It's Fraternity vs. Fraternity As Greek Week Takes Stage

president of PIKE-TKE; Joe Martinez, IFC chairman; Dick Gray, Phi Kappa Theta president; and Richard Verlasky, Alpha Delta Gamma president.

Campus Events Told

The University of San Diego College for Men's Interfraternity Council has announced the beginning of Greek Week on campus Monday, October 11.

Greek Week is the annual week of events in which the fraternities compete against each other for the Greek Week championship.

Joe Martinez, chairman of the IFC, said "We have been considerably strengthened by a financial endeavor this past summer.

"We hope to provide an increase of functions with the purpose of fostering an ideal relationship between the fraternities and the students."

Ramos To Help

Assisting Martinez in his work is Danny Ramos, secretary-treasurer. The IFC is also composed of two representatives from each fraternity.

Besides Greek Week, the IFC is sponsoring a Clam Diggers' Party October 14 and the annual IFC Boat Dance October 16.

Following is the Greek Week schedule:

Monday, October 11, IFC Picnic, Swiss Park, events: 1st round of football, tricycle race.

Tuesday, October 12, Volleyball, Basketball (1st round).

Wednesday, October 13, Pie-eating contest, Pancake-eating contest, Football (championship).

Thursday, October 14, Basketball (2nd and 3rd round).

Trio Coming

The Vince Giraldi trio and Bola Sete will perform at the University of San Diego Friday, October 15. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in USD's gym. Admission will be $2 for the general public and $1.50 for students.

Giraldi's most popular composition is "Cast Your Fate to the Wind."

Fidelia Dickinson Is Chaucer Fan

Doctor Fidelia Dickinson comes to USD from the University of Wisconsin in Milwaukee. Her position at WU was instructor of English. She holds the position of Assistant Professor of English here at the College for Men.

Dr. Dickinson received her B.A. and M.A. at Immaculate Heart College in Los Angeles. From there she studied at the University of California at Los Angeles where she received her doctorate.

Chaucer's works are our new English professor's favorites, while American drama and medieval literature are her specialties.

Dr. Dickinson is convinced that students in a small school have a distinct advantage. The congenial atmosphere is more conducive to scholarly discussions outside of the classrooms, as well as in the classroom. She feels the student is less apt to give a stereotyped answer when he is surrounded by close friends.

USD, State Reciprocate

For the first time this year students of USD will be able to attend several of San Diego State's functions for half price and vice versa. This is the so-called reciprocal admissions agreement between USD and State.

Later in the year, State will have such noted entertainers as Ella Fitzgerald and Bill Cosby. For all functions students of USD will be admitted for half price after showing their ASB cards.

Students of State will also benefit. Later this year USD will present the folk singers, Joe and Eddie, which State's students may attend for half price.

The reciprocal agreement also covers sports. USD will meet State three times on the basketball court this year, and both our students and State's will be admitted free of charge for sports.

Efforts for the same kind of agreement are in progress with UCSD and Cal-Western.

Want Job? Look Ahead

Have you started your plans and preparations for post-graduation employment?

Thomas Pearson, Director of Student Services and in charge of post-graduate employment urges each senior to begin preparations for his career after college.

"Don't delay too long — the sooner such preparations begin the better will be your chances of fulfilling your desires for a position," Pearson said. "Remember that placement is not always easy and that the responsibility rests on your shoulders."

Pearson's job is to help seniors plan their campaign, prepare resumes, prepare for interviews and arrange interviews both on and off campus.

Parkers Beware!

The Student Court at the University of San Diego College for Men recently started issuing tickets to parking violators as it began its job as chief law enforcer at CM.

"Although the court's main function is currently limited to the enforcement of traffic regulations, we are in the process of extending its scope and importance to make it an integral part of student government," said Mike Flanagan, the court's chief justice.

Assisting Flanagan this year are Bill Sink and Mike Fox. They have the power to issue tickets to parking violators. The violators must then appear before the court the following Wednesday at 12 noon in the room between rooms 205 and 207. Violators are fined $5.

"We would also like to thank the students and faculty for being so cooperative in complying with the parking regulations," Flanagan said.

Study, Buddy It Pays Off

How does the phrase "responsible for obligations" apply to student life and intellectual life on campus?

First, and most important, the student has a responsibility both to his professors and to himself to prepare his classwork thoroughly. This should go without saying, but it doesn't. Many students, especially new students, find themselves beset by social and personal obligations which interfere with studying.

