Diego.

Seniors Do Cadet Teaching

Members of the present senior class, who will obtain their B.A. degree in May and at the same time secure their credentials for teaching, are doing their cadet or practice teaching in local schools.

In April, 1955, visiting representatives of the National Catholic Educational Association declared the school a constituent senior member of the NCEA.

The San Diego College for Women offers courses and degrees on all subjects at the collegiate level. Principal subjects taught include Philosophy, Psychology, Biology, Sociology, Zoology, Theology, Education, Science, Art, Architecture and Engineering, Drawing, Languages, Mathematics, History, Geography, Music and Drama.

Other courses include Criminology, the Theory and Technique of Physical Education, Public Finance, and Ethics.

Enrollment Now AT 300

Opened in 1952 with less than 100 students, the school's enrollment for 1955-56 is 300.

The women's college is conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart, a renowned teaching order of nuns founded in Paris 156 years ago. The Sisters now operate some 35 houses in the United States from nurseries through elementary and secondary schools to universities.

Institutions of learning in their charge also function in most European countries, in a dozen Central and South American nations as well as in Canada, the Island of Malta, India, Japan, Egypt and the Belgian Congo.

Advantages Told

3 Groups Approve College for Women

Full accreditation for University of San Diego's College for Women in February spurred approval of the Alcala Park school by the State Board of Education, the American Council on Education and the Association of American Colleges.

"Chief advantage of the state board's approval," Mother Aimee Rossi, college dean, said this week, "is that students of education may secure their general elementary teaching credentials with institutional recommendation directly from the college instead of from the state."

At its meeting in Washington, D. C. last month, the Executive Committee of the American Council on Education formally elected the women's college to institutional membership in the council.

"The Board of Directors of the Association of American Colleges has notified us," Mother Rossi said, "that the college has been recommended

Major Roles Set For College Play

Major roles in "Midsummer Night's Dream" have been announced by the College for Women's Alcala Park Players.

Margo Lester, a 1955 graduate of San Diego High School and a former ballet student of Marguerite Ellicott, will portray "Titania."

"Oberon" will be played by sophomore Sharon Smith, while the romantic roles will be dramatized by Barbara Vidal as "Hermia," Kate Basile as "Lysander," Ann Adams as "Helena," Nancy Keeshan as "Demetrius," Beverle Bell as "Hippolyta," and Moire Mahoney as "Theseus."

The famous "Bottom" will be enacted by Sandra Jelinek.

In trying to estimate alumnae support for the Alcala Park Players' spring production, student and faculty statisticians discovered interesting news of recent graduates.

No two graduates of the Class of '54 seem to be sharing the same interests. Mary Binggeli is employed as a social welfare worker by the Welfare Department of El Centro. Two of her classmates, Kathleen McGonigle and Jean Rubel, are studying for their master's degree in the psychology department of Chicago's Loyola University and the chemistry department of the University of Minnesota, respectively. Elsa Quiroz is nursing in California.

In 1955 the college seems to have graduated more students in the nursing and teaching professions than in any other. Lillian Jimenez is a substitute teacher in the San Diego Public Schools. Mary Louise Scott teaches the first grade at Loma Portal Elementary School, while Lynn Stannard is a third-grade teacher at the Florence School in San Diego. Patsy Callahan Peabody is employed by the Oceanside-Carlsbad Junior High School.

Mercy Hospital claims two 1955 alumnae as instructors in its Nursing College—Mary Jane Young and Constance Jimenez Salerno. Miss Young recently concluded a course in pathology and is now teaching Principles of Leadership. Both instructors also are continuing their studies at the San Diego College for Women.

Jean Mancini is teaching at the Jack and Jill Nursery School

College Building Contract Awarded

A contract was awarded yesterday for development of the site for a new San Diego State College classroom building, big enough to accommodate approximately half the college's students.

The $58,225 contract was given Fred M. Darwin Sr. of Solana Beach, Frank B. Durkee, state director of public works, announced in Sacramento.

Darwin's contract calls for lowering the level of the west parking lot 10 to 20 feet, filling the canyon west of the Music Building with the earth moved and building a causeway between the gymnasium and the athletic field. The causeway will provide a direct link between the two sectors of the college grounds, which are divided by the canyon.

The leveled parking lot will be the site of the proposed two million dollar classroom-office building which, college authorities said, may be the largest in the world.

It will have 54 classrooms and offices for 130 faculty members. With about 102,000 square feet of floor space, the building will accommodate 2,900 students. The college's enrollment is about 6,875 at present, but not all are carrying a full college course.

The causeway over the canyon west of the Music Building will provide another access route to the college grounds.

