CHANGING SEXIST PATTERNS WORKSHOP SCHEDULED FEBRUARY 6 AND 7

A two-day workshop on "Changing Sexist Patterns" will be held at the University of San Diego Friday and Saturday, February 6 and 7, 1981, from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in the Board Room of Serra Hall.

A $55 fee includes tuition, materials, lunches, and parking. Advance registration is encouraged. For details call USD at 293-4585.

The workshop, an information and training session designed for men and women in community and church organizations, is sponsored by USD's Office of Continuing Education, the Management Assistance Program of United Way, and The National Training Center.

Participants will be given the opportunity to: identify sexual stereotyping, understand the cultural roots of sexism, recognize personal and organizational patterns of sexual discrimination, and design long range plans and practice new strategies for remedying sexism where it is identified.

The four faculty for the workshop have served as senior staff for "Advanced Training in Organizational Management," a three-year affirmative action project for the state of Georgia.

They are: Bessie Cobb Howard, director of the Washington, D.C. Teacher Corps; Assistant Professor at Howard University; and trainer --more-- for the Public School Sex Equity Program, the Girl Scouts of America, and the National Teacher Corps.

Lydia Sevasten, advisor in management training, educational design, and personal life skills; consultant for the National Commission on the Role and Status of Women, the United Methodist Church, and the Shenandoah Woman's Center and Shelter in West Virginia.

William Hoffman, chief executive of ETC Associates, a private consulting firm; and a leader in affirmative action programs in government and community agencies.

Kenneth Mitchell, director of Training Enterprises/New Techniques, Inc. and director of training for the General Board of Education of the United Methodist Church. He is professionally accredited by the International Association of Applied Social Scientists.