Club meetings, boarders' meetings, basketball practices, card games, dances, mixers, bull sessions, laundry, meals must be reckoned with.

Meanwhile, the term paper Father Padre assigned on "The Intimate Life of Father Junipero Serra," (Oh, I have until Nov. 32) will remain undone until Nov. 31. At that time the student loses one pound per page of text (to say nothing of footnotes, bibliography, and title page). His pulse quickens, and with all the finesse of a mad counter at Cape Kennedy, his right index finger savagely punches the button marked "If in Doubt, PANIC."

I am sure that there are skeptics among us who will ignore or criticize this description, but chances are they will observe one or more of these tormented term paper pulverizers.

Okay! I have hit the books. What then? Should I join Zeta Rho Omicron of Alpha Beta Delta or Pi Rho Sigma? I am interested in dramatics; maybe the Shakespeareans is the group for me. The service club, Kellogg's Circle K, is a worthwhile organization. I was chief pencil sharpener and eraser custodian of my senior class;—maybe student politics should take up my spare time.

Golly, gang, with all the homework assigned and the extreme socio - economical - industrial - occupational - professional - commercial - pressures (Remember the draft!) involved in acquiring a college education, it might be to my advantage to forget about outside activities and concentrate entirely on my books.

There are many decisions to be made and you will have to make them. Among your wanderings and probings there are a few suggestions I offer for your consideration, which could make the road easier.

Whatever you do, do it well. Don't be a joiner. This is aimed at upperclassmen as well as at freshmen. A quaint armchair position may do wonders for your ego, but a job poorly done or not done at all may hamper the life of an organization, the progress of student politics, and most important, the acquisition of a strong character.

The cliché fits so remember it: "A place for everything and everything in its place."

'Bulletin' Is Must Reading For All Toreros

By CHARLES F. O'ROURKE

The Rev. James Birkley, Academic Dean at the University of San Diego College for Men, said in an interview this week that students should pay more attention to the school catalog, the Bulletin.

"Every student should read the Bulletin carefully and become acquainted with the terms of the agreement by which he maintains his status as a student," Father said.

He said many students fail to read the Bulletin, which explains the operations of the school and describes the programs for various majors.

Father stressed the sections on "Attendance" and "Leave of Absence." If all students would read this (Attendance) section," Father continued, "I'm sure it would straighten out most of the problems which they face toward the end of the semester."

The Bulletin gives extensive consideration on the subject of "Leave of Absence." Stress was placed on this subject due to the number of students who have found themselves in an awkward position after taking a brief leave.

"These students should see their counsellors and find out whether they qualify under this section before they leave," Father said.

Father emphasized that the terms of a student's agreement with the school is contained in the Bulletin. Although the agreement is not a legal contract, it is binding to both parties as far as the school is concerned, within reasonable limits.

Letter Asks Your Stand On Viet Nam

Editor:

Congratulations on the start of your paper. I sincerely desire to see it continue to grow as an instrument of free speech and consensus for our university. I would like to give to the student body my views (as well as those of others here on campus) concerning the demonstrations against our men and activities in Viet Nam as we see it at Berkeley.

It is a pitiful shame that our young servicemen serving in a foreign land, shedding their life blood to help preserve the freedom of another nation, should be confronted daily with reports of "fellow" Americans demonstrating against their part in the war. It is an attitude of unpatriotism on the part of these punks here at home.

My father, who serves with the Navy, came home in June from Viet Nam and said the morale of the troops over the situation here at home is very low. Since then he has returned to Viet Nam and is due back shortly. Interviews by reporters with men who have returned home bring out the same opinions, disgust for these people.

I have not finished by any means. I would like to hear from other members of the student body. This is a chance to express ourselves sensibly through our paper. Expression on the part of those for and those against is desired.

I back the serviceman 100 per cent plus in his duty, and my sympathy is with our fellow-Americans (our own age mostly) having to be away from home, and some dying there. No matter what the arguments are against the involvement, defacto we are, there, so I say let's support our men. Paul M. Cave

Phi Kappa Theta

Phi Kappa Theta captured the national award for activities at its national convention in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada this past summer.

The trophy will be on display at USD for about a month in the trophy case near the ASB office.

Crossing the country in a Hillman, four Phi Kaps, led by president Dick Gray and including Brothers Bob Connell, Danny Wilson and Jay Howard, arrived at this international conference the night of August 27 for the meeting the following three days. On the way to Ontario, one of the stops the group made was at Oklahoma State University, where Brother Jay was initiated four years ago.

