LA JOLLANS PLAY KEY ROLE IN USD PARENTS DAY, FEBRUARY 16

La Jollans will play a key role in the University of San Diego's Parents Day on Saturday, February 16.

USD Auxiliary member and La Jolla resident Claire Tavares will greet arriving parents, and La Jolla resident Ann Burke, mother of a USD freshman, will participate in one of the many workshops planned for the day.

Parents Day is designed to give parents of USD students an insight into the university, and to provide an arena for education, debate and an increased awareness of life at USD.

Activities include many workshops, among them a "Symposium on Values," moderated by Rancho Santa Fe resident Dr. Robert Gordon, former Dean of Students at Stanford University. Panelists include Ann Burke, and Dr. Thomas Harris, author of the book, "I'm OK, You're OK."

After the workshops, films and presentations, parents can attend the USD versus Chapman College baseball double-header at noon, or the USD versus University of San Francisco basketball game at 1 p.m. at the Sports Arena. The activities wind up with a 6 p.m. Mexican Fiesta Dinner in USD's Student Union.

For more information on Parents Day, call USD at 291-6480, extension 4271.