Students Plan Varied Events During Holiday

The Easter holiday this year seems to be a time for house guests up and down the California coast.

Sandra Jelinek will visit Gwen Patric in Atherton, while Ann Dyer and Terry Falk will spend the week with their parents in San Francisco proper.

Junior Virginia Rodee will be a guest of Angel Kraemer in Placentia, and freshman Kate Basile of Janet Berardinelli in Pomona.

Before leaving for vacation the students of criminology had the privilege of hearing Probation Officer Carol McFadden speak on juvenile delinquency, Monday March 26.

Concentrating on the girl delinquent, Mrs. McFadden explained that she was usually between 12 and 18 years of age and was generally referred to authorities by police or parents. She described the probation office as "the last resort for these children."

The philosophy of the juvenile court and probation officers is, however, that no person under 18 is fully responsible for what he does. Adverse circumstances and unfortunate experiences play a large part in a child's development and are given full consideration.

Juvenile authorities administer examinations and interview the delinquents with a view to placing them in an institution or foster home which will care for their particular needs. A high degree of rehabilitation has been achieved in such institutions as The Convent of the Good Shepherd in Los Angeles, the California Youth Authority, and the Boys and Girls Aid.

Mrs. McFadden stressed the fact that there are too few probation officers and foster homes. To inspire interest in this field of social work, she concluded her lecture by relating actual case histories.

Fr. Rigney Arrives For Brief S. D. Visit

Father Harold W. Rigney, the Divine Word missionary who came back from "four years of Red hell" in a communist Chinese prison, arrived in San Diego Wednesday night. But his stay was to be very short.

After giving a talk at 1 p.m. Thursday in the College for Women's theater, Father Rigney was due to fly to Dallas, Tex., where he is scheduled to address members of the Catholic Press Association who are gathered there for their annual convention.

Father Rigney will return to Los Angeles Sunday, where he will be met by his brother, Father Francis J. Rigney, director of the evening division of the College for Men. After visiting friends in the Los Angeles area, they expect to return to San Diego next Wednesday.

To Speak May 25

Father Harold Rigney will remain here about 10 days. He is scheduled to give a talk at 8 p.m. Friday, March 25, in St. Patrick's parish hall, 30th and Dwight Streets. His appearance there is under the auspices of the Order of Martha.

The Divine Word missionary has launched a "Freedom Crusade," which he hopes will develop into a nationwide letter-writing campaign to the head of Red China's government, politely petitioning for release of the 13 Americans, who are eight Catholic missionaries, one Protestant missionary and four American businessmen.

The 55-year-old priest contends letters sent directly to Chairman Mao Tse-tung, Red China's leader, will work wonders for the Americans incarcerated.

He attributed his own release to "prayer and publicity," and insists the same technique will work for others.

Extremely Sensitive

Father Rigney maintains that the Red regime of China is extremely sensitive to publicity and that, if thousands of letters poured into Peking addressed to Mao Tse-tung, the rulers would see that public opinion in this country is aware of the plight of the 13 and is becoming active in their behalf.

He suggests the quarter air mail letter because, he says, the misinformed Chinese will be amazed to see the ordinary American can afford to send air mail letters. "In Red China, a carpenter must work several hours to purchase an air mail stamp," he declares.

Courteous Letter

The letter should be courteous, Father Rigney emphasized. Nothing will be accomplished by a threatening letter, he insists.

He recommends a rather brief letter, giving your name, occupation, union (if any), and, if you are married, the number of children in your family. If a youngster writes the letter, he should state his name and class in school.

"Courteously remind Mao Tse-tung that his government promised in September of 1955 to free the 13 Americans. Say you would like to see him carry out his promise. Conclude by saying that you hope to see Mao Tse-tung demonstrate the policy of leniency which he professed even toward violators of the law, by applying leniency in full to these 13 American prisoners," he advises.

Father Rigney said he hopes laborers, farmers and labor unions will respond to his appeal. "These people will have the most effect on a 'people's government,'" he said, adding that there is no need to give a return address.

In a circular on the "whys and hows" of the crusade, Father Rigney suggests that after a letter is written to Mao Tse-tung, it be reported to the Divine Word missionary headquarters, Techny, Ill., so that a tally on the number sent can be kept.

Eight Missionaries

The eight Catholic missionaries in Red prisons include a prelate, Bishop Ambrose Pinger, OFM, of Lindsay, Neb. The other priests are Fathers Fulgence Gross, OFM, of Omaha, Neb.; John Clifford, SJ, of San Francisco; John Houle, SJ, of Glendale, Calif.; Charles McCarthy, SJ, of San Francisco; Thomas Phillips, SJ, of Butte, Mont.; Father Joseph McCormack, MM, of New York City, and Cyril Wagner, OFM, of Pittsburgh.