On their return, they brought word that there will be a Western Regional Conference in San Francisco over the Thanksgiving Day holidays. This will be an organizational meeting for the Western chapters of Phi Kappa Theta. Heading the meeting will be Mr. Joe Janca, newly appointed national executive director of Phi Kappa Theta.

Again this year, the fraternity will publish its "Dial" under the direction of our vice-president, Brother John Limpus. This student and faculty directory contains all the addresses and phone numbers of the teachers and students at the College for Men. The third annual publication of the Dial will highlight Phi Kappa Theta's first semester contribution to the school.

Prior to the convention, our fraternity also began work on ideas for drawing our alumni closer together and forming them into an active body. On August 14 we staged a party at Brother Dick Gray's house under the impressive title of "Alumni Organization Party." The brothers were greatly impressed with the alumni turnout and the interest shown by them.

In conclusion, Phi Kappa Theta extends a welcome to the class of 1969 and to all new students at the University. If you have any questions regarding the University or our fraternity, don't hesitate to ask one of the brothers and we all hope you will learn as much at the College for Men as we have in the past years.

Alpha Delta Gamma

With the start of the school year, everyone is taking time out to reflect back on their summer. So it is with the brothers of Alpha Delta Gamma.

The summer for Alpha Delta Gamma began with the announcement that Margie Masiello, Omicron Chapter's Sweetheart, would reign over the National Convention as National Sweetheart.

The convention, held this summer in Louisville, Kentucky, proved to be one of the most successful ever. The convention was opened with the reading of the National Fraternity Ratings. Alpha Delta Gamma, the nation's number one fraternity academically two years in a row, was rated number one overall, ahead of such fraternities as Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Phi Kappa Theta.

At the Convention Ball, the final social event of the convention, Omicron Chapter added two more trophies to its already substantial collection, winning the Travel Award and the A. J. Kelly, S.J., Memorial Award, given to the chapter with the highest grade point average.

On June 19, Mike McDonnell, one of the founders of Omicron Chapter, and Kathy Steves were married in a ceremony held in the Immaculata. A reception at the Kona Kai followed. That night a party was held at Bob Ahern's apartment for all the brothers.

Ron Cady, former president of Alpha Delta Gamma, and Kathy Wells announced their engagement September 18. A June wedding is being planned. Ron, who is presently attending Cal Western's Graduate School of Business, was also recently named to the N.C.A.A. Small College All-American Baseball Team.

PAUL TOUMAINEN

Pi Kappa Epsilon

The brotherhood of Pi Kappa Epsilon wishes to extend its best wishes to the returning men of USD and in particular to the Class of 1969. PiKE is one of three social fraternities existing on the University campus. It is composed of 28 men chosen for their general excellence and potential in all phases of University life.

Pi Kappa Epsilon was founded as a local fraternity in December, 1961 by three students of the University. At the end of the last academic year, the brothers voted unanimously to affiliate with Tau Kappa Epsilon, which with 256 chapters ranks as the largest national fraternity in the world. As PiKE-TKE, plans are now in progress to make the fraternity a regular chapter of the Tekes within a year.

Pi Kappa Epsilon, as with any good fraternity, has members with wide diversification of interests—in academic majors, as in endeavors athletic and social.

The fraternity aims toward the development of the "complete man" . . . the University student who is mature enough to know what he wants and willing to work for it.

PiKE requires maturity and responsibility in its members, and although not everyone is gifted with the qualities of leadership, PiKE lists many leaders of student organizations and student government in its membership.

New officers have been elected for the coming semester. They are: Bob Greer, president; Jack Limber, vice-president; Len Weber, secretary; and Jon Begley, treasurer.

Plans for the coming months include a wide range of social activities, including parties, and joints with area sororities, as well as service projects for the benefit of the University.

'Senorita' Taix Aids Red Cross

By PAT KIERNAN

Most of us either spent the summer traveling or working. One junior at USD, Ana Christina Taix, was able to combine the two as a Red Cross worker in Chile.

She applied in February and after filling out numerous forms plus going through the screening committee in San Francisco she was accepted. Besides her personal assets of charm, friendliness and adaptability, Ana also speaks fluent Spanish which is a prime requisite.

After being accepted there was another three days spent in San Francisco taking first aid courses. Ana then met a representative from Chile who, after becoming acquainted with all nine students going to Chile, matched them with Chilean families who had volunteered to house them during their ten-week stay.

