IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Conference on Immigration Law and Practice

The Second Annual Conference on Immigration Law and Practice will be presented by the University of San Diego Law Institute on Friday, January 27, and Saturday, January 28, at the Islandia Hyatt House in San Diego. A conference fee of $165 includes registration, conference materials and luncheon. All reservations must be made by January 20, 1978.

The main topic of discussion will be "Representation of Business on Visa Problems," focusing on the challenges that visa problems pose for lawyers who represent or seek to represent international businesses.

Discussions will focus on various aspects of visa procedures, such as discretion in the issuance of visas, distinctions between immigrant and non-immigrant visas, preference allocations, visa considerations for traders and investors, representation of the foreign businessman visiting or seeking employment, and procedures in securing visas for clients.

Visa problems surveyed will be those of labor certification, intra-company personnel transfers and multi-national employers, and representation of visa holders with legal problems or threatened with deportation, and remedies for unjustifiable denial of visas.

The major address will be given by Charles Gordon, a Washington, D.C. attorney who specializes in immigration. Mr. Gordon was general counsel with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, and is the coauthor of Immigration Law and Procedure. Other faculty include members of the USD Law Institute, which is directed by Professor Robert L. Simmons, and distinguished members of the San Diego law community.

Members of the bar, immigration officials and business executives interested in this field are urged to enroll.

For more information, contact Mal Rafferty, Director of Conference Center, at 291-6480, extension 4318.
