FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

COURSES IN INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS TO BE OFFERED AT USD

Three courses in industrial relations will be offered by the Labor-Management Relations Center of the University of San Diego School of Law, Jerry Williams, Director of the Center and a USD Professor of Law, has announced.

The courses are part of the Center's Certificate Program in Industrial Relations, designed to provide practical training in industrial relations for people seeking to strengthen professional skills, new areas of specialization, and obtain reaccreditation of personnel skills. Each course gives two credit units towards completion of the Certificate, which requires a total of 24 units.

Cost for each course is $100; $80 for Labor Management Relations Center members. Courses offered include:

*Effective Collective Bargaining: ten sessions on consecutive Mondays, beginning January 28, from 6 to 8 p.m., in USD's More Hall, Room 3C. The course will examine the evolution of collective bargaining and the tactics used by effective negotiators. Instructor is Thomas Puffer, Managing Director of the San Diego Employers Association.

*Introduction to the National Labor Relations Board: ten sessions on consecutive Tuesdays, beginning January 29, from 8 to 10 p.m., in USD's More Hall, Room 3A. The course will analyze NLRB procedures and how they apply to elections and unfair labor practice charges. Instructor is Robert Chavarry, Field Investigator for the NLRB.

*Your Workers Compensation Benefits: ten sessions on consecutive Tuesdays, beginning January 29, from 6 to 8 p.m., in USD's More Hall, Room 3A. The course will explain the workers compensation program, the latest Compensation Appeals Board rulings, disability and unemployment compensation, and social security insurance. Instructor is Donald Zellman, an attorney and a certified workers compensation specialist.

For registration details and further information, call the Center at 293-4583.