In June Ana flew to Puerto Rico which was the converging point for all 32 students going to South America. During their week's stay they spent much of their time sight-seeing, but not in the usual way. Their main concern was with the slum areas so they spent their time walking through these areas, talking to the people.

In order not to draw attention, they dressed sloppily, carried no purses or cameras, and left their hair uncombed. Previously they had all studied the "slum situation" and the new project of putting these families into new apartment buildings. Consequently, they were interested in the results.

Ana found that only those who had some education were happy in the apartments. The others were just as happy in their slum houses because they had had no experience with running water and similar "luxuries."

After short stops at Panama and Lima, the nine bound for Chile arrived at Santiago. There was a big reception at the airport and it was here that Ana met her adopted family. Her family lived in an industrial section of the city, so their house was quite plain.

In Chile, June in winter and so the temperature averaged 30 degrees. At times it was pretty chilly. Ana also had to accustom herself to an unusual diet. Although the Chileans eat many of the things we do, they also serve seaweed and other strange delicacies. Because the water is often unsuitable, Ana also accustoming herself to drinking wine with her meals.

Ana began her day at 8 a.m. and took the bus to Red Cross headquarters. There the nine workers would meet and go to various schools to address assemblies, telling them about the United States and its schools.

They would also entertain with American songs. The Chilean students in return would sing and dance. Afterwards the Red Cross workers would answer questions and sign autographs.

Ana said that she and the others felt like movie stars because the students would sometimes mob them, tearing pieces of their clothes for souvenirs. They even clipped off locks of Ana Christina's hair.

In the afternoon the workers would go to a clinic operated by the Red Cross. There Ana treated injuries such as burns and also spent much time in the nursery.

Canon Aides See Bright Year Ahead

A group of students two years ago decided that a literary magazine was needed at the College for Men. Ignoring pessimistic admonitions of their classmates and surmounting such obstacles as very little money and very mediocre written material, they published at the year's end a modest tome entitled the Canon, Volume One.

Last year, facing similar obstacles, the students managed once again to publish another volume of the Canon. This year, if all goes well, the Canon is to be published again, probably in January. Its editor is to be Howard Dunlap, a senior.

Turning Point

Volume Three, however, should be an important turning point in the Canon's abbreviated history. Profiting from their predecessors' many mistakes and a few successes in their literary endeavors, this year's Canon staff will be able to concentrate on producing a literary masterpiece, and better, to ignore financial considerations which previously interfered with the actual writing.

Now the staff can wholly devote itself, says the editor, to producing a literary work of the highest calibre which mirrors the intellectual environs of the campus while at the same time reflecting the individual creative expression of its best thinkers and writers.

To achieve this end, the Canon's staff has been enlarged. Contributing their talented pens are the following students: Mark Yavorsky, a senior, Richard Scherer and Dave Zupan, juniors, and Dennis Sinclitico and Barry Fay, sophomores. Michael Simpson will assist in the art work.

Expert Help

The moderator of the Canon is Dr. Fidelia Dickinson, assistant professor of English. Dr. Lee Gerlach, the chairman of the English department, and Richard Peacock, an instructor in English, have agreed to help.

Contributions for the Canon may be submitted by all.

USD Glee Club Opens 4th Year

Each Wednesday afternoon the campus of the College for Men is filled with the sounds of the USDCM Glee Club. It has been this way for four years now.

This semester, 20 men are involved in the Glee Club and are earning credits for it. Through the efforts of the Rev. J. Vincent Sullivan, three units in general culture are now accredited to each man who completes four consecutive semesters.

Under Father Sullivan's direction, the Glee Club has developed a program ranging from singing Mass in the Immaculata to appearing annually on local television.

Father Sullivan's background qualifies him as director of the club. His musical achievements include an M.A. degree at the Peabody Conservatory of Music, and Pius X School of Liturgical Music, and 18 years of high school and college glee club direction.

Dr. Lee F. Gerlach Heads Department

Dr. Lee F. Gerlach, new head of USD's English Department, has ambitious plans for English majors.

Although his ideas have not taken concrete form yet, Dr. Gerlach said the department plans to change the curriculum to make it more professional.

Dr. Gerlach said that he intended to bring the English major's curriculum more in line with the best colleges in the country.

"Formerly the English major was required to know very little about English literature," he said.