The other Americans imprisoned are Rev. Paul Mackensen, a Lutheran Missionary from Baltimore, Md.; Robert McCann, businessman, Altadena, Calif.; Hugh F. Redmond, businessman, Yonkers, N.Y.; Richard Secteaux, Lynn, Mass., and John Downey, New Britain, Conn., both civilian employees of the U.S. Department of Defense captured in Korea.

Bishop James E. Walsh, MM, of Cumberland, Md., is also in Red China, but is not imprisoned.

five million dollar institution. Of picturesque Spanish Renaissance style, the building stands on a 65-acre campus given by the bishop.

The college, bounded by Linda Vista Road and Tecolote Canyon, is part of the University of San Diego.

When the Western College Association accorded full accreditation to the college in February, the association said in its official report:

"The faculty is highly competent and well prepared, both by training and service, to meet the objectives of the college. It is noteworthy that of the 18 full-time members of the faculty, 14 hold the Ph. D. Degree."

The religious have received their Ph. D. degrees from the University of California, the Catholic University of America, Loyola University of Chicago and Stanford University.

The college's liberal arts program stresses that training the mind, the will and the heart toward self-realization is a primary aim, Mother Hill said yesterday. She added, however, that "this is not enough for the world's urgent need today.

"Through its spiritual and extra-curricular training, this college also hopes to foster in its students an interest in people, a facility and poise in communication, a deep love of the good and the true and a sense of the leadership of service."

Bishop Furey repeated his pledge that the university "is of the diocese, by the diocese and for the diocese. It shall not perish from the earth."

The day before the commencement, Saturday, a Baccalaureate Mass was concelebrated in Immaculata Chapel by Bishop Furey, Auxiliary Bishop John R. Quinn, USD provost, and priests of the university faculty. Speaker was Father Charles S. Casassa, SJ, president of Loyola University in Los Angeles.

The Very Rev. John E. Baer, president of the University of San Diego College for Men, has been named interim coordinator for the unification program at the university.

At the Commencement ceremonies June 1, Bishop Francis J. Furey, chancellor of USD, announced the appointment of Father Baer when he reported the steady progress of steps towards unification of the two undergraduate colleges and the School of Law on the campus.

"Much, very much, has been accomplished during the short space of one year," said Bishop Furey.

"As typical examples of admirable cooperation, may I mention the first joint convocation of honors students; the first combined Homecoming celebrations by alumni of all three schools on the campus, the merger of the two undergraduate student bodies and the consequent election of officers," he said.

The Bishop also said that both the university and the College for Women had added members to their boards of trustees, "including knowledgeable laymen and laywomen."

As interim coordinator, Father Baer will ensure that the program of unification continues smoothly and will remain president of the USD College for Men.

Father Baer has been president of the USD College for Men since June, 1968. He was ordained in Rome in 1956 after completing theological studies at North American College and Gregorian University where he earned the bachelor and licentiate degrees in Sacred Theology.

He was assistant pastor at St. Anne's Church, San Bernardino and taught at Aquinas High School there. He returned to the Gregorian University in Rome in 1961 to take his doctoral studies which he completed in 1963.

On his return to the United States he was named president of his alma mater, St. Francis College, El Cajon. The college moved to the USD campus in 1966.

43 Granted Degrees At Women's College

"You cast your lot with us before we were an accredited college. And you remained to see the school receive accreditation with honors."

The Most Reverend Bishop of San Diego thus commended the graduates of San Diego University's College for Women at their commencement exercises  last Sunday.

The graduates were the first class of freshmen to arrive at Alcalá Park in September, 1952, when the college opened its doors for the first full academic year.

An audience of 800 saw 43 graduates awarded diplomas in the arts and sciences. The Bishop conferred the degree of Bachelor of Arts on 41 students and Bachelor of Science on two.

Four of the graduates received membership in Kappa Gamma Pi, national Catholic scholastic sorority. The four, Margaret Ann Fahlstrom, Jacqueline Anne Kearns, Arline Lorraine Raymond and Mary Louise Turner, form the first chapter of this national scholastic group in the new college.

His Excellency paid tribute to Very Rev. Mother Rosalie Hill, superior of the western vicariate of the Religious of the Sacred Heart and honorary president of the college, for the keen foresight which inspired this magnificent foundation in Alcalá Park and for the brilliant group of professors with whom she has staffed it.

