FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WRITING WORKSHOP FOR NURSES AT USD

"Writing for Publication: A Workshop for Professional Nurses" will be offered at the University of San Diego on Saturday, April 25, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Room 106 of the Philip Y. Hahn School of Nursing.

Pre-registration is requested. Fee for the workshop is $25 for students, $30 for the public. The workshop may be taken for five hours of college credit. For details, call 293-4585.

Program Director will be Carmen Warner, R.N., P.H.N., a writer, editor and nursing research consultant. Ms. Warner, the author of nine books on the medical profession, serves on the Editorial Board of the Journal of Emergency Nursing. She is president and founder of PHASE (Protective Health and Safety Education) and co-founder of the San Diego County Parenthood Council and the Widowed-to-Widowed Program.

The workshop is designed for nurses wishing to develop their personal and professional writing skills. Areas covered will include: writing market potential, characteristics of good writing, manuscript preparation, author-editor responsibilities, and communication with publishers.

The workshop is sponsored by USD's Graduate Nursing Student Association and the Office of Continuing Education.