He said he would try to change this by intensifying the English requirements, both for English majors and for general education. He intends to have three semesters of required English, he said. One semester of grammar; a semester survey of English literature, and either a semester of poetry and fiction or a semester of classical literature are planned.

Dr. Gerlach was an assistant professor at the University of California at Santa Barbara before coming to USD. He also taught at San Diego State, Swathmore College and San Francisco State.

ASB Date Control System Started

The ASB office has officially instituted a meeting control board for this year to avoid duplication of meeting times by the different campus organizations.

The bulletin board consists of an upper half marked off Monday thru Friday which is headed meetings, 12 to 12:30 p.m. the lower half for meetings 12:30 to 1 p.m.

Each organization has a card in the ASB office which states its name and room number. From now on it will be necessary for every organizational president to sign up for the meeting time he desires.

Big news in the Athletic Department! It appears that the University of San Diego Toreros will compete in league competition this year in baseball.

Last Saturday at Chapman College, our baseball coach, John Cunningham met with coaches and representatives of four other colleges that play an independent baseball schedule. At this meeting, final organizational plans were made for a new league of five teams. League members will be USD, Loyola (L.A.), Pepperdine, the University of California at Riverside and Chapman College.

The league games are scheduled and the NCAA has made it known that the league champion will be considered for the national playoffs. The league, however, cannot be recognized by the NCAA as it only has five members. NCAA requirements call for a minimum of six. Efforts are being made to find a sixth member.

Projecting ahead to baseball season for a moment, Cunningham had this to say: "We have a much tougher schedule this year. We've scheduled the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs and we've rescheduled Arizona State U., which was the number one team in the nation last year. They had a 53-8 record and are the only college team ever to win 50 games in one season."

USD went to Tempe one weekend last year only to lose to ASU by a 7-6 score.

Congratulations to the Junior Class for their class football championship. Good performances were put in by Bobby Ahern, Bernie Bickerstaff, Ron Orrantia, Paul Tuomainen, Vince Gonsowski and Dennis Mellein along with all the others.

Danforth Grants Await Future Teachers Here

Inquiries about the Danforth Graduate Scholarships, to be awarded next March, are invited, according to William Salesses, campus representative.

The fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applicants may be single or married, must be less than 30 years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

Approximately 120 fellowships will be awarded. Candidates must be nominated by liaison officers of their undergraduate institutions. The foundation does not accept direct applications for the fellowships.

Danforth graduate fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance, with a maximum living stipend of $1,800 for single fellows and $2,200 for married fellows, plus tuition and fees. Dependency allowances are available. Financial need is not a condition for consideration.

Danforth fellows may hold other fellowships such as Ford, Fulbright, National Science, Rhodes and Woodrow Wilson, concurrently, and will be Danforth fellows without stipend until the other awards lapse.

The Danforth Foundation, one of the nation's 10 largest educational foundations, was founded in 1927 by the late William H. Danforth, St. Louis businessman and philanthropist. The foundation's primary aim is to strengthen liberal education through programs of fellowships and workshops, and through grants to colleges, universities and other educational agencies.

Gavel Club Convenes, Calls All Speakers

The Gavel Club held its first meeting of the school year Sept. 16, and discussed the different events, tournaments, and qualifications needed for participation.

Due to student interest, this speech club has been reorganized this year at USD. The college hired Fred Sanders, a specialist in speech, to moderate the organization.

The club is open to anyone who wants to participate in intercollegiate speech tournaments. Students compete in oral interpretation, impromptu, extemporaneous, original, oratory and debate.

Many tournaments are held in the San Diego and Los Angeles area in novice, lower and upper divisions, with trophies awarded in each.

The first scheduled event was a speech clinic at Pierce College on Oct. 2. Outstanding speakers on the West Coast presented examples of the various events. Top judges were there to criticize them.

Students from the College for Women are eligible to join. Previous speaking experience is not necessary. Meetings are held every Thursday at 7 p.m. in room 201. For information contact Sanders.

Sophs Rip Freshmen In 3 Tilts

The Sophomore Class swept to victory in all three athletic events at the annual Sophomore vs. Freshman Pool Party and Dance.

Adrian Taitano threw two touchdown passes to Jimmy Allen, an extra point to Barry Fay and ran the other PAT to lead the Sophomores to a 14-13 victory in football.

Jackson Mueke ran for one touchdown and an extra point to score seven points for the Frosh. John Briskey tossed a pass to John Gleave for the other freshman score.