Stressing the fundamental need and immense value of a sound Catholic education especially at the college level today, His Excellency said:

"Qualified as you are with a bachelor's degree, you can now exemplify the splendor of divine truth in your lives and be bea-

3 Groups Approve College for Women

Full accreditation for University of San Diego's College for Women in February spurred approval of the Alcalá Park school by the State Board of Education, the American Council on Education and the Association of American Colleges.

"Chief advantage of the state board's approval," Mother Aimee Rossi, college dean, said this week, "is that students of education may secure their general elementary teaching credentials with institutional recommendation directly from the college instead of from the state."

At its meeting in Washington, D. C. last month, the Executive Committee of the American Council on Education formally elected the women's college to institutional membership in the council.

"The Board of Directors of the Association of American Colleges has notified us," Mother Rossi said, "that the college has been recommended for membership in the association at the next annual meeting in January, 1957.

Examiners appointed by the Department of Education to study the school's educational program, equipment and standards found that:

1—An adequate professionally educated staff in education and small classes combine to bring each credential candidate expert individual attention.

2—The liberal arts program and the general education program combine effectively for the preparation of the elementary teacher candidate.

3—The professional education program of 29 units is based on an extensive program in the liberal arts. All credential candidates take at least one summer session in addition to the regular four-year program to complete the teacher education sequence.

4—The student teaching program is supervised by a lay faculty member with adequate public school experience.

5—Competent teachers, selected by the San Diego Unified School District, supervise the student teachers in public classrooms.

6—Well-equipped public elementary school classrooms are available.

7—Numerous elementary

July Registration Set for Students In Freshman Year

A new high school for girls will be opened in September, the Most Reverend Bishop announced this week.

The new high school, to be known as the Convent of the Sacred Heart, under the patronage of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, will be conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart. The Sisters also are in charge of the University of San Diego's College for Women.

Registration Dates Set

Registration for the new high school has been set at the College for Women from 1 to 4 p.m. July 9, 10, 11 and 12. The school will open with the other high schools in San Diego at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, September 11, His Excellency said.

The school eventually will be located in the Immaculate Heart Seminary building in El Cajon. Until the seminary building is available for occupancy, which is expected about November 15, classes will be conducted in a wing of the College for Women.

While the school eventually will provide facilities for students in El Cajon, Lakeside, La Mesa, Lemon Grove, Spring Valley, and Jamul, the Most Reverend Bishop said it is open to any first-year Catholic high school student in San Diego County.

Open to All Applicants

Any applicant who registers from any section of the county will be acceptable, His Excellency stressed.

Private rooms also will be available for resident students.

"Every Catholic girl is entitled to a Catholic high school education," the Most Reverend Bishop said, "and the economic stress of any parents need be no bar to their entering a daughter in the new high school. Financial arrangements will be made that will be satisfactory both to the parents and the school."

High School To Receive 100 Freshmen

Registration for the new high school at Alcala Park, Convent of the Sacred Heart, will be held in the main building of the San Diego College for Women from 1 to 4 p.m. July 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Arrangements have been made to receive 100 freshmen in the school. More can be accommodated if enrollment warrants.

Students of the high school will be accommodated in a separate unit of the college. Classrooms, residential quarters and recreational facilities will be separate. The high school will have a separate library and study hall, officials said this week.

Open to freshmen from every section of San Diego County, the school will enroll applicants who present report cards and diplomas from the eighth grade and information as to the date and place of Baptism, Holy Communion and Confirmation.

A $10 registration fee will be required for reservation of a place in the school.

Tuition is $50 a semester, payable Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 4. Books and other requirements for the semester will cost less than $20. The school opens Tuesday, September 11, at 8:30.

Southern Cross, July 5, 1956

Pastors in San Diego County are requested to announce the opening of a new high school for girls at El Cajon, formerly the Immaculate Heart Seminary. Until these buildings become available (on or about November 15), the classes for this new high school, to be known as Convent of the Sacred Heart under the patronage of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, will be held in the San Diego College for Women, University of San Diego. Registration for the new girls' high school will take place at the San Diego College for Women July 9, 10, 11, and 12, from 1 to 4 p.m.—classes to start Tuesday, September 11, 8:30 a.m.

This new project provides for freshman year only of high school—open to all Catholic girls who have successfully completed the eighth grade. It has no provision for retarded development or other problem cases. Sympathetic consideration will be accorded families who present real economic obstacles. No one need attempt this weak excuse for failure to get essential Catholic training. Keep in mind that a national survey shows that children from 6 to 18 years of age average $3.73 per week in pocket money for nonessentials.

By Order of the Most Reverend Bishop

Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Byrne,
Rev. Donald F. Doxie,

Secretaries.

St. Ignatius Relic Venerated at College

A first class relic of St. Ignatius of Loyola was venerated by faculty and students of the College for Women in rites last Monday afternoon in the college chapel.

In this 400th year since the death of St. Ignatius, the relic left Spain for the first time in being brought to the United States.

In his sermon, Rev. Joseph A. Savall, SJ, of Barcelona, said it had been transferred from Rome to Spain in 1621 upon request of the Spanish Jesuits. This relic, he said was a prime factor in the miracles which brought about the canonization in 1622 of the founder of the Society of Jesus.

Father Savall said that since St. Ignatius had been a champion of the Counter-Reformation, he again would come to the aid of the Church in the oppression it is suffering in the 20th Century.

The Father Provincial of Aragon sent the relic to the United States "in a gesture of friendship," he said. As America aided Spain during its civil war, the Spanish Jesuits have sent to America "the helping hand of St. Ignatius" to assist Catholics here to fulfill the mission of America — the fostering of "good will among people of other nations," Father Savall said.

Veneration of the gold-encased relic followed. The rites were closed with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Students Hear 2 Speakers

Two speakers addressed students of the San Diego College for Women last week. Tuesday, September 24, Miss May Clarke, reference librarian at the college spoke to the associated student body and faculty on "Reading in the Present Day." Lt. Howard Seay, a meteorologist for the United States Navy, spoke to the Science Club and its guests, Friday, September 27, on "Modern Weather Forecasting."

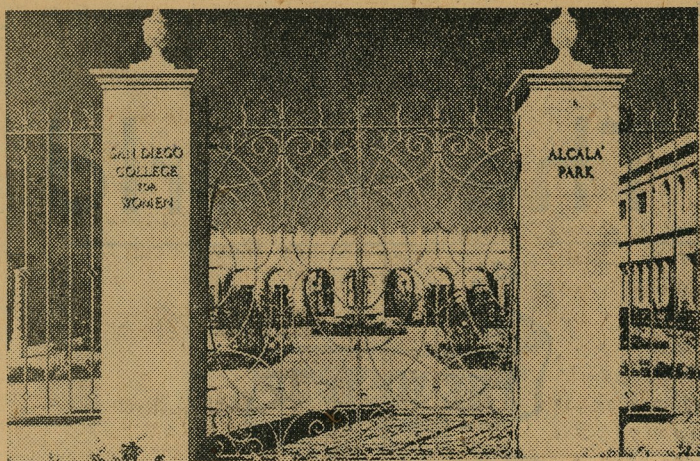

Reminding her audience of the crisis in education which has come as a result of the dangerous philosophy of pragmatism, Miss Clarke warned students to "become aware of the two camps of thought existing in the world today. Atheism and materialism are the enemies of the camp which advocates Christianity, democracy, and freedom," she said. The thoughts and practices of these camps are, of course, reflected in the writings they produce. It is, therefore, imperative to be discerning and selective in choosing reading matter, she said.

Lt. Seay endeavored to answer for his audience the ever recurring question, "Why is weather forecasting so unsatisfactory?" He introduced his subject by describing some disasters that have occurred as a result of faulty predictions, such as a recent snowfall of 28.5 inches, which had been scheduled under the title of "snow flurries!"

Stressing the importance of rains and floods to civilian economy, the meteorologist explained the values and also the extreme difficulties of correct weather forecasting. After centuries of a study on the earth's atmosphere, the effects of sun spots on the earth, the directions of the westerly winds, a mathematical equation for predicting weather, has at last been evolved.

"Because of the necessity of studying, simultaneously, sections of the atmosphere over all parts of the earth's surface, it will take a lot of time," Lt. Seay concluded.

Nine women met yesterday to form an auxiliary to San Diego University.

The group will promote the university and its activities, according to Mrs. Marco A. Monteverdi, temporary chairman, who called the meeting to order in Madeline's Dining Room.

(The Boosters' Club, formed more than a year ago, supports the university's athletic program and supplies scholarships.)

Rev. John Storm, president of the University, addressed the women.

The first formal meeting will be held Jan. 9 in the home of Mrs. Justin Evenson, 434 W. Thorn St. A membership recruitment tea will be planned.

Each member of the pilot committee will be asked to introduce 10 members to the organization. It will be non-denominational.

Mrs. Murray Goodrich was named co-chairman with Mrs. Monteverdi. Mrs. Francis J.

Burns and Mrs. Evenson were elected membership co-chairmen and Mrs. Jack W. Canady was named publicity chairman.