In volleyball, the Sophomores took two straight games for the best of three series.

The Sophomores then counted on experience to down the tall Frosh in basketball 55-41 for a clean sweep of the athletic events.

Juniors Trounce

The Junior Class rolled over the Seniors in its first game and then pulled out extra point victories over the Sophomores and Freshmen to win the Class Football Championship for 1965.

Dances Reap $9,700 Profit

The Inter-Fraternity Council-sponsored summer dances grossed $20,641.00, ASB president Ernie Borunda reported.

Expenses amounted to $10,931.49. Of this, $7,199.50 was for the band, while another $1,646 went to pay for the Gem Patrol. Another $326.23 was paid for advertising and posters. The balance covered odds and ends.

Drills To Start With Road Work

Basketball practice for the freshman team will begin on Oct. 15, according to John Cunningham, freshman basketball coach at the University of San Diego.

Before the beginning of indoor workouts, the candidates for the frosh squad will run a daily cross country schedule for two weeks.

"We have a better and probably tougher schedule than ever before," said Cunningham. "We play college or junior college teams in 19 out of 24 contests. This only leaves us five games with other types of organizations."

Cunningham noted that last year's frosh squad was the best he has ever had at USD. They rolled up an impressive 17-7 record.

"I think we'll do well this year," Cunningham added, "but I'm not sure what I have in the way of guards. The only thing I can express any confidence in is the rebounding. We have quite a number of big forwards and centers who should work out on the boards."

Seven freshmen are on basketball scholarships. Previous high was six last year.

Some prospects to look for are George Anderson, a 6'0" All-Metro League guard from Castle Park High in Chula Vista, Calif.; Mike Crawford, a 6'4" forward from St. Augustine High in San Diego; Mike Dail, a 6'5" All-Eastern Leaguer from Hoover High in San Diego; John Gleave, a 6'5" forward from the Utah State Champion Highland High in Salt Lake; Phil Hand, a 6'7" all-league center from Tennyson High, Hayward, Calif.; Vernell Watson, a 6'4" all-league forward from San Jose High, Calif.; and Jim Wilke, a 6'5" all-CIF center from St. Francis High in La Canada, Calif.

Other prospects include: John Briskey, a 5'11" guard from St. Francis High, Provo, Utah; Bill Yoomans, a 5'9" guard from Marian High, Imperial Beach, Calif.; Bill Bittick, a 6'5" center from St. Augustine, San Diego; Bill Davilla, a 5'10" guard also from Saints; James Flynn, a 5'10" guard from Crawford High, San Diego; Bill Gore, a 6'1" guard also from Crawford; Mike Humphrey, a 5'9" guard from University High, San Diego; Jim Shrove, a 6'2" forward from St. Joseph's Seminary, Illinois and Greg Tolton, a 6'4" center from Chaminade Prep.

"I'd like to see some of the boys I've seen up at the gym working out after school to come out for the team on the 15th," Coach added. "We had 15 people show up at our meeting last week, which is more than ever before, but I'd still like a little larger field to choose from and I think there might be some talent hiding in the freshman class."

Literary Group Being Formed, Opens Rolls

The faculty of the English Department and the staff of the Canon are forming a students' literary group dedicated to offering talented students a stimulating, extra curricular outlet for their creative efforts in imaginative writing and literary criticism.

Membership is open to all College for Men students.

Meetings will be held off campus, probably in the evenings, about twice a month. At each meeting the group will criticize and discuss material previously submitted by a member.

Dr. Lee Gerlach, the chairman of the English department, has offered to read and discuss some of his published poetry at the first meeting.

To better acquaint interested students with the purposes of the student literary group, a meeting will be held Friday, October 8, at 12:30 p.m. in Room 207. A convenient time for regular meetings will be selected at this meeting.

• The Paulist Father is a modern man in every sense of the word. He is a man of this age, cognizant of the needs of modern men. He is free from stifling formalism, is a pioneer in using contemporary ways to work with, for and among 100 million non-Catholic Americans. He is a missionary to his own people—the American people. He utilizes modern techniques to fulfill his mission, is encouraged to call upon his own innate talents to help further his dedicated goal.

• If the vital spark of serving God through man has been ignited in you, why not pursue an investigation of your life as a priest? The Paulist Fathers have developed an aptitude test for the modern man interested in devoting his life to God. This can be a vital instrument to help you make the most important decision of your life. Write for it today.
